The theory that goitre is a germ disease and not caused by deficiency of iodine, as claimed by physicians during the past 30 years, was advanced by Dr. E. C. Hoskin, of Toronto Wash., in a speech before the first International Microbiology Congress at Paris.

Dr Hoskin said he had succeeded in isolating the goitre germ during experiments conducted over a period of five years, and that he had proved that it was possible to cure cases with vaccine if caught in their early stages.

Fifty microbiologists, representing 20 countries were present at the session of the congress; at which Prof. Jules Bordet, director of the Pasteur Institute, of Belgium, presided.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

DUCK AND ORANGE SALAD

(Serves 6-8)

2 cups cold duck cut in small pieces.
4 oranges.
½ cup salad oil.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon pepper.
½ teaspoon paprika.
Lettuce.

Cut the duck into small dice. Peel the oranges and slice very thin. Mix salad, lemon juice and seasonings until well blended. Pour this dressing over the duck and oranges and allow to stand for a few minutes. Serve on lettuce with additional dressing if any desired kind, if necessary.

LEMONETTE PUDDING SAUCE

2 eggs.
2 tablespoons sugar.
Juice ½ lemon.
1 tablespoon water
Grated rind ½ lemon.

Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon-colored, beat in one and one half tablespoons sugar, add lemon juice and rind and boiling water, and cook in double boiler, stirring constantly, until thick and creamy. Beat whites of eggs until light; then beat in gradually the remaining sugar. Combine mixtures; cook one minute; stir occasionally until cool; use on cottage pudding, or serve as a dessert in small glasses, lined with lady-fingers or thin slices of sponge cake.

Thomas W. May, veteran civil engineer, who, as a young student at Edinburgh University, was a classmate of Robert Louis Stevenson, died recently at Charlottetown, P.E.I., at the age of 86 years. He had been employed for nearly 60 years with the Inland Railway and the provincial government. A native of the Channel Islands, Mr. May came to Prince Edward Island as a young man and was one of the first surveyors of the Prince Edward Island Railway.

Johnny, what are you doing in the pantry?

JONATHAN AND DAVID—A NOBLE FRIENDSHIP

Golden Text: "He that maketh many friends, doeth it to his own destruction: But there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."—Proverbs 18.24.

Lesson: I Samuel 18.1-4; 19.1-7; Chapter 20; 2 Samuel 1.17-27.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 13.4-13.

Explanations and Comments

The First Meeting Of Him Two Friends, 1 Samuel 18.1-4. — David's victory over Goliath not only brought about the defeat of the Philistines, but gained for him a position at court and the devoted friendship of Jonathan, Saul's son. Later, the captain of the army, brought the victorious champion into the king's presence and Saul would not let him return to his father's home. Jonathan was present at David's coming, and at once a beautiful friendship sprung up between the two. They made a covenant, exchanging presents. Nothing was too good for his new-found friend, Jonathan thought, for he loved David as his own soul; slipping off his own robe he gave that and all his apparel, even to his sword, bow and girdle, to David. It was to David's interest to love Jonathan, but far from Jonathan's interest to love David. Yet Jonathan, as George Matheson says, was an absolute spendthrift for the sake of love. "From beginning to end, the love of Jonathan for David was a disrobing, a divestiture. In every act of friendship, in every deed of devotion, in every outstretching of a protective hand, he was stripping himself of a royal garment."

"The prime gain of friendship is just the knowledge of a noble soul. That was what Jonathan felt. David won Jonathan's heart on the day when he stood revealed in all the riches of his royal nature that day when Goliath was slain. David was proved to be the grandest man of Israel, fullest of patriotism and beauty, courage and skill, and all his qualities were adorned and set off by his humility. As you read the subsequent history of their friendship you are very apt to think that David was the gainer, for Jonathan was a perfect miracle of tenderness, and was never weary of sacrificing himself for the interests of his friend; but I conceive that that would be false judgment. I am certain of this, that Jonathan would not have agreed to it. David was by far the more splendid nature, and I believe that is what determines which is the gainer in a friendship. It is the man who has most in himself to give who gives most, not the man who has most of what is external to give." James Stalker.

Great Britain Will Overcome Present Era Of Depression

It is not the first time Great Britain has been forced to overcome a depression and, as in the past, the mother country will overcome the present era of industrial and labor depression, said Walter Citrine, general secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, who tendered a civic reception and dinner in Toronto.

Great Britain has retained a full share of world trade throughout the period of depression, he stated, and because of labor resiliency, has actually fared better than many other nations.

Consolidated Aircraft Corporation Has Plans For Plane To Carry 100 Persons

Construction of a seaplane, large enough to carry 100 persons across the Atlantic ocean, will be started at Buffalo shortly, it was announced by Major R. H. Fleet, president of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation.

The plane, powered by 16 Curtiss Conqueror motors, will be equipped with sufficient storage tanks to carry twice as much fuel as would be needed for the ocean flight.

Passengers will be able to enjoy a 300-foot stroll along a promenade on the ship, Major Fleet said, and there will be 62 staterooms with specially constructed walls to keep out the roar of the motors.

Fine Organ In Nova Scotia Hotel

Magnificent Instrument Is Installed In New C.N.R. Hotel At Halifax

One of the most magnificent organs in Canada is a feature of the new Canadian National Railways' hotel at Halifax, the Nova Scotian. It was built by Casavant Freres, St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, and is playable from a separate cabinet made by the Acolian Company, with which Duo Art records reproduce the playing of noteworthy organists. The organ has three manuals with a range of thirty stops for the great, swell, pedal and choir. The action is electro-pneumatic.

Twenty New Zealand athletes and twenty athletes from Australia have already arrived at Hamilton for the Empire Games under the chairmanship of E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. There will be representatives from Great Britain, South Africa and nearly every province of Canada at the Games, which are scheduled to be held in the Canadian city next month.

Desiring the population of Canberra for the day, a force of more than six thousand members of the Canadian Pacific Recreation clubs of Toronto and Montreal set a record for picnic attendances when the annual excursion was held there recently. The freedom of the city was conferred on the visitors for the day and the high spot of the sports, the tug-of-war, trophy of the football match between the Toronto and Montreal clubs, was won by the fourth year in succession by Trinity.

THEY TAKE IT OUT OF THEIR STOCKINGS

It is well known that the peasants of France are thrifty. According to Monsieur Bellaud, a Frenchman recently visiting Canada, there is no unemployment problem in France and the peasants are both "eating well and drinking well." For years, even during the war, according to this gentleman, the peasants have made money, which they have carefully guarded by "keeping it in their stockings" rather than send it out to invest. The result is that standards of living are very much higher than they were before the war.

"Now," says M. Bellaud, "the peasants have motor cars and every thing," which seems to indicate that they go down into the stockings on

Entire renewing of the highway east of town has now reached the corner east of the Bawtoff school. While the old highway looked and felt much better to car drivers, no doubt the government engineers know what they ordered and the contractors will probably have a good road sometime after its completion. Unique Christening at Banff

A ceremony unique in the history of the Canadian Rockies was witnessed recently at the Banff Springs Hotel when Hilda Banff Rocky Mountain Goat, 36-hour-old Stony Indian papoose (inset) was christened in the courtyard of the hotel in the presence of around 500 guests and with A. TROUBLE FOR THE HITCH-HIKERS

Who has not observed with interest, oftentimes with annoyance, the growth of the hitch-hiking movement throughout this country? Motorists as a class are not at all averse to performing their daily good deed, but usually there are reasons for passing the hikers on the highways.

The annoyance seems to be registering elsewhere. In New York state the matter has come to a head with a bill introduced into the state legislature aimed at making the practice unlawful. "It shall be unlawful," says the Bill, "for any person to stand in a roadway for the purpose of stopping a private vehicle to solicit rides from, or to solicit from or sell to occupants of such vehicles." This will hit others besides hitch-hikers, be it noted.

DO YOUR BIT.

The final tax instalment payment is due on September 1, and it is the earnest desire of those administering the business of the town that a real effort be made by all taxpayers to meet the same. There is a heavy demand on finances next month covering debenture payments on both municipal and school debentures and operation of the town schools which commence the fall term. A spirit of co-operation by promptly paying taxes will enable obligations falling due to be met and save money all round. Make it a point, then, to call at the town office during the next few days and do your share towards helping out.

UNEMPLOYED.

Visions of bumper wages, or perhaps any kind of wages, during the Harvesting of the crop here this year have evidently attracted a large number of unemployed to the town 32 of them landed from one freight train recently and 6 from another shortly afterwards with a fresh "shipment" this Wednesday morning. These have congregated around in prominent places ever since and apparently their numbers haven't diminished, as 41 were counted around the east end of the Park on Tuesday. The men all appear to be of non English descent.

Western Homesteads Can Be Beautified by Planting Flowering Shrubs About House and Yard

Far too many homesteads lack the finished effect that may be obtained by planting a few flowering shrubs about the house and yard. Without shrubs there is nothing to fill the angles formed by paths or fences, or to screen unsightly objects, nothing to soften the abrupt angles formed by the corners of the building or where the foundation meets the ground, nothing to take away the bare appearance of the home and to give it an air of permanency and coziness.

The majority of people appreciate the beauty of shrubbery, and realize how much improvement can be brought about by its use, but for various reasons many fail to do any planting. The chief reasons for this neglect are probably the cost of planting material and a lack of knowledge as to what to plant. If all the planting material is bought at one time, the cost is in many cases prohibitive, and if the work is to be done well, the labor involved will be considerable. For this reason it is never wise to attempt to do a great deal in any one year. A little planting done each year and done well will bring surprising results in a short time. The cost of many beautiful flowering shrubs is small, and everyone can afford to buy at least one or two each year. Some cannot be propagated easily by the amateur and should therefore have to be purchased from a nurseryman. Others are very easily propagated, and, when one specimen has been bought, it may easily be increased to supply all of the specimens that will be required.

Many rules for the arrangement of planting material have been given by experts from time to time. These frequently describe a large outlay and considerable study, but, while they may lead to wonderful results, they also have the effect of discouraging those who are able to do only a small amount of planting. This should not deter anyone from making a start. The greatest amount of pleasure will be found in arranging the shrubs to suit one's individual taste if, after a time one sees where an improvement could be made, the shrubs may easily be transplanted and rearranged.

There are a few simple rules which may help one to avoid common mistakes. Do not plant the shrubs too close to the foundation of the house; but picture them as they may be six or twelve years after planting, and allow them plenty of room to develop a symmetrical shape. If the earth is poor and consists chiefly of subsoil thrown out from the cellar, dig a hole about three feet in diameter and about twenty inches deep, fill it with good earth from the garden or yard, work in some well-rotted manure as the clay is filled in, and pack the clay away while filling. Then plant the shrub in the centre, being careful not to have manure coming in contact with the roots. Continue the surface occasionally for at least for the first two or three years, or till the shrub is firmly established and has made considerable growth. When planting shrubs in a shady position, be careful to choose species that do well in the shade. Wherever possible visit the nearest Experimental Station during the planting season. This will assist in making a choice of varieties. Send for the station's catalogue and study it well. They contain many valuable hints.

Problems For the Farmer

Low Wheat Prices Create a Difficult Situation For the Grain Growers

With another record crop yielding only one and a half cents per bushel from the previous crop, the situation is far from cheerful. Everybody in an agricultural country such as Canada has a stake in the state of the farming industry, yet it will be admitted that the greatest burden falls heavily on the shoulders of the actual producer than on anyone else.

Difficulty is met in predicting the probable curve of wheat prices for the reason that a year of small yields over any large section of the world's wheat growing areas would be almost certain to lead to an advance in price that would make wheat growing look like a remunerative business to the producers who happened to have wheat for sale. At the same time there is a fairly widespread opinion that wheat prices are likely to remain at a lower level than has been the case during the last seven or eight years. It is reasonable to think the world is producing all the wheat that the world can afford to buy and that the surpluses responsible for the sharp break in prices.

Will it benefit Canadian farmers to grow less wheat under the circumstances? If the wheat acreage is reduced, what is to take its place? Is there any guarantee that the other wheat growing countries in the world will reduce their acreage? Can the lands of Western Canada be turned to some other form of farming that will be profitable? Can a change to farm methods make it possible for the Western Canadian farmer to grow wheat at a profit even when the price is low?

In the last analysis it appears to be the job of the farmer to suggest means for solving his own problems. If he is the victim of exploitation then the remedy lies in his hands. If he is the victim of exploitation through the ignorance of himself and his self over oil and grain mixtures. R. M. Hopper gave a demonstration of the best ways to cull poultry.

Watering the Garden

Use Of Watering Can Largely Wasted Effort, Says Expert

The use of the watering can in the garden is largely a waste of effort, says Norman W. D. Alexander, assistant chief of the experimental station of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, at Morden, Man., Alberta. If the same effort is spent on hoeing the soil out of the garden it will result in more and healthier plant growth for the growing plants than it is possible to give them through the use of the watering can, he states.

It requires at least one half-inch of rainfall to moisten a dry soil deep enough to reach many of the feeding roots on the average plant. And, even with such a rainfall, much of the moisture is lost through evaporation before the plant roots are benefited. The average application from a watering can is much less in amount and under many conditions it is much more subject to rapid evaporation loss.

Half an inch of rainfall provides moisture sufficient to apply 27 tons of water to every square yard of garden; 30 pailfuls to a square rod, or 1,320 pailfuls for a garden 40 rods by ten rods. From this it will be readily apparent that watering the garden is impossible, once a week becomes a man-sized job.

Weeds are the greatest nuisance to garden crops, particularly because of the extent to which they rob the soil of moisture needed by garden plants. At the same season of time of year, by the average gardener in the use of the watering can was expended in supplying the loss by heavy weeds under control it would insure the conservation of more moisture to the growing plants than can be stored in the same length of time through the use of the watering can.

The most efficient way of watering the garden is to dig a trench with a hoe near the plants or to punch holes and pour the water into them. This brings the water more directly in contact with the feeding roots and prevents evaporation. Not only is much water lost when applied with the watering can but it frequently impairs the physical condition of the soil by puddling the surface.

Population Increasing

Canada's Population Estimated At 9,084,500 By Citizen Bureau

Canada's population on June 1, has been estimated at 9,084,500 by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This represents an increase of 137,700 over 1929 estimate.

In a report recently issued, the bureau gives the following figures as the estimated population of each province and territory: Prince Edward Island, 89,000; Nova Scotia, 563,900; New Brunswick, 432,600; Quebec, 2,734,600; Ontario, 3,313,000; Manitoba, 677,500; Saskatchewan, 863,000; Alberta, 660,000; British Columbia, 697,000; Yukon, 3,700; and Northwest Territories, 9,800.

The following figures show the growth of Canada's population during the past five years: 1925, 8,788,483; 1926, 8,909,000; 1927, 9,028,000; 1928, 9,151,000; 1929, 9,296,800; 1930, 9,396,000; 1927, 9,218,000; 1928, 9,354,000 and 1929, 9,796,800.

Beauty On Coyotes

Payment of a bounty on coyotes, for which the Bureau of British Columbia is responsible for sheep loss, have been agitating since the bounty was abolished last year, will be reinstated under a modified form of control. The Department of Agriculture will pay the bounty at the former rate of $2.50 for coyote scalps, $1 for wolves, and $40 on cougars. Trained hunters may also be used to kill off predatory animals when necessary.

Canadian Sugar Industry

Wages Paid By Eight Sugar Refineries Total $6,145,250

The total amount of wages paid by the eight sugar refineries in Canada last year was $2,746,300, a slight increase over 1929, according to a return issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Capital invested amounted to $43,584,113, a decrease from $46,625,218 in 1929.

The Canadian refineries employ 2,325 persons, of whom 2,018 draw wages and 307 are salaried.

The value of the products amounted in 1929 to $47,151,900, which was a decrease from $52,029,150 in 1928. In 1925 the gross value of the sugar products of the eight refineries was $66,445,979.

Last year 32,536 acres were grown to sugar beets, with a yield of 7.22 tons per acre and a total yield of 235,465 tons. The average price per ton was $8.84, giving the total value of $2,080,986.

Food Preservative

Scientists Isolate Natural Agent In Milk That Checks Growth of Microbes

A successful, non-poisonous food preservative may be obtained from milk as the result of recent investigations reported by Drs. F. S. Jones and H. S. Simms of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

These scientists were able to isolate the natural agent in milk which prevents the growth of micro-organisms. It is found in the whey after the curdlike separation of the butter-fat and casein. It can be obtained in pure form in a powder which keeps for several months. One grain of the powder added to a gallon of the ordinary medium on which germs grow will prevent their growth, it is reported.

Mining In British Columbia

Increase Quantity Production In the Aggregate Of Metals

Despite world-wide depression in the mining industry, following the drop in metal prices, mining in British Columbia showed the first half of the year has shown encouraging progress, according to the semi-annual statement of the British Columbia Department of Mines.

There was increased quantity production in the aggregate of minerals and metals, but owing to low metal prices, the value was less. For the first half of 1929 to the estimated $32,909,487 for the first half of 1930, a decrease of nearly 13 per cent. Among the unfavorable features are included the rather uncertain outlook for the coal market, movement in silver and zinc prices for some time to come, which may cause curtailment in properties; the mines in British Columbia to remain closed indefinitely. Coal production also fell nearly a third.

Successful Field Day

Manitoba Wheat Pool Sponsors Outing At Brandon Experimental Farm

About 300 people from thirty-three points adjacent were represented at the successful field day arranged by the Manitoba wheat pool and held at the Experimental Farm at Brandon. R. J. Watson, local field man for the wheat pool, had charge of the arrangements.

The demonstrational work being done at the farm under the direction of J. H. Ellerton was viewed by the visitors. Guided by R. J. Sigrusson, they were taken through the various plots and Mr. Sigrusson drew attention to the treatment of summerfallow, emphasizing growing conditions and the aim of the cultivator only. They also visited the cereal breeding plots.

The advantage of the fallow in weed clover as a means of soil enrichment instead of plowing under was also pointed out. Mr. Ellerton was recognized as an important host the Department of Agriculture and Immigration, and in a survey of the world situation, and suggested that a reduction of acreage by the various countries would be in connection with a study of his costs would be the desirable course. The fact that the United States Government was taken action recalls in a measure the uproar which was caused by the British "quota" or rubber plant restriction a year or two ago.

In the years since the war the acreage sown to wheat has shown a steady increase all over the world and with supplies increasing at a rate somewhat greater than population it was inevitable that a surplus should be created. Just how this is to be absorbed is the task for "human wisdom" of a total long famine constitutes a task.

The Orient is generally indicated as the most likely part of the world where the surplus may be disposed of. The rice-eating people of the East are gradually becoming wheat consumers to a greater extent. This has been due, no doubt, to a variety of reasons, one of which may doubtless be traced to the large numbers of Chinese laborers employed during the great war in France. Many who were then introduced to wheat breadstuffs the Chinese labor battalions eating their middday meal by the roadside, and the Chinese will learned the relishings of dough made from wheat flour. Moreover, as has been noted previously, experiments with school children in Japan and the Philippines have demonstrated the advantage of adding wheat to the diet.

However, in the meantime, new areas of the Canadian West have been opened up from year to year and more land brought under the plow while South American and Australia have also landed in the same direction and supply has increased faster than demand. Whatever fault may be found with the Pool for its method of trading, they are not altogether to blame for the fact that Canada will have a large wheat surplus.

CHAPTER XXVI

On a morning in August Charmian unlocked the door into what had so recently been John Carter's office, and opened the casement wide. The floor was as she remembered it, but not Bokhara; the windows were bare of hangings; the bookshelves empty. Only the big mahogany cabinet gleamed a welcome from the blackened hearth; and the girl wiped the dust from Great-grandfather David's old chair, and looked appraisingly at her surroundings.

An echo in a brisk step sounded on the sidewalk, and in another moment the doorway was blotted out by George K.'s square figure.

"What you up to this morning?" he questioned genially. "Saw the door wide open, and thought I'd take a look. Kind of hare, isn't it, since your doctor departed? But it's a pretty place in spite of that."

"Come in," smiled Charmian. "You're the one person in Wickfield I want to see."

"You flatter me," replied George K., and smiled.

"Sit down," she said. "This is the only chair, but I'll perch on the desk if you don't mind. Uncle George, I'm sick with disgust on a lot of subjects; but one thing's clear: I've got to give up the school."

"I've been expecting that," the banker responded. "Only last night Salina was saying that Grandma was well . . ."

He hesitated; but Charmian asked bravely: "Then others have seen it, too?"

George K. nodded, and the girl went on: "I've failed this summer's test in her mind, thank heaven! but she's not so brisk and happy as she was a year ago. I've got to be with her more. It was hard last winter, even with John Carter to help out. I'll never have forgot how good he was to her, running in between patients to see if she needed anything—getting her lunch—jollying her along and keeping her happy and content. I'll be grateful to him as long as I live; but things have changed. She needs me now, and I can't be away! . . . But—don't let me hint. I will say that his car's a sight more comfortable than Edward Day's was."

"And five here?" he questioned.

Charmian nodded because it was hard to speak; but after a moment she continued: "It was Doctor Howe's idea. He must have realized that the time would come when I couldn't make both ends meet. Oh, I could only have kept the house as long as Grandma lived! I dread to tell her."

George K. arose, suddenly. He went to the window, his back to Charmian, and gave a loud blast upon his nose. When he turned he said with a good attempt at cheer: "You needn't dread it, Charmian. Grandma's brave woman; she won't flinch. Look at the way she's faced the loss of her sight! . . . I'll have you and Grandma here for good and all, my dear, and that's that. Now I'm off to my office. I'll send you a check for your doctor's bill. Good-by."

"Good-by," she smiled, "and—and—"

"Oh, Uncle George!" cried Charmian. "How can I be so disheartened when I've got friends like you? Of course you can't give me an allowance, and perhaps you can help me sell the house. That must be done before I can go ahead and make the old Carter place the plan for her; and that George K. had a purchaser for the house.

"Do you see," she ended, "everything's done except telling Grandma. I admit that I can't quite face the thought of that ordeal."

The young man looked very serious as he replied: "Let me tell her, Charmian. I'm hardened to breaking unpleasant truths to people. Besides, I'm the best talker. Grandma is fond of me. I can break the news as painlessly as you can."

He started on Great-grandfather Davis's old desk, and the girl looked up at him from the chair but very little relating:

"John Carter, I ought to be ashamed! I don't believe a girl ever had such friends before. Here's Uncle George wanting to give me an allowance so I needn't sell the place; and you . . . Well, I hope some day I can repay you for all you've done for me and been to us this year. But I guess I'll have to tell Grandma myself. It seems, somehow, as if I ought to; but if my courage deserts me at the last moment I'll make an ignominious retreat and send you. Now that's enough of my troubles for one day. Let's hear yours for a change."

Late that afternoon Uncle Charmian returned from a call at the Merrys', she found Grandma, bright-eyed, at the window.

"I've been been guilt-vanting," she explained as the girl kissed her, "since I saw you start. Where's Uncle came the doctor and made me go for a ride. We've been clear to Westboro, and I don't feel one mite tired. I will say that his car's a sight more comfortable than Edward Day's was."

"I'm glad you've had such a good time," smiled Charmian. "Mrs. Merry has a darling baby; and Madge wrote that she'd send me another view. He's terribly cunning in his fat white nightie and a miniature George. What do you want for supper, Grandma?" It's almost time . . .

New Northern Air Route

From Scotland To Winnipeg By Air Seems a Possibility

The leader of the British Arctic Air Route Expedition, H. G. Watkins, makes out a good case for all the land between Scotland and Winnipeg by way of Greenland. On the line is the Faroe Islands and Iceland which might have been made use of by three hundred miles of water to be flown. There are, of course, the mountains of the ice of the Greenland ice cap with its menace to aviators. The Air Ministry is making a survey of flying conditions between the Faroes and Ireland. The expedition will winter in Greenland and spend their time on the highest part for meteorological research channels will be used to explain the problem of the crossing of Davis Strait and Baffin Land, and the feasibility of a route from Southampton Island to Hudson Bay, down to Fort Churchill and thence to Winnipeg. Mr. Watkins predicts that it will be a "novel and exciting work" in Greenland and if the famous ice cap proceeds to serious obstacles, the pilots of the project for an air route from Scotland to Winnipeg will begin to look bright . . . Canada Is the Chief Source Of the World's Paper Supply

The forests of Canada continue to be the chief source of the world's wood paper supply. During the past month Canadian paper has been exported to 33 countries, according to an official alphabet right from Australia to Uruguay. Without the forests and paper mills of Canada the business of supplying the world's news to the public would be seriously restricted. Canada is becoming as famous for her paper as for her wheat.

Paper and wheat are more closely related than appears on the surface. Much of Canada's forested area is essentially good farming country and as the forests are removed for the manufacture of paper the land becomes available for the use to which it is best adapted, namely, agricultural production. Forests, in such cases, are a source of income to the new settler, who receives cash for his pulpwood while clearing it off his land.

While Canada's principal export of paper is for printing purposes there is an increasingly variety of other paper products. Wrapping paper, writing paper and wall paper are exported in large quantities, and in June more than a million pounds of paper wall boards for building purposes were exported to the United Kingdom alone.

for ANY CHILD

Will you never be sure just what it makes a child restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and a delightful harm in its frequent use. As often as your child has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhoea — a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly, if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

CHAPTER XXVI

On a morning in August Charmian unlocked the door into what had so recently been John Carter's office, and opened the casement wide. The floor was as she remembered it, but not Bokhara; the windows were bare of hangings; the bookshelves empty. Only the big mahogany cabinet gleamed a welcome from the blackened hearth; and the girl wiped the dust from Great-grandfather David's old chair, and looked appraisingly at her surroundings.

An echo in a brisk step sounded on the sidewalk, and in another moment the doorway was blotted out by George K.'s square figure.

"What you up to this morning?" he questioned genially. "Saw the door wide open, and thought I'd take a look. Kind of hare, isn't it, since your doctor departed? But it's a pretty place in spite of that."

"Come in," smiled Charmian. "You're the one person in Wickfield I want to see."

"You flatter me," replied George K., and smiled.

"Sit down," she said. "This is the only chair, but I'll perch on the desk if you don't mind. Uncle George, I'm sick with disgust on a lot of subjects; but one thing's clear: I've got to give up the school."

"I've been expecting that," the banker responded. "Only last night Salina was saying that Grandma was well . . ."

He hesitated; but Charmian asked bravely: "Then others have seen it, too?"

George K. nodded, and the girl went on: "I've failed this summer's test in her mind, thank heaven! but she's not so brisk and happy as she was a year ago. I've got to be with her more. It was hard last winter, even with John Carter to help out. I'll never have forgot how good he was to her, running in between patients to see if she needed anything—getting her lunch—jollying her along and keeping her happy and content. I'll be grateful to him as long as I live; but things have changed. She needs me now, and I can't be away! . . . But—don't let me hint. English Boy Scouts To Visit Jasper

Will Spend Six Weeks In Roughing It Over Mountain Trails

With three "billy cans" and two saucepans, home made tents and rubber ground sheets, and only two blankets apiece, 16 members, of the 9th troop of Boy Scouts, Leeds, England, passed through Winnipeg recently over the lines of the Canadian National Railways for Jasper National Park, where they will spend six weeks in "roughing it" over the trails of this famous game sanctuary. The boys, who are all pupils of the Leeds Modern School, are under the charge of Dr. G. F. Norton, headmaster of the school, and arrived in Canada on the S.S. Megantic. After visiting Ottawa, they took train for the west and, enroute, have cooked their own meals, used their own blankets and made up their own beds.

When the boys arrive in Jasper, they will leave the main roads and hike into the back country, carrying their food on their backs. Tentative trips have been planned to the Maligne Lake district and to the famous Columbia Ice Fields. Possibly a climb of Mount Edith Cavell may be attempted, as there are a number of enthusiastic alpinists in the party and, although the main object of the visit is to explore the districts not generally visited by tourists, a day or so may be set aside for the ascent of the mightiest peak.

On leaving Winnipeg, the boys were eagerly looking forward to a period of "real roughing it" in the Canadian Rockies.

Hailstorm Sweeps West Country

100 Per Cent. Damage to Crops Is Reported

The most disastrous hailstorm in that section of the country's history swept over the Lavoy-Ranfurly district on Sunday, leaving a trail of 100 per cent ruined crops and broken windows in its wake. The area of the country said to be covered stretched some 40 miles from a point eight miles south-east of Vegreville, running in a northeasterly direction, and was about four miles wide, according to reports. The storm centered in the Ranfurly district, where no stigma of the bumper crops remained; the hail was piled deep in the streets of the village and every window on the storm side of the town was broken. The hail was accompanied by a tremendous rainstorm which was in itself enough to flatten the crops.

Other reports of bad hailstorms during the past week come from Lacombe where 100 per cent damage is reported and from around Tofield.

WAR VETERANS' ALLOWANCE ACT

Art Wakelyn, the Provincial Secretary of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., in Alberta, through the courtesy of The Standard announces the benefits of the War Veterans' Allowance Act which becomes effective on the 1st of September, 1930

Subject to the provisions of the Act, allowances are payable to veterans of the Great War (1914-21) who saw service in an actual theatre of war, and who saw service in Canada or England only are not eligible unless they are pensioned or have received a final payment for a disability not 5 per or more in lieu thereof.

The applicant must have attained the age of sixty years or be permanently unemployable by reason of physical and, or, mental disability. Medicine Hat Editorial, transferred to Regina; G. J. Fox, in charge of Edmonton [illegible], transferred to Medicine Hat. These transfers are made in accordance with the company's policy of enabling its officers to broaden their experience in railway matters.

American golfers beat British players because they are more interested in the scientific angles of the game and generally speaking try harder, according to Dan Mos, University of Oregon wizard, interviewed at Vancouver, travelling Canadian Pacific from the western Open at Chicago and the American Open tournaments at Minneapolis. The Russian Menace

Soviet Russia presents a menace to Great Britain, Canada, the United States in fact to all countries which depend for their prosperity upon a world export trade. The Russian menace of today is not one of impending war fought by armies and naval fleets with tanks, bombs and aircraft, but of a great economic struggle for world trade and of the countries most likely to be seriously affected by such a struggle the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States come first.

Prior to the Great War it was frequently contended that wars between nations were brought about by manufacturers and captains of industry seeking foreign markets within which they might enjoy more or less exclusive rights of trading. The Great War itself was in the final analysis caused by Germany's unwillingness to see her larger world markets and a greater colonial empire. The German navy was created for the express purpose of challenging the British navy, with the very object in view. Germany failed, but in the end the War left Russia disrupted, while the British Empire and the United States emerged from the struggle greatly strengthened. The Czar's dynasty, his court, his aristocracy, his nobility, his landlords and capitalist classes of Russia and, as dictated by Karl Marx, the middle classes, were all overthrown. It is not to be doubted that the Soviet rule differs and has always differed with other governments in that it refuses to enter into any trade agreements which they hold are under the control of the capitalist governments. That is, Soviet leaders all methods are right and fair if they serve the purpose of furthering the cause. Hence the nature of the economic struggle now being waged by the world.

Having seized the property of all the landed and capitalist classes of Russia and, as declared by Karl Marx, the middle classes, the Soviet government proceeded to establish a system of industry and trade entirely in the hands of Russia, the Soviet leaders are now utilizing all available property with which to aid in the furtherance of their plans and intents and purposes—and indeed it is a very advantage of such labor thousands have been made ready available to trumped-up charges of treason or disobedience to the Soviet and without trial are thrown into forced labor camps.

Coal, pulpwood, agricultural products, notably wheat produced under such conditions at a cost against which the products of other countries can successfully compete are now beginning to be thrown into the markets of the world. Some tens of thousands of tons of Russian coal have been shipped into Canada and large shipments of pulpwood are being made to the United States to enter in competition with Canadian pulpwood, pulp and paper. Russian wheat is going to England where it displaces hard Canadian wheat as it is largely of the same hard variety.

And this is only the beginning. The Russian Soviet Government has expended hundreds of millions of dollars within the last few years in the purchase of the most up-to-date agricultural machinery. It has granted concessions to Henry Ford to establish a great plant for the manufacture of tractors in that country. It has engaged the services of the most noted railway and agricultural experts to direct operations in Russia; it has sent commissions of its own experts to foreign lands, and more particularly to Canada and the United States to study methods of transportation and marketing, all with a view to making an aggressive bid for the trade of the world, and based on methods and costs of production with which other countries with their greater liberty of the individual and higher standards of living cannot begin to compete.

Such, in brief outline is the serious nature of the menace to Canada and the United States business in the present situation. United States labor and United States industrialists are strongly battling the unfair Russian competition. Canada must do likewise, for while a country may be willing to face the competition of other countries both at home and abroad on equal terms, no country can compete with conditions such as those now prevailing in Russia and survive. It is apparent that Russia, having failed in its political attempts to socialize the world, has now embarked upon an economic conquest.

Under these circumstances, the approaching Imperial Economic Conference in London, England, is fraught with greater significance than were previous Empire Conference. Hon. C. A. Dunning announced that his budget was an indication of the spirit in which the King Government intended to approach that Conference, and the King Government will be defeated, the responsibility now rests with Premier Bennett, in collaboration with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, and the other Dominion Premiers, to work out an economic policy for the Empire which will enable all its component parts to successfully resist the Russian menace, and at the same time develop intra-Empire trade to its fullest possible extent. Every Canadian will wish Mr. Bennett well in his important task.

Deceiving the Customer

Three Berry Boxes Were Worse Than the Standard Fake Bottoms

In the museum of the Dominion Fruit Branch at Ottawa is a curiosity of unusual interest. It is a full tray of twelve blueberry boxes each box of which is nearly half filled with big blocks of board fully held together and old wood. It was picked up by the inspection service through the public complaint of a purchaser on a large Eastern market. To the customer to whom those boxes were sold it was a case of earnest empire with a vengeance.

Crosses Canada On Bicycle

Young French-Canadian Wins Wager Of $1,000 On Reaching Vancouver

Noel Marell, young French-Canadian from Halifax, wheeled to the coast on a red bicycle into Vancouver on August 8th, and won a wager of $1,000.

Marell left the Atlantic coast April 15 with $17 in his pocket and a supply of food on the crossbars of his bicycle. He was to reach the Pacific before midnight, August 15.

Notwithstanding the fact that he wheeled his machine into a ditch near Lytton and spent two weeks in a hospital shack with an injured back and leg the wiry little Canuck reached his goal one week ahead of time.

Abolish Tariff Advisory Board

New Body To Be Constituted Under Authority Of Act Of Parliament

The Tariff Advisory Board has been abolished and will be replaced by a new body to be constituted under authority of an act of parliament. Announcement to this effect was made by Premier R. B. Bennett.

The board now existent was constituted by an order-in-council, and not through statutory legislation, in April, 1928. This order-in-council has been cancelled by the new government, and the body to be created will function under authority granted to it by both the House of Commons and the Senate. Legislation for the establishment of the new board will be drafted shortly; and will likely be introduced at the next session of parliament.

The abolished board began its work under the direction of Hon. Senator Geo. P. Graham as chairman, and Alfred Lambert, Montreal, as full time member, with a member of the Manitoba government, as associate members. Following the resignation of Senator Graham, W. H. Moore became chairman of the board; and Mr. Lambert and Mr. McKenzie who resigned, were replaced by Hector Racine, Montreal, and Frank Jacobs, De Winton, Alberta. Mr. Moore resigned on the eve of the general election to contest the constituency of Ontario, in which he was elected as Liberal Candidate. The chairman of the board was in receipt of a salary of $10,000 per annum, and his colleagues $4,000 yearly.

Relief From Asthma. Who can describe the complete relief from suffering which follows the use of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy? Who can express the feeling of joy that comes when its soft and gentle influence relieves the tightened, choking air tubes! It has made asthmatic affliction a thing of the past for thousands. It never fails. All druggists everywhere have sold it for years.

Empire Preference

London County Council Gives Preference To Empire Products

There is proof in positive evidence of Canadian farmers in a communication received by the Dominion Department of Agriculture from London, England, buyer of foodstuffs. "The London County Council has laid down the rule that in future, in cases where preference shall be given to Empire foods in furtherance of th's policy it has given instructions that those responsible for buying foods to pay up to 10 per cent more for an Empire article than for a foods quality foreign product," he states. The London County Council provides food supplies to over 80 large hospitals and 70 institutions of various kinds.

Live Stock Sales

New System Of Reporting Sales and Prices Has Been Applied

A new system of reporting live stock sales and prices has been put into effect in the Stock Yard and Market Reporting Services of the Dominion Live Stock Branch. The purpose of the new system is to afford a more adequate indication of sales and prices in relation to beef cattle coming on the market. The principal change brings to the top of the list the section of beef cattle in greatest demand, providing a clear indication of the volume and price ranges of the popular light cattle, and providing the producer with a more adequate indication of grade and class than was possible under the old system.

Says Theatres Are Doomed

George Bernard Shaw Sees Talking Pictures Usurping Legitimate Stage

The doom of the theatre has been sealed, George Bernard Shaw said recently, upon signing his first talking picture film contract with a view to the filming of his play, "How He Lied To Her Husband."

"I am afraid the poor old theatre is done for," Shaw said. "The theatre may survive as a place where people go to get away from rain, from that, there will be nothing but the talkies

"All my plays will be made into talkies before long. I signed the contract today because I wanted some money.

"Shaw said "Arms and the Man" probably would be filmed next. It is one of his more famous comedies.

THREE DELEGATES APPOINTED FOR LEAGUE MEETING

Ottawa.—Canada will be represented at the next meeting of the assembly of the League of Nations by Sir Robert Borden, Senator Thomas Chapais and Hon. Mrs. Mary Irene Parlby, it was announced. here recently. The assembly meets in Geneva early in September, and before that there will be a meeting of the council of the league. Canada's representative on the council will be Sir Robert Borden as leader of the Canadian delegation.

Sir Robert Borden, Canada's wartime premier, has long been a staunch advocate of the league. He was one of the original signatories of the League of Nations covenant in 1919, and was chairman of the first league assembly and the council.

Senator Chapais, who resides in Quebec, has won distinction by his historical writings. He is the author of a number of books. He was for some time professor of history in the Laval University. He was a minister without portfolio in the Taillon government, in Quebec, and leader of the government in the legislative council back in 1883. He became a senator in 1924.

Hon. Mrs. Mary Irene Parlby is minister without portfolio in the Alberta Provincial Government, and represents Lacombe in the legislature. She was provincial president of the United Farm Women of Alberta, for four years. For two years she was a member of the board of governors of Alberta University. In the last two provincial general elections she has been returned as a candidate of the United Farmers of Alberta.

Canadian Butter For China

First Test Shipment Of Dairy Butter Will Go Forward On Sept. 4th

Victoria, B.C.—Close on the heels of a successful trial shipment of B.C. fresh milk to the Orient comes word of a special order for the shipment of prime dairy butter to Hong Kong, now being arranged through the Department of Agriculture.

On September 4, the first test shipment of butter within the knowledge of the department will cross the Pacific for the Far East. If the shipment is successful it will be followed by the opening of a considerable market for B.C. butter. The proposed of handing fresh dairy products from this coast has attracted wide attention in the Orient and will be developed on a most extensive scale if the results warrant it

The butter will be shipped to Hong Kong in care of the Canadian trade commissioner at that point

Tribal Unrest Spreading

British Forces In India, However, Appear To Be Handling Situation

Peshawar, India.—The spirit of tribal unrest appears to be spreading on the northwestern frontier, with British forces tightening they defense by increasing aerial bombing operations and rushing fresh troops northward.

Most of the Afridis who have been besieging the strategic city for a week have withdrawn under constant bombing, but meager reports from the countryside indicate that they have spread in all directions and that all branches of the tribe have taken up arms.

An indeterminate number of Orakzais have joined the Afridis, a party identified as Mamonds attacked Badama Post, and the Chamkhanis were on the war path until the air force warned them that their own villages would be bombed unless they ceased their depredations.

Peshawar itself was quiet, and apparently most of the assailants have withdrawn under heavy bombing. One party attacked the cantonments, however, inflicting a scattering rifle fire that did no damage, before it broke at dawn.

Meanwhile, fresh troops arrived on an armored train from Lahore. The city gates were opened for it, but ordinary trains must stop at Nowshera and the passengers continue here by motor.

The six squadrons of army airplanes on duty on the sector are credited with breaking up the plans for a mass attack on Peshawar. In one day these machines dropped 6,000 bombs, and they have made hundreds daily attacks on various groups. As one instance they spotted the 1,500 Mamonds who attacked Badama Post, and wounded 20 of them.

Fire Destroys Quebec Village

Property Damage Is Estimated At $200,000

Masson, Que.—Between 500 and 600 persons are homeless and nearly 50 houses destroyed—such is an estimate by Rev Monsignor Routhier, parish priest of Masson, of the conflagration which swept this little town recently.

Mme. Joseph Lafamme died during the afternoon and although not injured in the fire, it is believed the shock hastened her death. Property damage was estimated at $200,000. No one was killed and no one received serious injuries in the blaze.

This well-ordered community on the banks of the Lievre River, 27 miles from Ottawa, was bewailing a devastation, of a character difficult to describe. An area of over a quarter of a mile square which this morning housed nearly 120 families was simply a heap of smouldering embers. Red tongues of flame licking up from piles of charred debris spoke eloquently of the disaster which had befallen Masson.

"A fine time," was his first word on his return to report the result of our visit in the east. No I have nothing further to say about the whole situation. It has been pretty thoroughly done up the past two days.

Then in our last conversation you will recall I spoke of some new plans. First of the establishment of a co-operative light and power scheme whereby citizens of cities and farmers can now be supplied with hydro-electric power. This is a big step and one from which more will most assuredly be the outcome in the near future. The general economic position

We hope to be able to avail themselves of higher power in this locality as soon as possible at present. Along the same line we are investigating the fall the course in elementary prospecting for farmers and farmers' sons as they will be able to assist in mining development in the north

This fails in line with our announcement made before the fall of our own natural resources. We are planning to develop our resources especially those of gold, and will leave nothing undone which we believe shall be done.

Peter Miller returned from a trip to Edmonton on Sunday night.

Word received by M. M. McKinnon of the Vermilion telephone division, from Edmonton conveys the pleasing information that the local exchange has won a prize in the annual judging of grounds lay-out and beautification generally for the year 1930. There was very strong competition throughout the province and it is looked upon as a great honor that Vermilion's beauty spot emerged in the prize class. Congratulations are extended to Mac on the award his efforts have won and next year we confidently look forward to the Vermilion exchange receiving the banner prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mahan on their return from Edmonton last Sunday evening passed through the Ranfurly country shortly after the tremendous hail storm had swept that district. Frank says that the village of Ranfurly looked like a scene in the dead of winter, the hail lying thick all over and many of the windows in the buildings were broken. A torrential downpour accompanied the hailstorm. Damage by the hail was fully 100 per cent to crops in most of the sections swept over.

The annual horticultural show is being held today in McKone & Son's showrooms.

Wheat cutting is becoming pretty general in this district and since Monday morning last a large acreage has gone into stook. Heavy nightly dews continue to fall, holding back an early morning start on cutting; trouble is also being experienced with lodged grain, a considerable quantity of which went down during the last two [illegible] storms. In many sections the wheat yield will run over 40 bushels to the acre and under favorable harvesting conditions the grade should be number one. The editor had Sunday saw a field of registered Marquis on the farm of Geo. White, Clandonald, from one head of which was counted 73 kernels; this farmer has a section and a quarter of land, has some 300 acres in crop this season and has heads on his oats which beat the fine sample of Carl Stone's mentioned in a previous issue. Oats will be late in ripening as the bulk of the crop is still quite green. Hay is plentiful and the entire district will have an abundance of feed.

To Stop Dumping Of Fruits

Steps Taken to Curtail Imports of Certain Fruits and Vegetable Products

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—Action against the dumping of certain fruits and vegetables into Canada from the United States has been taken by Hon. W. H. Ryckman, minister of national revenue. Mr. Ryckman announced this afternoon that the following will be the values for duty of certain fruit and vegetables when imported from the United States:

Apples—6 cents per pound.
Cabbages—5 cents per pound.
Cantaloupes—12 cents per pound.
Celery—10 cents per pound.
Onions—4 cents per pound.
Peaches—15 cents per pound.
Pears—6 cents per pound.
Plums and prunes—8 cents per pound.
Tomatoes—10 cents per pound.

Steps were taken by the minister of national revenue under the authority of section 43 of the Customs' Act and order-in-council No. 1987, dated August 20, 1930. Mr. Ryckman previously consulted with the department of agriculture. The values named are to remain in force, Mr. Ryckman stated, "until otherwise ordered."

Mrs. W. B. Elford announces the opening of a Kindergarten Class for young children under school age, on Monday, September 8th. For terms and particulars phone 226.

Five of the town councillors and Secy. Long travelled to Vegreville on Wednesday afternoon to examine the tar and walks laid by that town last year and which have given very good service. The council at Vegreville have underway now the laying of several more blocks of McMurray tar sand sidewalks.

Nearly $6,000,000 worth of harvesting machinery was exported from the United States in the first five months of this year.

NORMAL SCHOOLS TO RE-OPEN SEPTEMBER 3rd

Alberta's three normal schools will open for the autumn term on Wednesday next, September 3, according to an announcement made on Tuesday by officials of the department.

The schools, at Edmonton, Calgary and Camrose expect to have a total enrolment of about 900 this year as against 817 last year. The maximum number that can be accommodated at all three is 1,000.

The first term will end on Friday, December 19th. The second term will begin on Monday, January 5 and will end on Friday, June 5, 1931.

Initial Wheat Payment Set At 60c By Pool

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26.—Days of anxious waiting are over and today the 163,000 western farmers, members of the prairie wheat pools, know what the initial payment is to be on the 1930 crop.

It will be the lowest in the seven-year history of the pools—60 cents a bushel on wheat; oats, No. 2 C.W., 36 cents; barley, No. 3 C.W., 25 cents; rye, No. 2 C.W., 35 cents, and Flax, No. 1 N.W.C., $1.25.

The 60-cent payment on wheat will be made on the basis of No. 1 northern grade at Fort William.

Along with the official announcement from A. J. McPhail, chairman of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, the central selling agency of the pools, and from Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, last night came a plea to the creditors of the western agriculturists to be lenient. The same plea was made in Regina last week, at a conference of wheat growers, businessmen, and members of the Saskatchewan government under the leadership of Premier J. T. M. Anderson.

Since the formation of the wheat pools in the west, with the exception of one year, the initial payment has always been $1.00 a bushel. In 1925, the record crop year when grain values were depressed, the initial payment was 85 cents a bushel.

MARWAYNE MEETING AGREES ON WAGES FOR HARVESTING

MARWAYNE, Aug. 25.—An important meeting of farmers, businessmen and labor was held in Marwayne on Saturday night. It was agreed to set the rate of wages for the year 1930 for men $3 per day and $5 for teams, the charge for threshing to be 4½ cents for oats, 6½ cents for barley and 9 cents for wheat

Ed. Sutton Foils Gasoline Robbers

Who In Turn Take Revenge on Hiram Hodgins

W. F. Sutton having just partaken of a substantial meal at the Boston cafe after a strenuous day at the mower above was strolling comfortably home last Thursday night around 12 o'clock, when his unfailing 31st sense told him that all was not right in rounding the corner Main and Hall was he heard scuffling sounds coming from the rear and upon closer examination discovered a car without any lights standing in front of the Nelson-Hill hardware, the inmates of the car were hanging the lock on the service gasoline pump with no uncertain volitorious. Mistaking Ed. for the real constable the would be gasoline [illegible] and W. F. continued his journey minus the APP and slept a sound sleep with the feeling of a good job well done. Next morning Hiram Hodgins on opening up his garage for the day's business found the lock on the pump hone broken, so evidently the men had to have gasoline and they got it —at Hiram's expense.

The gasoline thieves of the above are thought to be those wanted in Prince Albert for the theft of a big Graham Paige car and whose description was sent out along this line as heading this way At an intermediate point these was given them, the per sonors being left in the dust. Hiram the men's anxiety not to be seen. An unofficial report claims that the car was found in a wrecked condition in a ditch near Vegreville

THE ROYAL RULES

It would seem at first glance that there is not a great deal in common between a King and a commoner. On hearing through the columns of The Churchman, of the personal code of our Sovereign King George V one rejoices to find that they are the strong kindly sentiments which may be shared by even the humblest of his subjects.

History will relate to future generations that the reason the King was enthroned in the hearts of the people its twelve million members in every quarter of the globe, the Royal Home made for the best citizenship and the finest expression of service.

Let every student copy the following and do his best to live up to His Sovereign's code:

1. Teach me to be obedient to the rules of the game.

2. Teach me to distinguish between contentment and contentionality, eliminating the one and developing the other.

3. Teach me neither to prefer nor to receive cheap praise.

4. If I should cause to suffer, let me be like a well-bred beast that goes away to suffer in silence.

5. Teach me to win, if I may; if I may not, teach me to be a good loser.

6. Teach me neither to cry for the moon nor to cry over spilt milk.

DISTRICT SCHOOL FAIR, LANDONVILLE, SEPT. 6th.

September 6th is the date which has been set for the Landonville and District School Fair. This district, having been favored with ample rainfall and an excellent growing season, it goes without saying that the exhibits of vegetables, grains and grasses will be of a very high order. Only in livestock classes also, a marked improvement may be looked for over last year.

The practical information and suggestions to the pupils which have been given in former years to the pupils by Mr. Andrew, the judge of these classes, are being reflected more and more every year.

The President of the Association, Miss A. E. Lewis, with the executive and delegates had their meeting on Aug. 23rd when the whole program was gone over carefully and they now feel that the stage is all set for a bonanza day. Good substantial prizes will be paid for all entries.

The usual program of sports are to be under the capable management of Mr. Mothouse, Mr. F. Gray and Mr. H. Stanley. Free coffee will be provided on the grounds for those who wish to bring their lunches. A refreshment booth put in by the W. A. of the Anglican Church will look after the needs of the public in this respect.

One thing more: There are certain teachers and very busy farmers who are devoting considerable valuable time and attention towards making these fairs really what they are, but their efforts will be of little avail without the co-operation of the school boards and the parents. May they look to and depend on these parties for their assistance? It is felt that they can. They are asked to do no very much, just come and bring all the children and their entries; help the boys and girls, your children, to get their exhibits to the fair and in place in the most presentable manner possible, and remember really the thing must be in place by ten-thirty, not later.

That's not very much, now, is it? Don't forget the date, Sept. 6th; the place, Semple's Farm. Everybody will be there to greet you.

128 UNEMPLOYED IN ALBERTA

Rents of labour men in Alberta were increased 0.6 per cent. during the week which ended Aug. 23, according to the weekly report of the governmental employment service which indicates that there are now 3,324 unemployed in the province.

The majority of the workless, 645, are classified as general laborers with agricultural workers numbering 555 and ranking second. Calgary has 1189 of the jobless men, Edmonton 1,000, Lethbridge 227, Drumheller 194 and Medicine Hat 98.

Women unemployed number 117.

100 Per Cent Damage At Manville Monday Morning

MANVILLE, Aug. 25.— A devastating hail storm struck this village northwest of Manaville this morning.

The storm varied from four to five miles in width and 10 miles long, spacing from fifty to one hundred per cent damage.

The hailed out portions were anticipating a bumper crop and a large number of the farmers had just cut a few swaths intending to start in the following day.

Part of the railway track at Myrnam was washed away during the deluge of rain which followed the hail.

Less than ten per cent of the farmers were insured as this district is considered free from hail risks.

ARE FAT IS MELTING FAST AWAY

All over the world Harmless Salts is appealing to girls and women who suffer fat and overweight. Doctors figure that constant fat it was admitted.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into fullness all the needed nutriciousness that every woman desires.

Every morning take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "it's the daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't take a morning.

Kruschen daily means that every particle of superfluous fat, waste and harmful acids and gases are gradually driven from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys will become toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body, and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and buoyant health.

"I don't want anything but a cup o' tea, dear, and a night at sea on the coast. I remember Edward Howe saying that old folks don't need much come night. And now here, chiefly on the doctor told me about your plans and everything. I guess he thought he'd save me trouble; and quite right it was, too. I'm not to worry about me. I've always thought it would be kind of fun to live in in a steamer, and 'tis'll be a night adventure for you. It'll be easier for me, too, not to go over the stairs some night. Besides, I'll be able to see a hail block farther down the street from that window! And it's going to be a great pleasure to me to home all day. You needn't worry a mite about how I'll take it, Charmian. Between you and me, dearie, I think it's going to be fun!"

Only after the girl had turned away, undetected, and unable to speak at this delay of bravery, did the old lips tremble.

"Thank God that's over," murmured Grandma brokenly, while two big tears crept slowly down over her wrinkled cheeks.

CHAPTER XXVII

There were times during the days that followed when Charmian found it difficult to believe that she and Grandma would ever leave the shelter of the homestead. They seemed so talked about it, but when the impending changes could not be ignored, the old lady showed herself emotionally refusing admittance to the tears that lay so near the surface. Only when she saw Grandma in the face show any of the dismay that filled her tired old heart. These were hard days for Charmian, too.

"Seems somehow as if she'd grown smaller—shrunk, you might say," Grandma confided to Mrs. Hotchkiss. "It ain't easy to make changes at Grandma's age; and she's keepin' up better than I expected. She's a good for her. And I'm sorry for Charmian, too. I ain't ever see a young person that set such store on anything old as she does on that old house. I declare, Selina, there's times when I wish we'd never begun it would buck out of his bargain."

But Miss Lizzie was not to get her wish. It was the last day of August when George K. hailed Charmian as she passed the bank, and led her into the little room which had a formidable-sible "Private" on its door; but which was in reality no more private than the air we breathe, because only on rare occasions did the president of the Wickford National close his door. He closed it now, however, and asked: "What you been up to this afternoon?"

Charmian smiled as she responded. "Why all this privacy? I've been to the library, so you might deduce from this aruptal of books. But I got more than the books, Uncle George. I got a job! Miss Garfield has asked me to help at the library two hours each afternoon. Isn't that wonderful? I can easily leave Grandma that long, or get Miss Lizzie to come in and sit with her; and it will bring in a little money. It was Grace's idea. I'm going to stop at his office now and thank him."

"Wait a little, dear!" George K. spoke cheerfully, "It'll do you good to get away each day, and see folks. What I called you in for, Charmian, was to say that you can sign the deed at ten o'clock tomorrow. I just got word that your man will be here then, and wants to see you. I told him to come to the bank—thought maybe it would be better for Grandma to see the act done, as you might say. I'm thankful now, child, that she deeded the place to you. It would be hard for her to sign the house away. There, Charmian, if you feel like crying, cry on my shoulder; but I advise you to buck up. In the long run most things come out right in this old world. If I didn't believe that I guess I shouldn't be as happy as I am, or as fat, either!"

"Or as helpful to the rest of us," added Charmian. "It's all right, Uncle George. I did my crying long ago, and have been accepting the stiff upper lip that it sometimes hurts! But as Grandma's probably going to be dead much longer, I'll not complain. I'll be here at ten. Now I must run up and thank Gam Garfield for his appointment, and then skip home. Thanks for—everything."

"Haven't you forgotten something?" called George K. as she reached the door.

Charmian turned, her eyes aglow with sudden merriment. This was an old rule of childhood's days, when a little lass she often slipped into the room marked "Private," in search of her wee pink checkermists which George K. used to tell her "grew in his pockets." If, in those days, she forgot to bestow upon him a grateful kiss, he reminded her thusly and was rewarded by a sometimes struggling embrace. She came back now, laughing as she kissed him. Then the door closed behind her, while George K. watching from a window, saw her cross the street and start up the narrow path that led to Gam Garfield's office in the building opposite.

"My! Bill must have been crazy when he let that girl slip through his fingers," he complained as the door closed behind her. "Howveya, all's well that ends well, and I hope

What he hoped was interrupted by a fellow banker from Eastboro, who, as was everybody's custom, walked in when the formality of a knock.

Charmian, finding Gamaliel busy with a client, delivered her thanks briefly and moved on up Main Street with tagging feet. No need to tell Grandma that the dread day was at hand, she thought. Let her sleep in peace this last night under her own roofiree. As for herself, she must somehow shut that lump in her throat and remember, as George K. said, that things usually turn out all right. It was wonderful that Miss Garfield needed help at the library just now She must write Jim about it—if ever she could discover her knack. Jim Hale's latest bulletin from California had brought news that he had "a job" there, and was not coming home this year. Still men are certainly more interesting than women, Charmian reflected, as she turned pineapple above the door.

"I hope they'll give it the cost of gold leaf it deserves," she said, and then suddenly laid her books on a table by the door, and then stood still, staring into the room that had been a shop for almost as long as she remembered

"Haven't you a word of greeting for the returned prodigal?" inquired Jim Bennett!

He arose from where he was sitting beside Grandma, and caught Charmian's hands in both of his.

"Steady!" he said. "Pobs have been known to expire of shock. I've have warned you of my arrival but I started at a moment's notice, almost. Sit down, Charmian, and catch your breath."

He pushed her gently into the rocking chair, and drew up a straight-backed old Chippendale for himself in a sort of daze Charmian heard her grandmother say anxiously: "Hadn't you better get her a drink of water?" and at that she laughed.

"I'm not faint," she protested, "merely struck dumb, as you might say, Jimmy, you look—well—"

"Different, doesn't he?" put in Grandma; and Charmian, noticing her for the first time since this amazing homecoming, saw that her proud old face looked happier than it had for days. "He's got a sort of air about him," she was saying. "I'm right off when he came in. He looks—stylish."

"Gosh!" breathed Jim. "You talk like my mother before she fell in love with a fruit ranch."

Charmian laughed, spontaneously, and Grandma asked: "You mean you're playing second fiddle these days?"

"Something mighty near it," grinned Jim. "Will you believe it, Grandma, my doting mother hardly noticed when I deserted. I left her sampling a new variety of citron. Well, it's good to be home!"

"Then you haven't fallen in love with—" began Charmian, when Grandma interrupted in horrified reproof:

"What do you mean, child, asking such a question?"

"I was only going to say in love with California," explained the girl, and Jimmy roared.

"No," he replied, after his mirth had somewhat subsided, "I didn't lose my heart to—California. It has its good points, of course. Mother and Aunt Sophie are nuts over it—boast-ers, I call 'em; but as for me—I wouldn't swap one of Wickfield's winding, elm-shaded streets for the whole damn state of California! And that's the truth."

"There!" ejaculated Grandma with satisfaction. "I always said that there's not a prettier spot on earth than Wickfield. Here comes the doctor, Charmian. He seems to be in a hurry. Maybe—"

But with hands that seemed to both Grandma and the young man rather uncalled for, Charmian sprang up, and was at the door when John Carter reached the steps She did not guess that in the moment that followed, both those loyal hearts in the room beyond were to be wrenched almost to the breaking point. She did not realize that the fright she was reflected in the long mirror that hung beside it, nor would it have troubled her if she had known. All she saw or thought of was the light in John Carter's eyes as he thrust a telegram of yellow paper into her hand. She read the message and looked up, her lovely face reflecting the happiness that shone there. For in the next moment he caught her in his arms and kissed her, rapturously and silently

Advertising England

No Country In the World That Offers Greater Attractions

Britain, as Kipling said of Lord Roberts, "doesn't advertise." Sir James Parr, late high commissioner for New Zealand, has been telling advertising men, in London, that Englishmen are too reticent.

Why, he asks, should it be "kept form" to talk about themselves and their country, especially when, as he puts it, no other can compare with it in point of "human interest."

"What country has such wealth of historical places, such cathedrals, such homes both great and small?" he wants to know. And so for England's countryside in springtime, he says, "there's nothing on earth to equal its beauty."

Yet somehow England and its chief town, in spite of a lack of capacity for advertising, seem to be fairly well-known abroad Consider London just recently

It was packed with distinguished visitors. They ranged from the King of Spain, Prince Dannrog, of Rumania, and Prince Daniln, of Montenegro, to the newspaper editors of the Empire — the latest tennis celebrity and the newest contestant for the Henley regatta.

They come from all parts of the earth. The secret of it, of course, is that nowhere can you find such a wound of entertainment, enjoyment and amusement packed into a few short months as you find in Britain during the "season."

You can have everything from grand opera to yachting, from the Royal Academy to a military tattoo. From a court levee or dressing-room to a golf championship, from a regatta to a flower show. There is hardly a day when there is not some colorful event does not help to fill the social diary.

And London, it costs a great deal to share in these delights You can spend from $50 to $150 a day at a first class hotel in London. And if you take a fashionable flat to be in the centre of things you can hand out $200 a week to your landlord who will think he is obtaining only his just due.

Should you be in the millionaire class, you can live even more expensively. For can hire a furnished house in the West End. It will be the last word in style and comfort all ready to walk into. A thousand dollars a week is not considered at all exorbitant for such a temporary shelter

Explore Arctic With Submarine

Sir Hubert Wilkins To Cross Polar Regions By Underseas Passage

Sir Hubert Wilkins, arriving in New York on the North German Lloyd liner "Bremen," announced that he had virtually completed plans for his undersea passage in the Arctic Polar regions, which he will undertake next summer in an obsolete submarine, which will be placed at his disposal by the Navy Department

He has gone to Philadelphia to examine the discarded submarine O-12, which he plans to recbristen the "Nautilus." In this out-of-date craft, Sir Hubert, with several other scientists and a crew of 18, will explore beneath the ice-choked waters for a period of about 50 days.

Sir Hubert expects to cover some 2,500 miles during this period. The submarine will be equipped with an ice-cutting device that will bore a hole upward, when the submarine's superstructure is close to the bottom of the ice floes. He will thus be able to send men to the surface of the water through the hole. Conduct experiments and make observations.

The submarine will attain the speed of between three and four knots, when submerged. He expects to leave New York next June in the submarine and proceed to Spitsbergen. From that port he will then head into his undersea realm of currents, etc. and will pass under the North Pole emerging in the Ice Seas of the Behring Sea.

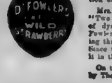
During the passage beneath the surface of the northern waters, Sir Hubert plans to broadcast over the air a special radio set. The submarine is 175 feet in length. Among those who will accompany the explorer on his Polar voyage will be Dr H. V. Brordrup, who accompanied Amundsen on several explorations, and Dr. Heining Meinden.

Choked For Air, Some little irritant becomes lodged in the bronchial tubes; others gather, and the dreaded choking of asthma results Nothing offers quite such quick and positive relief as Dr J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. The healing, soothing smoke or vapor penetrates, clears the passages and gives unlimited relief. Far behind it years of success. It is the sure remedy for every sufferer.

Increased Wheat Consumption

Strong Tendency Of Tropical Countries To Use More Flour

A report issued by the Food Research Institute, of Stanford University, California, shows a strong tendency towards increased wheat consumption on the part of tropical countries The survey covers the years from 1909 to 1927, and reveals a growth in the consumption of wheat flour in excess of the growth of population, the years 1921 to 1915 showing an annual average per capita use of 11.24 pounds of flour while the period from 1923 to 1927 shows a rise to 12.67 per cent



A Valuable Stamp

One Cent Stamp Issued Many Years Ago Now Worth $40,000

Probably the most classic example of the economic law that scarcity creates value is on exhibition in Boston, Mass.—a one cent stamp worth $40,000.

It is the property of Arthur Hind, Utica, N.Y., manufacturer, hotel owner and philanthropist, whose $500,000 collection of stamps constitutes, financially speaking, just about half of the National Philatelic Exhibition of 1930, which was opened at Horticultural Hall, in Boston, Mass-achusetts. The history of the stamp goes back to 1866, and to British Guiana. The postmaster of that then isolated colony had found his supply of stamps exhausted. In the emergency a local printer was called into conference, and for with the aid of a picture of a ship, borrowed from a local newspaper, and a hand-set inscription, the stamp was turned out.

A few days later the regular supply arrived and the makeshifts were destroyed. Sixty years later, the only known copy came into the possession of Hind for $32,000, and today collectors say it is worth at least $40 000

BEAUTIFYING CAMPAIGN SUCCESSFULLY CARRIED OUT

The campaign launched this season by the Canadian National Railways in the beautifying of its station grounds, was a successful move, with a result that a larger appropriation will be considered for this work next year, according to A. A. Tisdale, General Manager, Western Region, Winnipeg.

The agents, according to Mr Tisdale, have taken kindly to this work, and the time and labor necessary to look after a small plot was cheerfully given by them, who felt that they were amply repaid by the pleasure derived from the pleasant surroundings and congenial recreation.

A GRAVE WARNING IS ISSUED TO THE FARMERS

(By H. G. L. Strange)

The Dominion Entomologists at Lethbridge and Saskatoon, H. L. Seamans and K. M. King, have issued a very grave warning to all farmers in Alberta and Saskatchewan regarding the dire damage to crops that may occur next year because of the cutworm.

The dry May and part of June that has been experienced in most part of Alberta and Saskatchewan this year has resulted enormously to increase this insect pest, and it is expected that unless May and June of 1931 are much wetter than is usually the case, that the greatest and most widespread damage that has ever been experienced will result from cutworms. Most of Saskatchewan south of Saskatoon, it is expected, will be badly affected, with the worst damage within a hundred mile radius of Regina in Alberta the damage will probably be very general east of a line from Edmonton to Macleod and as far south as the Lethbridge-Medicine Hat line of the Canadian Pacific railway.

The damage to the 1931 crop will depend absolutely upon the way fields are handled this present August and September. The mush of the cutworms flies across the fields and lays its eggs starting in the first few days of August, reaching its maximum flight about the 20th, and continuing to fly and lay eggs until about the middle of September. This moth will avoid all land that has had even a very slight crust formed upon it by rainfall, but will lay its eggs upon any soil where this crust has been broken, however slightly. To avoid cutworm damage on a field, therefore, it is necessary that on summerfallowed fields all work should stop by the first of August or a few days afterwards. Then a very slight rain will form a crust on these fields, which will render them immune the following year from cutworm damage. It is important that no horses or stock or implements or wagons shall be allowed to cross any summerfallow prepared in this fashion, because where ever the crust is broken by animals or implements, there the moth will lay its eggs, and considerable damage will be experienced the following year. On fields in, say, where harvesting operations are conducted before about September 1st, then damage the following year is almost certain to be experienced unless these fields are summerfallowed.

It is apparent, therefore, that all fields which are cropped this year, as far as possible, should be summerfallowed in the year 1931 and that in addition all work on summerfallowed fields this year should cease as soon after August 1st as possible, and that nothing should be allowed to walk over or across these fields.

H. L. Seamans, Dominion Entomologist stationed at Lethbridge Laboratory, without hesitation states that it is far better to allow weeds to grow on the summerfallow after August 1 in these affected areas, rather than to disturb the crust of the soil and so invite cutworm damage.

Let September Mom's greeting be
All square with the Town, thank you

WHY LOCOMOTIVE DRIVERS GO CRAZY

"Inexplicable negligence," such as driving into the side of moving trains and trains standing still, driving between railway cars, driving along railway tracks, turning on crossings, leaving automobiles on tracks, is the cause of numerous automobile accidents at railway crossings, according to figures received by the Canadian National Bureau of Economics from the Board of Railway Commissioners. In a period of three years, ending March 21 this year, there were 1,791 cases of negligence reported at crossings in Canada. No less than 714 were cases of ignoring danger and stop signals. Seventy-seven drivers actually drove under the gates while they were being lowered or raised and, impossible as it may seem to the responsible motorist, at least one man went to the trouble of raising the gates. There were 126 cases of driving over tracks in front of an approaching train and 20 cases of driving over tracks while the moving train was passing. In the same period, seventy-seven drivers drove into the side of moving trains and 48 managed to drive into trains that were standing still. Eight used the railway track as a roadway, five thought the crossing was a good place to turn the car, and one man parked his car and slept on the tracks and fell asleep. This was a little more risky than the act of the man who parked his car on the railways and left it, but the man who stopped his wagon in the path of the train to adjust his load was taking a chance too many.

BROWNIE NOTES

Twelve happy Brownies spent a wonderful afternoon down at Grizzly Bear ranch on Friday last. Nearly all the other Brownies were away. Our grateful thanks to Mrs. Fallow, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. T. Watts for driving us down, and to Mrs. Roberts who invited us down and provided two ponies on which the Brownies, in turn, spent the afternoon. We hope another year to be able to arrange our outing earlier when so many are not away.

All Brownies, including those ready for more on to Guides, are asked to be at the Armories on Friday, Sept. 5th after school.

NINTH PORTINGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alberta, August 23rd, 1930.

Wheat cutting is well advanced in the southern part of the province, general in the central area and has commenced in the northern districts including Peace River.

In the south-eastern area the quality of grain is high but the yield is uniformly light. Further west crops on summerfallow are giving returns of from thirty to thirty-five bushels per acre. On all spring prepared land the yields will not be large. Irrigated areas report all crops slightly above average.

In the central eastern part of the province all grains have suffered severely from wind and drought. Crops are short and in many instances the ripening is uneven. Late rains have caused excellent growth on fields reseeded to oats and barley and there will be a fair supply of feed. There have been several rather severe hail storms in this area which have caused heavy losses.

In the western and northern areas prospects are satisfactory in quality and yield. The recent dry period in the Peace River district has slightly reduced the yield of oats and barley. Wheat has not suffered.

Rains have been general over most of the province in the past few days and pastures are much improved. Sugar beets and potatoes are making excellent progress.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

All girls wishing to take the test for the swimmer's badge please give their names to one of the leaders before the end of this week. Examiners will be arranged for, for next week.

AERIAL ARMADA STAR IS NOT SUPERSTITIOUS

Unlucky 13 has no terror for Captain Frank M. Hawks, speed dare devil of the air, who is to be the main drawing card at the great air show being held at Edmonton on Sept. 17.

For Hawks, if you please, when he lanced his way through the air from coast to coast in 12 hours and 20 minutes recently, flew a machine that literally had the number 13 plastered all over it. The ship was Texaco No. 13, the mystery airplane which has been developed on suggestions made by Hawks to the Travelair Aircraft corporation, a company specializing in light, speedy planes for the individual owner-flyer.

The ship had 13 marked in two places on the fuselage, on the tail assembly, and on both of the low wings; nevertheless, when Hawks soared into the air from Los Angeles to eat supper in New York, he wore his old cheery smile of confidence in his machine.

When a friend drew his attention to the "total number", Hawks just grinned and waved his hand.

"See you in vaudeville — in New York," he cried, as he gave 'er the gun and roared down the field in a whirling cloud of dust.

Hawks made the trip in the remarkable time of 12 hours and 20 minutes, lopping three hours off his own previous record, and two hours off the Lindbergha, who had beaten his old record by a scant margin.

Details of the ship are being kept secret at present, but the plane will be on view with the National Air Tour in Edmonton on September 17th with 50 other planes.

VERMILION HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY HOLDS SUCCESSFUL FLOWER SHOW

Fifth Annual Event Draws Large Attendance

Under the auspices of the Vermilion Horticultural Society the fifth annual flower and vegetable exhibition was held on Thursday, August 21st in the splendid showrooms of Jos. McKone and Sons, the building having been generously donated for the purpose by the enterprising automobile firm. Being one of the finest showrooms in the entire province of Alberta, resplendent in plate glass and clean white paint, the mass of beautiful flowers were shown off to their best advantage and hundreds of Vermilion town and district citizens took advantage of the opportunity to view the display during the afternoon and evening.

A busy scene was presented during the early morning hours when the more ardent gardeners might have been seen searching their plots for the choice blooms and for the carrots and beets of just the right type; many otherwise excellent vegetables were discarded for some fancied defect and by ten o'clock in the morning all table space in the showroom was filled and the largest horticultural show as yet held in the town was ready for the consideration of the Judge, Mr. Thos. Daniels of Bardlo, Alberta. Commencing at 10:30 the judge began making awards and it was not until 2:30 p.m. that all classes had been judged. Undoubtedly all entrants were not altogether satisfied with the decisions rendered; this is inevitable, however, where enthusiasm is manifested in exhibiting and it is sufficient that all exhibitors accepted the results in the finest possible manner.

Classes were provided for the stately gladioli and the fine dahlias, for the snapdragons and asters so many western gardens and for sweet peas in singles, collections, bouquets and baskets; indeed practically all the more common annuals flowers had a class to themselves and keen competition was provided in almost every case. Vegetables of all varieties were displayed in profusion and the judges found considerable difficulty in awarding prizes in a number of classes.

Some seven hundred square feet of table space were required to accommodate the exhibits of more than three hundred entries and the arrangement of the flowers was carried out in such a manner that patrons entering the room, were first struck with the beauty of the display of glads and dahlias; on either side of these classes stretched full tables of sweet peas, antirrhinums, clarkia, etc. the whole presenting a beautiful showing.

As soon as the exhibit was thrown open to the public interested persons began to contribute the necessary quarter of a dollar, until by ten p.m. practically all the citizens had shown their interest in an event that has come to mean much to the life of the town. There were, however, a number of prominent men of the town who did not subscribe to the success of the show by their attendance and it is hoped that another year every citizen will avail himself of the opportunity of attending one of the most successful horticultural shows held in any western small town.

In the sweet pea classes Mr. A. W. Liddiatt was the most prominent winner with Mr. John Brimacombe trailing close behind; in the dahlia classes Mrs. Brennan and Mr. S. C. Heckbert took premier honors, while gladiolus winners were A. S. Calvert and Mrs. R. M. Hill. Mrs. H. J. Payne carried off the honors with a beautiful display of roses grown in Vermilion, and Mr. Geo. Wright, Mr. A. E. Kaiser, Mrs. W. S. Cash, Miss Grace Bury, Mr. Stanley Calvert and Mrs. Olmstead were prominently in the list of prize winners.

At four o'clock in the afternoon the children's parade of decorated kiddie cars and carriages was held in front of the hall and after much discussion the judges awarded the three highest honors as shown in complete list.

Mr. Don Taylor, Mr. Thos. Daniels and the Vermilion School of Agriculture materially assisted in the success of the exhibition through splendid displays of flowers of all kinds shown merely as examples of what may be done with some effort, their flowers not being placed in competition in the various classes.

During the evening the members of the Vermilion Citizens' Band, under the direction of Mr. W. B. Elford, played a most enjoyable concert in the civic bandstand which is located in the park immediately opposite the showrooms; with excellent weather prevailing for the occasion, with the fine showing of flowers, set off to advantage in the well lighted room and with the band rendering suitable numbers in the park, all things worked together to make possible a very pleasant evening for the throng of interested people who came and went during the evening.

The directors of the local Horticultural Society wish to thank, through the medium of the Vermilion Standard, all who in any way contributed to the outstanding success of the flower show in 1930 and to suggest that those who are not now members of the Society should visit the office of the secretary for the purpose of joining the organization; merely a nominal fee of one dollar is required to link up with the Society and every membership strengthens the hands of the officers in carrying on a work that all will agree has considerable importance.

It is hoped that more than one hundred members may be obtained for the operations of the Society in 1931 and with this in view citizens may be asked in the very near future to enter their names for membership so that plans may be made to undertake an increased programme during the next year. The membership fee is the smallest part of the contribution that may be made by each individual member, a keen interest in the work of the organization being the really worth while contribution that may be made.

In the annual grounds and garden competition the first award went to Mr. S. C. Heckbert with Mr. Geo. W. Wright second and Mr. A. W. Liddiatt third. There is no prize in this competition, the members of the Society merely competing as an inducement to improve the appearance of the town in general.

The judges for this event were Rev. H. A. Boyd, Mr. Jas. Cameron and Mr. J. L. Hedley and in turning in their report they particularly commended Mr. Liddiatt on his splendid garden at the rear of his home, which was believed to be outstanding in the excellence of its appearance. Criticism was made of the slight lack of garden beauty in the front of this premises and of the difficulty of the people in viewing the garden proper, owing to a high board fence which serves to obstruct the view.

The Horticultural Society wishes to be of assistance, where possible, to citizens who contemplate the growing of flowers and vegetables and especially solicits the co-operation of farmers and farmers' wives in making the 1931 show the best on record.

It is hoped that during the coming winter articles of value to the prospective gardener may be published, from time to time, in the columns of the local paper and every effort is to be made to place the local association on an even higher plane than has yet been possible. Those who are interested are requested to get in touch with any of the officers with a view to forming a connection with the organization that may be mutually valuable.

The officers of the Vermilion Horticultural Society for the year 1930 are: Hon. President, Mayor W. A. Fallow; President, S. C. Heckbert; 1st Vice President, A. Porter; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. H. J. Payne; Secretary-Treasurer, W. E. Sutton; Directors, Miss Grace Bury, Mrs. J. A. M. Craig, Messrs. H. F. Long, Geo. W. Wright, A. E. Kaiser, Geo. Law, and John Brimacombe.

SCHOOLS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT OPEN TUESDAY, SEPT. 2nd.

The schools of the town and most of those of the country districts will re-open for the fall term on Tuesday, Sept. 2nd. No doubt most youngsters will look back on the past summer and wonder where the two months have gone, but gone they are and the call of the school bell rings out again at 9 A.M Tuesday. The high school staff remains the same as last year, namely — Principal J. W. E. Markle, Miss Haines, J. B Topper and F. W Addison. Two changes are noted on the public school staff. Miss Daley being replaced by Miss Maxwell, formerly of Clayanore, and Miss Cameron by Miss Muriel Moore Price, of F. M Stewart. Misses Fraser, Stone, Oakley, Irving and Lipsey complete the teachers.

EDUCATION OF SOLDIERS' CHILDREN ACT

Art Wakelyn, the Provincial Secretary of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. in Alberta, has asked this office to be kind enough to publish the terms of the Alberta Provincial Act passed this year under which applications might be made for assistance to the children of ex-soldiers who require and in obtaining further training in life as follows:

1. The educational facilities which the Board may authorize shall be:
(a) Academic courses up to obtaining the standing required for entrance into University of Alberta, or for a second class teacher's diploma;
(b) Technical, agricultural, and commercial courses in those Institutes which are covered by the Inspectorate of the Department of Education and Agriculture.
(c) Nursing, Domestic Science and kindred subjects covered by the inspectorate of the Department of Health.

2. The Board is only empowered to grant assistance to children who have attained Grade 8 (Eight) standing or higher.

Further information can be obtained from any Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., in Alberta, or direct from the Registrar, The Education of Soldiers' Children Act, P.O. Box 647, Edmonton, Alberta.

Planning. Saving. Investing

...ly ... which had ... to be an ... and ... stirred ... and ... summer ... some ... have been millions who have failed ... by ... They have emerged as losers. They have allowed ... to ... They have ... and ... from their ... and ... by what they knew best to ... Small sums, but must ... to concentrate more on the ... year, than ever before.

Sometime Lenin in ... president of the well known Babson's ... organization, ... from an income-producing point of view ... the average individual's life ... roughly three parts. The first, from ... to ... is the period of preparation or getting settled. The second, from ... to the late fifties is the period of accumulation. The third, from the late fifties on, is the age of retirement or ... of ... earning power.

No matter how much time and money may be expended during the latter and terminal ... in preparing ... for people for their old age, they can never ... Mr. Peavey be independent during the last period of life unless they have made great use of those ... golden years in the second period. It is during this period, ... and ... that one's earning power will be built up and ... potentially invested ... hopes to be independent the rest of his days. His watchwords should be Plan, Save and Invest.

Planning means the making and keeping of a budget. The budget is the bone-plan of your financial structure. Fit it to your own situation and then stick to it, ... of shelving it after a couple of trials. Of what good are blue prints if the structure does not grow up in accordance with their specifications? And one of these specifications will be the proportion ... that may be of your income that is to be set aside as savings. Another specification will be the determination to have a home of your own some day, one that eventually will be free and clear. Because it is free of mortgages or other claims it will stand between your family and distress. Life insurance and other sound investments should likewise be included.

The second watchword, Saving, has been brought to the consciousness of the people of this generation by many years of educational effort. It has been adopted by hundreds of thousands of Canadians as evidenced by savings accounts in post offices and banks. It was given a great impetus during the war when, through the ... of patriotism and in response to the call to sacrifice to "win the war," thousands of people who never before had invested in a bond bought Victory Bonds, and thus learned the lesson of how easy it is for one to accumulate small sums by making small ... investments. But the lesson of saving is one that must be taught to each successive generation and there should be no slackening in the effort. It is a reason that all parents should see their children learn early in life and continually practice until the saving habit is formed.

When it comes to investing, you have the choice between invoking the almost unbelievable power of compound interest when harnessed to regular monthly savings on one hand on the other, putting the money into well seasoned securities. In the first case you need no particular advice, for it is operation compound interest in both ... and automatic. In the second instance, that is, with investment securities, you need advice of the most discriminating sort. This fortunately you can easily obtain from your own banker.

You will want to have among your investments some good sound bonds anyway, and then if your available funds permit, some of the best stocks the latter should be bought outright and never on a shoestring margin. Remember this too. It is wise to keep a part of your funds in liquid form, that is in cash or such short-term securities as can quickly be converted into cash. Then you will be prepared for emergencies. You might need this money for a personal emergency, or for some special investment bargain in the market that had come to your attention.

The point is to put each spare dollar to work, twenty-four hours a day and each day in the year earning more income for you. Your ability to "square" these dollars for such a surprising increase in your "earning" power that is your ability to save. You will be able to see with your own eyes the rising structure of financial independence that is going to stand you in such good stead later in life. But in order that your future income may be ready when you need it start to build that income now.

The word "investment" should be broadly interpreted to include not only bank accounts and securities, but insurance policies, your own home, real estate, mortgages and other forms of capital. Life insurance is indeed important. It not only helps people to save, but it is a protection as well as an investment. Every person should carry life insurance, but, on the other hand, it is not the part of wisdom to place all your earnings in life insurance. Follow instead the practice of diversifying your investments: part in a savings account, part in life insurance and part in sound securities.

However this advice about investing is almost valueless if it is to be only a temporary effort or if you allow your investments to be frittered away through carelessness or the greed for more. Rather turn to the fundamental sources of assured income.

And, above all turn to hard work initiative and perseverance, as the right means of accumulating sufficient funds for your needs, rather than the purely speculative stock market in the hope of getting something for nothing. Lastly carry out the principle that "godliness with contentment is great gain," in your finances as well as in the rest of your life.

Huge Power Projects

Millions To Be Spent In Next Three Years On Hydro Development

More than $100,000,000 will be spent in each of the next three years on power projects now under development in Canada. Although there are other plans for important building projects, none will have a more immediate bearing upon the industrial development of Canada than those now contemplated by the power industry.

The present turbine installation in the Dominion averages 353 horsepower per thousand of population—a figure which places Canada among the leading countries of the world in per capita utilization of waterpower. The total installation now amounts to over 5,700,000 horsepower and an additional installation of over 3,000,000 horsepower will probably be made within the next five years. Quebec has the largest installation with an average of nearly one horse-power per person. Ontario has a total installation of nearly two million horse-power and the remaining power companies in that province generated over 915 billion kilowatt hours, or more than one-third of the total produced in the Dominion. Manitoba has an installation of over 200,000 horse-power, and Alberta 50,000 horse-power. On the Pacific coast large resources are available and turbines with a capacity of 50,000 horse-power have been installed in British Columbia.

Is Baby Teething?

Teething time is a time of worry to most mothers. The baby is nervous, feverish, the little gums are swollen and sore; diarrhoea and sometimes ... and convulsions set in—neither baby nor mother can sleep.

These troubles can be quickly overcome by using Mother Seigel's Baby's Own Tablets concerning which Mrs. Leon Bellefeuille, Orient, Ont., says: "I have used the Tablets for all my babies while teething and have found no other medicine equal to Baby's Own Tablets. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Russian Laws On Religion

Teaching Of Religion In Schools Is Forbidden

Extracts from the Russian laws on religion, compiled by the British authority at Moscow, were issued by the official government "white paper."

The publication was in fulfillment of a promise made by the Soviet Government by the Labor Government last April, when groups in Great Britain and other countries protested against alleged religious persecution in Russia.

The "white paper" cites a provision of the Soviet constitution providing for the separation of church and state, and of schools from church, while equally guaranteeing liberty or conscience and full freedom of anti-religious propaganda.

It also quotes a provision of the constitution by which the teaching of religious beliefs in schools to young children and persons under 18 is punishable by a year of compulsory labor.

Protect the child from the ravages of worms by using Mother Seigel's Worm Exterminator. It is effective and reward, and years of use have enhanced its reputation.

Good News For Students

Would Curtail Housework and Examinations For Vancouver High Schools

Curtailment of home work and abolition of examinations for Vancouver high school pupils is being considered by educationalists here this summer with a view to lightening school work for children and, at the same time, increase the efficiency of study.

With the inauguration of the new four year high school matriculation course at the commencement of the fall term, home work will be cut in half. It is declared by principals of several high schools

A campaign against home work which has been sweeping the country in the past few weeks is steadily increasing, both among parents and teachers who declare that the old fashioned idea of giving children enough work to keep them out of mischief is not raising the standard of education. With science investigating every branch of life for the purpose of simplifying living conditions, education, it is claimed, has stood almost still in spite of the efforts of psychology experts

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

GINGER BREAD

2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
1 cup molasses
4 eggs
1½ quarts flour
1½ tablespoons soda
1 tablespoon ginger
1 tablespoon cinnamon
2 cups sour milk
1 teaspoon salt

Cream butter and sugar, add well beaten eggs and molasses. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Bake in layer cake pans about 35 minutes in slow oven or about 225 degrees Fahrenheit. Cut in squares and serve with whipped cream.

ORANGE CARAMEL

6 oranges
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
½ cup cream
Pistachio nuts

Pare oranges, removing membrane with peel, and cut crosswise in slices. Put sugar and water in a small saucepan, and boil quickly until syrup is a golden brown. Arrange layer of orange slices in glass dish; sprinkle with sugar, pour over caramel syrup; repeat layers, ending with orange; add another layer of orange and syrup; repeat until enough is used. Whip cream and add stiff, pile lightly on the orange, and sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts.

Many infants are infested by worms which cause great suffering. But if not promptly dealt with, they cause constitutional weaknesses difficult to overcome. Mother Seigel's powders will clear the stomach and bowels of worms and will put right the system that there will be no recurrence of the trouble. And not only this, but they will repair the injuries to the organs that worms have and restore them to soundness.

Military Promotion

Western Officers Appointed To Command Of Regina and Calgary Regiments

Promotion of Major F. R. Knight to the rank of lieutenant-colonel, and to command the Calgary, Alberta regiment, was announced recently at the Department of Militia and Defence. It was also made known Lieut.-Col. J. McArs has been appointed to command the 28th Battalion, C.E.F., in the battalion of the Regina Rifles Regiment.

Both officers have had long service in the Canadian Militia. Lieut.-Col. Knight proceeded to England with the 50th Battalion, C.E.F., in March, 1916. He served in France and Belgium. Lieut.-Col. McArs went overseas with the 28th Battalion, in May of 1915. His service also was in France and Belgium.

Doctors Warn Against Drastic Purgatives

Physicians know the danger of using cheap cathartics that create a harsh, unnatural intestinal activity. They know that ENO'S "Fruit Salt" is more than a laxative. It is a delicious health beverage that sweetens and tones up the entire system—and that its daily use—just a dash in a glass of water, every morning—is an aid to vigorous good health.

Report On Gas Fields

Member Of Geological Survey Of Canada To Make Report On Saskatchewan

Dr. G. S. Hume, of the Geological Survey, of Canada, will make an immediate survey from all available data, of the prospects of finding gas in Saskatchewan, in suitable quantities within the province.

He will not make any actual investigation in the field at the present time, but having visited each city interested in gas development, and gathered material from other sources will make a report based on geological information already obtained by various survey parties.

This report, framed as it affects the various cities interested, will be submitted to the Dominion Government, which in turn will forward it to the provincial governments. The joint committee, representative of four cities of Saskatchewan interested in the gas proposition, will then be put in possession of all the facts obtained

This was the outcome of a conference held at the parliament buildings at Regina, when Dr. Hume met five members of the Saskatchewan Government and also of the four-cities gas committee.

No Cause For Alarm

Says Russia Will Not Be Factor In Wheat Exportation For Some Time

Thomas D. Campbell, of Hardin, Mont., who has been called the world's largest wheat grower, returned recently from a trip to Russia as agricultural consultant to the Soviet, and announced that it would be longer than alarmists thought before Russia was a factor in any export field.

As the country's five-year program progresses, he said, the needs of the country also increase. The more she grows the more she consumes. It will be at least three years before the Soviet government is a factor in the export of grain or any other commodity. Very soon the internal needs of the country will call for 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat annually, just as an example.

ARMY OF MEN OUT OF WORK EAST AND WEST

Ottawa, Ont.—In 94 centres which have replied to the query of Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, on unemployment figures there are 113,-994 people out of work in Canada, and it is estimated this number will increase to 150,000 during the winter, Mr. Robertson gave these figures to the Employment Service Council, of Canada, at the opening of the annual meeting.

The figures, he pointed out, did not include 14 or 15 centres which had not reported, or the number who were out of work in numerous small centres throughout the country, and in rural areas.

Senator Robertson said he considered the figures received a conservative estimate. It was an impression able to say, he added, that there were now 200,000 people out of work in Canada. Figures compiled on August 15, he stated, showed that out of 206,-307 union men in Canada, 26,796, or 13.3 per cent., were out of work.

The Government of Canada does not propose to adopt paternalism as a policy in dealing with unemployment but it does propose to help the people to help themselves, Senator Robertson declared.

"I do not for one moment suggest," he said, "that the present unemployment is due to any government or lack of governmental activity. Unemployment is not a purely Canadian problem. It is world wide. But it is not the function of the Government of Canada to look after the world as a whole. It seems to me the problem first to be faced is for the government to look after the people of Canada and assist them to help after themselves.

"A proposal has just been made to me that if the federal grant to technical education were matched by provincial grants, a large sum could be spent in the provinces by the Labor Government this April, when groups in Great Britain and other countries protested against alleged religious persecution in Russia.

"The publication was in fulfillment of a promise made by the Soviet Government by the Labor Government last April, when groups in Great Britain and other countries protested against alleged religious persecution in Russia.

"The "white paper" cites a provision of the Soviet constitution providing for the separation of church and state, and of schools from church, while equally guaranteeing liberty or conscience and full freedom of anti-religious propaganda.

It also quotes a provision of the constitution by which the teaching of religious beliefs in schools to young children and persons under 18 is punishable by a year of compulsory labor.

Daughter Born To Duchess

Birth Of Daughter To Duchess Of Sutherland At Glamis Castle

Glamis Scotland The birth of a daughter to the Duchess of York was announced at Glamis Castle the home of her mother.

The royal mother and the little princess are making satisfactory progress according to an official bulletin from the gray old castle.

News of the birth was immediately flashed by telegraph to King George and Queen Mary, who are staying at their Norfolk estate of Sandringham.

The baby is the fourth grandchild of the King and Queen The others are Prince Edward and the two sons of Princess Mary Countess of Harewood

John Clynes, home secretary of the Labor Government officially attended the royal birth. He and H. H. Bopp, consular secretary in the home office, were both at the castle to attest the birth

Salvage Abandoned Planes

Two Planes Of McAlpine Party Are Recovered After Enduring Storms Of Last Winter

Edmonton, Alberta.—Beating the Arctic again, Canadian Spry and airplanes have triumphed in a far northern test.

The test constituted a drama in three acts. The first when the McAlpine party was forced to abandon the machines, forced down by bad storage, on lonely Dease Point on the Arctic coast, late last autumn. The second act was while the machines remained through an Arctic winter, enduring storms of whose magnitude none can tell. The final act, just completed, was continued in the salvaging of the machines.

One of the aeroplanes was the property of Dominion Explorers, Limited. A little over a week ago supplies of gasoline and oil were taken to the scene of the forced landing The machine was "gassed up" and flown to Coppermine River, where, without overhaul it was placed in service

On Thursday evening last, August 14, the second machine, the property of Western Canada Airways, was reached by Pilot Buchanan and his mechanic, and on Monday evening, August 18, the machine landed at McMurray.

So far as can be seen, the machines suffered no damage through their long stay in the Arctic. Both motors started without difficulty once fuel and oil were provided and there were no visible evidences of deterioration

The Western Canada Airways machine will undergo a thorough examination at McMurray to determine if a complete overhaul is necessary

Canadian Beef For Britain

British Market Offers Great Opportunity For Canada

Montreal.—Canadian beef will reenter the British market for the first time since 1926 with the shipment next week of 128 head of steers, bred in Ontario and now consigned to a firm of importers in Manchester

The majority of the steers were raised on the farms of P. J. Henry, of Riverown, Ont., and M. J. Campbell, of Dutton, Ont.

Shippers of livestock believe that the British market, dead for the past few years so far as Canada was concerned, once more offers a favorable opportunities to Canadian breeders, according to Donald Munroe, president of D Munroe and Sons, one hundred and sixty thousand pounds of dressed beef were shipped from Canada to the United Kingdom last year, but for the future such trade is severely hampered by the unfavorable American tariff.

Much of the traffic could, he believes, be diverted to Great Britain by the only country in the highest grade of beef in the British market comes from the Irish breeders but it is only possible to compete with them if we can offset the high cost of grain by concentration on the part of Canadian breeders and exporters.

Control Of Immigration

Report Of Royal Saskatchewan Commission On Immigration Has Been Submitted

Saskatoon Sask Main outline of the report of the Royal Saskatchewan Commission on Immigration and Settlement has already been submitted to Premier J T M. Anderson of Saskatchewan, and the full report will be printed immediately on completion, Dr W. W Swanson, chairman, announced here

Findings and recommendations of the commission are expected to be unanimous, the chairman indicated The commissioners have reached unanimity on all major issues. In view of the urgency of the question, both in Ottawa and at Regina, and because of changes already made in immigration laws, everything possible will be done to have the report printed immediately so that it may be made available through the press of the provincial government for the information of members of parliament at Ottawa and Regina

The investigation has been a thorough one Hearings have been conducted in all parts of the province since the commission was appointed last fall about 475 witnesses have been heard and personal investigations have been made by the commissioners

Compulsory Form Of State Health Insurance Advocated For B.C.

Victoria, B.C.—Legislation calling for a compulsory form of state health insurance will be placed before the B.C. legislature at its next session, according to reports current at the parliamentary buildings.

Although the royal commission on state health and maternity benefits has not yet completed its labors, which have taken its members to all parts of the province, it is expected that hearings will conclude and a final report will be ready before the session opens. The report will contain comprehensive recommendations to the legislature on which to frame legislation.

Yacht Wrecked Off English Coast

Commodore King and Five Others Lose Lives When Vessel Goes Ashore

Penzey, Cornwall, Eng The 32-ton yacht "Islander," wrecked up on the jagged rocks of Lantivet Bay in a violent storm which pounded the English south coast, carried Commodore Henry Douglas King, a prominent member of parliament and five other men to death

Those with Commodore King who had chartered the "Islander," August 9, for a vacation cruise, were Commander Neville of Berwick-upon-Tweed Surgeon-Captain A. R. Bradley, Dunmow Keen, Captain Hazlebrook of Bishop Stortford Harry Lee, captain of the yacht and his 17-year-old brother Walter

The yacht which was owned by Lieutenant-Colonel John N. Dugdale had been participating in a cruise of the Royal Yacht Squadron, of the English south coast. When the boat ran into Lantivet Bay, it encountered a terrific storm which piled up waves 20 feet high on the rocks.

Steve Hrynyk is having a 20-foot extension, 24 feet wide, made to his buildings on first street south, in order to accommodate the bowling alleys which are being installed by "Doc" Bailey. The extension is being made to the east half of the premises and brings the building almost the full length of the lot on that side. The brick work is in the hands of Harry Maufoot and is well under way now. Owen Burns has the contract for the addition.

Milk Station Changing Hands

Bought By St. Paul Man, Who Takes Charge Oct. 1st.

The Vermilion City Dairy which has been under the management of Ray Stone, has been sold to Mr. Hawranberger of St. Paul. The change will be affected on the first day of October when the new owner will take charge. Mr. Stone has already moved back to his farm near Islay, and F. G. Harrington is in charge of the station during the interim. It is understood that a complete change will be made in the staff, Mr. Hawranberger bringing his help with him.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Vermilion School Fair will be held in Vermilion next Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 10th. I would respectfully request that all places of business be closed on that afternoon in order that everyone might have an opportunity to attend and thereby manifest our appreciation of the splendid work that is being done by this organization. 18c

Vermilion School Fair Wednesday, Sept. 10

Twenty-four Schools To Participate in Annual Event

The annual school fair of the Vermilion district, which has long ranked the first of its kind for organization, size and quality of exhibits, will be held next Wednesday when it is hoped to have a record turn-out in the way of both exhibits and attendance. The day will doubtless be observed as a half holiday by all business places of the town in order that everyone may attend the exhibition Children are admitted free, while a small charge of 25 cents is made to adults, with absolutely no exception, every adult pays, including all teachers. This money goes towards prizes. All committee work is gratuitous

Twenty-four schools are competing in the fair this year, every one of them with their eyes on the new Claymore community club trophy for the school having the highest average and also on the Bank of Commerce cup, for the school taking the largest number of points in the livestock classes. Points to be remembered by competitors are: All vegetables and school work are to be in by 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 9th with the livestock and flowers to be in by 10.30 a.m. on Wednesday Every exhibit must have the entry tag securely attached. Vegetables such as carrots, beets, etc should be tied together.

The vegetables are shown in closed competition, that is, pupils from each school compete among themselves. Prizes to the amount of $9.60 are distributed to each, so that each S. D. donates only $5.40 to the general fund. Hence the desire for a good attendance at 25c apiece—gate members and fence climbers please stay at home.

In regard to bringing in of the exhibits, the plan most popularly followed is to have all vegetables and school work taken to the school on Tuesday morning and there to have a trustee or other public-spirited resident bring it all into town, the same procedure to be followed on Wednesday morning with the flowers, etc. and any children without means of transportation could be brought into town by other trustees and residents of the district.

It is possible that an inter-school baseball and basketball tourney will be held providing enough entries can be secured. Any schools having either one or both of these teams please notify Secretary Sutton immediately. A full line of other sports is scheduled.

Everyone should make a special effort to attend and support the annual School Fair on Wednesday, Sept. 10th, both at the Fair Grounds

Clothing will be general next week Most of the crop will be in by the end of this week.

Wheat Pool Notes

The Alberta Wheat Pool, along with the Pools of the two other prairie provinces, is making an appeal to its members to give the organization full-hearted support during these times of stress. The Pools are being put through a test which requires all the courage, loyalty and intelligence of Pool farmers to withstand. With the co-operation of the members and of every legitimate business interest in the country there is every reason to believe the darkest hour in the Pool's brief history will be followed by the dawn of renewed prosperity and give the co-operative organization

Many rumors have been circulated that members of the Wheat Pool will seek to evade their contracts this fall, but there is no actual evidence that the loyalty of the great mass of the members to their own organization has been impaired to any great extent. Far-thinking people in all walks of life realize that strengthening and upbuilding of the Wheat Pool movement will best serve the industry of agriculture in Western Canada. Nothing can be gained by flying back.

Alberta Wheat Pool directors have announced that all members will be required in like up to their contracts and deliver their wheat to the Pool. There exists no alternative as the contracts are between members and not between the head office and the membership. This contract is a solemn obligation and has been proven legally watertight at the courts, but it is not alone the legality of the contract upon which the Wheat Pool rests its case. It is upon the loyalty and the determination of the responsible and far-seeing wheat growers who are members of this organization.

It is generally realized that the price of wheat is now well below the cost of production. The initial payment made by the financial institutions the Pool would be imperiled if the amount were handed out blindly. The welfare of the individual farmers makes it necessary that this action be taken to endanger the safety of this organization

4 Years without HEADACHE

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain without getting rid of the trouble which causes the pain? Thousands do, despite the medical profession's warning cry of "DOPE"!

Rub's multi-duty methods simply suppress the symptoms of headaches. They merely numb the nerves and brave the underlying cause to look after itself. And if such sickness is former grip. Headaches can generally be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste materials which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons, prevent them forming again, and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen sets things aright and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts and Kruschen is cleaner now, more completely of all clogging waste matter.

"For many years I suffered from severe headaches almost daily. I started taking the small dose (of Kruschen) a matter of four years ago, and I can honestly say I have never had a headache since." (Mrs. M. W.)

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A new "dress" is being prepared for the dirigible R-100, which made an epic flight recently to Canada. Hundreds of thousands of feet of new fabric which has been in store for the last three years will be supplied.

Armed in a spirited campaign of personalities, the greatest number of Tories voters ever to visit the polls elected Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson another opportunity to serve the state as governor.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending August 21, 1930, were $4,348,000, as compared with $5,213,753 for the corresponding period of 1929, a decrease of $865,154.

Mrs. N. G. Peters, of Denver, Colo., would make a good instructor in the memory school. When a thief stole 21 photograph records from her home she was able to give the name with on each disc, a total of 42.

Exports of Canadian wheat during July amounted to 19,868,296 bushels. It is shown in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This was an increase of 2,969,243 bushels over the figure for July, 1929.

The Brooklyn, N.Y., Bureau of Charities, has been experimenting with the handling of mail by blind women for some time. Fifteen of them, engaged in letter-shop activity, have handled 217,217 pieces of mail, since last November. The shop is under the direction of two supervisors and a solicitor-manager.

Adoption by the government of the recommendations made by the unemployment service council of Canada which met in Ottawa, would undoubtedly do much to improve the situation and lessen the volume of unemployment," Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, declares.

Life In the Arctic Region

Royal Canadian Mounted Police Have Plenty Of Adventure

Sailing recently on the S.S Beothic, was a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police, on route to the eastern Arctic archipelago, where they will spend two years before again returning to civilization.

Corporal Jacobs and Constables Dersch and Margetts, were the first of the detachment to reach North Sydney. They were followed by Constable Frater, of Fredericton, and later by inspector Joy, with the balance of the party which numbers 12 men.

The "Beothic" also carried supplies for the various Mounted Police posts in the eastern Arctic archipelago and dull being out the members of the force which the present party is going in to relieve.

The life of the Mounted Policemen in Arctic is very adventuresome, as described by one of the party. When they reach the main supply post, they will be broken up into parties of two which will patrol their respective routes. Each member of the force is supplied with a large snow knife, and when on the trail when making camp at night, they seek a spot where there is good park snow, and from this, cut out blocks with which to make an igloo. These snow houses when first made, offer no other ventilation than that which comes in through the blocks of snow, the doorway being closed up after the occupants get inside. After a while, the moisture from the breathing and also the heat from the fire, causes a coating of ice to form on both sides, and it is necessary to punch a hole through the top. They are made large enough to accommodate a man comfortable in a sleeping position.

The food usually taken on the trail is bacon and dried caribou meat, beans, coffee, tea and sugar. They dress in fur coats similar to the Eskimos, and each of the parties has an Eskimo guide and interpreter attached These guides acquire a position of authority among their own kind, and they are all anxious to work for the Police.

In the early days, infanticide was practiced by the Eskimos, when a baby girl was born. This has been largely stamped out through the efforts of the police, who stock emergency relief rations at strategic points, to supply the Eskimos when times are bad.

One of the members of the party was present at the hanging of the two Eskimos who murdered one of the police, and he stated that it had a very salutary effect on the natives The whole village gathered together, and the reason for the execution was explained to them through the interpreter He remarked that the Eskimos are rapidly assimilating the idea that the white man's law must prevail.

Asked if there was any lawlessness in the country, he stated that the Eskimos on the whole, were very orderly, and that if anyone broke the law, it was a very hard matter to escape punishment, particularly in cases of capital crimes, as it was impossible to get out of the country without coming in contact with one or another of the natives, and in this way, the police are able to trace the movement of the culprit.

He referred to the peculiar way in which news seems to travel in the Arctic stating that he had had several demonstrations of the quickness with which it is carried by word of mouth as the "moccasin" route just how the news travels so quickly, is a mystery. Whether it is telepathy or some sort of signals system, the police have never been able to ascertain In giving an illustration, he said an Eskimo had stated that a party would arrive the next day, from a place 1,500 miles distant and, sure enough, the next day, the party turned up, but as to how the Eskimo obtained this information, they were not able to find out When asked about it, the Esk- no said "Me no speke, but wait, you see."

The British people have no intention of dropping the rems of empire because some of the steeds are restless.

"Can you lend me £5?"

"I will lend you it when I come back from Paris."

"Bother! Are you going to Paris?"

"No."—Quinevre, Madrid.

Passing Of The Iron Horse

Electrification Of Railways Is Proceeding Very Fast

Other communications were continually reminded that "the horse has gone." And now we are told that the "Iron Horse" is doomed.

Samuel H. Vauclain, builder of locomotives, foresees an era of intense competition between diesel and electricity for the railroads.

"Electrical equipment," he said in a recent speech, "is available in terms of speed and horsepower that exceeds anything that might be hoped for with the steam locomotive." And he went on to declare a belief that east of the Alleghenies the population is dense enough to warrant the electrification of the railways.

But the Iron Horse will make a determined stand. That is shown by the improvements now being made. Wonderful as it is in speed, power and economy, the builders are now making use of roller bearings and new methods of lubrication found to add years to its life. Mr. Vauclain predicts that it will be a half century at least before the Iron Horse is finally knocked on the head.

But 1880 is far away, events move rapidly and Mr. Vauclain has a natural feeling for the locomotive. Probably the passing of the Iron Horse may be nearer by a decade or two than he predicts. But the end of the rivalry between electricity and the electric locomotive has the advantage in speed and horsepower already, and who knows how soon the adverse item of expense may be turned the other way?

But what is not that of the Iron Horse has been! How historical and romantic! Think of the long Pacific coast stretching across a continent, the golden spike driven, the two locomotives nosed together and the shaking of hands across the gap! No wonder the world feels an affection for the noisy, smoky, shrieking monster that has served it so well.

But we have seen the horse go, and the child now born is very likely to witness the disappearance of the Iron Horse. Some day, none can tell just when, both the animal and the steam locomotive will be curiosities in museums. It is written.—Minneapolis Journal.

Sir Esme Howard, British Diplomat, On Value Of Businesslike Craft

After thirty-six years in the British diplomatic service Sir Esme Howard says:

"I am terribly tired of the sound of my own voice."

At the age of 60 he has decided to go to Italy and learn how to bind books.

"Unfortunately," says Sir Esme, "I never learned any handicraft. I hope now to make good this defect and become a bookbinder. I think if bookmaking is a small thing, I console myself by saying that to have served in a small thing is more than to have added to the stock of beautiful things in the world."

World's Largest Aerial Photographic Plant Now In Action

Twenty-six airplanes, working in thirteen detachments, are now engaged throughout Canada in aerial photography and survey for the Dominion Government. For the past few years Canada has been the leader in the work of taking photographs from the air for map making and for the general surveys of large areas of practically unexplored territories. This year's programme of such work has the world's largest aerial photographic fleet on the task, and it is hoped that before the end of the season another 100,000 miles of country will be recorded on photographic negatives.

Ride Hill Cougars Are Only Styles

American Mathematical Game To Reach Mystical Stories Told To Travellers

The side hill cougar, whose legs on the left side are shorter than those on his right through continued perambulations around the slope of a circular mountain and the wampus which always goes backwards up a hill and peddle like a Berlin student when he gets to the top, after all are mere myths pedaled by glib-tongued guides upon the credulous imaginations of visitors to the mountains.

This, at least, is the conclusion reached by Richard W. Westwood, of Washington, D.C., secretary of the American Nature Association, who with anumber of members of the association, has just finished an extended trail trip through the mountains of Jasper Park.

"At Maligne Lake," said Mr. Westwood, on his return to Jasper Park Lodge, "we were told we would find the side hill cougar and the wampus on their home grounds. We found however, no tracks going uphill backwards, nor any trails running in circles around the mountains."

"What we did find around the largest glacial fed lake in the Rockies, continued Mr Westwood, "were chipmunks which had left their trees and lived in the ground like gophers, and ground squirrels which had formaken the air for this far inland retreat But perhaps our most remarkable discovery was to come upon the nesting grounds of four rare birds, the Arctic horned lark, the rosy finch, the golden crowned sparrow and the timberine sparrow, all within a radius of one square mile in a meadow above the lake."

Naval Reductions

Three United States Battleships To Be Retired This Fall

Rear Admiral Hughes, chief of the U.S. naval operations, has announced that the battleships "Wyoming," "Utah," and "Florida" would be retired this fall in accordance with the terms of the London naval treaty.

Admiral Hughes said decision was reached at this time as an economical measure. The saving to the United States is estimated at $4,000,000 annually, but the net saving will be less since the personnel of the ships will be distributed among other vessels.

The "Wyoming" is the flagship of the fleet, Admiral Hughes said, and its place will be taken by the "Arkansas." Retirement of the three vessels will reduce the number in the fleet to 13.

The Northward Trend

Northern Limitation Of Wheat Growing Area Is Extending

In recent weeks hundreds of Canadian settlers have joined the trek northward in Saskatchewan where thousands of acres of homestead land have been taken up. Last year the number of new homesteads settled in northern regions of the province reached into the thousands and the movement has persisted in volume this season.

A few years ago northern Saskatchewan was considered little more than a wilderness of muskeg and rock. Few settlers handled living north of 53, where early frosts were possible. But pioneers of the north have found that Reward wheat and other hardy varieties grow quickly in the well drenched fields north of 53. St. Walburg has become an important railway town, Meadow Lake has been embraced by "civilization," Onion Lake is often in the news and some of the best crops in the province are reported along the Big Saskatchewan.

It is significant that many of the settlers in the northern districts are second homesteaders from the prairies, men who know soil, moisture requirements and above all, the qualifications of pioneering in a new country.—Regina Leader-Post.

Calgary Occupies a Prominent Place As An Industrial City

Only eleven cities in Canada produced goods, in 1928, with a higher gross value than Calgary (at $42,-618,979), according to the annual report on general manufactures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and received by D. E. Black, chairman of the Alberta Development Board, southern section. The cities having a higher gross output were: Montreal, $554,811,371; Toronto, $485,641,160; Quebec, $44,608,108; Toronto, $360,444,333; Hamilton, $196,362,355,; Oshawa, $84,384,222; Ottawa, $81,812,332; Kitchener, $50,-117,175; London, Ontario, $48,387,-686; Winnipeg, $105,454,065, and Vancouver, $94,131,908.

Language Spoken By Pipes

Accent Of the Prince Of Wales Has Been Changed By Long Travels

The Prince of Wales does not speak the King's English. That is to say, the heir to the British throne has developed an entirely independent pronunciation different from that in vogue in the royal circle of Buckingham Palace, or the upper strata of aristocratic London society.

In the first place, the prince differs very slightly from his father or anyone else belonging to the older generation. He does not talk slang, however, although he knows all the words.

The change in the prince's pronunciation and accent was observed by C. H. Blandford, England's best known authority on pronunciation, in a lecture to the Cambridge University local lecturers. Mr. Blandford declared that there was a general and widespread change in the pronunciation in the realm, and he cited the Prince of Wales as a typical example. The prince's wide travels through America, Canada and Africa are thought to have influenced his speech considerably. One of the things he astonished his parents with upon his return from the American trip was his expression, "I guess so."

The prince has never been an adept at the once so fashionable and highly artificial Oxford speech. He affected drawl and note of superciliousness and haughtiness. His intonation comes nearest to that of cultured Canadians, and which is distinguishable from the somewhat nasal Yankee accent.

As for his vocabulary, he has a remarkable knack of conforming to the speech of those surrounding him. He is not unlike in what part of the Kingdom-the world he may find himself. He knows, for instance, that to call a man a "good egg" is a term of compliment in Australia, while it would amount to an insult on the North American continent.

The Prince's accent when talking in Australia today was in the throes of the greatest gold fever in many years. Seven expeditions with full transport equipment, including airplanes, trucks, and camel caravans, have been launched by many thousands of dollars and their outfits staffed by experienced pioneers, have been fitted out for prbstriation of the waste areas where traces of gold have been found. Hostile bushmen already have caused considerable trouble for some of the prospectors.

The prospectors are looking particularly to what is known as the centre of Australia, an area about 1,000 miles square. This district, which is virtually unexplored, is believed to contain rich mineral areas.

Discovery of the Tranagulla nugget created a tremendous interest in the Australian gold fields.

One couple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay, noted Australian prospector, has just returned from Central Australia, where he made an extensive airplane survey. Mr. McKay brought back to Sydney maps and other data he collected for use in further prospecting.

Automobiles And Railways

Motor Trading Is Rapidly Displacing Railway Traffic In Britain

Written Lily Pasha, of Yale University, writes in the New York Evening Post as follows:

"In all the bewildering changes of modern life, none is more striking than the change in transportation which has persisted in volume. Queen Victoria had yet to ride behind automobiles has become so familiar a spectacle that it is only with an effort we remember how recent is this transformation.

In an enormous number of American towns, the sidewalks are being narrowed in order that there may be more room for parking motor cars. Nobody walks any more.

The automobile has played the death-knell to railways in the Thumb of Michigan, where I live In the summer, passenger trains have been almost entirely withdrawn, because they do not pay. And this action is a fair example of what has happened elsewhere.

On the other hand, through trains for long distance have been improved, both in speed and in luxurious equipment; from Boston to New York, from Philadelphia, to Washington, to the South, the trains are faster and better; the same is true of westbound expresses.

I shall be glad when omnibuses supplant trolley cars, and the ugly rails are torn up and covered with grass and country highways. Furthermore in the city there is nothing that makes noise like a trolley car, except two trolley cars.

Gold Rush in Australia

Discovery Of Gold Nugget Creates Much Excitement

Discovery in Australia of a 28-ounce gold nugget at Tranagulla, Victoria, has started a new gold rush. More than 200 prospectors, most of them driving cars, have already reached the field and pegged out claims.

Australia today was in the throes of the greatest gold fever in many years. Seven expeditions with full transport equipment, including airplanes, trucks, and camel caravans, have been launched by many thousands of dollars and their outfits staffed by experienced pioneers, have been fitted out for prbstriation of the waste areas where traces of gold have been found. CHAPTER XXVIII

As time two in the doorway moved out of the mirror's line of reflection. Standing stiffened composure, Jimmy Bennett. He could not speak. Her throat felt parched Anything she might say would seem inadequate; so it was in silence Jim arose and moved steadily toward the door that led to the room beyond.

"I will get out the back way," he managed to say huskily. "You tell her that George K. sent for me. Tell her anything you're a mind to—except the truth. I'll be all right after a minute. Don't worry I'll

But he was too late. Charmian was back, her eyes still shining as she glanced in bewilderment from Grandma's troubled countenance to the grim face of her old playmate.

"Where are you going?" she began, puzzled "Come back, Jim sit down. I've got some news for you What makes you so set on queer?" Then light broke in upon her and she cried: "Oh, look here! Did -did you see that idiot kiss me?"

Her cheeks flamed, but Jim still stood in the doorway. He might have been a statue He didn't speak; but Grandma answered shakily "Yes in the mirror, dearie. I didn't know you cared that way—either of you. I thought

"I don't," said Charmian. She laughed—and going close to Jim, took out at him "And you thought, too, Jim." Really, I don't know that I blame you It must have looked that way. That like

"You don't have to explain a kiss like that, Charmian," Jim broke in gruffly. "It spoke for itself. I wish you happiness, of course, but now, Uncle George is waiting for me, and

The girl drew an exasperated breath.

"Let him wait," she responded. "You shan't go one step, Jim Bennett, till I've made you and Grandma understand this thing. Sit down. That kiss was—well, sort of a farewell kiss, you naturally. It was a kiss by proxy, so to speak. It wasn't me John Cutler was really kissing but sagirl who's crossing the ocean now to come to him—a girl he's adored for ages, though he was too proud to say so—nothing to offer her and Oh, you know that foolish line of thought

"It's a long story, too long to go into now; but anyhow, he wrote to her after she did doctor died and he thought he'd be able to get married. His letter came back unclaimed. Then he found from a friend that she had gone abroad. He wrote in care of the American Express, and that letter came back, too. Then he went to Paris, and after following her all round Europe, the letter reached her in Switzerland at last. And that sad message he brought for me to see. She smiled at once. Told him to meet her at the dock with a marriage license! Do you wonder the poor boy was a little off his head? He's been half crazy with anxiety, and well, said Charmian, a smile curving her lips, "he just naturally had to kiss some one, didn't he? -and I was handy."

"Handy!" echoed Jim Bennett, his head still in a whirl. "Why, you're a married woman, Charmian!"

"There's nothing if not hospitable, Grandma," scolded the guest, "but I refuse to be treated as company.

She started to take the baby's hand in a gentle grip that said, "All's well after all," before he followed Charmian to the kitchen.

"This looks like an orfic," he commented, glancing about appreciatively "I suppose I've become accustomed to kitchenette, and in these days when most of us don't keep a lot of help, I'll bet that they were kept. Come here to the window, Charmian I want to look at you."

The girl obediently answered. "Are you trying to detect grey hairs? It's a wonder I haven't good some, Jim But this new affair, and he didn't know that the girl loved him. I think it was an immense relief to him to have Grandma tell her the girl's opinion that he'd never have done so if he hadn't suspected what Wickfield had told about us."

"Did he think you were maybe getting to love him?" asked Grandma Bushrod

Charmian shivered. It had swept over her lovingly that tomorrow she would be getting supper in a kitchen belonging to some stranger. She lifted her face and Jim scanned the unshed tears behind her lashes.

"I've had to part with the one I love, Jim I've known what it was like to part with the one I loved, but I'm trying show I sign the papers tomorrow morning at the bank I don't get until afternoon. Then I'll be free to come but not when. It's silly to make so much for a house and I'll And you

She turned abruptly away. "I'm talking nonsense to you two, dears, and I must look with a smile or I'll have that tainted Jimmy's heart again. Run along, Charmian," he began, "but it's the —"

"Hush, but listened," confessed Charmian. "Jim, where are you living? You can put up here as well as not"

"To at Uncle George's left the train at Eastboro and came over by sat-saddle, just for the fun of watching everybody. Aunt Salina never passed out when I walked in at dinner time. I told her I wouldn't be back till after supper thought if I blated hard enough I might warm an invitation out of somebody."

"You don't ever need to bleat for an invitation here," said Grandma. "You're welcome to invite yourself any time you want in. I've missed you like anything, Jimmy, and I presume Charmian has, too, though may be she's too bashful to let you think so."

"She means 'maidenly,' Jim," laughed Charmian, "and I fear I am not even that. I've missed you abominably, and don't mind saying so to your face. But if you're to stay to supper you'll have to help to get it; and speaking of cooking, I've had enough for one while. You close your eyes, Grandma, and get a cat-nap while we rustle the repast."

The young man arose with alacrity, and Grandma said: "You get something good when you're married, Charmian. Jim's hungry after his long journey. Maybe he'd relish one of your nice omelettes with a bowl of bread and milk up some biscuit- while you're about it."

"There's nothing if not hospitable, Grandma," scolded the guest, "but I refuse to be treated as company.

She started to take the baby's hand in a gentle grip that said, "All's well after all," before he followed Charmian to the kitchen.

AFTER EVERY MEAL

When Pain Comes

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and pain ensues. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 80 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 55 years in correcting excess acidity. Each bottle contains full directed dose—any druggists.

Wingless Aircraft

Successful Flight Of Latest Addition To Aircraft Is Reported

The New York Times says a wingless aircraft based on the principles of the celebrated Flettner rotor ship has been built and successfully flown on Long Island Sound at Manasquan beach, with the backing of New York capitalists.

The aircraft is described as similar in appearance to a seaplane without wings A single motor in the nose supplies the traction through a three-bladed steel propeller. An auxiliary air-cooled gypsy motor supplies power to rotate the cylinders which take the place of wings.

Three rotors are in four sections, two on each side of the centre longitudinal line of the craft. Forward is an out-rigged rudder and behind is a small pair of tandem cockpits. Between the motor and the cockpits two long booms are used in place of the usual fuse lungerons

600 Miles Of Road Needed

Before Canada can boast a trans-continental highway, about 600 miles of road must be constructed. The required roadbuilding is all west of Sault Ste. Marie, and the possibilities all lie through difficult territory. Nevertheless, in view of the sympathetic attitude displayed by the new Government at Ottawa, and the constantly increasing public interest in the trans-Canada highway project, it seems likely that construction of a road across the intervening gap may soon be started. Officials of the Canadian Automobile Association, basing their estimates on engineering data, say that the highways that will bridge the gaps between the Soo and the Manitoba boundary will cost $4000 a mile in some places and $20,000 a mile in others. In other words, perhaps $10,000,000 for the trans-Canada highway can be made a reality. The more westerly the highway, in this case, the higher the cost. A lake-shore route around Lake Superior would be costly, because it is through a hard type of road which comes at the $30,000 a mile figure. Those motorists, however, who see highways as something more than means of getting from one place to another, believe that the shore route would pay dividends in beauty and tourist attraction. Already it is possible to drive from Winnipeg to the Pacific coast, but nobody has yet driven a car across Northern Ontario. When this is accomplished, which will probably not be until the road-builders get through, it will be possible to ramble from coast to coast in Canada without geographical obstacles.

Fairy Rhymes Come True

"Hey diddle, diddle!
The cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon . . . ."

In our childhood days we accepted the above as gospel, the world being then new and wonderful where anything might happen. But it remained for the year 1930 to make it partly true with the airplane flight of Strathmore Hanna Fairchild, prize Holstein calf of the C.P.R. Experimental Farm at Strathmore, to Calgary and back. Little Hanna whose mother's half sister is the famous Strathmore Sylvia with a record of 29,371 pounds of milk in one year, was clad for her journey in a pneumonia jacket. Her feet were secured and a strong sack placed around her up to the neck. She lay quiet in the plane and seemed to like her trip. Lay-out shows Hanna who was named after John H. Hanna, secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, greeted by a number of aboard the plane.

THE SCHOOL BELL RINGS

Youth is on the march again — back to school. The world and his wife smile kindly at the schoolboy with his satchel and shining morning face" and note that in these happy days of to-day they no longer "creep like snail unwillingly to school." Why indeed should they, when our schools are such delightful places, and learning is made so attractive The day of Schoolmaster Squeers is over and done with, and in his stead we have the modern teacher who has studied all the science and art of education, from the way to touch the alphabet to the latest development in the new intelligence tests.

On one thing teachers and parents are in agreement, and that is that the physical condition of the pupil must be 100 per cent efficient if the best work is to be done at school. Sick and ailing children make poor scholars, besides being a positive menace to the rest of the class. School inspection is of the primest importance and the wise mother welcomes the sight of the school nurse, even though it means that Johnnie must have his tonsils removed when the Clinic Visit that way, or Mary has to wear glasses.

We cannot stress too much the vital importance of health knowledge in the home, and in this new Canada of the far hinterlands it is frequently the children from the little school-house who bring home to their parents the newer teachings of Junior Red Cross. This gospel is one of KEEPING WELL and FIT by attention to the rules of health. Many instances are known of girls and boys giving lessons to their homes in the art of personal hygiene, for it is in the doing that health comes, and knowledge is only of value as it is applied. It is useless to teach health rules at school unless there is an active co-operation at home. Let every parent insist on a Junior Red Cross group in the school, thereby assuring a valuable education in health, citizenship and service.

GRAIN CROP MOVING IN EARNEST NOW

Western Canada's new crop is moving in earnest. One day recently grain marketings along Canadian National lines exceeded a million bushels.

For the past two months the Canadian National Railways have been mobilizing equipment from all parts of the system to handle the movement of the new crop. All available empty space for cars in the Western Region has been utilized so that equipment can be supplied quickly when the call for cars come. More than 35,000 box cars have been gathered in the west, which, along with nearly 700 locomotives, will be engaged in moving the golden grain from the fields to the lakehead and the Pacific coast in a seemingly endless string of trains.

World Famous Fliers Coming To Big Air Show

Famous aviators of this continent will flirt with danger at Edmonton on Wednesday, September 17, when the big air show will be on.

There will be crack pilots from the United States, such as Captain Frank Hawks, Captain George Haldeman, and others hopping and diving in sensational stunts. Added to these will be such famous Canadian pilots as Captain "Wop" May and others while the red squadron of the Commercial Airways will be seen in a spectacular flight formation.

A never-to-be-forgotten sight will be the arrival of the armada of fifty aeroplanes which will leave the Ford airfield at Dearborn, Michigan, on September 11 for a tour of the mid-dle and northwestern states and the prairie provinces.

This will be the greatest display of aeroplanes ever seen in the West. These machines will be competing for the Edsel B. Ford reliability trophy and the Great Lakes trophy for lighter craft, in addition to big cash prizes. The manufacturers vie with one another for supremacy in this competition which will indicate to the best all round commercial performance and dependability.

These racing machines will come to Edmonton from Saskatoon and will start landing at the municipal airfield at intervals of every ten minutes' soon after 1 p.m. on the afternoon of September 17th. It is expected that all machines will have landed in 60 minutes, affording one of the most spectacular sights ever seen in Alberta. After timing has been carried out the machines will be on display for the afternoon. At the same time, there will be stunting by visiting fliers in mystery machines and other craft, giving a full afternoon's programme.

The general committee at Edmonton has reserved parking areas and orders for these are being received at the air show headquarters, Recreation building, 101st Street, Edmonton. Two scales of prices have been set by the committee, that of $1 for the best locations and 50 cents for the other areas. Towns are already asking for whole blocks of these car spaces to be reserved.

COMMUNICATION

Vermilion, Sept. 1, 1930.

Dear Mr. Editor,—

The next item of interest to all children is the School Fair, next week; so may I, as a member of the receiving committee, remind all children and parents of several things which will help them, and us, to make the Fair a success.

First: Remember that everything shown must be the children's own work. All vegetables must have been grown from School seeds and sown, cared for, chosen, cleaned, etc. by the children, not the parents.

Second: Be sure that you have filled in the tag correctly. Your name only appears on the part which is folded over and hidden; do not put it anywhere else. Last year several sheets of writing had the name of the owner written on it; don't! Be sure the number of the Class, in which the object is being shown, is the right one, and we are extra busy by filling in the number properly.

Third: Tie your vegetables firmly together.

Fourth: Do not put your writing in a piece of newspaper, it is liable to [illegible]

Fifth: Every care is taken to arrange things so that they can be seen without touching, so please do try not to touch and make hay of the exhibits. You are spoiling other people's pleasure. The wires are put up to help you to keep this rule. Last year much damage was done, and exhibits lost.

Local Firm Gets Valuable Agency

Long's Drug Store Secures Exclusive 5 Year Franchise for Sargon the New Formula Which Has Recently Been Introduced in Canada

Local citizens who have heard of the results which have been accomplished by Sargon, will be interested in the announcement that this new and scientific formula can now be obtained in this city.

Sargon was introduced in the United States in April 1925. Since that time it has become a nationally-known nationally-advertised product. Not in recent years, perhaps, has any other medicine of its kind attained such widespread popularity, and won it not for the actual facts and figures given out by some of the leading drug firms of America, the success attained by this product would be hard to believe.

Sargon is now being introduced in Canada, and a new, modernly equipped plant has been established in Toronto to take care of the rapidly growing demand throughout the Dominion.

In awarding the local agency, the manufacturers of Sargon are carrying out their established policy of confining the sale to one thoroughly responsible and centrally located drug firm in each city, and wherever introduced the Sargon store will be found to be one of the leading and most representative. Such firms are always anxious and willing to co-operate with the manufacturers of meritorious products, especially internationally known products of proven merit.

Long's Drug Store recently introduced in Toronto, Hamilton, London and other cities in Ontario, and judging from the large initial sales and the repeat orders it has enjoyed, it now seems a foregone conclusion that the success attained by Sargon in the United States will be duplicated in Canada.

In the leading cities of the United States some of the most prominent men of the country have been among the hundreds who have come forward to tell what Sargon has done for them, and many thousands have used it with the most gratifying results. Human nature is the same the world over, and when suffering men and women find a medicine that helps them, they want to tell their friends about it, and in this way Sargon is rapidly becoming known throughout the entire American continent.

The exclusive agency for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills for this city and section has been awarded to Long's Drug Store. In anticipation of the extraordinary demand, this well known firm has just received a large shipment of this celebrated medicine

EX-RESIDENT OF VERMILION AND LANDERVILLE DIES IN EDMONTON

Death of Mrs. William Johnson

The following report of the death of Mrs. Wm. Johnson is taken from the Edmonton Bulletin. Mrs. Johnson lived for many years in the Landerville district and also spent some time living in Vermilion but the family had moved to Edmonton a comparatively short time ago, where two married sons already resided.

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie Johnson, beloved wife of William Johnson, 7223 99th street who passed away at the family residence on Tuesday morning, August 26, aged 54 years, was held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Hainstock and Sons' parlors. Rev. M. L. Gregg officiated. The pallbearers were P. E. Lansdown, C. Kellor, W. S. Elston, W. Fowler, G. Wilson, R. Liggins. Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Husband, daughters and sons; Elkin and Ethel; Oscar and Dorothy; Orval and Eddie; Earl and Ivy; Francis and Alberta; Emmett and Myrtle; Donald and Mildred; Wm. Joyce; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Liggins and family; Mr. and Mrs. Elston and family; Clandonald, Alta.; Mrs. Kinder; Erich Lansdown; Mrs. Walter Elston and family. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband, two daughters and four sons, Mrs. McKinley Wilson, Dewberry, Alberta, Alberta, Earl, Oscar, Orvil, and Emmett, all of Edmonton. Hainstock and Son had charge.

The province of Manitoba last month celebrated its sixtieth birthday. Where 60 years ago the buffalo reigned alone, Manitoba farmers are now pasturing 900,000 head of cattle, 600,000 cattle and the prairie dweller instead of returning to fort or wigwam from his day's work, spends his evenings in his radio-equipped home or motors over good highways to the nearest city.

Nearly 12,000 extra men are finding employment this summer in the Canadian Pacific Railway program of construction, maintenance and improvement from coast to coast of the Dominion. Program includes laying of branch lines, repairing and renovating of right of way, bridges, tunnels, stations and other buildings. The men in general are recruited as near as possible to the scene of work and kept steadily employed until each job is finished.

Getting Back To Nature

Summer vacation days are practically over and boys and girls, youths and maidens are getting back to their school books and studies while father returns to his office or store and mother to her varied household activities. If those vacation days have been safely and sensibly spent the result is that those who have enjoyed them go back to their studies or work refreshed in mind and body, mentally strengthened, more alert mentally, and in every way better fitted for the duties that lie ahead, with stored up energy from the life-giving rays of the sun to carry them through the shorter winter days.

A well spent vacation however means more than this, especially for the young. There is no period in one month or day throughout life when education is more valuable than in the early years, and learning something, absorbing some new and possibly lasting impressions, storing up additional information gaining in knowledge. Perhaps for a few weeks or months we abandon the school room and text books, but the whole world or a major trip or sojourn in the mountains or by the sea does not imply that during such time no knowledge comes to us. Quite the reverse is true.

Indeed, living for a few weeks or a month or more in a summer cottage by one of our lovely summer resorts means boating, bathing, fishing, rambling through the woods, also watching the glorious sunsets and beautiful dawns lastly contemplating the star bespangled sky at night, living the simple life both in food and dress, and we might seriously question whether in this strenuous hurry, rushed modernized age, we are not beginning to lose touch of the real things of life and to overstress the artificial for the natural.

The campers of the future, it is possible, or our educational system, the standard of which is ever being raised, will be those who, as a missing something in their early years, have had the opportunity of living close to nature and learning its many secrets and appreciating its many beauties and lessons. Nowadays we take a keener interest in nature study and appreciation than ever before. Text books are being written, lectures delivered, and talks given by those who are specialists in the different branches of nature study, but how much of all information do those who gain most from it absorb? Perhaps not much, but they have a greater pleasure in the romance of the fine inspiration which comes from the study and observation of nature, and read the wonderful works of nature.

The writer realizes that the ideas and plans of the present and future programme for a more live schools and civil leagues movements, the training of youth in the art of close observation of learning by doing. We like the idea of our Canadian boys and girls gaining a knowledge of our flowers and trees, our birds and beetles and flies, yea, even our weeds, from nature itself rather than from books; we like them to recognize the evening star, and the dipper, and the north star in the great space of the sky overhead rather than in a diagram in a text book; we prefer they should know how to build a trustworthy footbridge over a stream they may have to cross rather than be forced to go miles out of their way to find a concrete or steel structure; we like to see them capable of starting a camp fire in a few minutes, cooking their own food, setting up a tent, making a bed with boughs, leaves and a blanket or two, we admire a boy using an axe expertly.

Book knowledge oh! how necessary it must come; it is absolutely essential! But are we not making the mistake of relying almost wholly on book study to our task of education and neglecting the great out-doors and the wonderful works which nature alone presents to us? Is not the early education of our Canadian boys and girls too academic in character, and not quite practical enough?

Nature study in all its many branches is much more interesting to the average boy and girl in their earlier years than in book study, and the lessons they learn from nature will remain with them when much book learning is forgotten. Furthermore the traits and characteristics developed through close contact with and study of nature's own methods, are truth and charm textiles which create habits of observation and initiative that will be found invaluable in life irrespective of the profession or business in which one may ultimately engage, and they are real assets which are not so easily found within the covers of books.

Canada is a land of beauty and variety. Nature has been bountiful in her gifts to the Canadian people. It becomes us, therefore, to give our boys and girls every opportunity to observe study and appreciate these beauties, to live and learn among and from them. Vacation days are happy days, but they are also in the writer's humble opinion, among the most valuable of all days of learning. There should be a way found to fit them more closely into our educational system.

No Reciprocity

British War Veterans Will Have To Pay $10 Visa Fee

Eighteen British war veterans, coming to the United States for a convention next month, will be required to pay the usual $10 visa fee each, despite Great Britain's courtesy a few years ago in admitting several hundred American Legionnaires without charge.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, was informed in a note made public recently that the State Department regretted its inability to comply with his request for a blanket visa, but that the law gave it no alternative. A formal reciprocal agreement would be necessary, the State Department informed Sir Ronald.

Bright Eyes,
Rosy Cheeks

The Birthright Of Every Girl

Dull eyes mean misery and weakness a sure sign of a bloodless condition. Anaemic girls and women have dull, heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. It is the privilege of the woman is always happy and well

There is one way to make the eyes bright to bring the glow of health to pale cheeks, that is to invigorate the body with new blood—rich, red blood giving tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this and they do it well Concerning them Mrs. Robert Devitt Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, Ont., says: "I became ill and nervous we had to sell our home and go to live with mother and this, her eyes were dull and the least exertion left me out of breath, giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in less than six months you would not know her. She gained in weight and now has a rosy cheek, a clear eye and is perfectly well."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Wonderful Man

Sir Wilfred Grenfell "Father" Of Labrador In Well Manned

That wonderful man, Sir Wilfred Thomason Grenfell, K.C.M.G., "father" of Labrador, will shortly be visiting London, when a Mansion House meeting will be held in his honour.

A doctor by profession, he has a passionate love for the sea, and has done more than any man to benefit Sea Fishermen.

In 1892 he went to Labrador, built hospitals, seven nursing stations, two orphanages, two large schools, several co-operative stores, in addition to setting on foot much industrial work. In short, he has completely revolutionized Labrador.

Now, he still takes an annual cruise in one of his hospital steamers along the Northern Labrador coasts. His work in Labrador is carried on under four committees, two British, one Canadian, one Newfoundland, and one American.

He is an Oxford man, and played for the university in the Rugby football team. In 1929 he became Lord Rector of St Andrews University

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

SNOW RINGER COOKIE

1 cupful butter
1 cupful sugar.
Yolk of 1 egg.
Almond flavoring.
½ cupful milk.
1 teaspoonful baking powder
Pinch of salt
Flour.

Cream sugar with the butter; add the beaten egg yolk, milk, salt, and flavoring. Sift baking powder with 1 cupful of flour. Add more flour until a dough is formed that can be easily handled. Roll quite thin, cut in strips, then twist and form in circles

BAKED WINTER SQUASH

Wash the squash. Cut and remove seeds and pulp. Then cut squash in pieces and place in a pan containing a little water. Place in a moderate oven and bake until the pulp is soft, basting occasionally with a little hot water and butter. When nearly done sprinkle lightly with brown sugar and add more butter. Finish baking and serve a square to each person.

British Rule in India

What England Has Done and Still Do For People Of That Country

"Downcaster" writes as follows in the Canadian Manchman: The achievements of England in India during the last century, I think I may safely say, constitute one of the brightest pages in the history of our race and Empire. Like all human records, it is not of course without its blots. But I think it has on the whole fully justified Macaulay's closing words in his celebrated essay on the character and work of Lord Clive, "If in India the yoke of foreign masters, elsewhere the heaviest of all yokes, has been found lighter than that of any native dynasty, if that gang of public robbers that once spread terror through the whole plain of Bengal has been completely by a body of functionaries not more highly distinguished by ability and diligence than by integrity, disinterestedness and public spirit, if we see men like Munro, Elphinstone and Metcalfe, after leading victorious armies and deposing kings, return proud of their honorable poverty, if we think it to be our highest glory to due to Clive." But to me, and I believe to the great majority of British-born subjects of the British Crown, Ireland's noblest achievements in this connection will be the gradual filling of the Indian services and the Indian peninsula for self-government and should the event demand it, self-mate independence

The old, out-of-date, decrepit gas wagon is more than a problem. It's a peril

It now costs $25 in Old London to impede traffic by trying to operate an old car that should be on the junk heap. Public opinion will eventually ban such vehicles from our busiest highways, for they are certainly a menace not only to the drivers, but to the motoring public as well

PARLIAMENT TO OPEN ON MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8

Ottawa, Ont. — Parliament will open on Monday, September 8. Official announcement of the date of the opening was made by Sir George Perley, acting prime minister and war-time Canadian high commissioner in London, England.

The hour set for the opening, Sir George Perley stated, is 12 o'clock noon, although the more ceremonial procedure will not take place until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This arrangement has been made because the Commons to get right down to business on the first day of the special session to deal with unemployment relief, and doubtless take some action on the tariff. This procedure, in view of the nature of the coming session, will be somewhat different from the usual opening.

Members of the parliament will assemble in the House of Commons at the noon hour, with Arthur Beauchesne, clerk of the house, presiding. After assembling, the members will proceed to the senate chamber, where the governor-general's secretary will be present, and upon the direction of His Excellency will return to the Commons to hear the speech. Adjournment will then be made until 3 o'clock, when, with the pomp and ceremony of state, the speech from the throne will be read by the governor-general, Viscount Willingdon will arrive from Government House, escorted by the Governor-Guard and the Lieutenant-Governor His Excellency the Governor-General will read the Speech from the Throne.

The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne will then be moved by the mover and seconder. Former Premier Meighen will then be the first speak, followed by Premier R. B. Bennett in his initial address on the floor of the House of Commons. The address will be carried by the usual majority, and that will conclude the business for one day.

All members-elect are expected to be in Ottawa early Monday morning Notices are being sent out by the clerk of the House asking their attendance in the Parliament buildings after 9 o'clock on Monday morning, so that they may be sworn in. In view of the problems to be discussed, a full attendance of members of every group in the House is anticipated

Wins Marathon Swim

Marvin Nelson, Of Iowa, Annexes $10,000 Prize In Big Event

Toronto, Ont. Marvin Nelson, a bronzed young fellow who has come up from Fort Dodge Iowa, won $10,000 and the professional swimming championship of the world, in the swim the 15-mile course of the Canadian National Exhibition in seven hours, 43 minutes, 30 seconds, a new world's record, and climbed up on the finishing float still fresh and strong. He was the last to enter the prize money when he collapsed, unconscious with the end only 50 yards away.

In a race which saw the collapse of George Young, the swimming fourth, Frank Pavelich, who was in the lead, Mendel Burdit, Eli Radakovich, and many other famous swimmers, Nelson set his own pace, and one after another of the leaders, finally passing Leader Rendoir at the beginning of the last lap. In the last four miles he overcame Rendoir's lead of 2500 yards to finish 500 yards ahead of him.

Nelson's greatest victory when he lifted with both arms out of the water brought immediate response from the thousands massed along the lake front. He was a smiling man of few words when interviewed by the mayor of Toronto and a battery of photographers. All right that's fine I'm satisfied" summed up his feelings. He credited about the first mile the photographers in barge without embarrassment or weariness, and was the first to greet Sander Spencer when the Port Dalhorne youth finished seven minutes after himself

Has Faith In Canada

Premier Rearden Is Optimistic Over Future Of Dominion

Simcoe, Ont.—Speaking before the Simcoe Rotary Club, "Hon. John E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, and distinguished son of Norfolk, commented on the subject of immigration and unemployment in the province of Alberta.

Referring to the continued influx of immigrants to the West, he said: "They have been coming into the Peace River country at a great rate in the last couple of years. You cannot continue to pour people into any country like that without experiencing a set back. Unemployment is not assimilate them and it becomes a serious problem when an era of low prices and falling markets sets in. Many easterners have been unable to understand why Alberta wanted the ban up against immigration. The present situation affords the answer."

At the same time Premier Brownlee took occasion to refute newspaper reports of Red activities in Alberta. He said that there was no truth in the story of Toronto or the city of Hamilton in one day," he declared, "than you would find in the province of Alberta in a month."

He defended the policy of the western Wheat Pool in connection with the handling the special crop, asserting that the pool had always been exporting its just share. "It is just not to be expected," he believed, "when there is an over production in the basic commodities of life and the country should be expected to carry it upon the opening of parliament, Viscount Willingdon will arrive from Government House, escorted by the Governor-Guard and the Lieutenant-Governor His Excellency the Governor-General will read the Speech from the Throne.

Proposed Changes In Homesteading Policies

Will Be Presented To Government By Saskatchewan Commission

Saskatoon, Sask. Findings of the Land Settlement and Immigration Settlement which will be presented to the government will be based upon, invoke radical changes in the homesteading policies of the past, Dr. W. W. Swanson, chairman of the commission, announced.

One of the most interesting and important features of the commission, he stated, dealt with vacant lands. Since the return of the annual convention in Regina it became imperative to devise a program based upon sound policy for the development of these lands and this the commission had attempted to do. Dr. Swanson would not indicate the nature of the suggestions.

Researches were made by the commission into the present conditions of agriculture and the future possibilities with a view to relating these to immigration and settlement.

Many other problems, rural and urban, had been studied so that the entire report comprises a comprehensive and detailed analysis of the trade problems affecting immigration colonization and employment

A Great Discovery

British Physician To Medical Convention Discusses Value Of Insulin

Winnipeg, Man. Insulin, discovery of a Canadian research expert, is one of the greatest advances in medical science, according to Sir William Taylor K.B.E. C.B., of Dublin, Ireland, who is here attending the British Medical Association convention.

Diabetes mellitus, which had always proved fatal, particularly in early life, could now be controlled. Insulin had altered the whole treatment of the disease. "With the aid of insulin, I have been able to perform operations which I could not have dreamed of without it," declared Sir William.

Referring to birth control, Sir William expressed himself in favor of it in one-sex as it tended to raise health standard. "It is a good deal better to exercise control than to allow a super-abundance of children to be brought into the world who cannot be properly educated, or properly fed," he commented

Air Mail From Iceland

First Delivery Made To Halifax By German Plane

Halifax, N.S. The first air mail from Iceland and Greenland to Canada arrived here August 25, in the custody of Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his companions aboard the flying boat D-1422, which flew to Halifax from Greenspoint, N.S., after a flight from Germany to Iceland, Greenland and Labrador. Captain Gronau delivered the mail to D. A. King, postmaster here.

First day a brilliant scene opened on Iceland, when the Graf Zeppelin, flying at great speed, passed over the Ayrshire Phosphorus," incorporating, one of Scotland's industrial distinction of being going to the Farm-lands, being a descendant of Robert Burns.

James Burns went to Ireland to be built on the edge of an island Gore. Here he married Mary Young, and they had nine daughters in all. Jane Burns was one. Jane came to Canada, where she married and her youngest daughter Mary was the granddaughter of Paul Gray

It is interesting to note the strong physical resemblance as shown by comparison of photographs of Miss Gray and Robert Burns.

INITIAL PAYMENT OF POOL IS SET AT SIXTY CENTS

Winnipeg, Man.—Days of anxious waiting are over and now the 154,000 western farmers, members of the prairie wheat pools, know what the initial payment is to be on the 1930 crop.

It will be the lowest in the seventy-year history of the pools: 60 cents a bushel on wheat: oats, No. 2 C.W., 30 cents; barley, No. 3 C.W., 25 cents; rye, No. 2 C.W., 35 cents, and flax, No. 1 N.W., $1.25. The 60 cent payment on wheat will be made on the basis of No. 1 Northern Grade at Fort William.

Along with the official announcement from A. J. McPhail, chairman of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, the central selling agency of the pools, and from Premier John Bracken, of Manitoba, came a plea to the creditors of the pool farmers to be patient. The same plea was made in Regina, at a conference of pool growers, business men, and members of the Saskatchewan Government, under the leadership of Premier J. T. M. Anderson.

Both Mr. McPhail and Mr. Bracken drew attention to the serious situation facing the prairie farmers, who, for the second year in succession, in face of depressed world grain values, are now harvesting a crop below the average in yield

"The government of Manitoba," said Premier Bracken, "believes that in the present emergency industrial and financial interests should refrain from undue pressure collections from farmer debtors. It is in the interests of all Canada that our farmers should be left free to market by too energetic attempts by competing creditors to collect larger payments than farmers are able to pay." Sale of the prairie crops "under pressure" would depress values, with serious consequences to the agricultural and business interests of the Dominion, he said

Mr. McPhail declared: "As the welfare of our prairie provinces is almost entirely dependent on the solvency of our agricultural industry, we hope and feel confident that all interests concerned in the welfare of the western provinces will co-operate in minimizing the difficulties our farmers are facing at the present time."

The chairman of the central selling agency stated that a further payment which would involve an increase in the initial payment will be made as as early a date as may be found practicable, but only if the general financial conditions will permit.

Since the formation of the wheat pools in the west, with the exception of one year, the initial payment has always been $1 a bushel. In 1929 values were depressed, the initial payment was 83 cents a bushel

Still Holding By-Elections

No Immediate Possibility Of Law Being Amended

Ottawa, Ont.—Political observers here see no immediate possibility of amending the elections law to obviate the necessity of cabinet ministers having before their electors at by-elections when there is no cause for.

The government of the day promised that consideration would be given to it and no vote was taken. Counter to one promise that has eliminated by-elections for its ministers

Winnipeg, Man.—"Long life and good health" Out of the bowl of the world's medical knowledge a toast was drunk by delegates to the 99th annual meeting of the British Medical Association. Two of Britain's most noted physicians took the platform before hundreds of their fellow doctors: one to point the road to a long life, and the other to say that good health comes unbeckoned

Dr Robert Hutchison, F.R.C.P. London's most noted iconoclast when health fads are the duties, shattered images right lustily. Jovially, but firmly, the British expert harked back to the good old days of middle-aged people when, he said, children were probably healthier and happier than those of our present pampered, child-psycho-analyzed infants of today He laughed at celery-counters and stimulus-drinkers and held up as ideal the average individual who mentioned his food.

In effect, he said, to permit birth control in England was absolutely necessary in the present circumstances. "BIRTH FIRST" in outlining the ways to a lengthy life He considered hard work to be the most important factor, in passing long evity, but regretted that the present general prevalence of "white" food for human perfect conditions of the human species. He also knew of no reason why the average person today should not live to be 100 years of age.

Dr. Hutchison's address was the opening paragraph in the British Medical Association's annual meeting, which Dr. Hutchison of London formed the chief address of the annual meeting, which Dr. Hutchison of London formed the chief address of the annual meeting, which Dr. Hutchison of London formed the chief address of the

HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICES (ANGLICAN)

The following dates have been arranged for the Harvest Thanksgiving services this year.

September 14th—Christ Church, Otterburn, at 3 p.m.

September 21—All Saints, Pleasant Valley, at 3 p.m.

September 28th—St. Saviour's, Vermilion, at 11 a.m.

A Momentous Time!

The fate of the Wheat Pool now rests entirely with the Pool members.

The Pool will triumph over all obstacles if the membership remains steadfast and unswayed by idle rumor.

The struggle is now at the hardest part, and the loyalty of every Pool member is of urgent importance. The result of the issue lies with the membership.

The safest place for your wheat is in the Wheat Pool, and it should be delivered to Pool elevators.

AN EASTERN OPINION OF WESTERN FARMERS

(Mail and Empire, Toronto)

"To suggest that the farmer of the west is going into wheat boot-legging by wholesale and thus break up the Pool he created, is to suggest that the western farmer is a wrecker and a cheat. The western farmer is not going to violate the sanctity of his contract, break his pledged word, destroy his bond—just because somebody with an axe to grind and not sufficient understanding to put an edge on it points of his 1930 crop future a picture more dark and troubled than the facts warrant."

LOCAL NEWS

The regular meeting of the L.O.B.A. will be held in the Lodge Rooms on Tuesday evening, Sept. 9th.

Other students from the town and district not previously mentioned as attending Normal school at Edmonton this year are Wilnde Gilbert, Winnie Moore, Jean Cameron and Mac Fee.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamm of Chicago, who have been living in the Peace Coupe country for the past year with the intention of taking up land there, spent a few days with their cousin Jack Wiebe, and left on Tuesday for Souris, Man., where they will settle in preference to the northern district.

Bill Hall of Edmonton was a visitor at his parent's home over the holiday week end.

Miss Majury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Majury of Cummings, is attending the Edmonton Normal which opened on Wednesday.

Miss Myrtle MacDonald has returned to her duties in the telephone exchange after an extremely interesting vacation trip to the West coast and Alaska.

W. G. Mashaw who has been in London, England for the past year and a half as head of the Correspondence branch of the C.N.R. Colonization Dept., has returned to town and will resume his former duties at the School of Agriculture here. Mr. Mashaw's stay while in England sent him to most parts of England and Wales. Before sailing for Canada he took a five weeks' vacation trip on the continent, chiefly in France and Italy.

Miss Eleanore Parker returned on Monday of this week to the University hospital for her second year nurse in training course.

Miss Phyllis Stephens, teacher of the Bowtell school, came back to town on Saturday from her home near Ponoka.

E. Reff of Safeways has now moved into the Hryayk residence on Vermilion street after having his furniture brought by van from Wetaskiwin. Mr Reff and Bob Day left here by car at midnight on Saturday for Wetaskiwin and supervised the loading of the furniture, and were back in town by 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Miss Lillian B. Reid who has spent her holidays in the town returned to Edmonton Monday afternoon.

J. F. Andrew of the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, called at the Standard office Saturday last week.

Mrs. Hedley entertained in honor of her visitor, Miss Jean Irvine of Edmonton. The guests were Miss Cross, Mrs. Beckett, Mrs. E. Brass, Miss Isobel Shields and Master Jackie Briggs of Edmonton. A very enjoyable time was spent over the tea cups.

Maurice Pallow who has been running the tractor on L. McLean's farm at Dewberry during the cutting of the crop, received a very painful injury Tuesday. It appears that he wanted to trade places with the binder man, and after some time did so. While on the binder his hand was caught in a drive chain, two fingers and the thumb being badly lacerated.

NOTICED AROUND TOWN

A "Baby" Austin, the first of its kind to appear in town, attracting a lot of attention Monday evening.

Ernie MacDowell of Calgary in town on Monday gathering up his personal effects.

Bill Wiebe driving a new Marquette —the first of this make to be sold and owned locally.

Charlie Wilcox laying two new sections of cement in the sidewalk beside Craig's store on Bolyea.

Frank Fraser of Pleasant Valley driving his binder Monday afternoon aided by a five-year-old visitor.

A case of poliomyelitis has been reported by the M.H.O. in town, being the little son of Rev. H. A. Boyd. Serum was immediately administered. No grave alarm need be felt, stated the M.H.O., as the number of cases in Canada at present numbered less than one-quarter of those during the outbreak in 1927.

Mrs. J. W. G. Morrison had as week end visitors Miss Beatrice McLeod of the public school staff, Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, and Rev. and Mrs. Jaimes A. McKenzie of Saskatoon. The latter with their children were returning from a pleasure trip to Banff. Mrs. Morrison spent the last two weeks of August at Sylvan Lake.

C. C. Smith of Vegreville has now moved to town and taken over the managership of the British American elevator.

Herman Ganton and Ed. Corley left by car on Sunday for Field, B. C. where they will spend a week visiting Ed's father.

Mrs. Geo. F. Jachlin of Clandonald returned from Victoria on Saturday after spending the summer there. George and the baby will remain at the Vancouver Island city for a while longer.

The test plots of hemp around Vermilion have proven highly satisfactory this season from the standpoint of growth at any rate. H. W. Harper showed the Standard samples from a quarter acre plot on the farm of H. A. Searle which were close to 12 feet in length. The other 11 plots in the district attained a similar remarkable development.

While returning from Edmonton by car on Monday afternoon, Harold Mace and family, and Walter Flak and family were witnesses of the Perrau car fatality, 6½ miles this side of Edmonton, when a grey coupe containing two women forced the Perrau car into the ditch, causing it to turn over and crushing to death the four-year-old daughter. Harold and Walter returned to Edmonton on Tuesday to give evidence at the inquest.

Last week end saw a large number of vacationists return to town from various holiday resorts and trips. Among them were:

Mrs. R. H. Norton and family who closed their cottage at Lake Lurier where they have spent the summer.

Mrs. G. McComas and son Archie, returned from a month spent at the former's home at Beaver Lake.

Miss A. Marwell, now of the public school staff, returned from Vancouver after spending the two summer months there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Williams, Dorothy and Allan, from a trip to Banff and points in Southern Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Brown, Miss Betty and Helen returned home on Monday after a trip to Rochester on a visit to relatives.

John Brown came home on Monday from a two week's holiday in Edmonton.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, when Catherine Mamie, daughter of Mr. James Hodgie of Lacombe, was united in marriage to Mr. Clarence Frederick Keys of Edmonton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keys of Vermilion. The Rev. R.B. Layton officiated.

The young bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming gown of powder blue taffeta made on princess lines, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Robina Scougie, who chose a frock of patterned rose chiffon and carried sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at which there were present immediate friends and relatives of the bridal party. Later Mr. and Mrs. Keys left for Edmonton, and are at home at their flat in the Hecla apartments

Aerial Armada May Pass Over Here 17th

Effort Being Made to That End

An effort, is being made by the Chamber of Commerce to have the aerial armada pass over here on its way to Edmonton from Saskatoon next Wednesday. So far no definite word of the exact route to be followed by the air fleet has been received. The president of the Chamber of Commerce intends getting into touch with authorities again and it is hoped that by Wednesday the route, if necessary, will be common knowledge among the people of the town and district. The regular route usually followed by mail planes from Saskatoon to Edmonton is about 16 miles [illegible]

District Court

Edward Kotze of Kitscoty was acquitted by Judge Dubue in the district court here on Tuesday on the charge of committing mischief to an automobile, the property of one Richard Murray of Marwayne. Two or three witnesses were called for complainant but on application by counsel the charge was dismissed without calling on the accused. A. H. Gibson, K.C. for the Crown and J. W. G. Morrison, K.C. for accused.

Several applications for orders for sale were granted to P. J. Richardson.

An appeal against assessment in the Clandonald school district was adjourned by the Judge on a compromise basis. F. W. Paasch, implement dealer at that centre, contended that tractors owned by a machine company could not be assessed to him as agent under the classification of stock in trade. J. D. Adam as counsel presented the argument. J. W. G. Morrison for the district argued the opposite and the Court agreed with him. The Judge, however, reduced the assessment from that on five tractors to three at the valuation set by the district.

BROWNIE NOTES

On Friday last, we held our first meeting since the holidays. As there were not many present there was very little done. Next week, however, we shall get into our regular swing again. We have divided the pack up into two groups—those who will be going into the Guides soon and those who will be with us for some time yet. Those going into the Guides will be preparing for their Tenderfoot test.

Don't forget, Brownies, that there is a meeting at the Armories next Friday after school. Also, wear you all in uniform.

The Indian Problem

Sir John A. Simon Explains Difficulties To Audience in Washington

Sir John A. Simon, head of Great Britain's Indian statutory commission, expressed hope, in a speech at Washington, for "some way of admission" on the India problem.

Stressing difficulties of the past, the British statesman asked for United States sympathy "in keeping with the United States sense of fair play."

This third visit to the United States, Sir John said, has impressed him once more with this country's "abounding vitality."

"I cannot see that this has been affected by economic conditions," he added.

The tall, blue-eyed visitor, one of England's leading Liberals, in Washington at the end of a luncheon speech of the American Bar Association, discussed "the enormous issues" in India.

"There is no division of opinion in England on our policy in India," he said. "It is, as stated in the law of 1919, the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in India."

The two great difficulties, Sir John said, are that the vast mass of Indians are villagers, living their lives with scarcely any contact from those of "the educated, political minority," and that India is composed of "so many ancient elements that America's mixture is the palest reflection."

Ultimate solution of the problem, Sir John believes, "will not be a mere imitation of the representative government that the Americans have worked out for themselves."

He declared an effort to transport such a system to India would be "planting a seed in soil that does not grow the tree."

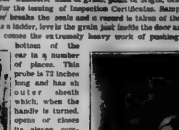
GOVERNMENT GRAIN SAMPLING

System Of Sampling As Carried Out By The Government Inspection Department

The following describes the thoroughness of the system of sampling as carried on by the Government Inspection Department. We are indebted for this article to the Searle Grain Co., Ltd., Winnipeg:

"Upon arrival of a trainload of grain at an inspection point a Government yard clerk lists the cars from the waybills which follow each car, listing car number, kind of grain, point of origin, destination, name of shipper and consignee. These details are necessary for the issuing of Inspection Certificates. Sampling crews with foremen are then moved to the train. The car opener breaks the seals and a record is taken of them. With a pinch bar the door is pushed open. A sampler then mounts a ladder, into the grain just inside the door and proceeds to take a sheet of canvas two and one-half by six feet. Then comes the extremely heavy work of pushing the brass probe to the bottom of the car in a number of places. This probe is 72 inches long and has six outer sheath which, when the handle is turned, opens or closes its eleven compartments. The probe is emptied in rows on the canvas and is examined by the sampler to see if the sample is uniform in quality.

Men Equipped With Ladders, Probes and Canvas Sheets Ready To Examine a Car



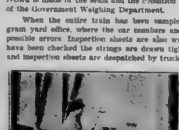
Sampler Pouring Grain Into Sample Bag. After Having Marked Tickets

In case the grain in one part of the car proves to be poorer than the rest of the car, three samples are taken instead of one; one being of the inferior grain; another of the better grain, and another of the average of the whole car.

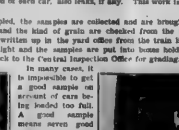
The sampler writes the car number on a cardboard ticket, date, load lines, showing depth of grain, and initials ticket, thus making a complete record of the sampling of each car; the grain and the cardboard ticket are put into a four-pound sample bag, and the string is drawn tight. The car door is closed and a new seal attached.

Cars are also examined as to their condition; a careful examination being made for signs of leaks and a record is made of the seals and the car number and condition of each car, also leaks, if any. This work is done by separate crews of the Government Weighing Department.

When the entire train has been sampled, the samples are collected and are brought into the Government grain yard office, where the car numbers and kinds of grain are checked from the train list. Then the samples are put into boxes according to their official grades. Inspection sheets are also written up in the yard office from the train lists. After the samples have been checked the strings are drawn tight and the samples are put into boxes holding two dozen samples, and inspection sheets are despatched by truck to the Grain Inspection Office for grading.



Board Of Inspectors Examining Samples In Terminal Elevator Office. Other Inspectors Grading Samples



Probing the Car To Secure a Uniform Sample

In many cases, it is impossible to get a good sample any amount of cars being loaded too full. The only dependable means seven good probes (e.g., to the bottom of the car) and three down the car lengthwise. When less than seven good probes have been taken only a superficial inspection to be made at unloading, and in some cases, cars are loaded so full that it is impossible to get more than one good probe, and sometimes none. Cars like these will not be inspected until at unloading.

Trains arrive at all hours, day and night. During the fall rush, trains of grain leave the Winnipeg yards every twenty minutes bound for the Head of the Lakes, and for a long period during the fall rush of 1928, upwards of three thousand cars were sampled in the Winnipeg yards every twenty-four hours.

The samplers and foremen are in the employ of the Government, but they have to pass a very stiff practical examination set by the Chief Inspector and Civil Service Commissioners.

The sampling is carefully done and the system is recognized as being most thorough; whenever possible there is a double check on the work.

All-Canadian Highway

Only One Stretch Of Road in North-ern Ontario Remaining To Be Linked Up

As all-Canadian route, from coast to coast is practically completed, only one stretch in Western Ontario remaining to be linked up, according to officials of the Canadian Automobile Association.

No one now needs to hesitate to travel from Manitoba, clear across, over the Rockies to British Columbia.

The old-time "gumbo" roads which spelt disaster to motorists are now replaced with first-class gravel stretches and all dangerous curves and turns of less than 100 feet radius have been eliminated.

The one stretch of road which remains undished is that in northwestern Ontario, passing around the northern shore of Lake Superior. With this exception the condition of the roads all through from the coast is excellent and all Provincial Governments are co-operating in the project of an all-Canadian highway.

Some Curious Trees

Among the curious trees which have been found on the banks of the River Amazon, in South America, is one which has a sweet edible resin and with consistency of real sugar in the bark, and another which exudes an oily substance with the appearance, taste, and other qualities of lard.

Canada's Coal Production

Coal produced in Canada in 1929 totalled 17,464,517 tons from the mines in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Imports of coal last year amounted to 18,819,200 tons of which 14,689,681 tons came from the United States.

JEREMIAH — A PROPHET OF INDIVIDUAL RELIGION

Golden Text: "Each one of us shall give an account of himself to God."—Romans 14.12.

Lesson: Jeremiah 1.1-10; 14.7-22; 31.27-34.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119. 33-40.

Explanations and Comments

Jeremiah's Call, 1.4-10.—In the thirteenth year of Josiah's reign (the reformer of our last lesson), Jeremiah, the son of a priest in the little town of Anathoth, near Jerusalem, became conscious of the Divine call to the prophetic office. He was very reluctant to take upon himself the duties of a prophet, and the struggle which took place in his mind when something different from his ordinary consciousness made him certain that he was destined to be God's prophet of woe, he has told in the form of a dialogue between God and himself.

"And speech first and unto Jeremiah he had, I am not a man, and that he is appointed a prophet, not to the Jews only, but to all nations. Jeremiah's mission sprang out of his personal awareness of God. He awoke to the fact that Jehovah was not merely specialized deity like, but one whom because He knew him. He realized that God had set him apart for a special task. He did not, therefore, a prophet because he wanted to, but because the whose authority was absolute had assigned him a mission and a duty." —John Gardner.

Jeremiah shrinks from the call, and hesitates. "Ah, Lord God, Jehovah!" he exclaims. "Behold I know not how to speak; for I am a child." The Hebrew word here translated "child" is translated "young man" in Genesis 14.24. He was not a child in years, but he lacked experience, he was unprepared for so great a task.

Then Jehovah put forth His hand," says Jeremiah, "and touched my mouth; and Jehovah said unto me, Behold I have put My words in thy mouth." Jeremiah does not say that he saw a vision, but that he has seen hand of power touched his mouth and at the same time he was assured that the words he should speak would be the words God would have him speak. In accordance with the Semitic habit, Jeremiah is describing in figurative language what could not otherwise be clearly ed, the communion of his human spirit with the Divine Spirit.

Change In Marriage Law

British Columbia Passes New Law To Check Hasty Marriages

If impulsive couples "marry in haste and repent at leisure" in future, they will have to go outside British Columbia to do it.

Under legislation which came into effect on the first of September, eight days must elapse between the time marriage licenses are issued and the ceremony is performed.

In cases where the contracting marriage is desirable, however, special permission may be obtained.

Clergymen must be registered with the provincial authorities in order to officiate.

Great Expense To Country

Number Of Mentally Deficient People In Canada Increasing

The number of insane and mentally deficient people in Canadian mental institutions, exclusive of private hospitals, shows an increase of 1,384 persons over last year, according to this month's bulletin of the Canadian National Committee of Mental Hygiene. The total number of insane and mentally deficient people who are filling these institutions is at present 29,579.

Their cost to the country, the bulletin points out, is greater than that of war pensions and totals $16,230,745 a year. This, however, is simply the cost of upkeep of institutions and does not take into account the money spent by private individuals on insane people who are in private hospitals. Nor does it include the loss to the country which results from keeping a large group of people unproductive.

The tendency of social service workers and mental hygiene specialists at the present time is to pay more attention to signs of mental defect in children and to give special mental education is in many instances being given to children who show signs of a tendency and to take steps to prevent diseases of which it is frequently the outcome. Several of the provinces have made substantial help from their governments toward this end.

Battle With Snake In Mid-Air

Kansas Aviator Has Encounter With Rattlesnake While Flying Through the Clouds

An unprecedented battle in the air between a rattlesnake and a pilot and a rattlesnake was verified when H. "Hap-py" Wiggins, aviator, obtained snakeskin bands for the hatbands of Lieutenant-Governor Hoch, Topeka, hospital.

Wiggins said he was pounding his plane through the clouds almost a mile above the ground when the snake reared its head over the cockpit.

"I jumped back," said Wiggins, still violently ill from effects of the snake's poison, "but the snake jumped after me.

"I tried to grasp it and pitch it from my plane, but it coiled and struck me twice before I finally was able to fling it away."

While Wiggins was engaged in his unique battle with the rattler, which apparently had crawled into the plane while it was in a hangar, the ship hurtled down out of control.

Wiggins finally pushed the snake overboard, righted the ship, and landed so hastily in a pasture that he almost overturned the plane.

A rancher hurried out and dragged Wiggins, almost unconscious from fright and the snake bite, from the plane. The rancher rushed him to Scott City, where hospital attaches said he would recover.

DIZZINESS

Caused by Blood pressure

Doctor ordered Kruschen

"Five years ago this month I had a serious attack of blood pressure, and my medical man put me on a dose of Kruschen Salts daily. Evidently I am a stubborn subject, because I use every morning a cup of tea, followed by a half to a glass of hot water, and this acts splendidly. My health is now fairly good right. If I don't have the action mentioned, I feel cold, stupid, and liable to fall from dizziness. Therefore I can't do without my Kruschen on any account. Some time ago I tried some other make which were cheaper, but they palmed me so much that I had to stop them. There is no pain with Kruschen. I have told hundreds of my little workmates about it."—(Mrs. F. Ferguson.)

Dizziness is a symptom of a deper-seated disorder. It is one of Nature's danger signals—her urgent warning of an impure blood-stream which, if not attended to in time, may wreck the entire health with some dangerous, fatal illness. Shame! The six salts in Kruschen keep the blood-stream pure and vigorous by ensuring the complete elimination of poisonous matter from the system every day.

SILVER RIBBONS

"Why; I got something else—a bird's-eye view of Wickfield. I understood at last why you hated Emmy Davis so much, and why you were so thankful. I got absolutely fed up on stucco bungalows, and had a fearful yearning to see some more of that gold paint on the pineapple over your front door! Guess I had an attack of what the poets call wanderlust and nostalgia; and—"

He paused, while Charmian, who felt that she was making the acquaintance of a new Jim, prodded: "Go on. I find this confession most illuminating."

Jim smiled, but he fix-ked too as he continued: "Well, I had time to think—small things over, as I waited my stand. Do you remember when we were kids, Charmian, you said one day that the river looked like a silver ribbon from your attic window?"

"And you laughed," said Charmian, smiling at the memory.

"And you were furious," supplemented Jim. "But, believe it or not, that's one thing that has stuck by me—what you meant that day. The West is beautiful of course, in her own way. I can even see why her lovers sons go home over her. But to one born and reared in New England she—well, she lacks the finishing touches, somehow the silver ribbons."

CHAPTER XXIX

Charmian awoke next morning with that strange sensation of something gone wrong. It was not the bereavement, the pain of which has been lost for a while in the blessed oblivion that comes only on with sleep. It was a moment before she understood its meaning, and as the truth dawned on her consciousness it the thought that Jim was home again, and her heart lightened. His presence would surely soothe Peter's fretful mood, and Jim's Persian puppy that adorned a fence post, she mind on higher things," smiled Charmian.

Somewhere further down the street a door slammed, and a boy whistled A new day had begun.

"And after all," mused Charmian as she turned away, "what difference will it make a hundred years from now? The world will go right on without the Davises, Grandma and I and all our troubles, will be forgotten. Cheer up!"

This she endeavored to do as she mixed Grandma's favorite muffins, made individual omelets, and ran into the garden for some late blossoms to adorn the breakfast table. She put the coffee in the Davis coffee pot without the least fear of poisoning, and Grandma said as she took her place at the table: "Are you expecting company?"

"I merely had a sudden desire for style," answered the girl. "Besides, I was up early and had time to do things properly. That's a good omelet, Grandma, and I'll feel hurt if you don't eat every scrap of it. There's no pain with Kruschen. I have told hundreds of my little workmates about it."—(Mrs. F. Ferguson.)

Dizziness is a symptom of a deeper-seated disorder. It is one of Nature's danger signals—her urgent warning of an impure blood-stream which, if not attended to in time, may wreck the entire health with some dangerous, fatal illness. Shame! The six salts in Kruschen keep the blood-stream pure and vigorous by ensuring the complete elimination of poisonous matter from the system every day.

"Now don't hurry back on my account," said Grandma, as the girl kissed her. "Seems to me you look kind of pale this morning. You'd better lallygog around and have a real good time while you're about it."

"Lallygog!" help lallygog a good time if she lallygogs with me," Jim boasted, grinning; but his face grew serious as they drove on to the sidewalk, and he said: "Buck up, Charmian. You look like a ghost. I don't believe there's a drop of blood in it. I'm sick of trouble getting mine down, too — kept wondering how you were feeling. Now I'm here, I'm going to look after you do, or I'll be likely to blubber in sympathy and my reputation as a hard-boiled collector of interest will be in ruins."

"I shan't cry," she promised; and then added with a little sob in her voice: "I'm not having you along, Jim. I wonder if you know—"

"Know what?" he urged after another pause.

She looked up, her eyes meeting his in a gaze that seemed to be heart to thump so loud that he wondered if she could hear it; but all she said was: "Here we are at the bank. I wonder if my purchaser has arrived.

It took five minutes to get through the greetings of Jim's friends, the low workers; but when at last they entered George K.'s sanctum, he was alone.

"No time," he said approvingly, with a glance at the clock, "and the deed ready for your signature. No need to delay because your man is—as undoubtedly detained. I have from him this morning. He sent a check, and said he'd call on you when he got here, probably yesterday. Charmian, my dear, it breaks my heart to see you look so utterly done up. It's a blow, I know; but after all, it's the sent—"

"Hush up!" Jim interrupted, with a fierce gesture of the kindly banker. "I beg you, Mr. George," he added quickly, "let this poor kid it in her own way. She has to find out the right thing. She knows it's the right thing, but that doesn't make it easier. Is that the deed?" He lifted it from the desk, read for some moments, and then said, "By all the rights in the world Charmian ought to peruse this screed before she you sign it; but the way you're feeling I'll be the last to suggest anything of the kind. Fond recollections of a word, so I've done it for you if it seems to be perfectly ok, as of course it would be if Uncle George had anything to do with it. Sign here, please."

He was pointing to a dotted line while the banker watched him from under lids that appeared to be half closed. Charmian, her head bent, grasped the unfamiliar pen, signed her name hurriedly, and then looked up with such a heavy attempt at a smile that George K. was obliged to clear his throat.

"It does look much like my writing," she commented glancing down at the unsteady signature. "My nerves are all to pieces, I suppose. Feeling, I—I—" Then a bit of her self-control gave way and she added

Two trophies are at stake in the National Air Tour of 1930, and for each one of them a determined contest is forecast by Captain Ray Collins, manager of Stinson Sales.

The major trophy, offered first, six years ago, by Edsel B. Ford, to the pilot displaying the greatest commercial reliability in the tour, might pass this year into the permanent possession of the Wayne Aircraft Company which has already won it thrice in succession.

The additional trophy, posted for this year's tour by the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation, of Cleveland, Ohio, will be awarded to the plane powered with an engine of 310 cubic inch displacement or less, which makes the best showing under the system of scoring by the tour formula.

The major trophy carries with it a first prize of $2,500, with $9,500 divided among the succeeding nine pilots. The additional trophy prize is offered with the smaller trophy.

The Edsel B. Ford trophy is a magnificent piece of the silversmith designer's art, and it represents the highest victory attainable by the commercial flyer in this country. It may be competed for only by commercial planes entered by bona fide manufacturers of aircraft, and by the same manufacturer three years in succession, it becomes his permanent possession. He may not defend or retain then whether it shall be competed for again in a similar contest

Many foreign manufacturers of the Great Lakes trophy also give permanent possession. It is possible of course for the same manufacturer to win both trophies, but the second trophy has been offered as a special prize to encourage sport type planes, similar to that manufactured by its donors in Cleveland.

The fact that Wayne was win the major trophy permanently this year, and the additional element of contest introduced by Captain Collins of sport planes powered with 310 cubic inch engines, is likely to make this the most hotly contested air event staged. Some important changes in the formula by which the contestants will be scored have been arranged to put more of the aspect of competition on the tour

Advice Of King's Physician

Rest Often and Never Eat When Cold Says Lord Dawson, Of Penn

Never sit down if you are tired or your hands or feet are cold. This is the admonition of Lord Dawson of Penn, physician to the King, who addressed a diet regulated gathering of the national red in on medicine in connection with the British Medical Association's meeting in Winnipeg. Unpleasant, sometimes serious results, he said, may ensue, he mentioned.

"If a man comes home after a hard day's work, cold and tired and—I am sorry to say—gets a good appetite, he is going to have trouble," warned Lord Dawson. "Before eating he should have his feet out of the fire and warm his hands in a basin of water."

Eating when the extremities are cold, he said, often causes indigestion and heavily always induces constipation the following day.

Business men would be well advised, he said, to take a day or a half-day in bed once a week resting, perhaps, keeping warm, eating lightly. After man with a golfing King, hand's King, from the shadow of threatened death, he contrasted the talk of week-end exercise in a big way. Folks who play a round of golf Saturday and two on Sunday often get in their system, he would be better off to go to bed on Sunday afternoon for a good nap Sunday, the worries of the week, and possibly playing a game of golf, Sunday.

A Peaceful Army Of Invasion

German Tourists Are Now Flocking To French Capital

No sooner had the French evacuated the Rhine land than an army of Germans invaded Paris, with this decided difference: the French were soldiers; the Germans were tourists. Germans were excluded from Paris for five years, then by the enmity between the two nations which continued after the war.

Withdrawal of the French from the Rhine removed the last trace of war, and a host of Germans went on a peaceful mission to the French capital. They are made welcome and the French government has offices in Berlin and other cities where all necessary information is given. Germans travel through France in a very different manner from those who began the journey 16 years ago and whose war hate made an appointment to end dinner in Paris on a certain day—an appointment which he did not keep. They come as friends and are received as friends. France is exploiting her reputation as the most country of Europe, and it is ready to show it to Germans who come unarmed as to other people But what commentary on human folly is the fact that 16 years have been needed to overcome the estrangement of two neighboring nations Portland Oregonian

Wild Ducks Not Decreasing

Number Is Quite Up To Average This Year

Wild ducks and geese appear to be quite up to the average numbers this year, according to the game branch of the Department of Labor, Railways and Industries. On the deeper bodies of water these birds are more numerous this year than ordinarily owing to the fact that most of the smaller sloughs have dried up.

In some quarters farmers report a slight damage to their crops from the feeding activities of wild ducks. A number of requests were received to permit shooting to prevent further damage. It is pointed out by the game branch that, although it is permissible it is absurd to frighten the birds the only source from which permission to kill game may be obtained is from the Minister of the Interior at Ottawa There is no case on record of this permission having been granted.

The open season for ducks and geese opens September 1 this year. There is no open season for prairie chickens and ruffed grouse this year Hungarian partridges may be shot during the month of October Hunters and fowl come this year under the bag of game prescribed for the greater part of the year

Canada and World Trade

Bonds Point An Regards Reports, Imports and Aggregate Trade

In a "Condensed Preliminary Report" for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1930, issued by the External Trade Branch of the Bureau of Statistics, Canada is still shown to fifth place as a world trader, being fifth as regards imports and exports and aggregate trade. Imports amounted to $1,342,272,000 and exports to $1,144,898,000, making a total of $2,-486,919,000.

Plenty Of Advice

The Smithsonian Institution at Washington, is urging that farmers set aside something every year for the crop failure, which, it says, comes every seven years. At the same time the Department of Agriculture is urging reduction in acreage because supply exceeds the demand. Four Doses Relieved Bad Attack of Cholera

Mr. W. Cooper, Meaghan, Alta., writes: A few years ago last spring I arrived in Canada with my family, and one of my boys, aged six, was suffering very much with cholera infantum. When we arrived I had a few doses of it and told one of the children about it, and he asked me if I had ever tried it before. I told him I had. He said he had never tried it and if it is England, as he told me it was, I will get it in Winnipeg. I am pleased to say I had only to give the child four doses and he got well and sound sleep and he was up cheerful by the next morning."

Do not even the ilexits that be who on the darkness of the tempest-tossed waters can trust Him who stilleth the storm.—he, and he only, can claim to walk by faith.—M. J. Savage.

Interesting Statistics

Some Facts That People Are Not Generally Aware Of

Do you know that the watch's annual income is $167,500,000? This astonishing fact is revealed by the Bureau of Statistics of a German, which has been studying world statistics for six years. Other interesting points from this report are: The world is drinking more milk and more tea, more coffee but less cocoa. We eat less bread, but fruit and vegetables are taking its place. We are smoking less tobacco, in spite of the large increase in women smokers. In England there are thirty-five people to every motor-car. In America one person in five is the proud possessor of a car. One hundred and seventy-three thousand tons of artificial silk are used annually for the manufacture of ladies' stockings. If the wealth of Great Britain were distributed equally amongst its population, every person would receive £500.

Daring Airmen Are To Divide $12,000 Prizes

When the national air tour arrives at Edmonton on Wednesday, September 17, the visiting fliers will be competing for two coveted challenge trophies and $12,000 in cash prizes.

The Edsel B. Ford trophy to the pilot prize the airmen are after, it being awarded annually on the reliability tests of the competing machines. The Great Lakes trophy is for lightest craft or sport machines To the winner of the Ford trophy goes a cash prize of $2,500

In addition to the varied types of aeroplanes in the armada, there will be others in action at the flying field The thrilled spectators of the Western Canada Airways will come down from the north and present some spectacular formation flights.

Arrangements are being made by the general committee at Edmonton to obtain champion aerial stunters to thrill the crowds. Then you will see some of these pilots in sensational dives, loops, spins, and similar stunts

Loud speaker equipment is being installed so that those speaking or making announcements at the grounds will be heard for a mile or more An aeroplane is also being equipped with loud speaker apparatus prior to its tour of outside towns and districts to spread word of the show

The Edmonton air show committee has opened an office in the Recreation building, 104st Street, Edmonton, where reservations for car spaces are being received From many of the towns and rural districts have cooperators for spaces to be held and more are coming in daily The committee have prepared a carefully considered plan of how car parking areas so that there will be a good view of the events.

No one should miss seeing this show. One of the most spectacular sights in the history of aviation in Western Canada will be the arrival of these big American machines Small airplanes wide open, they will be the parade the field for timing purposes before making a final landing There will not be a dull moment the whole afternoon and early evening

New Electric Light, Power & Heat Rates Effective Oct. 1, 1930

The Council at its meeting last night completed its revision of the electric light, power and heat rates that have been under consideration and passed a by-law for the same. The rates adopted and to take effect on October 1st, 1930, are as follows:

RATE No. 1
Electric Light, Heat and Power, Effective October 1st, 1930

RESIDENTIAL LIGHTING SERVICE
Service charge, 75c per month for first 100 watts or fraction thereof of connected load; 50c per month for each additional 100 watts of connected load.

Plus the energy charge:
10c per K.W.H. for first 50 K.W.H. used per month per 100 watts of connected load per month.
8c per K.W.H. for the next 200 K.W.H. used per month per 100 watts of connected load per month.
6c per K.W.H. for the next 500 K.W.H. used per month per 100 watts of connected load per month.
4c for all additional energy used per month.

For billing purposes the total connected lighting, motor and appliance load shall be taken as the nearest multiple of 500 watts.

Payment rules as in residence category. No bill less than $1.35.

POWER RATES
Service charge $1.00 per H.P. connected per month.

Plus the energy charges:
7 cents for the first 25 K.W. hours per H. P. connected.
5 cents for the next 25 K.W. hours per H. P. connected.
4 cents for all additional used.
Minimum charge $2.00 per month.
Applicable for three (3) phase motors not less than 3 H.P. rated capacity or other electrical devices.
Payment rules as in residence charges.

COMBINATION Household RATES
Service charge $2.00 per month.

Plus energy charges:
6 cents 5c the first 200 K.W. hours.
4 cents for all additional used per month.
A connected load of 1500 watts or over of cooking, heating or other appliances, to obtain this schedule.
No bill less than $2.00.
A special rate for water heaters of not over 1 kilowatt capacity, a flat rate of $2.00 per month.
These rates are in line with the charges made for the same service in other towns and are set forth in such a manner as to encourage the use of electrical energy for any and all purposes. The mode of payment of accounts is an entire change to the system heretofore in use. This has been made necessary from the fact that the rates are as low as possible and the allowing of a discount as heretofore would be absolutely out of the question. The economics are now payable at our within ten days from date of rendering and failure to pay by that date a penalty of 10 p.c. is added. Another slight change is in the by-law governing in the amount of a deposit required; formerly it was based on monthly consumption, as covered in the winter months; this has been lowered to one and one-half times the amount of the one month's consumption based as before. All other features of original by-law governing the enforcement of collection, the disconnecting of service for non-payment of accounts, remain the same.

A Challenge To Canada To Put British Empire In Forefront Of Airship Transportation

To Supply Natural Source Of Food For Indians in Northern Canada

The re-stocking of the Canadian Arctic to supply a natural source of food for the Indians, is engaging the attention of the North West Territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior.

A. E. Porsild, who investigated the possibilities of the Western Arctic as a home for reindeer, has left for the west coast of Hudson's Bay, on a similar mission.

Mr. Porsild and his brother, H. T. Porsild, were commissioned by the Government, some years ago, to carry out an investigation in the western Arctic, to ascertain whether the country produced enough moss, lichen and other reindeer fodder, to support these animals in any number. The brothers reported favorably, and the Government bought 3,000 head from Lomen Brothers, of Alaska. These reindeer are now on the long trek round the northern coast of the continent, bound for Kittigazuit, at the mouth of the MacKenzie River.

The Canadian Government saved the buffalo from extinction from North America by similar measures years ago, and now has so many buffalo that they are being distributed all over the North West. It is hoped that the same success will attend the lichen experiment, and that the natural increase of the Kittigazuit herd will enable the stocking of the territory west of Hudson Bay. The latter problem depends on the herings of the next lemin of the so-called barren lands.

Eskimos Play Golf

Ancient Scottish Game Introduced To Natives North Of Churchill

Eskimos play golf—not a variation of the game like "Arctic golf," but the real thing as played in Scotland.

Rev. Donald Marsh, graduate of Emmanuel Theological College, Saskatoon, who has already spent three years as missionary to the Eskimos, has gone north again after a holiday.

Rev. Mr. Marsh introduced the game at Rahmo Point, 300 miles north of Churchill, last year. This time he took a set of golf clubs, balls and tees with him.

For Airship Travellers

Shower Baths Will Be One Of the Comforts To Be Installed

Shower baths are soon as one of many comforts for airship travellers of the future by Sir Dennistoun Burney, who addressed the Advertising Club of Montreal recently.

On her flight to Canada, the R-100 gathered 4.4 tons additional water from rain and cloud moisture. This involved a saving of $12,250.50 in the cost of hydrogen gas, since ordinarily the captain is forced to release hydrogen to compensate for the loss in weight of gasoline fuel as it is consumed.

Helium, a non-inflammable lifting gas, is preferable to hydrogen for use in airships, according to airship experts. Canadian geologists say that geological formations in the neighborhood of Hudson's Bay and Labrador indicate strong possibilities of finding helium, which is extremely favorable to any airship service between Europe and Canada.

Shaw's Early Literary Effort

Nearly One-Seventh Of Canada Lies Being Published For First Time

George Bernard Shaw, who began his literary career as a novelist a full quarter of a century before turning to playwriting, is to appear again in the role of a fictionist. The dramatist's first novel, written 41 years ago, but laid aside when a publisher could not be found for it, is to appear in September, it was disclosed by William H. Wise, New York publisher.

The story, which will be included in a collected set of Shaw's writings, the first five volumes of which will appear simultaneously in London and New York, the author was 23 years old when he penned "Immaturity," which was refused, Mr. Wise said, by some 40 British and United States publishers.

Judges For Community Progress Competitions

Competitions Among Rural Communities in the Three Prairie Provinces

Outstanding men and women, conversant with conditions throughout the prairie provinces, have been selected by the Canadian National Railways to judge competitions among rural communities in the three prairie provinces, which are of European origin, to be held annually for a period of five years, with three substantial prizes of $1,000, $500, and $250, respectively, to be awarded each year in each of these provinces.

The judges are: Manitoba, Dr. John Mackay, Principal Manitoba College; Brother Joseph Fink, Principal, Provencher School, St. Boniface, and Mrs. David Watt, Brittle, who has long been prominent in women's institutes. Saskatchewan: Dr. W. C. Murray, President, University of Saskatchewan; Dr. W. J. Rose, Department of Sociology, Dalhousie College, Hanover, N.H., and Mrs. Violet McNaughton, organizer and former president of the Women's Grain Growers' Organization in Saskatchewan, and editor of the women's section, Western Producer, Saskatoon. Alberta: Dr. R. C. Wallace, President, Alberta University; Dr. W. H. Fairchild, Superintendent, Provincial Farm, Lethbridge, and Mrs. R. R. Gunn, Lloydminster, prominent in the women's section of the Grain Growers.

The community which, through the co-operative action of its people, shows the greatest progress in the regular attendance of pupils, the largest percentage of children going on for high school and university training, and takes the keenest interest in matters of public health, social life and citizenship, will be considered and enthusiastically supports community organizations such as agricultural societies, women's institutes, boys' and girls' clubs, libraries, etc., or which evinces the greatest interest and reveals the greatest progress in the improvement of agricultural methods, will be the winner of these substantial prizes.

Saskatchewan Fur Farms

Now 222 Registered Fur Farms In Province

Rapid increase in the number of fur farms in Saskatchewan is indicated in a recent statement issued by the provincial game branch. There are now 222 registered fur farms being operated in the province, 109 of which are fox farms. Under provisions of the Game Act, such farms must operate under a government permit.

The number of farms of each species of fur bearers follow: Fox, per 41; badger, 44; skunk, 29; muskrat, 41; raccoon, 13; coyote, 13; rabbit, 2; fisher, 3; mink, 2; skunk, 3; martin, 3; weasel 3, bear, 2. In addition, four fur farm leases are being operated, while 20 are pending.

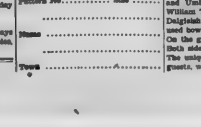
TEE OFF WITH BOW AND ARROW



The arrow bent the golf ball to the cup in a contest staged recently on the Banff Springs Hotel Golf Course, when Ted-Wah Mouse (Lone Walker) and Umbiska Wah-Zhee (Lone Eagle), lined up in a four-some with William Thomson, professional of the course, and his daughter Mrs. Percy Dalgleish, former Alberta Lady Champion, over nine holes. The Indians used bow and arrow while the golfers played with the usual clubs and ball On the green the Indians shot at a four-inch disc set upright on the cup Both sides were even at the eighth, and then the Indians won on the ninth. The unique contest excited much interest and enthusiasm among the hotel guests, who formed a large gallery following the play.

Canada's Claim To Arctic Area Between Mainland and Pole, Will Be Jealously Guarded

Registered and Certified Seed

New Regulations Are To Apply At Royal Winter Fair

An important forward step to promote the commercial production and distribution of registered and certified seeds in Canada has been taken by the Royal Winter Fair, to be held in Toronto, November 19 to 27. A new class has been added to the Royal program for seed growers or wheat, oats and barley, confined to competitors whose growing crops have been inspected in the field under the provision of the Dominion Seeds Act and who have not less than 50 bushels of registered and certified seed grain for sale in a commercial way. The actual exhibit will consist of one-half bushel sample and may be taken from the current crop or that of the previous harvest.

By the new conditions the prize winning half bushels must come from a 20 bushel bulk of the same quality and must be entered in the unbroken package sealed by an accredited inspector at the time he inspects and seals the bags or other containers of the main commercial crop. Briefly this means it will be possible for farmers to buy seed grains by sample with official assurance that the bulk will equal sample Prize winning in the past did not give this guarantee, because entrants could hand pick the best few heads from a large quantity of mixed grain. Over 80 prizes are offered. The spring wheat classes include the Marquis group, Garnet, Reward, Huron and Mindum Those varieties of winter wheat, oats and barley approved for registration are eligible. Barley may be also sowed at the fall sowing. The 1930 dates for the Royal Winter Fair are November 19 to 27.

Raspberries Yield Well

Grown In Wild State From Coast To Coast In Canada

Horticultural experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are authority for the statement that the raspberry is easily the most important bush fruit grown in Canada, and among the small fruits it ranks second to the strawberry. The annual production amounts to some 2,500,000 quarts, having a selling value of roughly $500,000. This does not take into consideration the production from city lots and back yard gardens which is very considerable in volume. At a production rate of 1,500 quarts per acre it would take at least 1,500 acres to produce this crop, and including new plantations the area planted to raspberries is close on to 2 500 acres British Columbia is the leading raspberry producer, with Ontario a close second. The raspberry is not a commercial crop in Nova Scotia or the Prairie Provinces, but it is cultivated in a peculiar manner in every Province of the Dominion, and grows wild from coast to coast and as far north as the delta of the Mackenzie River.

How We Spend Our Time

Estimated That a Man Of Seventy Has Spent Two Years Of His Life Shaving Himself

A Frenchman with a liking for curious figures has been counting up the time that a man ordinarily devotes to common occupations of life. He finds that a man of seventy has usually spent about nineteen years working twenty-three years in bed nine years amusing himself or being amused one year in church and two years shaving himself This last portion of time he seems to consider as one of the great wastes of life But, trying to imagine what we would look like if we all had beards, we are not inclined to agree with him Even if we did all save some time from shaving there isn't any real guarantee that we would put that time to any better uses New Outlook

Nothing To Fuss About

During the hearing of a case a man began clattering about in the back of the court room, pushing over chairs and generally upsetting things.

Young man," said the judge, who had a reputation for ironic wit, "you are making a great deal of noise."

"I have lost my overcoat, your worship," said the agitated young man

Well, well," retorted the judge, people often lose whole suits here without half as much disturbance."

Canada will watch with a "jealous eye" anything resembling a design on the part of a foreign power to establish itself within the zone lying between her hinterland and the Barren Pole, P. E. Corbett, dean of the law school of McGill University, said before the Institute of politics.

Dean Corbett, who addressed the conference on "Problems of Sovereignty in the Arctic and Antarctic," stated that Canada claims all discovered land lying between her mainland and the North Pole, and will probably assert a claim to any land that may subsequently be discovered there.

Where occupation is not yet possible the Canadian claim is justified by principles of territorial proximity and possible strategic importance," and possible strategic importance," he said. "These principles have never hardened into rules of international law, but they have been urged from time to time as moral and political, if not legal, grounds for the appropriation of unattached lands.

"At the present time, the main interest in the Arctic is in its position as the possible future highway of inter-hemisphere air traffic. The shortest way between Great Britain and the western part of Canada lies across these northern latitudes, and the same is true for the northwestern United States and eastern Europe. Landing and refuelling stations along the route will be a prime necessity and if air service is to be open to northern hinterlands are to be within control of any one power that control ought to be Canadian.

Dean Corbett stated that the question of internationalizing the polar regions may arise if expected development in aerial navigation takes place, but that the United States has hitherto displayed slight enthusiasm for such a project and without her it would be foolish to think of any such regime in polar regions.

"In the meantime," he said in conclusion, "Canada, which is what may be regarded as a legitimate expectation of graduating within the present century into the ranks of the first-class powers, will be bound to pay careful attention to developments in the Arctic, watching with a jealous eye anything resembling a design on the part of a foreign power to establish itself within a zone which we regard as belonging by right to us."

Value Of the American Hen

Poultry Industry Supplies About 10 per Cent. Of the Total Income

The cow, the sow and the hen are greater farm-income producers, according to United States official rating, than wheat, "about which we hear so much nowadays. The poultry industry, that "more sideline" which so many farmers neglect, supplied about 10 per cent. of the total farm income of American farms during 1925 The egg sales were estimated at $717,000,000 and the sales of chickens brought in $450,000,000—a total for the poultry industry of $1,178,000,000 as compared with a total farm income for the nation of $11,827,000,000 These figures do not include the value of chickens and eggs consumed on the farms —an item which doubtless would itself run into seven figures.

Late War News — Belgian and French aviators dropped bombs upon Emperor William's headquarters who narrowly escaped. The war office at Paris announces French recaptured Malancourt and army is still in Champagne. Losses on both sides enormous. Aerial scouts report Germans rushing heavy guns to front against Allies. Great force German troops taking offensive in East Prussia. Russians falling back. London Times warns public against over-confidence following reports of German defeats 2 000 000 men fighting in Northern France few details. Germans still falling back. Allies have gained 37 miles. The British and French both crossed the Marne. British army will number 1,250,000 on completion of present plans. Up to September 7th British casualties close to 13 000.

The undersigned men enlisted this week for service at the front: Morley McDonald, Ernest M Taylor, Bert Buck, Frank Ford and Philip Napier. This makes a total to date of 25 officers and men from Vermilion who have volunteered for service in the second Canadian contingent.

James McGinnis of Leeds, Quebec, an old neighbor of R. L. Craig, purchased a farm in the district this week and is moving his family in immediately.

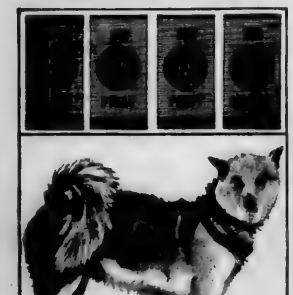
Famous Husky Wins Prizes



Arthur Beauvais, well-known Indian guide at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City, owes much of his popularity among visitors to the country in the town and of huskies that mush them out on snowshod trips in the winter. Chief among his team is his leader, "Jeff," and at the last muscle it proved to Archer to enter Jeff on the Montreal Kennel Association show held recently. He took no particular trouble in beautifying him for the occasion and so accordingly was gratified to learn that he had taken three first prizes and one special prize. In fact, he would have taken another special prize as the best dog shown, if Beauvais had not taken him away to catch a train. Illustration shows close-up of Jeff with some of his prize ribbons.

Where Are Your Children

Where are they? On the streets amidst the rushing traffic — at the level crossings? They must go somewhere after school lets out at four o'clock, for all that pent-up energy is pounding to be let loose.

The day is coming, no doubt, when there will be legislation about young people running at will in the age of motor-driven vehicles. Then the reproach will be removed that the rate of preventible deaths from auto accidents has increased 50 per cent since 1927.

The Bureau of Statistics shows the figure of death to be 1,294 for the past year and despite all the warnings in the world the rate rises yearly. Not a day passes but we see that some dear child has come to an untimely end and the auto driver is exonerated from all blame — the fault being the child's own. That does not ease the aching heart of the parents, nor stem the grief in the little home circle caused by that vacant high chair.

Mothers must find safe play-places for their offspring, and not leave it to the children themselves, nor to chance. Better turn your flower garden into a playground, than have to send them off to the road itself. One thing all mothers can do, and perhaps this is better done by the fathers — and that is to instil the rules of the road into every last one of them. SAFETY FIRST should be the daily pledge of the child as he leaves gaily for school.

Many good lessons are taught by the health program of the Junior Red Cross in the branch of the school, a manner which there is being stressed more and more the need for preventing sickness by keeping fit and well. Then comes another great lesson — the prevention of fire, and of accident by taking all reasonable precautions. Your children will benefit by these practical talks during the Red Cross meetings, therefore all parents are urged to see to it that a Junior branch is functioning in every little prairie school, no matter how remote. Write to Red Cross, 667 Clyde Block, Edmonton for free literature on Safety First.

Sargon Rapidly Becoming Known Over Continent

From All Over America Thousands Of Letters from Grateful Users Have Been Received

If you found a medicine that was of such great benefit to you that you would go to the trouble of sending it to relatives and friends in distant countries, you would have to be convinced in your mind that it possessed real merit, wouldn't you?

That's just what hundreds of people throughout the United States have been doing with Sargon, the new formula recently introduced in Canada.

From all over America and wherever Sargon has been introduced, thousands of letters have been received from grateful users telling of the gratifying results that have been accomplished by this celebrated medicine.

Thousands Express Gratitude

On November 27, 1929, a letter dated November 22, was received at the Sargon offices advising that in one week one drug firm alone had received orders for Sargon to be shipped to Cavite, Philippine Islands; Coco Solo, Canal Zone; Belebrook, Ireland, and Paris, France.

Only recently a well-known resident of Denver, Colorado, who had been restored to health by Sargon, sent a full treatment to London, England, to his sister, who is the wife of an executive of one of the greatest retail drug firms in the British Empire.

During the past month there appeared in the Toronto papers the statement of a well-known World War veteran whose health had been greatly impaired while in the service, who stated among other things, that he owed his restoration to health to two bottles of Sargon sent him by a friend in Minneapolis.

Letters Received From The Northwest

From Minnesota and Wisconsin and throughout the Northwest, many letters of this kind have been received advising that users of Sargon are sending it to relatives back in their old countries of Sweden and Norway.

Many such letters and endorsements have been received from men of prominence, including former governors, business and professional men, mayors, state and county officials, and even ministers of the Gospel who have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell what Sargon has done for them.

Only a short time ago, for instance, the vice president of one of the South's largest corporations walked into a Memphis drug store and purchased his sixth bottle of Sargon. He had taken three bottles himself and stated that he had received such wonderful benefit from it, he was getting the other for relatives and friends.

Four Men in One Firm Are Taking It

Another well-known business man who had also been greatly benefited by Sargon, recommended it to his business associates and employees, so that four different men in one firm are taking the Sargon treatment as the result of only one bottle originally sold.

These are only a few of thousands of such cases which have arisen since Sargon was placed on the market in April, 1928.

Sargon is extensively advertised, it is true, but such a large and rapidly growing demand could not be brought about by advertising alone. One bottle is sold in a neighborhood through advertising, but ten more may be sold in that community after the first bottle produces results. People are always willing to talk about their ailments, but they are more than willing to tell others of the medicine that helps them.

Not a day nor a week passes that does not bring hundreds of statements from the people concerning the good this medicine is doing, and reciting the circumstances of case after case that would convince the most skeptical.

Sargon has attained its prestige and widespread popularity through actual results accomplished—not empty promises. This celebrated medicine may now be obtained in Vermilion at Long's Drug Store, who have been awarded the exclusive Sargon agency for this city. adv

World's Grain Exhibition

Rules and regulations, governing entries in the competitive classes of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held in Regina, July 25 to August 6, 1932, have now been prepared and are available upon application from the office of the Secretary, Imperial Bank Building, Regina, Canada.

The World's Grain Exhibition is open to world-wide competition and any grower in any part of the world may be an exhibitor. The regulations now issued point that with regard to type and quality exhibits in each class should consist of seed of a type and quality capable of reproducing a product of the most desirable character for the purpose intended. "General quality and appearance alone is not sufficient" to guide the rules. Exhibitors should keep in mind the fact that breeding will be taken into consideration."

The rules also state that each exhibitor will be allowed to make entry in as many classes as he may desire, but not more than one entry may be made in any one class. Entries may be taken from any year's crop, they, being no restriction respecting the year in which the exhibit is grown. Applications for entry must be made on forms provided for this purpose and mailed to the Secretary, World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, Regina, Canada.

Included in the rules and regulations is the following important notation: "Exhibits must be the bona fide property of the exhibitor and must have been grown by him and bear the variety name in class which call for this provision."

September 1905-1930.

The first week of September was a red letter period in the history of the twin provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan as it marked the silver anniversary of the creation of these latest members of the Canadian Confederation out of a portion of the vast North West Territories.

When these provinces were inaugurated twenty-five years ago it was estimated for financial and other purposes that they each contained 250,000 people. An estimate which a census taken in 1906 proved to have erred on the side of generosity to the new provinces. Today these two provinces contain over one and a half millions of people. Prior to the creation of the new provinces the people resident in the Territories were represented by ten members in the House of Commons. Today Alberta and Saskatchewan have a total of 22 representatives in the Commons.

In 1905 while population was steadily increasing through immigration, settlement as a whole was confined to a large tract were still wholly unsettled, even built to pass within the two provinces as one of the least thickly settled portions. Only the fringe of the province was suitable for settlement.

Twenty-five years ago the great western empire was served by one main line of railway and only a few roads into it. Today the country is criss-crossed with lines of railway and Alberta now itself being the second province of Canada in point of railway mileage being surpassed in this respect only by the older province of Ontario.

The great fertile prairie area now settled five years ago many people questioned the wisdom of planting such provincial status has in many other respects since proved to be all of remarkable transformation and recorded a most phenomenal growth than any other province of the world in a like period of time. Its productive capacity has amazed other countries and today the out turn of its year's production in the prairie provinces is the barometer of all business in Canada.

Coincident with the settling of the farm lands thousands of hamlets and hundreds of villages came into existence villages became towns, towns grew into cities. With ease in reaching railway facilities, modern telephone systems—one of the most efficient who-almost systems in the world, good roads and modern highways, hospitals and all the requirements and conveniences of twentieth century life the last great West of the pioneers of the closing years of the last century has passed into history, being replaced by two of the most progressive and up-to-date autonomous provinces of the Dominion.

As has been the case with all other lands and nations this record of growth has not always been maintained at high peak While there has never been any retrogression and progress has always been recorded with each passing year there have been times when things have "slowed up," when periods of depression have come when the more faint-hearted were inclined to raise questions and entertain doubts. There have been temporary periods of hard times and during the quarter of a century under review there occurred the awful calamity, and progress-destroying event, of the Great War. Nevertheless, its rich growth permanent growth has been the outstanding characteristic of the first twenty-five years of provincial history of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

This year, owing to a combination of climatic and world economic conditions Western Canada, in common with the rest of the world, is passing through another period of business depression. There is unemployment, for some loss of crops for many greatly restricted incomes for others and generally less prosperous times for all. As is always the case at such times, there are croakers and pessimists abroad in the land, but not a single authority among the great mass of people who live on these prairie and have made them the magnificent provinces they are today.

Twenty-five years in the life of a nation or of a man's life, but it is only a fleeting second in the life of a nation or a province. Every individual must experience some ups and downs in life, with at reverses man would become a flabby thing. The same is true of nations and provinces. Out of the difficulties of today will come the basis of still greater progress, a more permanent and satisfactory form of prosperity. What has been accomplished in Alberta and Saskatchewan during the past twenty-five years is but the forerunner and a promise of what the next quarter of a century will record. Now is the time to prepare for it in order to reap the maximum benefit from that inevitable new era of expansion and prosperity.

Experiments With Rockets

Expect To Obtain Valuable Information By Penetrating Upper Regions

Experiments in shooting rockets to extreme altitudes financed by Daniel Guggenheim will be carried on by Professor Robert H. Goddard of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., at Roswell N.M. That site was selected because of favorable atmospheric conditions

Prof. Goddard has been conducting rocket experiments since 1912 with the regard of the Smithsonian Institution Clark University and the Carnegie Institution. Mr. Guggenheim recently made a grant to permit further work

At Roswell, small rockets will be sent up first and finally one capable of ascending from 50 to 75 miles, will be sent up by gas propulsion and with parachutes to regulate the speed of the return to earth. The rockets will carry thermometer-barometer electrical measuring apparatus, air traps to collect samples of air at various altitudes and other instruments.

Pending completion of preparatory work, it cannot be announced how soon the work at Roswell will begin

THE REASON WHY

Thin, Weak Children Need Baby's Own Tablets

Malnutrition, or the inability to derive nourishment from food, is a common trouble in children and if not corrected entirely due to stomach and bowel weakness, ends in the loss of flesh and sleep is worse

To correct stomach and bowel troubles and thus prevent constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms and allay the pain which accompanies the cutting of teeth, what Baby Own Tablets were designed for. They never disappoint. Mrs. Thos. Hickey writes "I am glad to say that they have done my baby good. I recommend them to all mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT—

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as you could wish.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, sleeping again in jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, Castoria is gentle and to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging

Castoria is sold in every drugstore; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature

A Popular Appointment

Hon. Irene Parlby To Represent Canada At Geneva This Year

A woman, the Hon. Irene Parlby, of Alberta, represents Canada in the assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva this year. This recognition has been given by the Hon. Premier Progressive Prime Minister to the notable Alberta group of women whose successful fight before the Privy Council won admission for women as "persons" to the Senate, thus enabling the Dominion Prime Minister to appoint Hon. Caleine Wilson as Canada's first woman Senator.

With the Alberta leader, who will take Canada's seat in the Council of the League and Hon. Thomas Crerar, Progressive Canadian statesman and historian, will go this woman who was the second cabinet minister of a British Empire and who although an Englishwoman, has identified herself with the essence of the Canadian point of view.

Women Of Vancouver Have Started a Worthy Campaign

Under the instance of the Vancouver Council of Women, more than 5,000 women in Vancouver have signed pledge cards to ask with respect to every purchase, "Where from?" They are then pledged to insist upon British Columbia products made or grown in Canada, or Empire goods.

The campaign is to be continued. In the 70 women's organizations affiliated with the local council of women, there are more than 10,000 members, and all of these are to be asked to sign the "Where from" pledge and to act upon it.

The cards are in two sections, with perforations to allow tearing apart. On one half the name and address of the signatory is kept by the local council. The other half is taken by the signatory and can be placed in a conspicuous place in the home as a reminder

800 DIE WHEN HURRICANE HITS SANTO DOMINGO

San Juan. — Governor Roosevelt was informed that 800 were dead in the city of Santo Domingo alone as the result of the tropical hurricane, with no part of the interior of the Dominican Republic heard from.

The governor's information came from Major Cary I. Crockett, who flew from San Juan to the Dominican capital.

Major Crockett's estimate was made after he had conferred with President Trujillo and Charles B. Curtiss, American minister.

Major Crockett radioed Governor Roosevelt that the American minister with his staff and Europeans were saved, but that the American legation was destroyed.

He said that three-quarters of the houses were practically destroyed and that the entire city was badly damaged.

The 800 deaths were estimated by President Trujillo. That many had been counted at the time of the message, but it was indicated that the number in the city might go higher, with the remainder of the country yet to be heard from.

Hundreds of others were injured, but the message did not attempt to estimate the number.

Major Crockett said there was urgent need for physicians, medical supplies, tents, blankets, clothing and 50,000 to 100,000 rations. He added that funds from the Red Cross also were badly needed.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic.—In this beautiful old city, all but wiped out by a hurricane, rescue workers struggled with a task of succor that taxed their utmost efforts.

Half of the white new world settlement of the white race is in ruins Homes, business blocks, public buildings, churches and the bridge spanning the Ozama River have been battered and twisted into jumbled wreckage

No authoritative source could estimate with reasonable accuracy the millions of dollars of property that had been converted into debris in the short space of the storm's passing.

Aeroplanes circled over the scene of ruin and gave the world the first view of the catastrophe. Later planes were loaded to their capacity with maximum capacity to transport from Port Itieu and elsewhere every possible form of relief, including medical supplies.

Santo Domingo city faced a water famine, imperiling 75,000 or more inhabitants. Efforts were be gun to send fresh water in from inland points by overland truck transport.

The storm that hit Santo Domingo raged for more than an hour. It was a wide swath across the eastern end of the island. Its nature was terrible, according to frightened inhabitants who are still stunned by the immensity of the atmospheric disturbance.

Lighted Airways

There Are Already 900 Miles Of Lighted Airways In Canada

Toronto, Ont.—Hope that before many years have passed Canada will have a trans-continental airway that is second to none was expressed by J. A. Wilson, controller of civil aviation, Ottawa, principal speaker at the aviation and international day luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition.

Already there are 900 miles of lighted airways in Canada, stated Mr Wilson, for night flying and 500 more miles are being added this year.

Charged With Murder

Constable Pitt To Be Tried At Fall Assizes At Dauphin

Dauphin, Man.—On a charge of murder, Constable John W. Pitt, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Yorkton, Sask., will be tried at the fall assizes of the Court of King's Bench, here.

The constable was committed for trial following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Robert Hawkins, in the Dauphin County Court recently. He is charged with the murder of Mrs. Sophie Light, of Ipswich, South Dakota, fatally wounded at an inter-provincial picnic, 65 miles from Dauphin last May.

The evidence given at the preliminary hearing was similar to that of the inquest. Witnesses testified that, contrary to regulations, Pitt had been drinking and was "very intoxicated" at the time of the shooting.

A statement obtained from Mrs. Light shortly before she died in the local hospital was presented by the Crown prosecutor. In it, the woman said she had met the constable only two minutes before the shooting. He had drawn his gun from a holster, and she asked him not to point it at her. "Don't, point it at me. I don't like it, the woman had told the constable. A second later the revolver discharged, and Mrs. Light fell to the ground, a bullet wound in her abdomen.

Pitt was not called upon to testify, nor were any witnessed called for the defence.

Aviator Breaks Own Record

Squadron Leader Cooley Makes Better Record Recrossing Rockies

Regina, Sask. Record for flight to be broken. And Squadron Leader A. E. Cowley, of Ottawa, with J. A. Dickie, Ottawa, secretary of the Association of Flying Clubs, unsuccessfully broke the record they established in establishing the record ing the famed Canadian Rockies flight by aeroplane on August 20, it was revealed by their arrival at the Regina airport on September 2

Flying a Stearman biplane belonging to Inspector A. D. McLean, Regina, of the Department of Civil Aviation, they made the distance of over 700 miles eastward through a fog hours and 30 minutes. A few days previously they had created a record by flying from Calgary to Vancouver in five hours and 35 minutes.

Squadron Leader Cooley, superintendent of air regulations in the Dominion and his record-breaking feat came only in the regular course of his work.

"Beothic" Reaches Pond Inlet

Lands Supplies For Northern Post After Severe Trip

Ottawa, Ont. After two weeks of battling with heavy ice in the attempt to reach Melville Island and return forward along Lancaster Sound and Barrow Strait, the S.S. Beothic, bearing the Department of the Interior Arctic expedition, reached Pond Inlet in safety on September 1, but owing to a heavy northeast gale, was unable to land supplies for the post there until evening, according to radio messages received here. Pond Inlet is the most northerly government post in Baffin Island and one of the most important in the service.

G. C. Mackenzie, officer, in sending his wireless message to the director of the North West Territories and the aviation and international day luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition.

Already there are 900 miles of lighted airways in Canada, stated Mr Wilson, for night flying and 500 more miles are being added this year.

Raise Fund For Widow

Family Of Mounted Constable Killed While On Duty, Will Be Provided For

Montreal, Que.—Enabling the family of Constable Dollard Pelletier to live with out serious privation and permitting the children to be educated, a fund opened by a local newspaper after the bookkeeping station raised $16,592

The constable was shot down on duty when he entered a store in which he suspected a burglar was working, and died in hospital shortly afterwards.

The money has been placed with a trust company, the interest to be spent on the family's behalf. The constable left a widow and six children

Big Cheque For Mother

Toronto, Ont. Sudden wealth has descended on the head of Mrs. Mary Bell, mother of Percy Bell, winner of the C.N.E. marathon and 16-mile swimming champion of the world. When he received the cheque for $7,400, his portion of the Exhibition prize, he bought a draft for the full amount and sent it to his mother in Fort Dodge, Iowa.

French Flyers Feted

Hailed By New York As Latest Guests Of Aviation

New York, N.Y.—Two little men of modest manner were hailed by all New York as the latest giants of aviation.

At a luncheon in their honor, on a ride around the harbor, in a parade through the streets, and at city hall, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte were given tumultuous greeting that might have turned any head. But it didn't turn theirs. On they smiled, they waved, they said they were having a grand time. But quite evidently they remained, from their own viewpoint, just a couple of fellows who had tackled a tough job and had the good fortune to succeed.

"You may be especially proud," Mayor Walker told the French flyers in the aldermanic chamber at city hall, "that your great achievement is not only a wonderful accomplishment in itself but also is the final justification of the ill-fated attempt of your countrymen, Nungesser and Coli."

After the mayor had delivered his welcome and congratulated them on turning the north Atlantic from a one-way street into a two-way thoroughfare, the procession proceeded uptown and it was finished.

After the Texas flight, Coste announced recently, his famous flying Question Mark will be flown back to France by Paul Codos, who holds jointly with him several world records for distance flying.

Aviators Encounter Bad Weather

Major Burwash Delayed In Flight To Coronation Gulf

Winnipeg, Man.—Checked by poor flying conditions, Major L. T. Burwash, famous northern wanderer, and the pilot of his seaplane, W. E. Gilbert, are held to the ground at Bernard Harbor for up in Dolphin Strait The second two-day waiting for the weather to clear up before leaving on their aerial journey to King William Land or other North Baffin Island is part of the orders from Canada to the pioneering expedition Major Burwash is to be attached to the ministry of the interior and might be assigned to assist in the geographical survey of the region. The official at the government headquarters here announced that land work at this early period would be limited to taking bearings and photographs of the coast line

On August 25 Burwash and his companion set out from Hearne on the first leg of the journey, arriving here safe and sound. Major Burwash said he hoped to make a photographic survey of the shore line between Chesterfield Inlet and Baker Lake

Preparations for the expedition were made by the government here and at Churchill, Man., where it has been proposed a base for the aerial survey be established. The Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that the survey party would be flown to the Arctic by the Hudson Bay Company's aeroplane Nascopie, which is now on the way to Hudson Bay. The Nascopie is expected to put ashore all supplies for the party at Churchill, Man., and the Government has also chartered a boat to take the supplies from Churchill to Baker Lake.

Well-Known Pilot Killed At Toronto

Captain Charles Sutton Crashed Into Lake From Low Altitude

Toronto, Ont. Captain Charles Sutton, well-known Toronto pilot and Canadian war veteran, was killed when the Fokker seaplane he was flying in the Efficiency Challenge Trophy race at the Canadian National Exhibition, crashed into Lake Ontario from a low altitude

The accident occurred in full view of thousands of spectators

Rescuers found the plane floating bottom side up and the mutilated mechanic, Claude Mills, clinging to a shattered wing in a semi-conscious condition Sutton could not be found and it is presumed he was buried under pieces from the cockpit and drowned

Sutton was one of the best known fliers in Canada particularly in the north, where he had flown nearly 100,000 miles. He was formerly chief pilot of Dominion Explorers and had superintended the placing of a number of supply stations for the Hudson Bay Company. He was also a member of the Alpine and his party was in the region when he died

Return From Poultry Show

Two Canadian Wild Geese Make Round Trip From Brandon To London, England

Brandon, Man. Two Canadian wild geese members of the Brandon Poultry Association, have returned from the longest journey ever undertaken by any of their species which ever left the Canadian prairies. The two birds, which are known to Brandonites as "Mr. and Mrs. Brandon," are part of the exhibit from Canada at the poultry show now in progress at the Crystal Palace, London, England. They were attached to the exhibit by the agent of some enterprising Brandon citizen who might be responsible for the journey. The agent, who left for England in April, is said to have made the trip as a stowaway. Upon arrival in London he approached the officials of the poultry show and proposed that the birds be entered in the show. The proposal was accepted. The birds were then shipped to Brandon by express between Canada and the United States.

Preparations for the reception of the birds on their return to Canada are now being made by the Brandon Poultry Association. It has been proposed that the birds be given a royal welcome on their arrival in Brandon. It is expected that they will be met at the station by a band and escorted to the city hall by a parade of the members of the association.

The group of 20 members will also [illegible] reception to the [illegible] Canada. Among the speakers are [illegible] K.C. and Fred George Heaps, Toronto [illegible] Rev. Hedley R. K. C. East Leaving For Dutch Guiana

Services Requisitioned to Assist in Sampling Alluvial Mining Concession for Large British Interests

C. East, prominent farmer of this district, is leaving immediately for Dutch Guiana, South America, in response to a cablegram, and expects to be away for a period of from six months to a year. The cablegram instructed Mr. East to proceed there at once to help sample an alluvial mining concession, and was received from H. W. Fry, mining engineer representing an English mining firm which operates in practically all parts of the world, and has interests in Western Canada.

Mr. East was associated in mining work with Mr. Wray in Australia some twenty years ago when President Hoover of the United States was the chief engineer for the same firm.

Cutting And Threshing Held Up By Rain

Rains which set in Thursday and continued until Monday held up both the remaining cutting and threshing operations throughout this entire district. The weather remained cloudy on Monday, but a hard frost that night cleared the weather and bright sunshine prevailed during Tuesday and Wednesday. Considerable oats remained to be cut early this week, but the wheat is practically 100 p.c. completed. Threshing would be general now but for the spell of rainy weather.

DUCK SHOOTERS GET BIG BAGS ON OPENING DAYS OF THE SEASON

Duck shooting season was ushered in by the usual fusillade, only possibly a little more so this year. Many hunters picked their spots on Sunday afternoon and spent the night in handy hay stacks. In cars, etc., but the bulk were up and on the road long before daybreak to their favorite hunting grounds. Dugs of ducks all the way from a lowly one or two to 52 have been reported since the opening morning. The Standard has not heard of any geese being shot yet only that some had very "narrow escapes."

Many Tariff Changes Announced By Bennett

Gasoline Subject to Duty

Tariff changes numbering 130 were announced by Premier Bennett in the house at Ottawa on Tuesday, Sept. 12th. The items cover a large variety. The iron and steel schedules, cottons, woolens, etc., are among those affected. Many classes of farm machinery are included in the changes. Change in the duties on milking machines, cultivators, harrows, seed drills, ploughs, mowing machines, harvesters, reapers and many other kinds of agricultural machinery were announced.

Other matters to come under enlarged tariff rates included all livestock, preserved meats, butter, grains, potatoes and fruits, advertising matter, paper products of all kinds, petroleum oils and window glass.

NO FREE GASOLINE

The new schedule provides for the disappearance of the item concerning the entry, free, of gasoline. The revised is made for a duty of 3 cents under British preference, and 3½ intermediate and 5½ cents general.

Three classes of tariff are provided the lowest under British preference; intermediate applying to certain foreign nations with which Canada has made treaties, and the general tariff applying to other foreign nations in force in the United States.

FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

The tariff measure is one way the government proposes for the relief of un-employment in Canada. Premier Bennett reminded his earlier estimate of $5,000 being added to obtain employment through this measure as a conservative one.

Popular Student Minister Leaves For Ireland

F. A. O'Hara student minister of the Presbyterian church at Vermilion since last spring, left last Monday afternoon for Toronto on his way to his old home in Ireland sailing from New York next week. Mr. O'Hara is a graduate of the University of Dublin and will complete his theological course in the Assembly Theological College at Belfast next spring.

On Friday evening the congregation met in the church hall and presented him with a valuable fountain pen and pencil set as a token of its appreciation of his work during his stay with them. A social hour or two followed during which the members of the Ladies' Aid served refreshments. Mr. O'Hara was very popular with the younger people of the town and made many friends, a large number of whom were at the train Monday after noon to bid him farewell. Mr. O'Hara has had a brilliant college career taking his Master's degree from Dublin when he was under twenty.

DEATH OF MISS A. M. FIELD

The death occurred on Friday evening last of Miss A. M. Field, lately residing at Edmonton, but who was paying a visit to her brother, Mr. H. W. Field of Pleasant Valley district when she took sick and was removed to the local hospital. Deceased had suffered from heart trouble for some considerable time and the end was not altogether unexpected. The body was shipped on Tuesday to Clifford, Ontario, where the funeral will be held from her former home to the local cemetery. Mr. J. Waring had charge of arrangements.

Erastus G. Penrose, 66, vice-president and general manager of the Charter-lake Dusty Record, died at his home following a short illness.

Dandelion Coats has been made an honorary colonel and Maurice Belleau an honorary lieutenant in the Maple-ton Rifles upon suggestion of the ministry of war.

Believed to be the oldest telephone operator in point of service in the United States, Miss Elizabeth Cook of St. Paul, Minn., has retired. She served subscribers 50 years.

Canada's turn as a member of the Council of the League of Nations, best terminated. Sir Robert Borden, the Dominion's delegate, will now participate only in meetings of the assembly.

High praise was given to the equipment of Canadian sanatoria by Dr. F. J. M. Conlin, tuberculosis specialist of England, who sailed from Montreal on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm" for Southampton.

It is understood that officials of the British Empire Trade Exhibition were planning to ask the air ministry to send the airplane R-101 or the R-100 to Buenos Aires next March, for the exhibition there

Building plans given by the Lacombe town council to convey a referendum, to support revenue, it appears practically certain that the Irish Free State will succeed Canada on the council of the League of Nations.

Economic loss to the Dominion through unemployment is $16,000,000 a month, declared H. W. Dafoe, Jr., Brandon, Man., president of the Union of Canada Municipalities, stated at the opening of the 20th annual convention of that body at Hamilton.

Communist forces in China attacked British and United States gunboats. No fatalities were reported, though it was stated that the British boat's retaliation was the "heaviest attack against Chinese outlaws in recent years." It is thought that some members of the Red parties may have been killed.

GOVERNMENT GRAIN INSPECTION

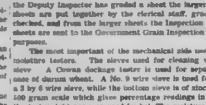
We are indebted to the Searle Grain Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, for the following article describing the system of Government Grain Inspection as carried on under the supervision of the Board of Grain Commissioners:

The Dominion Government Grain Inspection Department is under supervision of the Board of Grain Commissioners, but the direct responsibility for the actual grading is placed upon the Chief Inspector for Canada and his deputies. These men are efficient, of high integrity and have had many years of experience.

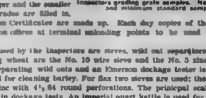
The necessary qualities of a Grain Inspector are sound judgment, accuracy and a thorough knowledge of grain, as well as a general knowledge of the many different varieties and their respective milling values.

A good sight is essential in grading. The Inspection Department always uses a north light as there is no glare from the sun, and a north light is always steady. The actual grading is never done later than 4:00 in the afternoon, thus utilizing the light while it is at its best.

After the samples are taken from the railway cars as described in our pamphlet "Government Grain Sampling," and have been delivered to the Grain Inspector's office, the first step in grading is weighing the sample to ascertain the test weight per measured bushel. Then the dockage is determined by weighing 500 grams, approximately a pound of grain, sieving it and weighing the refuse or "dockage" which has been screened through the official standard sieves for that purpose. The test weight and dockage are recorded on the cardboard ticket enclosed in a sample bag. The Inspector then grades the cleaned grain, placing grade and dockage on the Inspector's sheet," making notations regarding the quality, test weight and the load lines of the car. The samples are then cleaned and passed on by the Supervisors as to accuracy of grade, and then double checked.



Grading rules at Winnipeg Government Inspection Office



Moisture testing room where tests are made on the moisture content of grain

If the grade is not raised and he is still dissatisfied he may appeal from the unfavorable decision to the unfavorable appeal placed before the Grain Appeal Tribunal, whose decision is final. The fee for an appeal is $5.00. If the grade is raised the fee is returned, and if the inspector's grade is sustained the fee is forfeited.

Appeal Boards in the Western Division are at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton. Each Board consists of eight members, including the Chairman, who is an independent salaried official. A quorum of an Appeal Board or Tribunal consists of the Chairman and two other members, one of such members to be a representative of Producers.

The Western Inspection Division is at territory from the Pacific Coast to the Head of the Lakes. In this territory are several inspection points, namely, Fort William, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Medicine Hat, Prince Rupert and Vancouver. Approximately 130 inspectors are employed under the Chief Inspector.

There is also a large research laboratory in connection with the Inspection Department at Winnipeg. Its duties are to determine the milling and baking qualities of wheat and also to examine grades and samples as well as general research work for the guidance of the Western Grain Standards Committee and the Inspection Department.

Our management pays careful attention to the grading of all cars consigned to our office. The inspection certificate is compared with advices from the shipper as to the grade anticipated, the official Government sample of the cars is carefully examined in the Inspection office and the shipper's instructions are carried out. Wherever we consider any better grade obtainable by a re-inspection it is ordered on the unload sample and if necessary we ask for an appeal.

New Device Demonstrated

Motor Produced From Instrument Based On Radio Principle

By merely moving his hands before a plain looking cabinet Lemington H Shrewell, a national broadcasting artist, created music of such amazing tone and beauty that radio engineers from all over America, who heard it, applauded enthusiastically

It was the first public demonstration in Toronto of the Victor Thremin, a musical instrument based on radio principles, which had been brought here for the annual banquet at the King Edward 16-6d held in connection with the fifth annual and the first international convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers

The music of the instrument had been heard by many before on national hook ups over the air, but more novel than the actual music was the simplicity with which the young artist seemed to produce it. Marvelling before a silvery rod which extended above a plain wooden box, Mr Shrewell merely moved his hands back and forth to bring out the tones he desired the right hand was used to bring out the melody, he explained later, and with his left hand he controlled volume phrasing and expression.

The Thremin is named after its creator, a Russian, who conceived the idea of the "squeals" of radios was sound that could be utilized as music.

JONAH—THE NARROW NATION'S ALIBI REBUKED

Golden Text: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons." Acts 10:34.

Lesson: Read the Book of Jonah.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 139: 7-12.

Explanations and Comments

Jonah's Disobedience, chapters 1 and 2.—Whenever we are conscious of an urgent voice which says to us, "Go over and over, 'You ought! You ought,' it is likely that we are listening to the word of the Lord. It was thus that the word of the Lord came to Jonah telling him that he ought to go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach there the message that God had him. Instead of obeying the voice, Jonah went in the opposite direction, the story tells us. At Joppa he found a ship bound for Tarshish (the Phoenician colony on the southern coast of Spain, then regarded as the very end of the earth), and went aboard it. Then, while the ship was at sea, the sailors concluded that some one had offended his god and that he must do to discover the culprit. The lot fell upon Jonah, and he acknowledged his guilt, and advised them to throw him into the sea. Finding the effort to row back to land unavailing, the sailors prayed to Jehovah and then reluctantly cast Jonah overboard. The sea ceased from its raging, and the sailors offered sacrifice to Jehovah. A great fish swallowed Jonah, and after three days cast him out upon dry land.

The Prophet Rebuked, 4:6-11.—Still unwilling to believe in divine mercy, Jonah went out from the city, himself east of Nineveh and sat under its shade to see what would become of the city. The booth was constructed of branches and leaves, and withered, but a good sprang up and its living leaves afforded Jonah grateful shelter.

The gourd was eaten by a worm, and it withered, and then the sirocco from the desert of burning sand blew over him, and he fainted and again prayed that he might die. "It is better for me to die than to live," again he cried. Recall Elijah's wish for death, 1 Kings 19:4.

"Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd?" said God. Jonah replied, I do well to be angry, even unto death," was Jonah's violent answer. His pride as a prophet was hurt, and he was indignant that "Nineveh's Ninevites" should receive mercy from Israel's God. When Job was overwhelmed with afflictions, and was told by his wife to "Renounce God and die," he answered, "What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?"

"I never knew until I got a car," said the bishop, "that profanity was on probation."

"Do you hear much of it on the road?"

"Why," replied the bishop, "nearly everybody I meet—"

How To Lose 24 Pounds of Fat

At the Same Time Gain In Physical Vigor and Vitality—Also Add Charm and Lustre to Your Complexion and Brighten Eyes that Sparkle with Health

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman desires:

Every morning take one full teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "it's the daily dose that tells" and the fat "—how's mine is passing!" Kruschen daily means that every particle of poisonous waste realizes and harmful acids and gases are eliminated from the system.

Modify your diet, and take inside no fat producers. Then, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up, and the pure, fresh blood containing these elements is carried to every part of the body, and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and slender figure.

Not Cramped For Space

Canadian Air Liner Has Comfortable Cabin On Trains

When the British air liner R-100 was over Ontario, it was difficult to realize that the ship's weight in the air is actually over 150 tons.

Length R-100 is longer than any of ocean liners that sail out of Montreal. The abidrome is house 5-100 would have to be larger than any city block in Ottawa.

Passengers on the air liner have accommodations as roomy as the cabins on ocean liners. They are larger than the compartments in Pullman sleeping cars. There is more room on the promenade decks of R-100 than in the observation cars of transcontinental trains. The dining saloon will accommodate more passengers than will the dining car of any train.

Under consideration when the long steel girders of the airship were to be seen. It conveyed an impression of enormous size. But the appearance of an ocean liner in the shipyard Long before R-100 has reached the present age of the British liner "Mauretania," first class passenger travel will be almost entirely by air

Nearly 7000 Entries At School Fair

Surpassed All Previous Events Of The Kind-Great Displays

The annual school fair at the exhibition grounds, Vermilion, on Wednesday, September 10 was without question the most outstanding held to date. The favorable season for the production of garden vegetables and roots accounted for an exceptional display in these lines and consequently the exhibits were not only numerous, but of pronounced quality all through, the resulting competition being very keen. The flower and sheaf exhibits were marked, as were also the mounted collection of weeds; in the latter the entry from a pupil of Bawtell school was particularly creditable. The entries in all classes of the fair, totalling approximately 7000, convey an idea of the enormous amount of work devolving upon the receiving committee; they did their work well but every available inch of space was used, temporary structures, which included cooking and sewing, presented an excellent display; a steady attendance is readily no-ticeable in these classes year by year —an indication that extra care and pains are being taken in the domestic industrial art, penmanship, composition, elementary science, manual training, and agriculture, with the result a most pleasing exhibit. We must not omit mentioning the showing of live stock, a creditable one for the fall. In all, 24 schools took part in this year's fair.

The bulk of the entries were placed on Tuesday afternoon by the receiving committee comprised of Richard Good, Mrs. Payne, Miss Burr, Mrs. Dunaway, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Taylor. The livestock committee on Wednesday was made up of W. W. Cook (acquiring ref W. D. Williams) for colts and calves. S. C. Heckbert, superintendent of school fairs for Northern Alberta was in charge of the staff of judges from our agricultural school; Misses Oakley, Stone, Maxwell and Messrs. Stewart and public school principal, acted as clerks for the judges and worked until 11:30 Tuesday night. Miss Stone acquitted the ticket office efficiently and Miss Fraser was in charge of the booth. The officers are S. C. Heckbert, honorary president; W. G. Hamilton, K.C., president; Mrs. M. L. Galloway, vice-president; W. E. Sutton, secretary treasurer. The amount of work attaching to the success of the fair was tremendous and to all the above the public must accord its warmest thanks

While the attendance was good, it was far from being as large as its importance to the community of the fair warranted It was noticeable that quite a number of citizens were conspicuous by their absence It would appear that some business men had to reconcile the benefits the town derives by this and similar events, there being no question but that such laudable undertakings go to assist Vermilion in helping to retain its place as a centre, and less as some thing that should not be overlooked. With town assigned up to the north, and south of us on the new lines of railroads, every effort that will bring the people to Vermilion and get them to look upon Vermilion as their town is a valuable acquisition to those doing business here and should receive unlimited support from the merchants and others

During the afternoon races for all grades took place on the track, and the thanks of the committee is extended to all those who assisted in handling the events

Published below is a list of awards in vegetables (closed competition) of all schools participating. Owing to the fact that returns, consisting of names and numbers allotted to pupils, from two or three of the schools were not received until late Wednesday, it was found impossible to prepare the balance of the awards in time for publication this week. These will appear in the next issue.

A DAMP HUNTING STORY

The best hunting story of the early shooting season is told of the party of Hubert Winters, George Garland, and Jack Courtgaard, whose boat sank in mid-river. Jack, who didn't want to get his feet wet, stuck to the boat until the last minute, with his feet the highest part of him.

Another good story is told of the gentleman who had a fine shot at some geese, but on firing had the barrel of his gun blown off. He decided later that it must have got plugged with dirt somehow.

Marking the passing of another milestone in the history of the company, the remaining Canadian Canadian Pacific branch line from Willingdon to Vermilion, a distance of about 30 miles, was declared open for traffic recently with the arrival of the first passenger train at the Vegreville station.

With a record reservation list including a very large number ahead, the Banff Springs Hotel welcomed its first guests of the year May 24. Considerable improvement work has been done on the 18 hole golf course which was virtually ready for play on opening day.

Development of fruit growing on the prairies has been one of the features of agricultural progress in recent years in western Canada. Patches of native gooseberries, currants and raspberries have evolved into orchards containing many varieties of plums, cherries, apples and small fruits, while the largest acreages are devoted to strawberries and raspberries.

A recent official compilation shows that the total value of field crops in 1929 was valued at $964,167,-400 as against only $477,200,000 in 1926. Canada's poultry population in 1929 numbered 69,298,783, valued at $63,564,000.

A forest in embryo—256 acres of land on which white spruce have been planted by the Saskatchewan forestry service in the Prince Albert region. H. P. Baker, forestry assistant states that the transplanting of 1,200,000 nursery seedlings and almost as big an amount in next years season is the largest in the province.

While the official opening of the Welland Ship Canal, conducted at a cost of $120,000,000, will not take place until next July, the northern section was unofficially opened to traffic recently when the steamer Georgian entered Lake Erie from Port Walter, the Lake Ontario end of the canal, and passed through to Lake Erie.

High Officers O.E.S. Visit Local Chapter

Tuesday evening, September 16th, the regular monthly meeting of Queen Esther Chapter was held.

Miss Ella C. Isaac of Calgary, grand worthy matron of the grand chapter of Alberta O.E.S., paid her official visit. The work of the chapter was presented in a very able manner by Mrs. Law, worthy matron of Queen Esther, assisted by her officers. After the business of the evening a very instructive and pleasing address was given by the grand worthy matron. Mrs. Maude Colleen, grand associate matron, accompanied Miss Isaac.

A social hour was then spent and refreshments served by Mrs. A. H. West and committee.

Automatic boat regulation has now been installed from the first time in Canada on regular equipment on Canadian passenger cars with the introduction by the Canadian Pacific Railway of their new "D" type standard sleepers, constructed at the Angus Shops, Montreal, for the use of the company's exports. Two of these cars are now in use on the "Trans-Canada Limited."

A bronze memorial tablet unveiled at Ottawa by Lord Willingdon, whose Bliss Carman, Canadian poet, spent his childhood, has been unveiled in the New Brunswick Legislature by Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, New Brunswick section.

F. W. Bishop, president of the United Fruit Companies of Nova Scotia, stated recently that fruit growers in the province anticipated a bumper crop of good quality from this year. He was of the opinion that the crop would be about 50 to 60 per cent. high grade.

The National Dairy Council of Canada in a recent report stated that Saskatchewan ranked third in the Dominion in the matter of additional gross revenue from dairy products in 1929 over 1928, the figures given at $21,000,000 as compared with $18,000,000 in the latter year.

Total production of maple syrup in Canada for 1929 was 1,351,000 gallons, valued at $3,378,107, as compared with 1,230,000 gallons, valued at $3,321,000, in 1928. Average price of maple syrup was $2.77 a gallon, and of maple sugar 17 cents a pound. Ontario leads the Dominion in the output of maple products, with Quebec second and Nova Scotia third.

Mothers! Don't Risk Their Health With Violent Purgatives

Constipation is one of children's greatest enemies. Unless the intestinal system is kept clear and clean ill health is almost sure to follow.

But severe acting laxatives are dangerous. The daily system of child or adult is not meant to withstand the unnatural, forcing action caused by ordinary, cheap cathartics.

CHAPTER XXIX. Continued

But Jim Bennett suddenly pushed between them. "Clear out," he commanded brusquely, and at the same door marked "Private." Thus was the president of the Wickfield National Bank ejected from its own quarters. He went peacefully, but not before he had seen something that caused him to blow his nose with unending violence as he closed the door: Charman was weeping, her tears soaking the shoulder of Jim's new suit

"You promised not 'to cry, dear," Jim reminded her after an interval.

She stirred, as if to move away, but his arms held her so relentlessly that she relaxed and said, not raising her eyes: "I'm terribly ashamed to give way like this, Jim. But—but I felt so homeless all of a sudden."

Her voice trembled with heartbreak. Jim couldn't stand it. "Don't say that, Charman," he cried, his own voice shaking. "Homeless! Why, you've got plenty of people. Your mother, and—and me any time you'll say the word."

Under the new coat she felt his heart race, as hers was racing. It gave her courage to ask shamelessly: "Then you aren't going to be married, after all?"

"Not unless I marry you, sweetheart."

Sweetheart! Was this her inarticulate Jimmy? Charman didn't know his voice could make that word. For a moment she forgot the homelessness that had brought her tearing to him for everything in the world of relief that flooded through her as she gasped: "Then there isn't a girl in California, as Miss Lind says?"

Jim smiled, thinking how innocently his mother had played into his hands. His arms tightened as he answered: "Lots of 'em, Charman real Californian peaches, too; but I seem to be a sort of one-girl man, darling. I'm simply didn't exist—for me."

She lifted her head at that, her eyes so starry that he felt half blinded; but, being Jim, he dropped the arms that clasped her and moved away.

"Look here!" he said. "I didn't mean to take advantage of a moment when you're so down and out. I guess I forgot myself; but I had you in my arms, Charman, and it played the dickens with me. Forget it, dear, till you can see clearly. You mustn't regard me as—well—as 'any port in a storm', you know. I realize that there are a lot of things about me that grate on you. Perhaps time will smooth 'em down; but I want to be honest."

He stopped abruptly, as if speech came too hard; but Charman moved forward, looking straight up into his honest eyes

"I love more clearly than I ever have in my life, Jim," she said very quietly, "and I know now that for me, only one thing really matters. Are—are you sure, absolutely, that you love me?"

Jim smiled

"You mustn't learn saying so ever since George K went out that door," he asked.

He ever followed an enchanted interval that was balm of Gilead to Jim's faithful heart! Then the girl said: "He must go home to Grandma and

Spending Money In Canada

One hundred million dollars is a large sum and by spending more than 90 per cent of this money in Canada, the Canadian National Railways are doing something more than serving the people of the Dominion with adequate transportation. They are serving the industries of Canada in no small measure and, thereby, giving employment to tens of thousands of artisans, clerks, and workers who benefit greatly from the tremendous purchasing power of the National system from year to year.

ON TIME

Now that the school calls at 9 o'clock every morning, in many a home-both city and country there is a grand and glorious scramble and rush to get the children off on time.

Hurried half- and fifty-seven do not quire that most valuable of habits—punctuality—and they go through life trying to catch up and never getting there. Looking at lateness from the point of view of the teacher and classroom, it is one of the unpleasant and unpardonable annoyances that take the joy out of the day.

Looking at it from a health stand point the child with his breakfast bolted and his appetite unsatisfied handicaps a poor pupil. He starts the day handicapped.

The remedy is a simple one and lies in the agreement of a little success. Examine a set of rules for the health game of the Junior Red Cross and it will be seen that one refers to sleep—Going to bed on time is the key to the situation of being on time at school. This is too valuable a habit to be ignored. Let every member have a set of health rules in the home. Write for your free copy to Junior Red Cross, Civic Block, Edmonton

Friend From New York Told Him About Sargon

THOMAS STACK

"When a friend of mine from New York visited me recently and told me about this new Sargon medicine, I had no idea it was going to mean the end of suffering that had made my life miserable for years.

"Stomach and intestinal disorders go hand with a man of my age and I have had a time of it. Chronic constipation poisoned my whole system and a kind of rheumatic condition developed in my back with pains and aches practically all over my body. I got to where I couldn't sleep and became subject to weak, dizzy spells and finally had to give up driving my car altogether. I couldn't even drink a glass of milk without having heartburn and indigestion, and sometimes the gas on my stomach was so awful that the pressure would seem to almost choke off my heart action.

"I'm situated so that I can live comfortably the rest of my days, but there was little consolation in that thought when I suffered such misery. None of the medicines I tried did me any good and I had given up in despair—but decided I might as well 'carry along' to the end as best I could—when my friend from New York told me about Sargon. He said that the medicine was making a big hit in New York and seemed to be doing everybody good that tried it; so I went down to Tamblyn's Drug Store and bought a treatment, along with the regular directions.

"I had only used about half a bottle of Sargon and the same quantity of the Pills, when I noticed a big change for the better. I quit having indigestion and gas on my stomach; the rheumatic pains began to loosen their grip, and a feeling of new strength and vigor came over my entire system! I got out my car the other day and can now drive around as much as I please without being afraid of those dizzy spells. I'm eating heartily, sleeping well and enjoying life in every way.

"The Sargon Pills are the finest thing in the way of a laxative that I ever used. Instead of purging, they seem to work on the liver with a stimulating action that has a lasting effect and keeps the bowels regulated perfectly.

"Everyone I've recommended Sargon to tells me that it's doing them a world of good and I honestly believe it will help anyone suffering with troubles like mine, if they'll take their treatment faithfully."

The above statement was made by Thomas Stack, well known retired business man of 26 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, Ont.

Sargon may be obtained in Vermilion from Long's Drug Store.

The Longest Train

What is believed to be the longest freight train on record passed through the Fort Rouge (Winnipeg) yards of the Canadian National a few days ago. Drawn by one of those heavy engines of the Mountain type, added to the locomotive power last year, it consisted of 125 cars. Travelling westward, it carried many consignments of merchandise to Western terminals and some empties returning to the elevators. It was what is known as a "single header," and all told was approximately one mile and one quarter long. Up till ago year ago, 80 cars were considered the maximum load in mixed freight or grain traffic between Saskatchewan and the Head of the Lakes.

READ WHAT EDMUND ENGLISH FOUND OUT ABOUT G. W. G. STOP-LOSS POCKET OVERALLS

Here is his letter.

Black Alberta, May 6, 1930
G.W.G. Overalls Limited
Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to tell you how your G.W.G. Overalls have saved me time, money and worry these last few years. Before I started using them I used to spend a lot of time and money on my overalls. I used to buy a pair of overalls and in a few days I would have a pair of overalls with the pockets torn out of my pocket too. My wife would have to sew them up. She complained that I was always tearing my overalls.

Last Fall I helped operate a combined harvester, and worried with me all the time I was down pulling pockets out of places, carrying bolts in the pockets of my overalls. Then I got a pair of G.W.G. overalls. I didn't have either one all fall, and when threshing around 4 months I went to my fifty different pockets every day and I never lost a thing. I never had any bolts or wrenches get out of sleeve, so when I needed many bolt right at hand, without any danger of them slipping out of my pocket, I carried them and saved me a lot of time. I just threw in the combine—don't you know—and I didn't have to carry my wrench to the stack for every bolt I needed. I have never had my watch slip out of that pocket yet, but I don't think it would, as the pocket is too deep. I have worn my G.W.G. overalls all winter, and they are practically as good as new. I have worn out all the buckles on the bib, but I beg to report that I am not to wish to wear it out.

Yours truly,
EDMUND ENGLISH.

2,000,000 Six-Cylinder Chevrolets now on the road

SINCE January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold more 2,000,000 six-cylinder motor cars—nearly five times as many as any manufacturer of sixes has ever built in an equal length of time.

Such record-breaking public preference shows how buyers of low-priced cars are demanding the advantages of six-cylinder design. These 2,000,000 sixes, doubled on Chevrolet loyalty because of the following facts:

Chevrolet is Smoother

A six-cylinder engine is smoother, of course, more flexible—free from annoying vibration—runs at any speed desired. And Chevrolet gives you a 6-cylinder, 50-horsepower, six-cylinder power plant!

More Comfortable, Smarter

Chevrolet is the low-priced car in which riders enjoy a rugged full-length chassis with modern roadability—a roomy, easy-riding body-type with fore-and-aft seats—the style and luxury advantages of Body by Fisher.

Easy to Buy and Own

The Chevrolet Six is priced as low as $635, at the factory. And you will find it costs no more for operation or upkeep than any other car of comparable size and type on the road. You may purchase through the G.M.A.C., General Motors' own deferred payment plan. The General Motors Owner Service Policy will safeguard your investment.

Your Canada is a Chevrolet User—it's first choice of Canadians by overwhelming majorities—more than 2 to 1 over the Number Two car!

Road Gang Nearing Islay

Recent Rain Helps to Improve New Road

What was understood to be but a re-conditioning of parts of the grade between here and Kitscoty has resulted in an entire rebuilding of the highway; the road gang doing the work has now reached a point some two miles west of Islay where considerable dirt has to be moved in the course of the highway around the slough at that point is being altered slightly. The corners of the new road are splendid, the ditches well done, but the surface is still soft and full of holes in spots. The recent rains with subsequent dragging have helped to improve this surface.

BROWNIE NOTES

Last week we proceeded with our work in preparing for the second class badge. The first thing done was the placing together of the Union Jack. Next, most of the Brownies passed the "hopping test," that is, hopping around in a four figure of eight, first on the right foot, then around again on the left foot. After that we went into houses and went on with the darning.

Brown Owl is again at the Parish hall on Mondays after school for the benefit of those who wish to get their Brownie Wings before going into the Guides.

Here and There

As a new home more historical than anything conveyed by modern skill stands a rocky highlands and placid lakes were given first place by Sir William Dawson Wheeler, M.D., F.R.C.S., interviewed recently at Lake Louise where he rested after attending the arduous convention of members of the British Medical Association held last month at Winnipeg.

A note of confidence and sincere optimism in the soundness of Canada's economic position at the present time and faith in our future development was sounded by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at the banquet given recently at Saint John by the Board of Trade of that city in celebration of the first sailing of the Princess Helena, new C.P.R. coastal steamer, on the Saint John-Digby route. Mr. Beatty said he hoped to see a second boat run alongside the Princess Helena in the not distant future.

Determination of the Canadian Pacific Railway to maintain for Canada the pride of owning the largest, fastest and finest ocean liner on the Pacific and that the company's foresight in providing for needs beyond those of the present in the realm of transportation were lauded at Vancouver recently, at a dinner held aboard the liner Empress of Japan, new 26,000-ton Pacific vessel John D. Randolph Bruce, Lt.-Governor of British Columbia, added his tribute to those of many other speakers at the function.

Mrs. L. M. Calverley, wife of the famous British surgeon, was credited with taking the largest fish, other than salmon to be caught in British Columbia waters this season, when she landed an 18¼-lb Rainbow trout from the sparkling waters of Shawnee Lake recently. She is a cousin of Lady Diana Duff Cooper who as Lady Diana Manners gained world-wide fame as the heroine of "The Miracle."

The Banff Highland Gathering of 1930 goes down not only as the greatest yet as far as overseas entrants are concerned but also for attendances since more than 12,000 spectators were present. Eight events ran concurrently and one currently; athletic events were confined to Alberta and British Columbia; dancing events added Manitoba to the list, while the pipers' events brought in the whole of Canada, Scotland, China and the State of Washington.

Marking the earliest opening of the apple shipping season from Halifax to Europe, over a week in advance of last year, the first overseas shipment of the fruit went September 2 in a cargo estimated at about 6,000 barrels of Nova Scotia apples.

There is a record crop of potatoes in Canada this year. It will total 44,500,000 bushels or 46 per cent. more than in 1929, according to the latest official estimate. Potatoes are grown in commercial quantities in all the provinces of Canada.

According to a statistical report, if all the wealth in the Dominion of Canada were equally divided it would mean $2,936 for each person. This does not include the value of Canada's undeveloped natural resources. The national wealth in place is at $29,440,000,000, an increase of $1,272,000,000 over the previous year.

Economic Unity Of The Empire

Within a few days the Imperial Economic Conference will be convened in London, England, and representatives of the British Government will sit down at the conference table with representatives of the self-governing Dominions and India's national representatives. Present at all members of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It will be a momentous occasion, the striking event in the history of the Empire. There have been Imperial Conferences in the past, but they have had to do with constitutional questions, the political relationships of the Empire that fall under the general term of Dominion status to be given to the overseas units of the whole and whether or not Belgium as a unit, and to the future likelihood of Empire to be subdivided to each British nation in its own right, with Mr. Macdonald and the other Dominion Premiers present all members of the British Empire equal in status.

The economic questions that make history and exert a profound influence on the future of nations, the suffering Dominions the British Isles, the colonies overseas British citizens in a world, the whole Empire, while of the economic depression all inevitably create a reaction in, and affect the life of, all other parts of a nation can no longer live unto itself alone. The depression of any great power by one of the major nations of the world is the present situation, and date of any world economic conference as called for July 21st. They must take cognizance of it and govern themselves accordingly. And of this crisis of the action of any one nation it is immeasurably is no true of a great group of nations comprising one-quarter of the world's surface and more than one-quarter of the world's population.

The forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference is fraught, therefore with great possibilities for the Empire. Today while politically and nationally all the parts of the Empire are individual self-governing units, economically and treating each other in matters of trade much the same as they do foreign countries, also each unit has sought with great economic problems which through light within them, must be able to find and apply remedies.

The first question for the approaching Conference to consider and decide is shall these units continue? Can it continue with safety to the future of the Empire? Shall they be satisfied by conquest and built up by trade. The day has passed when Great Britain can dominate the trade of the world. Eighteen new nations have arisen since the great war, and also of the three Great Powers, two are still but has not built much of her world trade and economic and financial preeminence. The whole world has become industrialized. Eagle has taken from Britain and other countries her leadership in trade and commerce but cannot she division in co-operation with the Dominions? Will political and sentimental ties hold the Empire together if the component part are not? Can trade within the Empire be developed on a foreign countries regardless of the welfare of sister British nations solely because it seems beneficial to the individual units to so act?

These are matters for the consideration not only of Britain but for all of the Dominions as well. They transcend party politics everywhere it is the future of the Empire that is at stake.

Assuming that the action of the Imperial Economic Conference to be that such a condition cannot continue that they must unite upon economic lines as well as upon political lines the next step is to find common ground of action. Admittedly it is no easier now with the working out of details of policy that delicate concrete problems of opposing and conflicting interests will arise. They cannot all be solved at once but a very real step can be made along lines if least resistance leaving the future in the light of actual experience to further extend and develop the agreed upon policy as circumstances may dictate to be of mutual advantage

A recent newspaper despatch from Ottawa intimated that the West was not greatly interested in the outcome of the Imperial Economic Conference. No greater misconception could possibly exist. The West is vitally interested. To a greater extent perhaps than any other part of the Empire its future is wrapped up in a successful outcome to the approaching deliberations in London. In no part of the Empire will the people evince a greater interest possibly even anxiety than on the prairies of this Dominion

Self-Cracking Nuts

British Scientist Makes Important Announcement

Here's comfort for the people who have a hard time in extracting the meat from the proverbial stubborn nut.

Dr. A. W. Hill, of the botanical research station at Kew, England, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science, that it was at last possible to produce self-cracking nuts.

"This is a valuable achievement in a commercial sense," Dr. Hill remarked. "For instance, in California pistachio nuts have been commercially valueless owing to the cost of cracking them"

The botanical expert also recorded research achievement in the case of lines which had a useful habit of shedding the fruit when it was ripe, thus enabling the gathering of them on the ground Botanists, he said were now striving to produce bananas containing no poisonous and purging inwards on a bunch. This new curve it brought about, would enable the fruit to be distributed more easily and to take up less room on board ship.

Piracy On High Seas

Pirates Cause Plenty Of Trouble Along China Coast

Gunners for duty on the high seas as a precaution against piracy are in great demand in Far Eastern ports due to the recent announcement of the British Government that all liner guards were to be withdrawn from ships sailing the South China waters. "White" Russians with military experience are being recruited in Singapore, Hong Kong and Shanghai, to take the places of the soldiers. The anti-piracy brigades are being under command of non-commissioned officers of the British army.

British soldiers were placed on British vessels about three years ago at a time when the pirates were operating in large numbers. Within one raid alone several Britishers were killed and the pirates made off with a ransom of between $50,000 and $60,000 in specie. For centuries piracy has been rife along the south coast of China. It is in this region that the pirates have their headquarters Their lair is in the notorious Bias Bay, 50 miles north east of Hong Kong, where there are rugged mainland hills in the background and a fringe of islands in front. Here they are sought by armed forces from the waterfront

Master mind who work out details of the robbery of the larger ships. In some instances three to four months have been spent in devising the pirate chiefs to arranging details of a single haul, which when successful, yields handsomely. To cope with this situation, the British shipping interests have been compelled to increase the number of guards at the same time perfect a system designed to reduce the chances of piracy to a minimum

Rural School Supervision

New Plan Of Rural School Improvement Inaugurated In Saskatchewan

Announcement was made recently by Premier J. M. Anderson, Minister of Education, of the appointment of the first rural school supervisor for Saskatchewan, under the new plan of rural school improvement being put into effect by the Department of Education.

Miss Mary Isabella Grant, of Cabri, Sask., is the first supervisor to be appointed by the Public Service Commission and will assume her duties immediately in the new experimental supervisory school area in the neighborhood of Kindersley and Glidden, Sask.

The appointment of rural supervisors, according to the premier, is being made in accordance with numerous requests from school trustees and ratepayers throughout the province who wish to co-operate with the Department of Education in a plan to provide closer supervision of rural school education.

The Minister of Education believes that the experiment will do much to solve some of the many problems of Saskatchewan's rural school education

Honeymooners Take To Air

Journey By Train Or Ship Is Considered Old-Fashioned

Honeymooning is becoming so common-place as a train or ship are now "frightfully old-fashioned" says the London Daily Mail. A journey to Paris by air is the only fitting beginning of a modern wedding tour. A leading travel agency has honeymoon couples are departing and arriving almost daily Brides are arriving from church to reception in their gowns and veils, blushing as they are pelted with confetti while boarding a machine which is usually covered with flowers, but nobody has yet attempted to tie a lucky shoe to the tailskid.

Her Three Children Troubled With Diarrhoea

Mrs. Lee Lapointe, Lasmer, Man., writes:—"My three youngest children were very bad with diarrhoea. I tried all kinds of remedies, until a friend told me to get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle right away and started giving it to them. In a few days diarrhoea had stopped altogether. Now I will know what to do when any of my children are troubled that way again."

Beaver Sounds in Water

Utra-Sonic Beams Permit Secret Communication Between Ships

Secret communication between ships by means of ultra-sonic beams projected through water was suggested at a future development of radiation by Dr. R. W. Boyle, of the national research laboratory at Ottawa, who addressed the fifth annual convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers in the physics building of the University of Toronto.

Ultra-sonics, or sounds that have too short a wave length to reach the human ear, have been used with success in the detection of submerged objects, Dr. Boyle explained, and he believed that future development of their use would open up a new means of communication.

Showing sketches of ships provided with projectors of these beams, fixed to hulls below the water line, he suggested that beams might be interchanged between ships and their radiations utilized by means of code to send and receive messages

Icebergs could be detected in deep water more successfully by these beams than is usually recognized, he said.

Steel hulls, or submarines could be detected with accuracy when at a distance of four miles, he said, and land could be detected when miles away

CONTRACTS LET FOR ELEVATOR AT PORT CHURCHILL

Ottawa, Ont.—Important contracts in connection with the power equipment for the 2,500,000-bushel elevator for the Department of Railways and Canals is constructing at Churchill, have been announced. The announcement came from Hon. Dr. J. Manion, minister of that department.

The boiler-house equipment will be supplied and installed by Babcock, Wilcox & Goldie McCulloch, Limited, of Galt, Ont., and the generator room equipment by the C. A. Parsons Company, Limited, of Toronto, Ont., and Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. The expenditure represented by these contracts will amount to about $250,000.

Good progress is being made with the work of developing a port at Churchill, and the construction programs laid down in the estimates of 1927-28 has not only been maintained but, in certain respects, exceeded.

The present construction includes sufficient work and facilities to permit of of testing out of the route during the fall season of 1931. It provides for the completion of 600 feet of deep water dock by the end of the present season, this forms a part of the dock during the entire season of 1932, and complete use of the port by the end of that season. The dock will be, however, being made, and it is expected that at least 900 feet of dock will be completed before the opening season of the work this fall, and the entire 1,800 feet of dock is expected to be available by the end of 1932.

The recent summer has been the hottest in the history of Hudson Bay Railway operations, it is said to the effect upon the railway, and has made a good deal of additional ballasting necessary. The road bed is receiving attention, and there are at the present time more than 2,000 men employed either the railway or port facilities

Wheat Crop Estimate

Federal Government Forecast the Wheat Crop is 284,769,000 Bushels

Ottawa, Ont. Canada's wheat crop is estimated at 284,769,000 bushels, of which 262,000,000 bushels will be garnered in the three prairie provinces. This is the forecast made public recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics based on reports filed in on or about August 31.

Of the above total for all Canada 264,681,000 bushels is spring wheat. Last year's spring wheat crop totalled 284,016,000 bushels and the entire wheat crop was 304,220,000 bushels. "The western wheat crop," the report states, "is very spotty and thus difficult to estimate because of a series of depreciating weather effects from seeding until harvest.

"The crop has been favored by relatively freedom from frost damage and by almost ideal weather for harvesting." the report declared. "The short straw and thin-seeded type of combines have also aided the dry season to establish a new high record for harvesting, the bulk of the harvest being marketed in the month of August. Inspections to date show the quality to be even above that of last year."

Canadian Ace Killed

Captain Dickie Meets Death In Accident Near Fort William

Fort William, Ont.—Captain James A. Dickie, Canadian war flier, died when his plane swooped earthward and crumpled its nose in the rough forest land ten miles from the outskirts of Fort William. Eighteen-year-old Marion Fralick, who was flying with Capt. Dickie at the time of the crash, lies in hospital here in a critical condition.

Cause of the accident, witnessed by only a few persons, could not immediately be determined It is believed that the flyer Moth a machine familiar to the war are saving into spin from which it could not be extricated Position of the passengers in the debris did not indicate to rescuers which one was piloting the plane when the accident occurred. Miss Fralick recently obtained her student pilot's license

Capt Dickie, only recently named secretary of the Flying Club of Canada, was well-known in aviation circles in Canada and the United States, many other legitimate organizations interested aviation

He was 24 years of age unmarried

It was regarded as likely the remains of Capt. Dickie would be taken to Hamilton, Ont., for interment.

Manitoba Frames Policy To Meet Crisis

Low-Priced Barley for Livestock; Province Not Lending Money

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20.— Manitoba's policy on the farming situation today was one step closer to formulation. With three or four planned parleys completed, Premier John Bracken is still of the opinion that farmers should dispose of low-price barley by feeding it to cattle for finishing purposes. Firm he says the province will not assist farmers financially in purchase of livestock.

When Monday's meetings in the premier's office brings representatives of credit bodies into session, it is expected that the last move will have been taken toward formation of the government's agrarian policy. Already, banking officials have stated that every effort will be made to advance money for livestock purchases to farmers not too far in debt

In stating definitely that the government was not intending to loan money to farmers, before a gathering of livestock and agrarian-body delegates, the premier made a remark regarded as referring to the province's decision last year to guarantee the wheat pool's loans from the banks "We have had the experience of bad loans before," he said, "and it has been costly."

Meanwhile, the government's stand on unemployment is virtually settled Premier Bracken has stated that he will leave for Ottawa next Wednesday planning to ask for a grant of $2,000,000 out of the dominion government's $20,000,000 unemployment relief fund. Today and later Tuesday minor meetings will be held with urban and rural delegates, to talk about the allocation of the $2,000,000 if it is obtained

Storebreakers Caught In Toils

Two Men Given Three Months in Fort Saskatchewan

MANNVILLE, Sept. 20.—McLachlan's general store here was broken into Wednesday night and a number of coats, suits and wristwatches pinched. Two men who had been noticed about Mannville during the day were caught at limestone getting off a freight train with a bundle containing the stolen goods. They were placed under guard and taken back to Mannville. They were tried before A. E. Kaiser, found guilty and given three months hard labor at Fort Saskatchewan.

The men effected an entrance to the store through a side window and in getting out the things they wanted caused a great deal of merchandise about the floor.

Canada's Wheat Crop

An official preliminary estimate places the wheat crop of Canada for 1930 at 344,740,000 bushels, of which 267,000,000 will be harvested in the three prairie provinces according to figures received by the Agricultural Department, Canadian National Railways This year's crop is about 90 million bushels more than in 1929. The 1930 yield of oats in Canada will total 458,875,000 bushels, an increase of 155,836,000 bushels over 1929, barley 27,591,000 bushels, about 25 million more than last year and rye 23,767,000 bushels, an increase of over 10,500,000 bushels.

The average yield of wheat per acre for all wheat is given as 17 bushels for this year compared with 12 bushels in 1929 and 11.2 bushels in 1928 and five and 10.2 bushels average production in the ten years previous. Manitoba accounts for 41 million bushels; Saskatchewan 198 million and Alberta 107 million. The final area sown to wheat in Canada in 1930 was 24,543,700 acres compared with 25,253,000 in 1929

BACKACHE

Wonderful relief from pain

Backache is one of those worrying complaints which lead all their victims together with a common load of misery. And when any one sufferer from backache finds a cure remedy, fellow-sufferers the quick passage of that discovery be others. Here's a woman who has found to obtain by knowledge of a remarkably successful treatment. Those gratitude compels her, to pass along the good news to you.

"I am very glad to tell you of the great benefit I have received from Kruschen Salts. Mr. Fleury, No. 11, had received so much benefit that she begged me to give Kruschen a trial, although at first I was doubtful, because I had tried so many things. At last, however, I tried some of her Kruschen, and, having begun, I purchased a bottle and I can honestly say that before I had finished the bottle my backache was gone. I have suffered for years with lumbago, headache and dreadful headaches, and now to be free from the pain altogether is wonderful."—(Mrs. C.)

The Latest in Sleeping Cars

England Has New Type With Many Conveniences

London reports that a new type of English sleeping car has been put in service. It is described as a 70-ton car fitted with deep rubber floors, colored lights and patent ventilators. The room is finished in soothing pale blue containing a full-sized walnut bed with springs and mattress, reading, hot and cold water, large bevelled mirrors, folding tables and heavy shutters, insuring complete darkness. There is a padded berth for a watch at the bedside where there are also switches regulating the flow of cleansed hot or cold air and the light—dim or brighter at will." The traditional conveniences of the English people doesn't get into the way of reading. That seems to be operated by routine and aggravate by routine.

The Commission also recommends more watch rooms constantly to make a good thing better, to provide more speed and more comfort

Report On Immigration

Saskatchewan Commission Submits Its Report On Immigration Matters

While some inflow of immigration must be permitted "if we are to maintain a healthy and economically sound condition of rural population in Saskatchewan that must be under strict control, effective checks and proper safeguards provincial is as well as federal.

This statement is the keynote of the report of the Saskatchewan Royal Commission on Immigration and Settlement published by Premier J. T. M. Anderson, and by him presented for publication Thursday September 18.

Because the "reserves of unutilized land suitable for settlement in Saskatchewan are relatively less than in other sections of the province," the Commission argues that restriction of immigration rather than its promotion is essential at the present time. Consequently, it confines the greater part of its attention to ensuring that what immigration is permitted shall be of the most appropriate type and that those newcomers who penetrate the restrictive barrier shall have a reasonable chance of making good.

Upon the premise that rural population is a "wise quo non" so far as Saskatchewan is concerned, and upon decisions reached after a thorough study of the 32 volumes of evidence collected in the examination of 476 witnesses (forty sittings, one of which was held extra-provincially), the Commission has drawn a series of recommendations that, if adopted by the Dominion and Provincial Council constituting of the Canadian National Railways, will result in a Saskatchewan Bureau should be established at Ottawa to deal with all matters pertinent to the restrictive policy, to penetrate the restrictive barrier and to create a reasonable chance of making good.

Under the Commission's plan, primary control of all immigration would be vested in the Minister of Immigration and Colonization, assisted by a Provincial Council consisting of the Minister of Agriculture, Provincial Secretary, Executive and Labor to control the flow of immigration and settlement in conjunction with the provincial representative on the Federal Council.

With provision thus made for determining the demand and limiting the flow the Commission then recommends that "the immigrant be carefully and constantly with its avowed destination." To this end the establishment of a Saskatchewan Bureau should be established at Ottawa to deal with all matters pertinent to the restrictive policy, to penetrate the restrictive barrier and to create a reasonable chance of making good.

Sample Of Tar Sands Used On Wabu Here

A sample of McMurray tar sands was used to repair the cement sidewalk in front of the Vermeer's store last Friday. This hardened almost as soon as put down and affords an excellent surface for walking and according to the men laying it has wonderful wearing qualities. Two miles of tar sand sidewalks have recently been layed in Vegreville, while Camrose has three miles of it. There are about seventeen miles of this used for roads, etc., in the Jasper National Park.

W. I. Convention

Largely Attended and Excellent Programme

The annual District Convention of the Vermilion-Alexandra Women's Institutes was held last Thursday afternoon and evening in the United church with an attendance of about thirty delegates from outside points, Kinsmore, Marwayne, Streamstreet, and Minburn attending. The afternoon was taken up with reports and general business. In the evening addresses were given by Mrs. Montgomery of Wetaskiwin, the provincial president, which was very interesting. Mrs. Short of Edmonton also spoke on the institute work. Dr. Scott gave a most entertaining paper on training the child, relating to education, which was very instructive.

The musical program which was put on by Mr. Hall was greatly enjoyed by all and the Institute wishes to express their appreciation of his kindness.

DOES NOT EXPECT GASOLINE PRICES WILL BE HOSTED

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—"It will be necessary to study the revision before chairman of the Canadian National," said C. O. Stillman, president of Imperial Oil, Limited, discussing Wednesday the tariff planned by the Conservative party in Canada. "One can say in general, however, that the change will give an impetus to the refining of crude oil in Canada, which is one of the largest industries in this country, and that the consumer of gasoline will not feel any ill effects."

S. R. Parsons, of the British-American Oil company, said: "It will mean that the business refiners will be able to employ more men and a greater proportion of the total consumption of gasoline will be manufactured in Canada. It will not mean a higher price for gasoline."

TEXTILE COMPANY FEELING BENEFIT BENNETT TARIFF

Additional Employees Will Be Taken On: Increased Output

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—Officials of the Dominion Textile company announced on here today that within the next two weeks they will increase the production of their plants from the present 60 per cent to 80 per cent.

The announcement also said that 250 additional employees would be taken on and that the Paton Manufacturing Company Limited, the Sherbrooke subsidiary of the company, in addition 300 hands would be put on operation at the Sherbrooke Cotton Manufacturing company.

The officials attributed their ability to expand operations to the new tariff schedules as announced by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in the house of commons on Tuesday.

Sixteen Years Ago Today

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard

23rd SEPTEMBER 1914.

The first formal opening in connection with the annual fall exhibition of the Vermilion agricultural society took place today, the Hon Arthur L. Sifton, Premier of Alberta, officiating. Glorious weather again prevails and the directors are working overtime. The grain which was practically all in stook is reported to have stood the test aped with very little damage.

The Nanaville Empire has changed hands, W. A Letson now being editor and publisher.

D F Anderson, fire ranger, is on a trip of inspection north of the Saskatchewan river.

Mayor Good and Secy. H. P Long attended the annual municipal convention at Camrose last week.

The Royal Bank is about to erect premises on their property situate at the corner of Main Street and Bulyea Ave. Jas. Cavil has the excavation contract. The building will be 22ft. by 40ft., two storeys high, solid brick with concrete waterproof foundation. Clayden Bros. of Winnipeg are the contractors.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

There will be a banquet in the Armories on Tuesday evening, Sept. 30 at 8 o'clock. All those who are Scouts are who intend to be Scouts or Rovers are invited to attend. As this is the first meeting of the fall term a good attendance is requested.

"We are quite satisfied with the showing of the British teams at the Empire Games just concluded at Hamilton, Ont., for we picked up quite a lot of honors, and if I just say so, made a very creditable showing," was the statement of W. T. Britton, in charge of the swimmers who hung up several new marks at the meeting. He thought the Games would be of incalculable value to the Empire as a whole, since they brought all all parts of it together at one time and one place.

The maiden voyage of the new Canadian Pacific flagship of the Pacific, the Empress of Japan, from Yokohama to Victoria, was completed in eight days, 10 hours and 23 minutes, beating the Empress of Canada record by one run, established in 1918, by four hours and thirty minutes. C. P. R. officials were present at the railway company's wired congratulations to Captain R. Lihet, superintendent of the Company's Pacific steamship fleet. Records also fell on the Atlantic when the company's liner Duchess of York sailed between Greenock, Scotland, and Quebec City in 5 days, 17 hours and 30 minutes, even bettering the time hung up by the Duchess of Richmond on her previous trip from Belfast to Quebec, which is a hundred miles shorter.

Speaking at a banquet given by the Saint John Board of Trade to inaugurate the service of the new Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Helena, on the Saint John-Digby route, R. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the railway, said he thought Canada would respond more quickly than other countries, even wealthier than herself, to necessaries taken by responsible governments and large industrial organizations to alleviate unemployment. He added that in his opinion the Maritime Provinces were particularly favorably placed in this respect.

What is reported to be the largest farm in the world is the Miller ranch in Russia, where 200,000 acres are under the plough. It is operated by industrialized labor; 7500 workers are required. Of the total acreage, 150,000 acres were in wheat this year; 600 tractors are used to operate the farm.

This year's crop of grapes in the Niagara fruit belt, between Hamilton and Niagara Falls, Ont., is expected to reach about 35,000,000 lbs., an increase of 15 per cent. over the 1929 crop. The vines is now being harvested.

A shipment of 120 live cattle from farms in Ontario over the ward recently to England, the first in 15 months. It was consigned to buyers in Manchester. The shipment, though comparatively small is recorded by the live stock trade as marking resumption of Canada's export trade in cattle to British market.

Figures made public this week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that the total number of telephones in Canada on January 1st, 1930, was 1,600,000, an increase of 100,000 from 1929. Ontario, with 575 reports, leads the provinces in the number of telephones, with 575,000. Quebec is second, with 375,000. Alberta, 175 reports each, comes next in the column, and Nova Scotia, with 75,000, is fourth. Prince Edward Island has 10,000. Of the total number, 1,200,000 are owned by companies operating in the United States and Canada exclusively. The United Kingdom, France, Great Britain and Canada were represented at the world celebration which were held at the site of the old village of Jamestown, Virginia, 1607. Canada's exhibit was famous by Laughlan's peach of Grandview.

In the provision of telephone communications in cities of 30,000 and over and in conversations per station, Canada leads the world, according to statistics recently published. In these cities Canada has 24.2 telephone per 100 inhabitants against the United States' 21.5. In 1929 Canadians made 241.1 conversations per head of population as compared with 230.7 in the United States, the nearest rival.

Serious Rectal Troubles Often Caused By Harsh Catharties

ENO is pleasant, gentle, safe and sure.

A daily dash of ENO'S "Fruit Salt" in a glass of water, morning or night, tones up and sweetens the entire system. Acid stomach, fatigue, biliousness, quickly disappear.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

Reduce the Acid

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are overstimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Albati kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 90 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere. Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Do prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many dangerous operations.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 90 years in correcting acidity. Small bottle contains full directions—any druggist can supply you.

BROWNIE NOTES

I want to say a word to the people who follow the doings of the Brownies in Vermilion. Perhaps some of the items are not quite clear to them. In the first place a Brownie is a little person who does good to big people. They do their best to fight against their enemies the Boggarts, who are noisy and dirty and selfish, and who never do anything for anyone else. The Brownies are guided by the Brown Owl as to what they should do to make themselves merry. Their Totem is a tendered and it is about this that they form their Fairy Rings and Pow Wow Circle. The Pow Wow Circle is formed some about Brown Owl and the tenderest as that the Brownies may hear the wise words of Brown Owl. The Pack is divided into Sixes. Each of the Sixes has the name of some special kind of fairy and also its own special emblem.

Pack Leader and Tawny Owl help Brown Owl to take care of the Pack. The duties of the Brownies is Local Hand and they do their best to live up to it.

The Promise is: "I promise to do my best.

1 To do my duty to God and the King and to keep the law of the Brownie Pack.

2. To help other people every day, especially those at home."

The Law is: "1. The Brownie gives in to the older folk. 2. The Brownie does not give in to herself."

Next week we shall see how a Brownie becomes a full-fledged Brownie and a second-class Brownie.

54 Bushels of Wheat To Acre On George Hemsaka Farm

George Hemsaka, who farms some 1 miles south of town threshed 54 bushels of "222" wheat to the acre on a Liscey field, and neighbors estimated that he lost 3 bushels to the acre owing to lodged grain. This was good wheat and graded No 1

High School Notes

Registration for this year is 132.

** ** **

The rainy weather has put a damper on the field meet at Lloydminster which is to take place next Friday. Vermilion High School has captured the trophy for two consecutive years and we hope to bring it home again to keep this year.

** ** **

The opening night at the High School is to be held on Oct. 3rd. A fine program is being arranged with the aid of the local people and High School students.

** ** **

The former Glee Club held a practice Tuesday. It is rumored that they will assist in the programme Oct. 3.

** ** **

The Literary Society is now organized with Miss R. V. Stacey as president. Many fine schemes are already brewing in the heads of the executive. Let us hope we'll see the results.

** ** **

The new Glee Club will be organized some time in October with Mr. Markle as instructor.

The Importance Of Vitamins In Milk

Milk always has been and will undoubtedly continue to be the most important single food of man. Because of its importance in the dietary of the infant and growing child as well as the adult, its nutritive properties have been studied more than those of any other food." (Quotation from the Journal of Nutrition, March 1930). The results which appear year after year in the current issues of this and other journals have shown that Jamieson's faith in it as a food which has endured from earliest times.

As each vitamin has been discovered in turn, added wonders of milk have been revealed and thus, at the present time, most of the importance of milk is attached to its vitamin content. In a large measure, the story of vitamins is the story of milk — first, in that work with milk and its products led to the actual discovery of the first vitamins, second, in that milk has been found to be a source of all vitamins.

Vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and G have been discovered and each has been identified by letters of the alphabet. The discovery of each has disclosed new methods of disease prevention and protection of health. No longer do doctors doubt that vitamins are regulators of body processes and are necessary to its health. Rose says, in "Foundations of Nutrition" that "Research has accumulated and methods of research have become more refined. The significance of the vitamins and the importance of vitamins transcends the mere observations of specific diseases; it is now understood that the daily life of every individual and of every activity is known or his life be lived on a low nutritional plane or a high one."

TENTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Sept. 20th, 1930.

Threshing is again under way following a period of unsettled weather over the greater part of the Province, which delayed operations to some extent. Southern districts report threshing 90 p.c. completed with the completion of irrigated areas where 50 p.c. remains to be done. In central and northern parts threshing delays have been of frequent occurrence due to rains and the amount threshed varies from 5 p.c. to 35 p.c.

Cutting of grain for threshing is completed, in some areas cutting of green feed is still in progress. This is particularly true of the east central part of the province where a good crop of green feed is being cut on fields where the first crop was destroyed by high winds and drought. The absence of frost until late in the season has been a factor in greatly increasing yields of grain and feed in this area over early expectations.

Frost was general on the night of September 18th, but very little damage is reported, due to the advanced state of maturity of the crop.

Threshers' returns indicate that the quality of wheat is high. The yield, however, in these returns will be satisfactory and will be higher than was anticipated.

Harvest operations commenced in the sugar beet area on September 17 A good average yield with a high sugar content is reported.

Due to late rains, pasture and feed conditions are generally satisfactory and livestock in good condition.

Another Lucky Local Man

One hundred and ten pounds sterling to the good to Henry Glennee, formerly of this town and lately moved to Saskatchewan with the Rosen and Wickstrand railway construction gang. Henry blew 6 shillings on a ticket in the St. Leger sweepstakes and drew a horse, and although the horse was not a winner it meant some $60 golden sovereignlets for Mr. Glennee.

BABY'S PILLOW

It should not be there! Its my reports on Good Posture, who have been examining the round shoulders of the rising generation. Mothers may not be aware that a child with round shoulders has diminished chest capacity, and lessened strength in consequence. Mother explains this condition by telling of rapid growth and forgets that it is usually due to a bad habit of poor posturing.

There is no greater aid to good health than to acquire good posture. It has a mental as well as a physical value, for a fine bearing helps a lad through life, both at school and in business.

Look at Billy when he comes out of his tub. Are his shoulder blades protruding when he stands sideways towards you? If eh they are not quite right and Billy must be given some good getting to straighten every line. Let Billy's mother do them herself for a few minutes with the children in the morning. She must pay close attention to the proper way to do the Rod Cross. 407 Civic Block, Edmonton. Send for your copy today.

SEPARATOR AND 500 BUSHELS OF GRAIN GO UP IN SMOKE

Fire completely destroyed the separator of the Brown threshing outfit and 500 bushels of wheat on the Ross farm in the Turney Hill district between 3 and 4 a.m. last Saturday. The origin of the fire is as far unknown and incendiarism has been strongly suspected, but as work had been done on the separator until late the night preceding the fire, it is thought in other quarters that tobacco ashes or fire had been left around the machine.

MR. AND MRS. THOS. B. REED

"GARGON has brought health, strength and happiness to both my wife and me and I would not take all the money in the world for the good it has done us," declared Thomas B. Reed, well-to-do farmer and lumberman, residing at 919 Holmes street, Kansas City, Mo.

"Five years ago when on the train going from Bottsina, Canada, to California, I had a severe attack of acute indigestion and nobody thought I would live to reach my destination. When I came to myself I was in the hospital at Calgary.

"Since then I have suffered constantly from bilous attacks and splitting headaches that lasted for days at a time. Everything I ate disagreed with me. I had smothering spells that made me think I would die. I would get so dizzy I could hardly stand up, and I was constipated all the time. I was nervous and did not get a good night's sleep for years. Many nights I would get up and sit in a chair for hours.

"Nargon made a well man of me. My nerves are steady as a die and I sleep like a boy. My old-time stomach has returned and I have gained 15 pounds. I feel fine all the time."

"Nargon helped my wife, who is the mother of 12 children, the same way. She has actually gained 15 pounds in weight and feels better and stronger than in many years."

Mr. Reed was formerly a worship-ful master in the Masonic order and Mrs. Reed is a beloved member of the Methodist church.

Nargon may be obtained in Vermilion from Lang's Drug Store.

When the public has greater confidence in the wholesomeness of the general milk supply the nation will consume much more liquid milk, with the result that the producer will receive more money for his products. Any farmer who wants to produce clean milk can do so, for it is a question almost entirely of methods and but little of equipment.

Three things are required — heal thy herds, cleanly methods, and keeping the milk cold until marketed

THE PRODUCTION OF CLEAN MILK

Farmers, the others who offer articles for sale, wish to turn out the best product that they can whether it be cattle, grain or milk for they recognize that the better the article the better the price commanded. The quality of milk is of more importance than the quality of any other farm product To the consumer milk of high quality — that is to say milk which is clean and wholesome — is worth far more than milk that is carelessly produced and handled When the public has greater confidence in the wholesomeness of the general milk supply the nation will consume much more liquid milk, with the result that the producer will receive more money for his products any farmer who wants to produce clean milk can do so, for it is a question almost entirely of methods and but little of equipment.

Three things are required — heal thy herds, cleanly methods, and keeping the milk cold until marketed

Empty Hours

William Lyon Phelps, professor of English literature at Yale University has a thought-arousing article on the use of the hours that the United States magazines He contends that "nothing is more pitiful than to see large numbers of human beings with many hours of leisure and the need of occupation, and not know what to do with them. They are standing still or are bored."

What do you do when you are faced with such a problem? he asks. For except in the case of invalids, there is no reason why it is leisure alone that reveals a person's character. Dr. Phelps says even so far as to say that "the use of leisure reveals the character of an entire community, or of an entire nation." He cites the fate of the Roman Empire "destroyed first, by too much leisure, second by the wrong use of it."

The right use of leisure, he says, "is the test you can obtain employment." Both ought, of the right sort, certainly to indicate the coming of more happiness. What, then, constitutes the right use of leisure? Dr. Phelps answers that it is "anything that is not work."

The writer says that he has found that "reading a book a week at an average rate of speed" is the best use of time for leisure, but he cannot prescribe for others. "Some people," he says, "are not ready to study in the evening. The best working day has passed. If I don't read before regular work, I never read; eight hours is a risk right hours to sleep right hours to work."

Also, he says, reading does not necessarily bring into the discard. The growing belief that "organized sports are a fad to-day as the dancing mania was in the nineteenth century" is refuted by the writer. "Physical exercise is necessary for the man working much shorter hours can ever be," he says. "It is possible for several million working longer hours to perform physical exercise." And it is to this development that he looks for the solution of unemployment today. Hence considers the force attached to the demand for a shorter working day and fewer working days in order if there is to be work for the large and ever increasing number of persons. Even on the farm modern machinery is reducing the required number of hours and days of labor and consequently in the number of persons employed.

Also, he says, many people find leisure. What are we going to do with leisure? Have we ever stopped to check up just what you now do with your leisure? The real test of leisure, he says, is not what you do with it, but how much interest it leaves means only bodily pleasures. If leisure means only bodily pleasures, if leisure means only athletics or games and sentimental pictures the mind stagnates and soon becomes a liability instead of an advantage, a curse rather than a blessing.

The hope of the writer is, who mean and the increase of refinement, as Dr. Phelps says, "that more women will make a profitable use of their increased leisure. The ruling generations will be more civilized and more happy than at any previous period in human history."

It is within the compass of every person to become a personality, to be to some degree different from others. The process is a mental one; the product the outgrowth of how the leisure hours are spent.

The happiest people, concludes Dr. Phelps, "are those who think the most interesting thoughts before they begin to talk." Leisure, he says, is the time when we think. Those who decide to use leisure in acquisition of mental development, who love good music, good books, good pictures, good plays at the theatre, and good company and conversation when at they? They are the happiest people on the world; they are not only happy in themselves they are the cause of happiness in others.

Recent Soundings Of Great Bear Lake Show Deep Spot

Great Bear Lake in the North West Territories has long been known to be very deep, but previous to 1927 when officers of the North West Territories Branch Department of the Interior Canada visited the lake, no actual soundings had ever been made in their several traverses of the lake they took at all 66 soundings The average depth of the lake was found to be between 50 and 60 fathoms. The greatest depth was 75 fathoms and since Great Bear Lake is only 301 feet above the sea the lake bottom at this spot is below the level of the sea.

Plan To Benefit Canadian People May Soon Be Inaugurated

A national health insurance plan for the benefit of Canadian people will soon be put into effect, in the opinion of Dr. J. J. Heagerty, chief executive of the department of health and National Health, expressed in an address to an Ottawa service club.

The cost of sickness today is so great that it is practically impossible for the average householder to obtain necessary medical aid, Dr. Heagerty stated. Last year the Dominion government spent $4,000,000 in an investigate the cost of such a scheme, and according to his viewpoint, it will not be long before such a plan is in working order. According to the general scheme industrial workers would be supplied with medical treatment drugs, doctors and nurses and other necessities

League Of Nations

League Executive Of Canadian Body Meets At Ottawa

The central executive of the League of Nations Society in Canada met in Ottawa recently, for consideration of the report of a special committee appointed last June to survey the policy of the society with regard to financial operations and activities in all divisions of the work. After the report was adopted by the executive the resultant recommendations will be acted upon immediately but several conditions will change, chief among the adoption of the 1931 general executive.

One recommendation of the report which will be carried out is that a delegation wait on the government at the earliest possible date seeking an increase in the grant to the society. The president of the organization, Dr. H. M. Tory, will be a member of the delegation.

A committee of three was appointed to interview Sir Henry Thornton and seek permission to use the Canadian National Railway's Dominion-wide radio hook-up for the purpose of broadcasting through the country addresses to be delivered by prominent public men.

Predicts Speedier Air Travel

Expert Says 6½ Hundred Miles An Hour Possible

Six hundred miles an hour speed, infallible robot pilots, television as solver of fog landings, office buildings on airports, transcontinental airlight lines, with airplane lines as feeders and many other seemingly fantastical ideas are achievements which aviation leaders said here were possibilities within the next five years

Even the change in the present design of ships will be necessary before the terrific speed of ten miles a minute—over six hundred miles an hour—which other predictions already are far advanced in the experimental stages.

Stanley Kansas, of Chicago, who has superintended transportation of approximately 100,000 passengers without a fatality, summed up the situation.

Mr. Kansas said railroads probably would increase speed of their crack expresses soon to meet increasing competition and greater airplane speed would be the answer. He explained that speeds of 500 and 600 miles an hour were possible with radical design changes.

Tri-motor ships, if not found above the capacity of bridges and arising in the more conservative hopes were to be the answer.

But added that the single motor ship would be faster, cruise longer and carry more pounds per engine than the tri-motor.

RELIEF BILL HAS BEEN RATIFIED BY THE SENATE

Ottawa, Ont.- Without a division the Senate ratified the government's bill to establish a fund of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief. Senator James Malcolm, Government Leader in the Senate, introduced an amendment calling for the payment of fair wages and the maximum of the eight-hour day on all construction programs initiated under the scheme, but he withdrew it without a vote being taken. In its effect, the amendment was similar to the one proposed in the Commons by J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre), and which was defeated.

From consideration of that measure, the Senate turned to the government bill to amend the provisions of the Customs Act relating to drawback regulations. This would give to the cabinet the power to fix fair market values of goods in exportation any commodity which was being imported into Canada to the detriment of producers of similar goods in this country.

The second day of debate on the government's tariff proposals brought from the ranks of the United Farmer and Labor members, in the House of Commons, the statement that the Liberal amendment moved by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, opposition leader.

"If there is one striking fact with regard to the budget which is now proposed, it is that there is no provision whatever that relief in any way, assistance in agriculture is contemplated," asserted Dr. J. Garland, United Farmer member for Bow River, who moved the sub-amendment.

His motion expressed doubt that the government possessed any adequate means for ensuring that prices to the primary producer would not be increased as result of the new tariff. It voiced regret that no provision for relief was contained in the budget.

Referring to the world-wide economic depression, Dr. Garland declared he did not subscribe to the doctrine of rising tariffs as the panacea for all ills. He opposed the principle that the interests of the consumer should be subordinated to the interests of the producer.

Premier Bracken stated that the government was prepared to increase its assistance to relief measures resulting from one-quarter to one-third of the project-costs, to parallel the amendment of the Senate. Premier Bracken thought, in the driving endeavor to remove all traces of war.

Heavy Grain Shipments

1,171,000 Bushels Of Grain Loaded In One Day On C.P.R. Lines

Winnipeg Man. From transcontinental east west, north and south, over the net work of Canadian Pacific railways lines on Tuesday, September 16, there poured into freight cars 1,171,000 bushels of grain for movement to the elevators at the Lakehead over the previous day. Unofficial statement showing the greatest advance during that period The report from J. G. Sullivan, superintendent of transportation, shows 1,079 cars inspected and 801 cars loaded.

Fine weather has facilitated the movement of grain with a consequent increase in storage in country elevators at the head of the lakes and at the Pacific Coast.

Totals for the day indicate that marketing took 501 cars to points in Manitoba, 406 cars from Saskatchewan, and 758,000 from Alberta

Banks in Manitoba Will Assist Farmers

Are Acting On Suggestions Made By Premier Bracken

Winnipeg Man Banks in Canada have almost universally followed, to a considerable extent, suggestions made by Premier John Bracken for relief of farmers generally, and of growers contiguous now existing in the grain market. This is the statement of Premier Bracken, following interviews of the banks and of the Manitoba Government held a conference at the Legislative Building.

The Premier stated that the parley was held for the purpose of developing the market for the 1930 crop of barley crop, improving the market for livestock and lessening, if possible, the drain of labor from the farms for the cities where they might add to the ranks of the unemployed

May Stop Importation Of Russian Goods

Tariff Action Against Soviet Country Held Likely

Ottawa, Ont.- Importation of goods into Canada from Russia, believed to apply particularly to coal, may be stopped by order-in-council if an amendment to the Customs Act introduced in the House of Commons by Premier Bennett becomes law. The measure empowers the insertion of a new section in the Act which will empower the governor-in-council to prohibit the importation of any goods from any country not a party to the Treaty of Versailles.

That the government had Russia in mind in framing the section was indicated by the premier in the House, later, although he did not mention that country. He said there had been much discussion in the country about imports from "certain countries where the whole population is engaged in the production of goods under the direction of the government."

Russia is not a party to the Treaty of Versailles under which certain obligations are imposed on governments to see that hours of labor and rates of wages conform to a certain standard

Aid To War Veterans

In This Connection Canada Takes Second Place To No Nation in the World

Winnipeg, Man.- In aiding her great war veterans, Canada took second place to no nation in the world, Col. W. C. H. Wood, president of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, asserted in an address to assembled delegates at the annual convention here. Basing his statement on the fact that Canada spends more per capita than any other country, Col. Wood declared that Canada's generous treatment from the Dominion Government. Trend of legislation, Col. Wood added, seemed favorable to the returned man.

Referring to the world-wide economic depression, Lieut.-Col. H. G. Wells, of Winnipeg, speaking at ministerial services this afternoon, expressed the hope that the memory of those who sacrificed their lives in the war would not fade. Dead heroes, he said, might be forgotten, he thought, in the driving endeavor to remove all traces of war.

Manitoba Asks For $2,000,000 To Provide Work

Winnipeg, Man. Two million dollars for Manitoba, the will be the plea of Premier John Bracken when he goes to Ottawa next week to ask for his province a share of the $20,000,000 voted in the House of Commons for relief of unemployment in Canada. The Premier announced his "quota" with representatives of 60 urban, suburban and rural municipalities.

The session at the legislative building was the second of a series of four meetings to be held within a week. Premier Bracken conferred with representatives of the banks asking and receiving assurance of every effort to assist farmers worried by low livestock and grain values

The selection of the undertakings which the province will be asked to construct was a matter solely for the provincial government, declared Mr. Bracken in outlining the plan. Its decision before he leaves for Ottawa Completion of the Salkirk cut-off on the Canadian National Railway to The Pas and development of the Hudson Bay Mountain National Park will be requested, the premier mentioned.

During the six-hour discussion, it was stated that the unemployment situation in Manitoba was more grave than in most of the other provinces. Bridge and subway programs were pressed for by delegation from Winnipeg and Ft. Rouge. As projects would be given considera tion in the government's proposal to be submitted to the federal capital.

Winnipeg and the suburbs have difficulties which must be met separately from those of the rural delegates, the premier mentioned in view of this fact, he announced that he had asked, accompanied by a delegation from Winnipeg, to confer before he leaves for the east. He will meet suburban and urban delegates and the rural delegates at the conference of the municipal union on the agricultural situation.

It was revealed that the city of Winnipeg has prepared a program of relief and bridge construction costing approximately $7,000,000, which it would submit to the Dominion government as part of the plan to relieve the jobless, providing the provincial administration would bear its share in construction costs

French Wheat Crops Poor

Should Fortnight Be Correct Imports Will Be Heavy

New York The New York Times publishes the following special cable from Paris:

The wheat crop in France this season will be as poor as to originate discussion regarding the statement made by Dolphin Bestombe, statistician of the Bourse de Commerce, who places the total crop at 56,000,000 quintals. Should this estimate prove accurate, France will be obliged to import 20,000,000 quintals to supply her needs.

British Cattle Men Alarmed

Canada Applies For Extension Of Quality Mark Privilege

London England Canada's plan to make a mass attack on the British meat market and her official application for an extension of the national mark the quality sign now reserved for home meat to cattle exported from the Dominion ready for killing in Britain, is causing alarm among English and Scottish cattle farmers according to the Daily Herald.

The seriousness of the situation is creating the consideration of the National Farmers' Union The national mark for beef has caused British Beef to maintain a high price level and has resulted in a higher standard of quality Old Country farmers have been able to command a higher grade of cattle and they have benefitted substantially by the system, it is declared.

It is understood that the Canadian demand for the privilege of using the mark is to be discussed by the conference of the municipal union on the agricultural situation.

It is reported that the Canadian demand for the privilege of using the mark is to be discussed by the conference of the municipal union on the agricultural situation.

The Daily Herald regards the Canadian attack on the British meat market as a blow to Lord Beaverbrook because it disproves his argument in British farmers that imports from Canada will not affect them

BILL TO AMEND THE CUSTOMS ACT PASSES HOUSE

Ottawa, Ont - The bill to amend the Customs Act in order to implement the British trade treaty was introduced in the Commons after a long debate. It went on to the Senate The bill provides for the imposition of the preferential rates of duty on certain dutiable goods as well as imported natural products dumped into Canada and makes the wholesale price the basis upon which the duty is levied. The bill also provides for the imposition of the British preferential rates of duty on the products of the people of Newfoundland. Premier Bennett said that New Zealand lacked on this as an example of the very greatest importance.

New Zealand, he said was interested in the matter of the export of butter and fruits chiefly. The people of New Zealand were particularly interested in the dried fruit industry. In the event of New Zealand making the same concessions as Canada, the prime minister said that New Zealand lacked on this as an example of the very greatest importance.

Mr Woodsworth, in resuming the debate pro tested against what he believed to be an attempt upon the part of the government to "put the bill through the House" a measure that should be carefully studied both by the House and by the country before it was dealt with There should be time given to the public for an expression of opinion on such a revenue measure

Hon. Mr. Bennett, in reply, said that the claims of the people of Canada were the first consideration of the government. The bill, he said, was not going to interfere with the interests of the United States. It was not a question between nations and empires, but one of the interests of the people of Canada. He did not think that the people of Canada would be difficult and could understand the matter. He intended to send the bill to the Senate before the end of the week.

Optimist School Wins Claymore Community Club Trophy

Takes Highest Average Points At School Fair

TURKEY HILL GETS COMMENCE CUP FOR LIVESTOCK

The recently donated Claymore Community Cup to be awarded to the school taking the highest average number of points in the school fair this year has been won by the Optimist pupils, who therefore have custody of the trophy for one year. Other winners of special honors from this district were Bella Corlett, taking the highest points for girls, and Lawrence Corlett, second highest in points for boys.

Turkey Hill school carried off the Bank of Commerce Cup for the highest points in livestock, and also held their coveted silverware for one year.

Pupils with the highest points in the girls' division were: 1st, Bella Corlett, Optimist; 2nd, Eunice Rankin, Union; 3rd, Margaret Good, Chatworth.

Boys—1st, Bernard Currey, Wundermere; 2nd, Lawrence Corlett, Optimist; 3rd, Robert Witten, Windermere.

The girl and boy with the highest points are entitled to a free short course at the School of Agriculture next summer. Should the pupil with the highest points be unable to attend or have already won it, then the second and third move up.

James Hodden of Windermere was the pupil taking the highest points in the school work.

Growth In Business Places

Considerable Monetary Outlay by Business Men

Three new businesses have recently been added to those already in the town, three requiring a considerable outlay by the business interests behind them.

V. J Bailey has recently installed an up-to-the minute bowling hall with four alleys in the Hrynyk Block on first street south. To enable him to do this, S Hrynyk enlarged the building by a 20 by 24 addition The hall is now in operation, and presents a very inviting interior with new finishing work and hard wood alleys.

Craig Brothers have recently added a meat department to their store, this being located on the ground floor near the grocery department. A sanitary and modern Frigidaire has been installed, as well as all other necessities to a high class meat market P. H Williamson is in charge.

E. Beacock opened his new dairy on 1st and is now delivering milk in the town This new enterprise is located in the east end where a building has been converted into an up-to-date milk station. The 1st pasteurizing of unpasteurized milk The commencing of this business necessitated the purchasing of a new boiler at Edmonton, repairing the building and buying the necessary equipment.

Another recent business change occurred when John Wilde closed his electric and radio business in the store where it is now located on the third floor.

Russia's Five-Year Plan

Under all normal conditions the people of Western Canada would display merely an academic interest in events transpiring and developments taking place in Russia. But for some time past and to an ever-increasing extent, Russia has been a factor having a definite effect upon the prosperity of this portion of the Dominion, in fact upon the whole business structure of Canada, as well as of other countries.

It is difficult to find out exactly what is taking place in Russia, as many reports are both confusing and contradictory, consequently it is not surprising that people in this country are still puzzled and uncertain in their minds whether Russia constitutes a real and permanent menace to Canada, not politically or in a military sense but economically.

Certain things have, nevertheless, become fairly well established. For example, it is known that in October 1928 Russia inaugurated what is known as the "Five-Year Plan" of national development which observers on the spot in Russia describe as the most interesting economic experiment anywhere in the world."

On October 1, 1930, the second year of this experiment will come to a close. So much natural has been the progress made that now the slogan is: "The Five-Year Plan in Four Years." What is the "Five-Year Plan"? It was outlined by a Soviet Government agency over a year ago, and, in part, the plan

"Provides for total capital investments in the five years beginning October 1, 1928, of $33,000,000,000, or about two and one-half times the actual investments in the preceding five years. A goodly share of this will go for the construction of industrial plants and for the purchase of foreign equipment and machinery. The foreign-trade programme calls for imports of about $2,200,000,000 during the period. Among the outstanding projects scheduled for construction and in most instances completion, during the five-year period, are two tractor factories with an output of 10,000 units per year each, an automobile factory with an output of 100,000 cars per annum, a score of steel mills to produce a total of more than 5,000,000 tons annually, chemical, textile, machine-building, electro-technical paper, glass, leather, and other factories as well as a dozen or more large power plants, many dams, etc."

That was the "Plan," but, according to a Moscow correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, the "Five-Year Plan" in many instances is already surpassing the figures expected to be attained at the end of 1933. The first version of the production of 22,000,000 tons of oil and 10,000,000 tons of cast-iron in 1932 now these figures have been revised upwards, respectively, to 38,000,000 and 17,000,000. During the current year 221 new industrial enterprises, built at a cost of approximately $425,000,000, have begun to function, and the list of unusually large factories which have been completed comparatively recently includes a tractor plant, an agricultural machinery factory a paper mill a pipe factory, two oil refineries, several electrical stations."

The "Five-Year Plan" also included what practically amounts to the nationalization of agriculture, and the erection of these huge tractor and agricultural machinery factories, oil refineries, etc. are all a part of this new agricultural policy. The Manchester Guardian correspondent in Moscow, further notes that "in collective farming 25 per cent. of the peasant households have already gone over to the co-operative method. Although the "Plan" originally contemplated only 20 per cent in 1933."

Russia is now dumping wheat, coal, lumber, into many European and other markets, further depressing the already badly demoralized world price for these commodities. The Russian Government is reported as having chartered a large number of vessels to convey wheat from Russia to England, Italy and other countries, and that this wheat will be sold abroad regardless of price. The United States Government has charged that Russia has engaged in transactions on the Chicago grain markets to force down the price of wheat, the Canadian Government has secured power from the Parliament to prohibit Russian imports into Canada; the League of Nations at Geneva, is discussing the effects of Russian policy on all other nations.

It is further alleged that under Soviet auspices this great "Five-Year Plan" is being carried out by poorly-paid labor, and much of it forced labor, even convict labor that the standard of living has been definitely lowered; that food and even clothing supplies are being rationed, with the result that other countries, with higher standards of living and greater individual liberty of action, cannot begin to compete with Russia.

The Bolshevistic propaganda has failed in its efforts to bring about world revolution, but its "Five-Year Plan" of economic development at home with a view to dumping huge quantities of goods and products of all kinds into world markets is, even before the "Plan" is one-half completed, having an adverse effect in all other countries, and further depressing already depressed business conditions throughout the world.

The farmers of Western Canada, who must depend for their success upon making profitable sales of their products in world markets are among the chief sufferers.

Sales Have Increased Rapidly

"Dry Ice" Is In Demand All Over the Country

The first pound of "dry ice" or solid carbon dioxide was sold for commercial refrigerating purposes in 1925, by the Dry Ice Corp. of America, and it is expected that "dry ice" sales for 1930 may reach 35,000 tons.

This material is being produced in 18 plants from coast to coast in the United States.

Odorless carbon dioxide as generated from the evaporation of "dry ice" is of course cold, and by virtue of the low temperature of its origin, extremely dry.

Canada Held As Example

Has Solved Problem Of Minorities Says Sir Robert Borden

Canada was held up before the Assembly of the League of Nations as a shining example to peoples who are striving to solve the vexing problem of the min orities.

Sir Robert Borden, former premier of the Dominion, told representatives of Germany, Poland and other nations, whose relations are being constantly disturbed because of the presence of foreign racial groups within their borders, that the problem could be solved, and solved justly and happily.

Canadian School System Impresses Educationists

Visitors to Canada are invariably impressed with the Dominion's educational system, particularly if they be men especially interested in the subject. A case in point is the decision of an English educationist who has been in this country for some months, to send his son to Canada to complete his education. He is impressed with the high standards of living and greater individual liberty of action, cannot begin to compete with Russia.

American Food Demands

More Sugar, Fruits, Fats and Milk Products Are Consumed

The average American of 1930 will consume 150 pounds more food this year than his predecessor of 1900, according to the American Research Foundation.

"More sugar, fruits, fats and oils, and milk products are being eaten by the people of United States," says the Foundation.

"The per capita consumption of sugar is estimated at about 105 pounds this year, compared with 61 pounds per capita in 1900. We also found that the average about 44 pounds per capita this year, compared with 34 pounds consumed in the earlier year.

"Milk products consumption has increased from 840 pounds to 1,040, and fresh fruits from 180 to 192 pounds per capita.

"Meat consumption has shown little variation, the present 142 to 145 pounds a year per person.

"Figuring the increases with the decline, the average per capita food consumption shows a gain of 150 pounds annually in the last 30 years.

"The increasing prosperity of the country and heat producing foods is evident in the modern American dietary. Less starchy foods are being eaten by fats are necessary in generating heat and power for the body.

"Meat, fish, vegetables, and dozens of other items on the daily menu have a high fat content. The exceptional value of fats is that, in addition to supplying energy, they aid digestion by enhancing the palatability of foods consumed in the average meal."

Canada Honors Her Scientists

Not Without Honor in Their Own Country Says Manchester Guardian

Canada's treatment of her scientists was lauded by the Manchester Guardian in a recent article on Dr. F. C. Banting, the young Toronto research worker who won fame for his discovery of insulin. The Guardian says: It is greatly to the credit of Canada that her prophets are without honor in their own country. The case of Dr. Banting, the discoverer of insulin, is typical, for the brilliant young scientist has already received at the hands of his people all the honor of personal approbation that they can bestow. What remains is the Nobel Prize.

What the world owes to him can scarcely be computed, although when he first announced his discovery it was received throughout the world with a certain amount of credulity. The results obtained, however, soon placed the result beyond all doubt, and the Canadian Government took the unusual step of voting him a life policy to enable him to continue his medical research.

Immediately in front of this is a tray to accommodate road maps.

Source Of the Thames

Seven Springs In Cotswold Hills Feed World's Most Famous River

How many people—even among the millions who live upon its banks—could say offhand where the source of the Thames is? We found that the fact that so few of us know anything about the beginnings of the world's most famous river is reflected in the statement, that, until recently the Thames had its source in a rubbish dump. Now the position has been settled once, and visitors to the source will find a little pool in a wood hollow, with, as one adds, a stream gushing out. It is Seven Springs, source of the Thames; but there is nothing to tell anyone that this is the case, and in the quiet Cotswold Hills, where the Thames rises is situated, we are not thinking of London and London's River. However, a plan is now afoot to put up on the site in a worthy manner and to build a fountain through which the Seven Springs may flow.

Western Representatives

HUNTER-MARTIN & CO., REGINA, SASK.

SOVIETS HAVE SINISTER SYSTEM OF MARKETING

Montreal.—The menace of Russian wheat lies not so much in its volume, as in the marketing method which the Soviet employs, said Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture.

"The Russians appear to have developed a particularly sinister marketing system," the minister explained. "They take a quantity of wheat and dump it on the market at all once and give the impression of having an unlimited volume. That breaks the market and creates a panic amongst our growers. They think that there is no outlet for their wheat, whereas there is, of course, always an outlet."

The minister would not forecast how long the present Russian situation would overhang the market. He repeated, however, that it was not the volume but the marketing method of the Soviet which was sinister at the present time, and added that it would take but a relatively small change in the general situation to induce a substantial movement upon the part of Canadian wheat.

Hon. Mr. Weir outlined his hope of building up not only a substantial cattle trade with Britain, but also an interprovincial trade between Eastern and Western Canada in chopped feed for farmers. Such a trade could be believed, were capable of substantial development which would redound to the advantage not only of the western farmer, but also of the Eastern Canada dairyman.

New York.—The World today quoted Aaron Sapiro, an authority on commodities and marketing, as saying he believes the Russian Soviets are planning a "bloody" crop for the coming year, which they can produce at 50 cents a bushel at Black Sea ports, as compared with the American production cost of upward of 80 cents. A great part of this crop, he thinks, can be dumped in Europe.

He said he had reason to believe that Russia was figuring that the United States next spring would have a surplus of at least 200,000,000 bushels which, together with the huge Russian crop, would depress prices greatly.

The short sales in his opinion were made to make money for the all-Russian textile syndicate, which expects the price to be low at the time it starts to strengthen his right hand against the temporary period of welcoming the strangers within our gates."

For Relief Of Farmers

Alberta Government Taking Steps To Assist Agriculture

Calgary, Alberta. — Among plans being considered by the provincial government for the relief of Alberta farmers during the coming winter, Premier J. E. Brownlee announced here, were separate conferences between the cabinet ministers of the province and representatives of implement companies, mortgage and loan companies, railway and bus corporations and the Retail Merchants' Association, which have been arranged by Attorney-General Lymburn, to take place in Edmonton.

A meeting of the bank representatives with governmental officials was held a few days ago, and four of the cabinet members conferred with the livestock interests in the south.

"The farmer must be relieved before this winter, and we are trying to get to the bottom of the situation and then decide what can be done. Among other things, it may be possible to bring in enough live stock to use up the surplus coarse grains and fodder crops this winter," the premier stated.

Deplores Alarmist Talk

Dr. Swanson Says There Is No Over Production Of Wheat

Quebec, Que. All alarmist talk of world over-production of wheat was in his opinion, wholly unwarranted, Dr. W. W. Swanson, of Saskatoon, head of the Department of Economics of the University of Saskatchewan, said, prior to sailing for London, England. Dr. Swanson is one of the wheat experts attending the London conference in an advisory capacity.

Wheat is the world's basic food and there has never been any true surplus of food and there probably never will be," Dr. Swanson said. "There certainly is none at present, and a country such as Canada may safely regard its stores of wheat as the true form of wealth certain to be converted into money on a fair basis of price, despite temporary difficulties of marketing."

Manitoba's First Welfare Conference

Important Conference To Be Held in Winnipeg Early This Month

Winnipeg, Man.—Much interest is now being taken throughout the Province in the first Manitoba Conference on Social Work that is to be held at the Fort Garry Hotel, Winnipeg, on the 7th, 8th and 9th of October.

This is to be a conference where everyone interested in social work or any phase of it, and including social workers, directors, teachers, nurses, municipal officials, school trustees and board members, and those who come in contact with the different human problems of their communities will be welcome, and their part in the discussions appreciated.

Much study has been given over the past nine months to the series of topics related to Manitoba problems that will occupy a place on the program, and to the securing of the most qualified persons to lead in their presentation and discussion. Over fifty men and women, all prominent in their various fields, have already accepted certain responsibilities for this purpose.

Two outstanding speakers, Dr. Bernard McGhie, of Orillia, possibly Canada's greatest authority on the training of the feeble-minded child, and Henry L. Kelly of Chicago, a noted student of the problem of delinquency, are among those on the program.

The problems of the underprivileged or wayward child, the delinquent, the mentally handicapped, the mental defective, the delinquents, in their various aspects, as well as such general topics as "Health" and "Unemployment" are all listed for discussion.

The financial burden placed on provincial and municipal funds, as well as the cost to the people of the benevolent individual, are each year assuming greater proportions. There is, it is claimed, no over-crowding of the field, in consequence, an increasing need of the public authorities, that for the general good more still has to be done in dealing with the problem of the mental defective. The child times, such as the one the country is now passing through, the question of family relief and the proper responsibility for its care is becoming a new importance.

All such questions are giving increased thought and research and are interested in the welfare of their own communities, and emphasize the necessity for seeking to find a great plan to deal with them.

The Rt. Hon. J. Ramsden, for over 30 years, has held annual conferences on Social Welfare, and every year has brought an increasing help to those engaged in social work. A representative attendance from all over the Province has each time given the first Manitoba Conference on social work, decisions and findings of the greatest benefit, and work and practical methods for dealing with many of the immediate difficulties.

Those seeking the detailed program of the conference, a request to The Secretary, 753 Wolseley Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba, will secure it

Is Proving a Success

Canadian Cattle Exports To Britain Favorably Received

Ottawa, Ont.—The resumption of Canada's export cattle trade to the Old Country has apparently got "away to a good start," commented H. S. Arkell, Dominion livestock commissioner, following receipt of a report on the initial shipment of Canadian beef cattle to Manchester, England.

That cattle have evidently met a very satisfactory reception despite the fact they arrived on the market during the time of the hottest spells of weather England has experienced in 20 years," Mr. Arkell said.

"Now that there have been made such a good start, Canadian shippers should see to it that no inferior cattle are allowed to go overseas."

Saving To Dairy Farmer

Ottawa, Ontario. As a measure of relief for dairy farmers producing milk and cream for export to the United States, Hon. This means a saving to the dairy farmer of from $2 to $5 or more for the official inspection of his premises and herd.

SPIRITED REPLY TO CRITICISMS OF WHEAT POOL

Saskatoon, Sask.—The individual farmer in Saskatchewan is harder pressed financially today than he was in 1929, when the Wheat Pool was organized and depression was worldwide, in the opinion of H. S. Fry, of Regina, publicity director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Commenting on the Winnipeg news despatch which said that reports had been circulated in various exchanges that the Pool was facing financial disaster, Mr. Fry said that was simply an exaggerated example of what has been going on particularly during the past three months."

Opponents of organized marketing on the part of farmers, he said, considered the present an opportune time to try to shake the faith of farmers in their marketing organization. The attempt would fail, he was convinced. The Pool was handling a larger percentage of the crop than last year.

Whatever happens, farmers will not go back to a system which the great majority of them have abandoned because of its failure to give due consideration to the producer as a primary factor.

The spreading of maliciously faked reports such as the one circulated recently the director termed "an influence to the national welfare and the welfare of agriculture in Western Canada, as it is well-nigh psychological."

"I can only repeat" said Mr. Fry "what has already been said from so many different quarters, that there is absolutely no foundation whatever for this malicious story.

"The Pool is a matter which, of course, directly affects the business of the central selling agency, but attacks such as this, made under cover and designed to misuse the power of the press, are not unheard of in our experience previously, and are aimed primarily at breaking down the morale of the membership of the organization, on the basis of which the C.B.A. operates.

Many factors combined to create the present serious financial condition. Mr. Fry believed, but among these low prices, short crops, obligations to creditors accumulated during years of higher prices, and the general world-wide depression.

"The annual meeting of circumstances is being used in the utmost by those who would injure the Pool," he said. "Every means short of direct libel," he said, "and the incident is only an aggravated example of what has been in a more or less way continually and in the last three months in particular.

See Trade Revival

Bankers Predict Permanent Improvement In Volume Of Business

Victoria, B.C. "We have reached the bottom and are at the turn." Sir Robert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said here recently in commenting on conditions in Canada.

"There is no stringency of money in the country," commented Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal, another Canadian financier visiting here.

"The trade of the country has suffered a setback due in some measure to the low price of commodities, but there is a better feeling now," Sir Charles added.

"The revival is coming, but it will be gradual," he continued. There is plenty of money in the country for all the business being done and we are always ready to advance loans for legitimate commercial enterprise."

This year's crop, which has been estimated at four hundred million bushels, is better than had been expected, Sir Charles commented.

"There should be a permanent improvement in the volume of business done by the manufacturers of the country," he said when questioned concerning the new tariff

OUTCRY AGAINST THE DUMPING OF RUSSIAN WHEAT

London, England.—Wheat will play possibly a dominant part at the Imperial Conference discussions. The country's other staple product is also under conditions of semi-serfdom, has raised an outcry not only in rural England but across the agrarian states of Europe

It has given the movement for wider Empire preference impetus such as no mere academic discussions could possibly have done

Nevertheless there are strong doubts as to whether the present Labor government would be prepared to impose a duty on foreign wheat. The "Free Traders" and the "Free Fooders" such as Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Rt. Hon William Graham, president of the Board of Trade, are much at the economic helm at Downing Street.

The Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, has a counter scheme which would accord preferences by way of bulk state purchases. But although Mr. Thomas has not yet divulged the details of his plan it is meeting strenuous opposition on the ground that it will increase the price of food.

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, dismisses the entire agitation as dumping on Russian wheat as a political stunt.

In regard to the conference on colonial legislation, whose report comes up for consideration at the Imperial Conference the Manchester Guardian remarks that its findings are disappointing and should be subjected to much rough handling.

The right of the British Government to veto colonial legislation, it declares, has become increasingly difficult and the recommendation that the veto should be exercised only in the interests of the people concerned is not likely to be accepted."

It is important to recognize that the minorities such as the serfdom Germans in Poland and Lithuania and the Ukrainians in the Czech State with Africa can no longer be treated as they have been in the past.

That the same legislation should be applied to colonial dominions and to foreign countries is not to be expected. Each case must be considered on its merits and the recommendations of the committee of experts will be carefully studied by the Government of the Dominion.

The Guardian says that the object of the conference is to secure the greatest possible measure of agreement between the Dominions and the Mother Country on the political situation in the world.

The correspondent says that the object of propaganda of National Congress agents was "rapidly evaporating" and though still important in rural areas was confined to fall in entirely because of the deleterious economic consequences of the evil it had been encouraging.

CAREFUL CHECK WILL BE KEPT ON IMPORTERS

Ottawa, Ont.—Careful checks on the transactions made by Canadian importers under the section of the new tariff which permits bona fide contracts for goods to escape the higher duties until Nov. 30, will be made by the Department of National Revenue, it was announced by Hon. E. B. Ryckman, the minister in charge. Under regulations issued recently, the department will demand from the importer a copy of the original purchase order attested to by affidavit and, in addition, proof of the business being done and we are always ready to advance loans for legitimate commercial enterprise."

Grain Truck Tires that "Earn their Oats"

YES SIR! You can't go wrong on the Goodyear Heavy Duty for the hard service grain truck requires. It's the roughest, toughest breakfast you've ever met! It's got an extra heavy carcass of Supercord Fabric and a tread that keeps your wheels puffless.

It's also a mighty low-cost tire for any person will show. And you'll get more miles per cent right here — no waiting for delivery.

LIVESTOCK A PRIME FACTOR IN THE CANADIAN WEST

A popular idea is that revenue in the Canadian prairie provinces is derived almost wholly from grains. A second idea is that the growth of homesteading vastly increased grain production at the expense of livestock and cut down drastically the number of head of livestock between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains. Both ideas need considerable revision.

The rapid settlement of the Prairie Provinces made possible by grain growing has been accompanied by an increase in livestock that has more than compensated for the reduction in ranches, so far as numbers are concerned. Soil-sustaining farming demands the raising of livestock, and the change in the West in this respect within the past decade or so has been remarkable. Today, though the livestock industry in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta has only touched the edge of possibilities, the number of head of cattle, sheep, and swine on farms is an important percentage of the whole in the Dominion. The fact has great value economically, for it tends to agricultural wealth more evenly over the seasons than is possible with grain farming only.

The four western provinces have now more than three times as many cattle, more than four times as many sheep and nearly eight times as many swine as there were in the most palmy range day. Comparative figures for the year 1901, when complete records were first gathered, and 1929, are as follows:

Year	Cattle	Sheep	Swine
1901	1,056,627	215,306	241,739
1929	3,145,940	1,114,143	1,726,005

TO USE CANADIAN STEEL IN TERMINAL CONSTRUCTION

Canadian steel will be used wherever possible in the construction of the new Canadian National Railways terminals at Montreal, S. J. Hungerford, vice-president in charge of operation and construction, said this week when his attention was drawn to a despatch from England which indicated that British steel industries were pending an extension of their business in Canada and were hoping to get a share of the terminals work.

Mr Hungerford said: "Our attitude is 'Canada First,' and if some of the plates and sections we need are not rolled in the Dominion we turn to Great Britain in the second place. It only should be found that certain of the larger sections are not produced either in Canada or Great Britain, in which case we would necessarily obtain them from the United States. Of course, specific matters as prices and delivery must be considered as well."

HON. GEORGE HOADLEY ON DIVERSIFICATION.

(Farm & Ranch Review)

I desire to call special attention to the report of an excellent radio address recently delivered by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Alberta's Minister of Agriculture which appears elsewhere in this issue. The subject of the Minister's address is peculiarly timely just now, in view of the condition of overproduction of wheat the world over, which has arisen during the past few years. It is not easy for Western Canada to curtail its wheat area. We are a growing country, and districts of enormous [illegible] adapted for general agriculture with animal husbandry as the leading feature. Every farmer, however, can do his bit to utilize a greater quantity of the lower grades of wheat for feeding purposes, and then relieve the market to that extent. There is no portion of the globe where hogs and poultry cannot be successfully introduced as an important item in the production.

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Tommy Giles is the latest farmer to add a threshing outfit to his farm equipment.

Al Beecroft "is shoots extraordinaire", brought down a goose from a flock so high in the air that he stopped watching before his shot took effect, and had to be told by another party of hunters that he dropped a bomber from the bunch.

The regular meeting of the Sunshine Society was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Stone last week. Splendid readings were given by Mrs. J. Gould and Mrs. Stephens, and piano selections by Ruth Stephens. A quilt was begun by the members.

Rally Service Well Attended

The rally service at the United church, Sunday, Sept. 28th was well attended, and under the charge of Rev. T. A. Bowen a very interesting service ensued. Mr. Bowen gave his address on what rally day means, and this was followed by special music by the children's choir, solo by Mary James, A welcome by Myrtle Gould a reading "Picture Talk Among the Lowly" by Violet Barnett, and a dialogue by Patsy Easton and Alma Stinson on the meaning of Rally Day.

Our teaching staff, Mr. Stirling and Miss Clement, motored to Edmonton on Saturday and spent the week end at their respective homes there. Mr. J. Bristow accompanied them on the motor trip.

Threshing operations are again at a standstill with little chance of commencing before Saturday or Monday next, providing the weather continues dry. Meanwhile, duck and geese hunting is the chief pastime of town and country people alike.

Miss Hilda Shaw who has been convalescing from an operation at her home here has now returned to continue her training course at the Misericordia hospital, Edmonton.

GIVE GAME A FIGHTING CHANCE!

Not long ago I took a boy on his first real hunting trip. He was new to his initial point before a thick growth of alders and I walked in to flush the bird, leaving my companion on an old road.

This bird, instead of thundering away in the usual manner, merely hopped up into a dead tamarack and sat there, head up in alarm, an easy mark.

I watched the boy. He threw the gun to his shoulder, sighted carefully and then relaxed.

"I don't mean right to shoot him sitting!" he said stoutly and my heart leaped. Here was a kid with the instincts of a true sportsman!

To shoot a game bird sitting is child's play. To drop one in flight is the mark of a real sportsman.

Furthermore, by giving these creatures every chance to escape us we are helping to maintain the supply for future days of sport.

I have a friend who says that we conservationists will be getting somewhere when, seeing them rise in the field, the sportsman will be asked "What kind of a time?" instead of "How many did you get?" He is right. It is well enough to have friends exclaim in envy over big bags; it is something to see them say that you have handicapped yourself, given the game its fighting chance, and have sustained unnecessary losses.—Ronald Tilton, in "The Country Gentleman."

Keep insured in sound companies through a responsible agent, and put in your claim with a clear conscience if accidental fire happens after you have done all you can to make your property safe

If a fire results from your carelessness you have helped to weaken the resources of our country at a time when every dollar counts.

IMPORTANT

If you use tobacco, trench out for lighted pipes, cigars and cigarettes.

Never fire pail or a chemical extinguisher on each floor.

Some furniture and piano polishes are inflammable. Keep in a cool place and do not use where there is open flame.

Use only reliable make of coal oil stoves and heaters. Do not move or fill when lighted, and keep burners clean.

The fire waste in Canada is a serious reflection upon the intelligence of its people.

Here and There

One of the biggest game bags ever to be taken out of the Canadian Rockies has fallen to the lot of Angus McDougall, of Montreal, who has been hunting in the Kootenay Valley. It included two elks, two Rocky Mountain goats one moose, one elk, and one black bear. At the end of his trip he spent six days breaking a mountain pathway and with one bighorn ram he would have had the limit of every animal possible to get which the law allows him.

Comprising the largest one-day movements of apples out of British Columbia this season, the Canadian Pacific Railways recently operated four special freight trains over the mountain, making a shipment of 213 carloads of McIntosh Reds to the Prairie Provinces and as far east as Montreal.

Rolling moors across Bad Scotland which lakes and rivers in southern Ireland, are the scenes of new fixtures says Major McGeehan, noted Scottish sport and magazine writer, who has been spending a Fall hiking in the Silverstone and Clan's River districts. Up to the present the moose ridden have been over moose land. Thomas Travis, of Montclair, N.J., appears to be the first who has ridden a bull moose which was done in the Key lake of Grand Lake, about 25 miles from Fredericton. Now other sportsmen are taking up the pastime, and it'll be better to look as though sportsmen in New Brunswick will be getting the habit of crossing lakes and rivers on moosebback.

Officials of the Construction Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina July 25 to August 8, 1931, report that farmers in the States of Missouri and Kansas are keenly interested. Entries if both cats and corn from these states are to be expected at the Exhibition. Over $300,000 is to be allowed in cash prizes and in some classes at least the first prizes will be awarded. First prize for wheat will be $2,000 and first prize for corn, $1,500.

Flag poles are found at their best and highest in Bridge Columbia. Recently one was sent via the Panama Canal all the way by water, to the Toronto National Exhibition. It was 177 feet high, 21 inches in diameter at the base and 9¾ inches at the top. This young tree was cut in the forests of the Coast of these all is at the famous Kew Gardens, London, England, and is 241 feet high.

This year's crop of grapes in the Niagara fruit peninsula between Hamilton and Niagara Falls is said is expected to reach about 25,000,000 pounds, an increase of 15 per cent. over the 1929 crop.

Motor tourist travel from the United States to New Brunswick has been 50 per cent. greater this year than in 1929, according to statistics covering the season up to August 31, compiled by the provincial government from official records gathered at the 25 ports of entry along the international boundary. The number was 9:6. Normal increase each year has been 25 per cent and the gross this year is said to be attributed to a slow advertising by the province.

High School Notes

On Friday last the annual inter-High School field meet took place at Lloydminster. For the past two years Vermilion has succeeded in winning the trophy offered by the Lloydminster Elks for the school obtaining the highest number of points. This year, in spite of muddy roads and chilly weather, Vermilion High School left for Lloydminster to win the prize for the third time.

The sports started early in the morning and continued until the afternoon o'clock. A fine sportsmanship was shown by all, though competition was keen. Needless to say the Vermilion contestants put forth their best efforts. One of the most exciting events was the junior girls' high jump, won by Nellie Brownell. The racing and broad jumps also proved very exciting. Clifford Gates won the strength test by a fine margin. Our star athletes this year were Carman Long and Jessie Filipkowski, who both received cups.

In the evening the Lloydminster High School entertained the visitors at a dance in the Alberta hall. All had a good time. After lunch was served Mr. Phillips presented the winners with their trophies. Incidentally Vermilion has won the trophy for three years and it is now our property.

Much of our success in the field meet we feel is due to Mr. Addison and Miss Haines, who kindly gave up their time and energy in training the contestants. We also wish to thank those who gave us the use of their cars for transportation.

Don't forget the Opening Night, Friday, October 3rd.

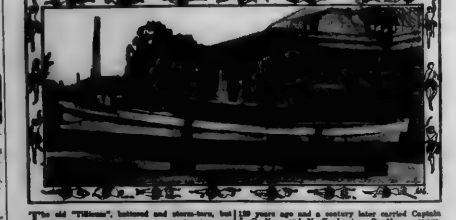
Old Dug-Out Rests From World Cruise



The old "Tilikum", battered and storm-torn, but still godlike and in her own sort of point, was brought down from another graveyard on the banks of the Thames, London, recently, and placed on public exhibition in front of the famous Crystal Gardens, Victoria, B.C., where it is becoming one of the features of the British Columbia capital. The old sea-going canoe was built by Indians near Victoria more than 120 years ago and a century later carried Captain J. C. Voss and M. E. Lucion, Boulf newspaperman, on a round-the-world trip in 1901 of 40,000 miles, weathering typhoons in the Pacific and hurricanes in the Atlantic. The canoe was brought to Victoria through the efforts of George I. Warren, publisher, and other officials of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau. Picture shows close-up of the old dug-out.

First Pioneer Crossed Divide

George C. Powell of Victoria, ex-rancher and the first settler in Vermilion district, is dead. A wire received Wednesday from Church Wilson by M. A. Brimacombe, town, contained the information that Mr. Powell had passed away Tuesday at a Victoria hospital following a week's illness. The news of his death will be received with feelings of the deepest regret by numerous old-timers in a wide range of country to whom he was so well and popularly known for many years. "Island Hill Ranch" in the ormilion river valley, two or three miles east of town, now owned by Rossa & Wicksteed, contractors, will always remain as a landmark to the memory of George Powell, rancher and first settler—friend of the newcomers as they gradually trekked into the newer western land to seek homes and one, who for nearly twenty years carried on cattle and horse ranching on a very large scale.

A more extended reference to the life of the deceased will be published next week.

IMPORTANT

Keep waste paper, packing material and other rubbish cleaned up, and take it out of the building daily, if possible.

Make frequent personal inspection to locate and remove fire danger

Use safety matches (scratch on the box) only, and keep supply in metal receptacle.

See that your electric wiring is standard and be careful in using devices. Turn off current before leaving room.

Be sure that chimneys and smoke pipes are reasonably clean and in repair before starting fires.

Keep gasoline, benzine, coal oil, and other inflammables in safety cans.

Two Individual Cups Come to Vermilion Also

Led by Jennie Filipkowski and Carman Long, local athletes swept the track meet held at Lloydminster last Friday and brought the Cup, emblematic of the field day champion ship, back to repose in the High School here hence, as it has been won three times in succession, giving the V. H. S. boys and girls permanent ownership. The points at the end of the day were: Vermilion 126, Lloydminster 102½, Lashburn 57, Kitscoty 9. Jennie Filipkowski won the individual senior girls' cup and Carman Long captured the boys' trophy. Incidentally, the Lloydminster Elks expressed the wish that these two champions soon graduate from high school.

BROWNIE NOTES

Last week we saw what it meant to be a Brownie before, however, she becomes a member of the Park Brownie pack must know and understand the promise and law and must have carried it out by doing good turns. he must also be able to plait tie her own tie and wash up the two things. At the investiture she receives her recruit badge and the badge of the pack.

The next step in a Brownie's career is the getting of her second class and here I do think we have fun.

1 Know how the Union Jack is made up and the right way to fly it

2 Be able to tie the following knots and know their uses Reef, sheet bend, clove-hitch, fisherman's

3 Be able to tie up a parcel neatly

4 Hem a handkerchief or duster

5 Darn an article or do the darning stitch

6 Know how and why she should keep nails cut and clean and why to clean, and why breathe through the nose

6 Bowl a hoop or bat round a figure of eight course

7 Throw a ball ten yards with the right hand, then with the left

8 Throw a ball so that a girl six yards away catches it four times out of six

11 Lay a table for dinner for two people

12 Bind up a cut finger in correct knot

The Brownies of Vermilion are now working on this badge and are progressing splendidly. The work is made more interesting by games, games and many of the tests are done and before the children realize it they have had a pleasure is easily combined with work

Those Were Old Days

Were things better a hundred years ago? The yesterdays, as they recede into the dim and distant past, take on many lovely colours. A century is a long time, as human life is concerned, but to The Eternal how infinitesimally short.

Let us take a glance at a report concerning the work of little children in the year 1833, in the days of our great-grandfathers. It seems incredible that it should be true, but red tape and statistics stand for cold fact

"The children who work in the cotton factory go to work at five in the morning and continue till nine at night. Some few are allowed to go home to breakfast and dinner, but by far the greatest number are not suffered to go out of the premises at all between 5 and 9."

The writer goes on to remark that although boys and girls under nine years were not supposed to work, still the law was wicked as for there was no Government inspector until the year 1833. Even young girls worked down coal mines in those "good old days."

Of these little slaves of labour the poet Mrs. Browning writes:

"Do you hear the children weeping, O my brothers,

Ere the sorrow comes with years,

They are weeping in the playtime of the others

In the country of the free.

All day long they drag their burden tearful,

Through the coal dark underground;

Or all day they drive the wheels of iron

In the factories, round and round."

Much has been accomplished for children since those appalling conditions made life a hell upon earth for the little ones of the poor. We look around at the many Welfare Societies and pronounce benedictions on them for their work of grace and goodness with the young. Today in the child's Utopia. Even the little sick and underprivileged are the special charge of the people. Read the Junior Red Cross Magazine and see how this League of Mercy operates.

New Market in Egypt

Third Shipment Of Apples Being Made From Okanagan Valley

A new market for British Columbia apples in Egypt is being opened up by a trial shipment there, under arrangements completed by the provincial department of agriculture.

This shipment will consist of 1,200 cases from the Okanagan Valley at a price to net the growers a profit which would be small as a domestic market but satisfactory in an export market. The agricultural department believes that Egypt will offer a large market for British Columbia fruit in the future and is anxious to cultivate this business if new apples from this country have found their way into Egypt before, but the market has never been built up in a big way.

Scenic Automobile Route

Kinbrook Lake Superior Route For Trans-Canada Highway Through Northern Ontario

At a meeting of representatives of the Port Arthur and Fort William city councils and chambers of commerce, held in Port Arthur, and addressed by John Lang and R. A. Ohl, non-delegates from Sault Ste. Marie a resolution was adopted approving of the Lake Superior route for the proposed trans-Canada highway through northern Ontario.

The meeting was unanimous and accepted the view that while the cost per mile of construction might be slightly higher the aggregate cost because of saving in distance, would be considerably less than for the proposed alternative routes further to the north, and it was also that it would open up a scenic route second to none on the east next

It was further believed that with a time saving of one day over any other possible route for such tourists as would make the circuit, it would be a much greater attraction for visitors from the south.

In order to get action on the matter the Port William Chamber of Commerce some time ago adopted a resolution appointing a committee to wait upon the Ontario government and the Canadian National Railways, and this committee has been actively engaged in the matter for some months past.

It was decided to engage Miss Margaret Sutherland for grades three, four and five.

Wins First Prize For Layer Cake

Above is a photograph of Mrs. W. McKenzie, 9 Fernwood Park Ave., Toronto, to whom was awarded the first prize for layer cake, at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. There were a large number of entries of cakes of various kinds and Mrs. McKenzie not only won first prize for her layer cake, but also for muffins and small cakes. We give below the recipe used by Mrs. McKenzie for this prize-winning cake.

Golden Layer Cake: ½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, yolks of 6 eggs; ½ cup milk; 1½ cups flour; 4 teaspoonsful Magic Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful of orange extract. Cream butter and sugar, add well beaten yolks and beat again with butter and sugar until very light. Sift flour and Magic Baking Powder together and add to first mixture alternately with milk. Beat lightly for about one minute, put into greased layer pans and bake. Temperature 360 degrees Fahrenheit. Time about 20 minutes. Put together with Lemon Filling and ice with boiled frosting.

Lemon Filling: 1 lemon and rind; 1 cup cold water; 1 cup sugar; 3 egg; 1 tablespoonful flour. Heat lemon rind and egg together. Stir in lemon juice and sugar. Dissolve flour in water. Cook in double boiler till it thickens and spread.

Boiled Frosting: Dissolve a cup of granulated sugar in ½ cup of hot water Wash down with a brush the sides of the pan, cover and let boil three or four minutes. Remove and let boil to a rather firm soft ball stage. Pour in a thin stream on the whites of 2 eggs, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. A few Maraschino cherries chopped and added to the frosting gives a delicious and pleasing flavor

Last Year 85 Cwtmeries Produced Sixteen Million Pounds Of Butter

The dairy record of the Province of Alberta is an encouraging one. In 1912 the province had only 53 creameries operating and a little over 2,000,000 pounds of butter Last year there were 95 creameries with an output of 16,000,000 pounds. In 1912 six cheese factories produced but 40,000 pounds of cheese, while last year ten factories produced over a million pounds.

ZACHARIAS AND ELISABETH — Life In a Pious Jewish Home

Golden Text: "And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless."—Luke 1:6.

Lesson: Luke 1:5-80.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 122.

explanations and Comments

A Righteous Couple, verses 5, 6.—In the days of Herod, King of Judaea (Herod the Great, who reigned from 37 to 4 B.C.), there lived a priest named Zacharias, of the course, or group of Abijah David divided the priests into twenty-four courses, each of which in rotation was responsible for the temple service for a week. Each course, therefore, officiated twice a year, at an interval of six months. After the captivity only four courses returned, but these were subdivided into twenty-four courses under the old number The course of Abijah is said to officiated in April and October. The wife of Zacharias, who was a descendant of Aaron, was called Elisabeth. Their home was in the hill country of Judaea, at Jerusalem. Both were righteous before God, living as they were not finding but blameless according to the Old Testament standard.

The Birth and Naming Of John verses 57-66.—When Elisabeth's son was born, all her neighbors and relatives rejoiced with her. "There is nothing else in the world so important as a children, nothing else so interesting." (David Starr Jordan). Friends present at the circumcision of the child when he was eight days old, wished to name him Zacharias after his father, but Elisabeth said, "Not so; but he shall be called John." See Luke 1:13. "John" means "the grace of God." "There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name," they said in astonishment, and turned to the father, they asked him what the name should be, making use of signs, for he was supposed to be deaf as well as dumb. (Verses 15-26. Verses 63-66.—Zacharias wrote, "His name is John." Then Zacharias burst forth into speech, blessing God. The people were much impressed by his recovery of speech and by the unexpected name given the babe, and they perceived that some great event was before the child. "What, in view of these things, shall this child be?" they asked. "For the hand of the Lord was with him," the Evangelist comments.

Canned Chicken

New Business Is Likely To Develop Into Large Proportions

In his annual report recently published the Veterinary Director General of the Dominion Department of Agriculture calls attention to the increase in the number of poultry products received for government inspection. The packing trade are canning more meats and poultry in Canada, and the demand for them, from the considerable development in the field of canned chicken. Canned whole chicken has made its appearance on the market last year and from the reception accorded it the new business is likely to develop into one of considerable proportions.

CHAPTER I

When, after years of slavery to the whims of a half-cod uncle, Nicholas Hastings went forth on his quest for freedom, he started tramp-wise, his belongings slung in a blue-checked handkerchief which he had bought for the occasion. For years he had foreseen departure from the home of his fathers the haughty farewell he should bestow upon all ents under the roof of the Hall Aunt Nettie when he took her in his arms. But Fate frustrated many a plans. The patient little aunt had been laid away in Elmwood Cemetery two months before; and the week's ago his uncle had followed her, as if, Nick thought with grim and sacrilegious humor, he was loth to let her enjoy a moment's residence in her Heavenly Mansion.

So there were no farewells to say. Instead, Nick left the back door because he didn't want Selina Smith, the village gossip, to see his stick and handkerchief, and stood for a moment looking off at the familiar landscape.

He had always loved the view from this little porch. An orchard sloped gently to a green intervale, through which a sleepy river traveled to the sea. One wouldn't have dreamed that the house stood on a dusty thoroughfare. From here were visible only "green pastures and still waters" Nick could remember all the years he had spent on that porch, summer evenings, and after his mother's death, with old Aunt Nettie. For a moment a wave of tenderness for the place swept over him; then youth flooded back with an intoxicating exhilaration. He slipped the door key into his pocket, and with no tinge of regret vaulted the stone wall and strode across the orchard where, once beyond the sycamore, the view of the village was shut off.

"I wish I were a man, Nick."

He answered, his eyes devouring her sweet girlishness: "You're pretty nice as you are, I don't think I'd have you changed, Gay; and I don't believe you would change, if you could."

She made a little gesture of scorn of the impossible, and, as if he had forgotten his haste to be away, Nick sat beside her his hands clasped round his knees

"No," she said honestly, "I wouldn't change, of course; but it must be wonderful to start off as you are starting, Nick Do you suppose I'll ever have to go to the ends of the earth?" Do you imagine I like living here with Sadie Terhelt, and seeing no other women's clothes in order to pay my board?"

Nick looked at her, his brows drawn and a frown.

"Do you know," he admitted, "I never thought of it. It's because you're a girl. Somehow it doesn't expect a girl to go a-gypsying, though why she shouldn't—Gay," he broke off suddenly, "what pipe ears are!"

She laughed

"One's old hardly call you that, Nick, after the way you stuck by your Aunt Nettie."

That I am—said Nick, still frowning "I came to my good-bye to you, this homely made him want to remind the fact that to acquaintance he had almost forgotten the farewell, but his Miss Smith forbade this disclosure that he knew would hurt her's, "I came to say good-bye, never thinking that you, too, might long to do what I am doing. For substance of myself, Gay. What must you think of me?"

"I think," she said, meeting his eyes soberly, "that you're getting just what you deserve—a good time What do you think of me, to imagine for a moment that I don't rejoice with you? Nick, you're only a boy, and you're never had much fun. Why shouldn't you be a little thoughtless? F- I believe I'm glad you are?"

He stirred, a bit uneasily, while Gay added with an understanding smile: "I wasn't deep you. I know you're chafing at the bit."

She arose, leaning down to brush an imaginary something from her skirt; and as he got to his feet she stretched out a friendly hand.

"Good-bye, Nick. The best of luck to you."

He took her hand, squeezed it hard, said thickly, "Good-bye, Gay," and, with Sadie's laud from Selina Smith's. Then he turned, though even as he did so he realized how difficult it is dangerous to look back. He turned squarely about, his hand raised in a last salute.

Gay was standing just where he had left her, but it seemed to Nick that all the strength and youth had dropped from her. She was leaning against the gnarled trunk of an old apple tree, her head bowed, her feet and the pink, sweet blossoms all about her. Her pink gown she should have had new ones, he remembered, in spring; but in reality she drooped, like a flower plucked by some ruthless hand and left to die. She looked as if she couldn't bear it. He leaned his stick and bundle, undersea of freedom, to the ground, and strode back to Gay, pulling herself together, ran to meet him.

"Did you forget something?"

"Yes," said Nick. "I forgot the best friend a fellow ever had, Gay, listen, I won't think of you every but why can't you come along?"

"With you?"

Her eyes widened at the amazing proposition

"Why not? It would be bully I

Fortunately for Gay there was a stump close behind her. She sank down breathlessly, while Nick, with a cautious glance at the hedge that hid from Selina Smith, took the place beside her

"We could have the time of our lives," he urged. "I've always done things alone but with you along

Gay found her tongue

"Oh, I can't!" Nick interrupted with a characteristic gesture. "I meant, of course, that you'd get married first"

Get married!"

He laughed at her amazement.

"Why not? It's been done before. We're both of age you know Why shouldn't we—"

"But you don't love me."

"Nonsense! I love you a lot Al ays have Of course, If I'd bore you

Ancient Warship Discovered

Hull Armed With Heavy Iron Guns Found In Stockholm Canal

The hull of a 300-year-old Swedish warship armed with heavy iron guns, recently discovered on the bottom of the Riddarholmen canal in the heart of Stockholm, has been pumped dry and is being raised to the surface. Archaeologists who have examined the relic believe it to be the oldest war vessel from the medieval period hitherto discovered. It is built of oak, low and sleeker in type, and seems to be a direct descendant of the Viking ships, which were among the swiftest and most seaworthy boats ever constructed Close by the ancient guns have been found round cannon balls of stone lead and iron, and some iron powder chambers for the breech-loading guns of that period. Several stone-shaped pieces of hollow wood also have been brought to light, partly broken down by the mud and stone, which may have been primitive cannon-ball projectiles for close range firing Below the deck which is partly broken down other interesting objects belonging to the equipment of the ship have been found The work of recovering the vessel is very difficult but the hull itself is in so well preserved that it may be possible to reconstruct the ship with its armament and rigging fairly complete

Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Britain is a special lover of music

Speaking at a public meeting in Guildhall School of Music in London, England Mr MacDonald said he had enjoyed many Sunday afternoons listening in the broadcast of Bach's church cantatas from the school

"I confess that whether I am in London or in the country I have transported myself down at Chequers the Prime Minister's official residence, and I am sorry to say the reason is that other days I am too busy to do that very much that there shall be no engagement, no interference in business but that my time is my own I shall retire to a quiet corner of the house and I shall listen to the broadcast and personally I find it a great help to me in the broadcast

Persian Rains

Persian Rains like all the rains, are very capricious and it is difficult to predict in months or even years when and where they will fall. Some districts have been known to have a wet period which lasted for seven years, and then to have a very long dry period lasting the skin. Many of the ancient cities of Persia are now in ruins, and it is probable that the cause of their destruction was climatic rather than political.

New Folder Of Canada

"Canada is the title of a new folder that has been issued by the Department of the Interior of Canada, which contains a summary of the country's natural resources their potentialities and development. The folder also points out the interesting fact that Canada has a total resources still unused, area in southern Canada, in addition to illustrations depicting Canada's agricultural activity in the various provinces. A copy can be obtained from the Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

After Thirty-Three Years

Bodies Of Arctic Explorers In Excellent State Of Preservation

The bodies of the men August Andree and his two companions, according to the dispatches, were in an excellent state of preservation when they were found on White Island in the Arctic Sea, although it has been thirty-three years since they disappeared. This curious refrigerator of cruelty in the frigid parts of the earth. To preserve for years the appearance of life even in death, has made its impression on the human imagination long before now.

We recall a short story many years ago about a couple who went to the Alps on their honeymoon. The man fell into a crevasse and the guides were unable to recover his body The body of the bridegroom was preserved scientists as to what she could do. They told her that the glacier moved a few inches a month and that after fifty years, perhaps it would move far enough to make possible penetration of the crevasse So for fifty years she waited. And at the end of that time the body was recovered, and she by now an old, decrepit woman was permitted to look at the body of her husband It was perfectly preserved and she saw the handsome boy she had married fifty years before

The Third Emigration

Russia Worried Over People Who Will Not Come Back

The Russian Government is reported worried over what has been designated as the third emigration The first emigration was that of the Socialist revolutionaries in 1922. The second was that of the men of the Russian Royalists who fled to the four corners of the world from the Soviet terror. The third is that of the "counterrevs," soviet citizens appointed to diplomatic or other posts abroad who refuse to go back home after their recall The penalty for such refusal is death and confiscation of assets.

The third emigration is a striking testimony to the confidence of Trotsky in spreading to all and Russia When the Government of Russia presumably was in full control of the situation, the defection of these trusted agents would not be so serious, but it is said to be believed that the secret system ought to be opened to Russia

No Room For Argument

At an exhibition of painting, recently Mr John Ross former Lord High Chancellor of Ireland had his reminiscences Pictures Skipping conversation was overheard by a lady who asked Mr Ross to explain the Picture The Duke explained that the subject was Moses Marie

Marie, returning at midnight, "Mamma, I've been to Heaven"

"Indeed, but never mind it Marie."

Marie chatties "He wants done, but he couldn't as he photographed."

How One Woman Lost 47 Pounds of Fat

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 8 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in water every morning. I have reduced 47½ pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 10 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that it is it."—Mrs. S. A. Solomon.

"P.S.—You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

Little Helps For This Week

Blessed are they that keep my ways. Proverbs viii. 32

And oh! in my exceeding weakness
Make Thy strength perfect! Thou art strength!
And me to do Thy will with meekness
Thou knowest all my powers before Thee

If thou will but go on with thy duties, doing to-day in-such cases the desire of loving to love in His sight,—the irksome dullness and dryness in the thorn in thy flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet thee But fear not; God's grace is sufficient for thee His strength will be made perfect in the weakness Only set yourself in earnest to obey this voice day by day, night and day; Behold the servant of the Lord' be it unto me according to Thy Word

The Poor Man's Friend

Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum. Dr Thomas Eclectric Oil possesses power in its concentrated form Its cheapness and the small sum to which it can be put makes it the poor man's friend No dealer's stock is complete without it

Fred Sales Milk

Feeding tests at the Cap Rouge Experimental Station of the Dominion Department of Agriculture show that if pains be fixed laying hens skim milk for two years tests show that with a basal ration of grain meal, shell and vegetable feeds, hens fed skimmilk laid more eggs and gained more in weight than hens fed beef scraps. Incidentally the cost of skim-milk is but a fourth that of beef scrap

Very little progress has been made in threshing operations in this district since last week's publication. Following the wet weather threshers were able to start their outfits Saturday, but Monday afternoon rain-sleet set in, continuing until well into the night. Heavy dews with foggy mornings and dull weather until today—when the weather again became warm and clear—has followed. Many outfits are prepared to re-start Friday should present favorable conditions continue. Four or five weeks of good weather is needed to break the backbone of the threshing.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Wener returned to town during the last week from an extended holiday covering a period of three months, taken by motor car. Both look extremely well and report a most enjoyable vacation. Seven thousand miles were covered in the trip which included Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, Oakland and Los Angeles where several weeks were spent. As the private secretary to the manager of Universal Films is a nephew of Mr. Wener they had the privilege and pleasure of viewing from the inside the scenes in several productions. Neil Hamilton being one of the stars in action. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wener have glowing reports of fruit areas visited, one of which comprised 12,000 acres of oranges, lemons and many other fruits. In one part of the country for thirty miles on either side the highway was lined with apple orchards. Their many friends are pleased to welcome them home again and to know that the trip was such a happy one.

Alexandrine Kiss, a farm hand employed by Tom Riley, a farmer of the Wildmere district some 20 miles south and east of town, was brought into Vermilion Tuesday, having gone violently insane. It required several men to control him. A certificate as to his mental condition was issued by Dr. W. H. Bell and a commitment issued by Police Magistrate P. G. Pible. The unfortunate man, who appeared to be about 35 years of age, was taken to Edmonton by the police on the afternoon train the same day.

BOWLING BECOMING POPULAR PASTIME

Bowling at the new Northern Recreation here is fast becoming the town's most popular pastime and the manager expects to have a regular league in operation in a short time both for men and ladies.

In respect to bowling for ladies Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Wednesday evenings are set aside as definite times for ladies and their escorts. Bowling is in its infancy here every one is learning, so everyone is on the same beat and all feel at home. A Vermilion's new game. Considerable enough interest is shown in the sport a dressing room for their use will be added to the hall's facilities.

There are several ladies in which leagues in Edmonton and no doubt the game will take well with ladies here. Competent instructors are always on hand. Any lady wishing to play in a league, communicate with Mr. Bailey, the proprietor.

INDIGESTION
Banished by Eructone

"I suffered for some years from a bad stomach. I used to feel very miserable after meals. The doctor advised me to take Epsom Salts, but it did me no good. I decided to try Eructone and am now taking it, and have done for the past 12 months, and I am very glad to tell you that my stomach is now in perfect order. I feel as young in spirit as I was 20 years ago. Thanks to Eructone." (W.H.)

You know how badly an engine runs when it gets clogged up. It's the same with your body when your gastric or digestive juices fail to flow. What you need is a tonic. Nature's own tonic Nature's all mineral salts.

You get all these salts in Eructone. The best effect of these salts is to pass on the flow of the saliva and so awaken the appetite. The next action occurs in the stomach, where the digestive juices are encouraged to pour out and act upon the food. Again, in the intestinal tract, certain of these salts promote a further flow of these vital juices which deal with partly digested food and prepare it finally for absorption into the system.

Shipbuilding in Sweden

Sweden Maintains Lead in Industry Among Scandinavian Countries

Sweden maintains its lead in the shipbuilding industry among the Scandinavian countries, according to the latest reports. At the Swedish yards 36 vessels with an aggregate tonnage of 127,000 gross tons were in the course of construction at the end of the first half-year. Denmark comes second with 20 ships of 114,000 gross tons and Norway third with with 32 ships of 60,000 gross tons. Of the ships at present being built in Sweden nine are steamers of motorships, 2,000 gross tons each, two motorships of 2,000 to 4,000 tons four motorships of 5,000 to 6,000 tons, and one motorship of 6,000 to 10,000 tons.

Shortest Name For Horse

Racer In England Answers To Name Of "O"

There's a race horse in England named "O." This establishes a practically unassailable record for brevity. One suspects that its owner, Mrs. G. L. Redmond, an American, saw an opportunity to attract a little attention by thus naming the nag although with so many horses running around these days owners have just about run out of names.

In the United States there is a rule that a period of 13 years must elapse before a name once used by a race horse can be used again. Over in England the only restrictions are that you cannot name your horse after the winner of one of the "classics" nor for a living person without obtaining permission.

The "classics" are five in number, although the term is frequently abused, the Thousand and Two Thousand Guineas, the Derby, Oaks and St. Leger. Horses winning these races retain their individual names in perpetuity.

MARY, THE MOTHER OF JESUS —AN EXAMPLE OF MOTHERHOOD

Golden Text: "Mary kept all these sayings, pondering them in her heart."—Luke 2:19.

Lesson: Luke 2:15-19; John 2:1-5; 19:25-27.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 87

Explanations and Comments

The Mother Of the Babe, Luke 2.15-19.—The shepherds were amazed at the message which had come to them, but they were not incredulous, and they said, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing that is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us." Read the whole incident in Luke 2:8-20. They went and found the Christchild in the manger, and with Mary, and also Joseph. To Mary and Joseph the shepherds told what they had heard and seen. Mary quietly retained their words in her heart, pondering them over in her mind.

The Mother Of the Man, John 2.1-5. The third day after Jesus' call with Nathaniel, John 1.47-51, He came to Cana of Galilee, Nathaniel's home town. At a house where Mary was well known, wedding festivities were being held, and when her Son appeared with His followers they were invited to attend. Toward the end of the festivities, which lasted several days, the supply of wine began to give out. Mary saw this, and turned to Jesus for help, "They have no more wine," she told Him. He made no response, but simply told Him of the situation.

The Mother Of the Saviour, John 19.25-27.—Standing by the Cross of Christ were His mother, Mary Magdalene Mary the wife of Cleopas, and Mary Magdalene. Christ's friend, John, "His mother's sister. Mary the wife of Cleopas," may be taken to refer to one woman, but in that case the two sisters were both called Mary, which is improbable.)

"O the weight of her affliction!
The sword that pierced her soul!
Mother to Him, who bore God's Holy One:
Ill shall superlatives suffice to speak your sorrowing!
O those dim eyes never turning
From His wondrous, suffering Head!"

Jesus looked upon His mother and John (the disciple whom He loved" —John 13:23—never mentions once name in his Gospel), and said to His mother, "Woman, behold, thy son!" and to John, "Behold, thy mother." Dr. F. B. Meyer suggests that Jesus would not call her "mother" lest identification with Himself might expose her to insult.

In the hour of excruciating agony he did not forget his mother's need for comfort. Even with Himself might expose her to insult.

In the hour of excruciating agony he did not forget his mother's need for comfort. Even with Himself might eclipsed by His own. He was never more exalted in His grief, so we in ignore His mother's need.—L. E. Jowett.

And from that hour John took the mother of Jesus into his own home.

Conduct Must Go Hand in Hand With Belief

A religious man was said at the top of his creed. "Now remember, the first time since it was built more than 40 years ago. It took place in the lofty cathedral which rears 4,000 feet above the earth. A small table was used as an altar and the service which succeeded the liturgy was the breeze. Special tribute was paid to M. Eiffel.

Made It Balance

The wife had been put on the budget. At the end of each month she and her husband would go over the accounts together. Every once in a while he would find an item, "L.O.K., $8."

Finally he said, "My dear, what is this 'L. O. K.'?"

Lord Only Knows," she replied

Washing clothes is accomplished in the same manner as patching an automobile tire, with a mending paste, which withstands washing, boiling and ironing.

Huge New Glacier Found

Ice Field in British Columbia May Be Largest in World

Bringing back a story of having discovered an ice field that will outrival any previously known, Christian Hasler and Ernest Feuz, Swiss guides of the Chateau Lake Louise and Banff Springs Hotel, arrived at Golden, B.C., by using train, motor, and pack train.

With Major Longstaffe, of Vancouver, the guides reached the headwaters of the South Gaia Lit'erwood and Tobin Rivers, 160 miles north of Vancouver, in the Cascade range. The only state of the rivers conveyed the explorers that the streams were glacial fed and so they penetrated the spring country of the headwaters.

Huge snow fields and glaciers estimated at an area of 350 square miles, were seen and photographed for the first time. Ernest Feuz states that what they saw is only a part of the huge glacial field there.

Second Andree Diary Causing Experts Much Difficulty

Experts examining the documents found with the remains of members of the Andreen balloon expedition in icy Hvitvoen are having difficulty with the second of the Andree diaries, which they believe contains the record of the last days of the explorers.

It had been exposed during the 33 years since the death of the three men and its contents are well nigh erased by time and the elements.

"If you haven't a doctor," said the tourist at the hamlet inn, "what happens when anyone is taken seriously ill?"

"Oh, they just die a natural death."

Another Wonder Of Science

New Device Makes Breath a Kind Of Time Chart

As we have ceased to wonder at the marvels of science, it is not surprising to learn that inventors have found new uses for the breath of the human body besides just breathing, or blowing on one's hands when cold, or on a cup of tea when hot—something one is not taking tea when "company" is present.

Dr. E. E. Free, New York, consulting engineer and scientist, comes forward with a device which can be attached to many things, and all one has to do is to blow into a sort of telephone mouthpiece and it will do a job of work. It makes the breath a kind of third hand when a person cry. In fact, there is almost no limit to the possibilities which a little "blowing" may accomplish. Only this is a purposeful sort of blowing, not mere windbag stuff.

Believe It Or Not

Mountain peaks in the Cariboo range are growing taller, according to Sir Gerald Strickland, Alaska. As proof, one trapper points out that he had found trees on mountain sides with high water marks on them from lakes and streams now hundreds of feet below. A government geological party has been sent to investigate the growth of the peaks.

Saving For the People

Says Saskatchewan May Save Over $200,000 In Connection With Freight Rates On Canned Goods

"People of Saskatchewan will save over $200,000 this year on canned goods," states Hon. J. A. Merkley, Minister of Railways and Labor. The figure $200,000 has been given to the department as the estimate of a large wholesale grocery firm with a large business in the province.

"The estimate will be very close to correct," Mr. Merkley said. The rates were fixed on this commodity at the close of navigation on the great lakes and then the matter "will have to be dealt with all over again," he added.

The government had received the support of the boards of trade of Saskatchewan and the Retail Merchants' Association, and the United Farmers of Canada in the fights, which had been on since July 1 and September 16. Mr. Merkley said in conclusion.

"The stalls," we are reminded, "do not applaud so heartily and unreservedly as the pit and gallery." No; they are the reserved seats."

In all Belgium there are only about 12,000 unemployed.

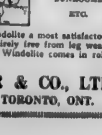
READ OF A CASE LIKE HER OWN

Decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Moncton, New Brunswick.—"Before my last baby was born I was very weak, nervous and discouraged. I saw an advertisement and read paper about a woman who had been like me so I bought a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles and it carried me safely through that critical time. I have the children to care for and I feel well and strong. I have told two other women about your medicine."—Mrs. Chas Abbott, 82 Albert Street, Moncton, New Brunswick.

Don't Gamble With Health

We all know health demands absolute inner cleanliness. But what we often don't realize is the risk we take when we use harsh, griping purgatives that create a confined, unnatural condition.

ENO is pleasant, gentle, safe and sure.

A daily dash of ENO'S "Fruit Salt" in a glass of water, morning or night, tones up and sweetens the entire system. Acid stomach, fatigue, biliousness, quickly disappear.

Dove her—Nick, who had never said a dull thing in his life! And he really meant it. He could tell by the look in his eyes. He wasn't joking. It made her smile, even as she answered shakily, because she couldn't quite control her voice: "I always knew, Nick, that you possessed a streak of chivalry. I'm sure I'll carry you to this extent——"

"Chivalry be darned!" he interrupted. "That's company, my dear, and you know it. Come on. Say. Be a sport. Put on your old grey bonnet or whatever headgear you prefer. Get a few necessaries in a handkerchief, and——" He closed his eyes, folded his arms, and softly sang: "Oh, that we two were Maying."

Nick's voice, sweet and true as a bird's, always stirred the girl. She turned now and laid her hand on his. "You're a good friend, Nick — the best I ever had, or ever shall have. I'll never forget what you've done for me just now. Somehow, it makes everything easier; but I refuse to spoil your freedom, dear old boy."

Nick squeezed her hand.

"A half hour ago," he proclaimed lustily, "I stood in the orchard bequeathed me by my late uncle, and announced to all who cared to hear that I could conquer the world. And now you imply that I can't conquer a slip of a girl in a pink frock. I refuse to be vanquished! Something tells me that you'll be able to put up with me. Without conceit, I think I can promise to prove a more thrilling homemate than Miss Satin Rom another now, and peek your bag. I'll allow you a suitcase as far as State Line (to forty minutes, thirty, I'm in the back gate in uncle's rusty flivver. We'll leave it behind us after the parson has tied the knot. Be gone, girl. The hour waxes late."

"Are you really proposing to me?"

Gay's cheeks burned, and the young man answered: "I am. Gee! I've always thought that would be a fearful undertaking, and it comes as easy! For two cents I'd kiss you, if I wasn't afraid Selina was at the window."

To his surprise Gay stifled a sob. "I can't, Nick."

"Why not?"

"It wouldn't be fair."

"Not to you, perhaps," he agreed amiably. "For me, it would be a——"

"You're so young," she hesitated. "Has—older than you?".

"Not really," he contradicted. "Not in your feelings, Nick. You've just a kid."

"Before night," he announced proudly, "I'll be a married man; but not if you dilly-dally this way. My dear, it's the very top o' the morning. Let's be off."

He started pulling her to her feet, and at his touch something of his own buoyancy and enthusiasm swept through her. Her eyes sparkled. She said, her heart palpitating wildly: Oh, I'd like it. Nick, but——"

"But what?" he barks." he quoted, and turned away, calling over his shoulder: "In thirty minutes—at the latest, with a little rain at my heart, if Nick would rather she'd have come to him as well, as most girls would have come. Was there perhaps, something in him that repelled? Was it because he was poor and dominless on her pock. He didn't know what that red bandanna held? "Nick," she began, as if she were just the least bit frightened, "did you think, it wasn't nice of me to come this way?"

He turned to her, surprise written on his face: "Nice? Why ——" He put his foot on the brake bringing the car almost to a standstill; "why shouldn't it be nice? I think it was a lucky day for Gay. Do you know, I felt you I wondered just how we'd manage, I'm not such an ideal as to think you could travel as Lady as I can; but a ultrase Well, I'll say, Gay, that when I saw you standing there, hugging the shabby little suitcase, and with that bundle on your stick, I said to myself: 'You haven't a dollar to your name, but you've got the right stuff. You'll make a terrific wife.' Gay, I'm going to be the luckiest man in the world. I'll be a success, and you'll be the most wonderful——"

He leaned his head on the brake wheel with a groan. "Oh, I'm such a fool! I'm not even a success. I'm just a——"

"Don't say it!" she cried, and put her hand over his mouth. "I won't have you say it. You're a success. You've got a job, and I'm going to help you keep it. I'm going to be the best little wife in the world. Nick, and I'll make you happy."

"Gee!" he exclaimed, and kissed her hand. "Gay, you're a wonder! I'll say you are! Now we'll be off. Where's that bundle? Oh, there it is. Hand it to me, and I'll put it in the back of the car."

He started the car, and Gay, looking back, saw the bundle lying on the road. "Nick, you've dropped it!" she cried.

"Let it drop," he answered. "It's only a few old clothes and a couple of books. Nothing we'll miss."

"But it's all you have in the world," she protested.

"Then it's all we have in the world," he corrected her. "Don't worry, Gay. I'll buy you a whole trousseau when we get to the city."

Gay shook her head as they began the descent of the long hill.

"No, Nick, I won't homesick, exactly; but it looked so natural; and what we've done is so amazing. Why, even an hour ago I didn't dream——"

He stopped, as if it were difficult to express her thought; and Nick continued: "That before the sun was three-high you'd be starting on your honeymoon? Well, Gay, we're both in the same boat. I don't wonder you feel a little dazed. I'm dazed myself, but you're not to feel lonesome, I won't let you. I tell you what, young lady, we're lucky to live within forty miles of a state where we can get a license and be married all in an hour!"

"And how I've scorned the people who've done it!"

Gay flushed hotly at the memory; but Nick only smiled as he admitted: "Some have got off with a shotgun when the shoe may pinch the other foot, do we? But there's one thing I'll swear: a bride never looks at her honeymoon with her goods and chattels tied up in a bandanna."

He spoke so seriously that for a moment Gay forgot the look he had given her when they started. She remembered, with a little chill at her

CATCHES JACK RABBIT ON BULYEA AVENUE

A big jack rabbit which found itself in the centre of Bulyea avenue on Tuesday morning saw so many things to run from that it simply couldn't move, and W. J. Moses sneaked up and grabbed him by the ears, but soon changed that hold for a more advantageous one by the hind feet. Bill put the big rabbit, which was perfectly unharmed, into a sack and took him home. Just what entitled the jack into the heart of the town is not known, but it's a cinch he was stupefied when he got there.

GEO. C. POWELL

The late Geo. C. Powell, first white settler and pioneer rancher in Vermilion district, whose death at Victoria was announced last week, came to the West from Nebraska, U.S. in the year 1896 and took up a claim at Beaver Creek where he remained during the winter, re-locating on the Island Hill farm in 1899 where he put up a shack and took up his residence in June of that year. He was married at Edmonton to Mrs. Harmston who, with her daughter Mettie, accompanied him overland by team to their new home. It was a rough journey over the blazed trail of those early days and one fraught with hardship for women. Shortly after arriving, Mrs. Powell was taken sick with typhoid fever and the hired man was sent to bring a doctor from Edmonton, the nearest point. Arriving at Pakan a wire was despatched from the Victoria telegraph station and the doctor upon arriving there was brought back to the ranch. After Mrs. Powell's recovery her daughter was also taken down, so the summer proved a very trying time for all. In July, two more respected old-timers made their advent to the district in the persons of James Common, P.M., now a resident of Vermilion, and Jack Rutherford of Wainwright. During the hard winter months Mrs. Powell and daughter resided at Strathcona where she owned a home. In 1917 Mr. Powell sold out and moved in Victoria. He and Mrs Powell were accorded a great farewell in the assembly hall of the school of agriculture before their departure, which was attended by over four hundred people among whom were many who had come in from near to now in the early days. Handsome presentations were made to them and the evening devoted to reminiscences and experiences of the hardy pioneer days, and the hospitality and kindness extended to all comers as they trekked in at the Powell home.

It was the intention after reaching Victoria to spend some little time in visiting in the Staten but owing to the illness of Mrs. Powell, which later proved fatal, Mr. Powell abandoned the trip. A few years ago he repossessed Island Hill Ranch, shortly after.

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Miss Vera Clement attended her sister's wedding in Edmonton on Saturday.

Mrs. Bristow, Sr. who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bristow here for some time, is returning to Ontario and taking Miss Phyllis Bristow with her.

They are returning part way by car.

Mr. Jack Bristow had as his guest this week his sister, Mrs. Hammer of Mt. Hammerville from our neighboring eastern province. They made the trip by car.

The Ladies Aid's Society plan on having a weiner roast this Wednesday evening providing the weather is fine.

Miss Phyllis Bristow was given a farewell party by the pupils of the senior room last Monday evening. She was presented with a handbag during the course of an exceptionally jolly evening.

Mrs. Laughlan is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jim Gould.

Threshing got well under way again on Monday of this week after a ten days cessation owing to wet weather. The prevalence of machines in the district was exceptional. Between the three miles north of the town on Tuesday when three machines, Mossman's, Cudgeon's and Mudd's were all threshing on the same section.

Mr. Mossman moved his machine towards nolling to Rosen & Wichstrand. Lately he had been residing in the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Wilson, Victoria and upon being taken ill about a week before his death, was removed to a city hospital. Mrs. Mc Powell pronounced certain characteristics which invariably left their impression upon a person and it was then that she took him such an outstanding personality and will always be remembered when talking of the old days and associations

BROWNIE NOTES

Mrs. West played the piano for us and we had a whole hour. Owl taught us some dance steps, and also how to do a figure of eight. This was rather hard at first but a Brownie never gives in and we finally got so that we could do it fairly well. We also learnt a polka step.

We were all very sad to have to say good-bye to Mrs. Dunsway who has been our Tawny Owl since we started the Brownies here. She also Robinson, the only one who has her second class badge, presented her, on behalf of the Brownies, with a cup and saucer, which she assures us she is going to put in a very conspicuous place in her new home. She also promises us she will think of us every time she looks at it and we know it will be often. We will remember you, too, Tawney Owl, and we wish you every happiness possible. Vermilion Brownies will certainly miss you.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

The anniversary services at First United church this year (October 9th) promise to be of special interest. An exchange has been arranged with the minister of Grace United church, at Lloydminster — Rev. Clarence Halliday, B.A. and the local minister, Rev. H. A. Boyd. Mr. Halliday is one of the outstanding younger ministers of the province, a brilliant scholarly and cultured, with an attractive personality and pleasing pulpit manner. He has won golden opinions for his preaching powers in his own congregation and it is a great satisfaction to the Church Board to be able to secure his services for the day. An unique feature of the evening service will be the presence of the Lloydminster choir. Though smaller than the local choir, the choir has given good account of itself They will render three anthems and provide a soloist. Remember the date (Oct. 19th) and watch for titles of anthems and sermons.

On the Tuesday following, Oct. 21, Professor James Adam of Edmonton will give an illustrated lecture in the church on "Prints from Punch." This will be a very entertaining lectures. The public is advised not to miss it. The public will serve lunch at the close. Tickets 50c, juniors 25c.

VICTOR A. TATTON of Indian Head, Sask., writes this interesting letter about Step-Loss Pockets. He says:

Indian Head, Sask. April 30th, 1930.

The Great Western Garment Company, Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Sirs:

Since buying the first pair of your Step-Loss Pockets two years ago, I have saved nearly $50.00 in cash, money and time. I used to buy a new overalls or pair of jeans every few months and by the time these were worn out the style pockets.

Going to town one day in one of I had to put one on to be used in my automobile my pliers and wrench were gone. I had to walk back a mile to a neighbours and borrow a pair and lost another on that trip to town. Lots of times I have put money in my pockets only to find when I wanted it that it had down but out. I have dropped my good gold watch out of the old pockets and order wrench and also spring in the pass and no time to see or find the pocks. After I found how the tools I should have to do a job I would not be without them for many times their cost.

I am always recommending your S-L-O Step-Loss Pockets.

Yours very truly,
VICTOR A. TATTON.

P.S. See Mr.

Step-Loss Pockets are all that their name implies. . . . A marvellous saving of time, labour and money. The G.W.G. are the only overalls produced in Canada equipped with Step-Loss Pockets. Ask your dealer about them throughout the West.

British Dirigible R-101 Crashes In France

Indian Trip Has Fatal Ending — 47 Lives Lost

An air disaster that cast a pall over the entire aviation world and Great Britain into mourning Sunday for the lives of 47 of her sons. Under the baking of a terrific rain and wind storm the giant dirigible, R-101, pride of Britain's air craftsmen and largest monarch of the skies, crashed on the hill of a little French farm early Sunday morning. With the crash came an explosion and sheets of flame that consumed her envelope and all she contained. Only eight of her occupants escaped death. Among those who met their death are Lord Thomson, British minister of air; Sir Sefton Brancker, director of civil aviation; Lieut.-Colonel V. C. Richmond; Major G. H. Scott, squadron leader and commander of the R-34, an earlier British dirigible; Squadron Leader W. Painsrs, Royal Australian Air Force; Squadron Leader W. H. L. O'Neil; Wing Commander E. B. B. Colmore; Major R. Bishop; Lieut. H. C. Irwin, and J. Buck, secretary of Lord Thomson.

HARRY WEBER OPENING UP IN HARDWARE

Store is Located in Keyes' Building On Main Street

Harry Weber, well known young business man of the town, is taking over the hardware department of the M. Wener & Son general store and will open up in business on his own with store premises in the Keyes' building on Main street. Carpentry work is now practically complete and Harry will be on hand to greet all patrons with the same old smile when his store opens — which he expects will be sometime next week.

Harry wants everyone to drop around and see his new place of business as soon as he gets settled.

District Manager Wanted

A Canadian life insurance Company, established 56 years, having low rates and paying good profits, desires to get in touch with a man in the district of Vermilion who is well and favorably known in his community, who has an extensive acquaintance, and who would be interested in building up the business of this Company in his territory on a basis which, with the liberal contract we are prepared to offer, would return to him a very good income, increasing from year to year. Despite trade depression, the opportunities for selling life insurance protection were never more favorable.

We shall be pleased to receive an inquiry (which will be treated in strict confidence) from a salesman man who is a hard worker, but who need not necessarily be experienced in the life insurance business.

Will Winter On Farmstead

Noted Swimmer of Toronto and Two Companions Arrive At Vermilion

George Young, nationally known young Canadian swimmer and winner of the Catalina marathon in 1927, accompanied by his cousin, Hugh Young, and "Chick" Duncan, his trainer for the past two years and brother of Victor Duncan, popular barber of this town, arrived here from Toronto at 6:30 p.m. last Thursday, October 2nd. The trip from the East was made by car.

The three young men intend to spend the winter "batching" on Vic Duncan's farm in the Campbell Lake district. While the undertaking is described as a holiday, they intend to "rough it" as much as possible, and Vic, according to reports, is busy laying out a program of breaking, discing, etc. that will keep them busy during their stay. At the present time, George and Chick are wearing out with a threshing crew on Bill Steele's farm at Claymore, while Hugh Young is employed similarly north of Kitscoty. The commenced work on Saturday morning last, and spent the two days they were in town as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Duncan at their home here.

Asked regarding what bearing this move had on his future swimming activities, Young was very reticent. "Proper swimming for the present" he said, "we can't swim here in the winter, anyway." He admitted, though, that he had numerous requests from all the small bays of the town for swimming lessons and hinted that something might be done about this next spring. Nevertheless in so, the youth of the town and others interested will be waiting impatiently for that time.

The visitors have been "on the go" since their arrival here Thursday evening. They tried out the "old swimmin' hole" in the Vermilion river Friday and admitted the water was rather chilly. Friday evening the party joined in the high school social where George Young gave an exhibition to the audience and spoke a few words. Chick Duncan, who is a lifeguard at a Toronto beach and who has also spent seven years as a radio entertainer, put on a very comical sketch in which he sang and played the mouth organ to the great delight of the assembly.

They left Toronto about Sept. 15th in a 1927 model Ford touring car, equipped with spare tires and spare engine and body, including even a differential They carried no camping kit, all their own food and supplies. They did not gamble on the trip up They passed through in order North Bay, Detroit, and Chicago, where they spent two days; Madison, St Paul Minneapolis and Fergus Falls into Fargo, Grand Forks Minot and Williston, N.D. Shelby and wintergreen Montana, Coutts, Calgary and Edmonton. The hop from Toronto to Chicago was made in 18 hours which included several stops. The last was made from Calgary and one day in Edmonton and at both places they were royally entertained and given the time of their life, officials

Upside on being taken to both colleges' amateur unions. Each declared it was an enjoyable and wonderful trip. They crossed the boundaries at various points and Coutts was the only one they found later that they had passed in the quarantine area. Minneapolis 2500 miles were covered and 2 days were not sorry when Vermilion was reached. They found the Canadian roads, where gravelled to be superior to and pavement in many of any they came across in the States

The citizens of the town and district are distinctly pleased that Geo. Young and his companions at their midst and hope that their stay here may be as enjoyable and beneficial one.

What Is Right With Canada?

A moderate optimist, we are told is one who sees both the good and the bad, the pleasing and the unpleasing, the bright and the dark, the encouraging and the discouraging, but prefers to think and talk about the brighter and better things.

At the present time we have more than a sufficiency of pessimists, ripe-leaguers deservedly so, of course, and a good many other men and women who looking at both sides of the pictures, refuse to be depressed by the darker colors and find encouragement and great promise in the brighter colors and the rays of sunshine breaking through the clouds.

Maybe Mr. Pessimist or Mr. Optimist is the type of moderate optimist whose origin we mentioned in an effort to the many things that have been said in answer to the query "What is Wrong with England?" he answers the question: "What is Right with England?" and proceeds to answer his own question most entertainingly in the London Spectator.

Would it not be advisable for us in this country to also reverse the usual question and hear a million asked these days and, rather make answer to the query "What is Right with Canada." We may well do so, because there are many things that are right with this Dominion as many more right things than there are wrong things that we are doubly foolish to ignore them and dwell upon the minor items.

Looking at this Canada we can discover a multitude of good things, the very best things. We don't think of one of the most healthy robust people in the world, possessing an abounding vitality and charged with optimism and energy. And if not blessed with wealth it can be bestowed upon a nation or individual what other blessing or group of blessings surpasses that of health? Possessing health all things are possible and the world is the field of opportunity for joy and happiness into one's life.

Looking at other countries we see many of them filled with hatreds, with strife apparent in the hatreds of the people, their thoughts and energies devoted to preparation for the next warfare. In Canada on the other hand, we have a land occupied in a peaceful manner, a people with a gentle and generous hatred of war minus preparations for war but devoting their thoughts and energies to the arts and advancements of peace. No other country in the world is so right as the subject of peace and disarmament as is Canada.

Generally speaking too, Canadian institutions of all kinds, whatever they may be, are strong and sound, constituting a bulwark in defence of the people. A bank failure in Canada is a rare thing; our railways are progressive and efficient, fitting their programmes well into the life and needs of the Dominion. We are not by any means immune from the violent tides and effects of world conditions and happenings but, even so, we have it within ourselves in our institutions and resources, to withstand the evil effects of world matters beyond our own direct control and to rally from those bad effects to more rapidly than any other land. At this present time, Canada, notwithstanding its difficulties and business depression is infinitely better off than many countries, and is suffering from less unemployment, proportionate to its population, than the United States.

Let us, therefore, dwell a little more on "What is Right," and the effect of doing so will unquestionably be to take an interest in the more depressing question "What is Wrong." Isn't the search for right things most likely to expand and thus diminish weakness in the search for wrong things? And isn't it just possible that the number of right things will grow and be properly recognized until presently the wrong things are forgotten, or at most given their proper relative place in the scheme of things? Let us join the quest of the modern optimist!

To Study Canadian Methods

Seed Potatoes From Maritimes Make Hit With American Growers

The humble spud, which is produced in such quantities in the maritime provinces has become almost a trade mark of Canada in some American markets, and it rose to real eminence during a visit of 100 members of the Pennsylvania Potato Growers' Association to New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. These two areas produce the finest seed potatoes on the continent, and as a result of the visit by the delegation it was to study the method under which these superior spuds are raised. The people with a poetic and generous way with a pen and pencil, forgetting hatred of war minus preparations for war but devoting their thoughts and energies to the arts and advancements of peace No other country in the world is so right as the subject of peace and disarmament as is Canada.

A Refreshing Treat

Church Supper Gives People Opportunity For Sociability

The season for the church supper and the festival is here. These delightful events crowd the late summer and early autumn evenings in this day and generation of so-called high-speed existence when we seem to depend so largely on manufactured enjoyment it is indeed a refreshing treat to attend the rural church supper or festival. At these events there is to be found wholesomeness and a plenty of food and association for the whole family rather than the price for the ticket. These affairs are conducted for profit of course, but is a broader profit than monetary gain.

Sleep is the great nourisher of infants, and without peaceful sleep the child will not thrive. This cause or not if the infant be troubled with worms Miller's Worm Powders will destroy worms and drive them from the system, and afterwards the child's rest will be undisturbed. The most common injury the head receives is to be found wholesomeness and a plenty of food and association for the whole family rather than the price for the ticket. These affairs are conducted for profit of course, but is a broader profit than monetary gain.

Impatient For Disarmament

League Of Nations Is Called Upon To Take Quick Action

A vehement and sometimes impatient demonstration, urging the hastening of the League of Nations' disarmament programme and early calling of a general conference for reduction and limitation of armaments, was witnessed in the League assembly's disarmament committee at Geneva recently.

From this rally there arose a promise of J. J. Loudon, chairman of the preparatory disarmament commission, that the commission would meet November 3 and fervidly seek to finish its task of preparing so completely for a congress of all nations as to compact a scheme of general disarmament. Were the countries that were neutral during the World War, joined those from states which were on the losing side, it was declared, that the League should get along quickly with its long delayed purpose of persuading nations to lay aside their fighting

German Property Sequestered

Conversations Between Officials Of Canadian And German Governments To Be Held

German property seized in Canada during the war is the basis of conversations between officials of the German government and Hon. C. C. Cahan, secretary of state. Accompanied by Thomas Mulvey, undersecretary of state Mr. Cahan will sail from New York. Discussions will take place in Berlin

Of the large amount of property of German nationals sequestered by the Canadian government during the war, some $600,000 remains unliquidated in January. Canada agreed that the unliquidated property consists chiefly of land and securities that has been found difficult to market. There still will remain in the hands of the Dominion government many items enough to settle all claims by Canadian civilians for reparations as a result of enemy action in war-time.

English Being Taught In German Schools

Chinese Are Popular and Students Are Diligent

Every boy and girl in Germany is being taught English, accordingly to Prof. Max Eimple, author of English and German textbooks, who was in New York recently.

"Our students are tremendously interested in anything about America," he explained. "Every language teacher reports that the classes in teaching English are very popular. We teach the same pronunciation heard in the South of England."

The school system in Germany is quite different to the United States, the visiting professor says. Over there the aim is to have an aristocracy of learning. They do not desire to have every boy and girl graduate, but rather to make the work so difficult that only the brightest pupils can finish their high school courses. Children who are backward in school are given a second elementary training and then the government apprentices them to a good trade for four years.

Bring the Family

Eight members Enrolled As Students At Arkansas University

"Bring the family, too," seems to be a motto at Arkansas schools.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carter of Scranton, their son, Jack, and their daughter, Elida, all were enrolled as summer students in Arkansas Polytechnic College at Russellville.

At the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, eight members of the family of W. H. Smith were summer students in the school of education. They include five children, two grandchildren, and a son-in-law.

SAYS CANADA IS NOW EMERGING FROM DEPRESSION

Strenuous Empire's Greatness

Hon. R. B. Bennett Addresses British Gathering in London

London, England.—With a brilliant gathering in attendance the delegates to the Imperial Conference were entertained at the Guildhall by the Royal Empire Society and other Imperial bodies.

"In the diversity of the peoples of our Empire, their talents and their resources, lies the real secret of the Empire's greatness," declared Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, in his address.

The speech of the Canadian prime minister was greeted several times by cheers.

"Before us," said Mr. Bennett, "lies the task of Empire consolidation and with that task we must in the heart of this great city, where trade, commerce, finance, and other great affairs engage the attention, to think of our Empire as an economic unit."

Mr. Bennett was cheered when he declared the nations of the Empire were not yet bankrupt in statesmanship.

"Men and women occupying a quarter of the land surface of the globe and constituting a quarter of the population, were still capable, by guidance and leadership, of achievement by the same what they had already achieved, namely, the economic solidarity of the Empire which is the basis of our political status and the development of their constitutional liberties had been.

Rt. Hon. H. Ramsay Arthur of Connaught, former governor-general of South Africa, presided at the banquet.

Canada's Fire Loss Heavy

Total Of $17,500,000 Shown In Report For Last Year

Ottawa Ont. The fact that Canada's fire loss last year—$17,000,000—represented almost two and one-half times the amount the Dominion Government set aside to relieve unemployment in Canada was brought home by John Bracken of Manitoba, to impress on delegates to the Dominion Fire Prevention Association convention the need for greater effort.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was named honorary member. W. H. Shapley, Toronto, is the new president.

Among the many resolutions given approval was one recommending that institutions receiving financial assistance from federal, provincial or municipal authorities be compelled to provide adequate fire safeguards.

Hope Is Fulfilled

First C.P.R. Train Reaches Historic Spot on Hudson Bay

Butterfield, Sask.—Another page in the history of Battleford was written when the first Canadian Pacific railway train pulled into the depot at 12.50 on the afternoon of Sept. 30.

To the citizens who crowded the station platform it was a fulfillment of a long cherished hope, which had its birth in 1885, when the first prophecy was made which was to carry the steel from Winnipeg, Fort Livingstone, Battleford, through the Yellow Head Pass to New Westminster

In 1881 it was decided that the route should diverge from the main southern part of the province, and for nearly half a century citizens of this historic town have waited for the achievement marked recently

Have Extensive Program

Railways To Proceed With Construction and Improvement Work

Ottawa Ont. Official announcement has been made by Secretary Robertson, Minister of Labor, that the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways would proceed immediately with a $21,000,000 construction and improvement work. Employment for 10,000 men would thereby be provided for a year, and 2,000 teams of horses would be given work for a considerable part of the time, especially for grading purposes. The employment of teams will help the farmers in many districts.

To Teach Natives

Leningrad, Russia. Geologists, zoologists and other scientists have gone to northernmost Siberia where 5,000 nomads live in one of the remotest corners of the world. They expect to teach the natives how to fish better, to start reindeer farms, a chamois tannery, meat canning and dairy and make coffee from sea weed.

Under In-Council Grants Loan

Winnipeg, Man. Order-in-council granting a loan of $50,000 to the Manitoba Cattle Loan Association was passed by Manitoba's cabinet council. The association secured the money at five per cent. and will charge its members seven per cent. for advances secured by ten notes on cattle purchased.

GOV'T PROGRAM ENLARGED FOR RELIEF PURPOSES

Ottawa, Ont.—Details of the Federal Government's campaign to relieve unemployment in Canada were outlined recently by Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor. Besides $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 will be "put to work" to better national conditions and provide work for Canadians, he said. This included the $20,000,000 supplied by parliament at the last session, the remainder being contributions from the provinces and the municipalities, and the $25,000,000 program of construction and improvement work to be undertaken by the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific railways.

The Federal Government's scheme was not limited to setting aside money for construction in cooperation with the provinces and municipalities, the Minister of Labor declared. A sum of $4,000,000 would be set aside for "direct relief." The grade separation fund of the hard-pressed railway commission will be augmented by a total of $1,000,000 for the benefit of any subway work undertaken. The government would contribute on a 50-50 basis with the provinces in building a trans-Canada highway from Sydney to Vancouver, and was prepared to pay 60 per cent. of the cost of general provincial highway work this winter.

There will be other angles to the government's relief program, Senator Robertson emphasized. Tariff changes made at the last session would afford immense stimulus to Canadian industry, he believed, and would result in the creation of more jobs. Restrictions had been placed on the employment of foreign labor, it was learned. The minister's belief that the expenditure of from $20,000,000 to $60,000,000 through Canada in relief work by one kind or another, would reach every type of laborer, clerk or artisan

The program of construction and improvements to be undertaken by the labor department, Senator Robertson said, which has been formally approved by the cabinet, would result in the employment of 10,000 men for the entire fiscal year 1929-30, according to official figures, issued recently.

The total number of radio licenses issued for the first five months of the current fiscal year was 308,076, which also contains a steady increase in the number of radios operated in the Dominion.

Find White Seals

American Expedition Discovers Specimens In Hudson Bay

San Diego, Cal. The existence of white seals, heretofore regarded as a mythical, was reported here by Dr. Ian Dieg, Cambridge, England's expedition after its return from Southampton Island, off the Mexican coast.

Members of the party reported that white seals had been found on the inaccessible shores of the outer islets where breeding was impossible. They were unable to obtain a specimen.

Vancouver Wheat Exports

Shipments To Date Double the Amount Of Record Year

Vancouver, B.C. Wheat exported from Vancouver during the current crop year to date totalled 28,735,000 bushels, double the amount shipped out during the same period of the record crop year of 1928-29 through Vancouver. Exports to date have reached 100,000,000 bushels. Last year at this time only 2,679,374 bushels had been shipped

Cattle Exports To Britain

Montreal, Que. Canada's cattle export trade to Great Britain amounted to 1,200 head through the port of Montreal to date this year with the recent shipment of 377 head which was the sixth shipment for the season No cattle were sent to Great Britain last year.

Staff Reduced When Resources Handed Over

Accounts Can Be Handled By Smaller Number Of Clerks

Edmonton, Alberta. No ceremony of any kind marked the formal transfer of Alberta's natural resources. Twenty-eight officials, clerks and stenographers in the Dominion Lands office here, formed themselves out of employment, as transfer of the resources was made

Right from the start, reduction of staff to permit financial savings by the administration of the natural resources is forecast by Premier J. F. M. Anderson in a statement issued to the provincial government took over the natural resources of Saskatchewan

The transfer of the natural resources involves the transfer of about 50,000 accounts for grazing leases, mining claims, timber permits and leases, coal mine leases and contracts and school land contracts

Won Citizenship After Long Court Battle

But Woman Refused To Take Usual U.S. Oath For Naturalization

Lima O. Mrs. Carl Landis Phillipsburg, who refused to take oath to bear arms in defense of the United States to be a citizen after a court battle lasting a year and a half

She took the oath of allegiance, still reserving her opposition to bearing arms; she would serve in a noncombatant capacity, she said.

Upon Dean Jude A. M. Hepburn's admitted the naturalization and granted citizenship into the privileges of the state of Ohio.

Mrs. Landis came to the U.S. in 1911 from Canada. She was born in Ohio while her parents were visiting there.

Eleven Burned In Explosions

Veleys Glassport, Pa. Eleven persons were burned when a gasoline still exploded in the plant of the Miguel extension dairy in this city. The explosion occurred at 7:30 o'clock this morning. The fire which followed destroyed the building in all eleven employees of the dairy were burned, some of them seriously.

At the time of the explosion, Miguel Extension Dairy was receiving milk from farmers in the vicinity of Glassport. The explosion occurred in the still room, where milk is pasteurized. Eleven employees were in the building at the time of the explosion, and all were burned, some of them seriously.

Among those burned were Miguel Extension Dairy, president, and Miguel Extension Dairy, vice president.

The fire which followed the explosion was extinguished by the Glassport fire department.

ROBERT BUCK TO ATTEMPT TO LOWER RECORD

Robert Buck (left) of Hammond, N.J. (at the wheel) and Lieut. Eugene Vidal, who, eight months ago, will take off from a point in Africa in an effort to lower the London-to-Cape Town record of four days, 17 hours, 30 minutes, established by Captain Frank Hawks, British aviator, in 1928. Buck will fly a Travel Air monoplane, and Vidal will be navigator. The distance is 6,000 miles. Buck is a veteran of the World War and Vidal is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

GREATER PROSPECTS FOR GREATER TRADE WITH ANTIPODES

London, England—The Imperial Conference of the British nations has got down to work and the first business was concerned with constitutional questions, which arose from Premier Baldour report of the 1926 Imperial Conference dealing with equality of status as between Dominions and the mother country.

In the background of the constitutional discussions was the speech made by Rt. Hon. Patrick Mc-Gilligan, Irish minister of external affairs Premier Mackenzie King of Canada and Australia, representing the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Canadian Minister of trade and commerce and Premier Minister James Scullin of Australia, called it a Maiden Address to the House of Imperial Conference.

Mr. McGilligan, in his speech, declared that the Irish Free State was not content with other nations as between Dominions and the mother country.

He said that both countries could not agree with other nations as between Dominions and the mother country.

Hon. H. Stevens had made informal representations with the New Zealand Government to open a trade with New Zealand with particular attention being paid to the products of the farm, the latter which is to be eight cents instead of four cents a pound.

WHEAT POOL LOWERS INITIAL PAYMENT

Owing to World Market Conditions First Payment Now 55c

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 14—Initial payment on wheat has been cut from 6 cents per bushel to 55 cents, according to an announcement today by the Canadian Wheat Pool. Fifty-five cents is to be the payment on Number One Northern, basis Fort William effective today, until further notice

No statement accompanied the announcement, officials of the central selling agency remarking that no comment was required when the market prices on completely demoralized world markets were so close to the Pool's initial payment.

Grain storage figures from the Great Lakes to the Pacific showed little change today.

BIG BUTTER CARGO REACHES VICTORIA

Ship Arrives in Time to Avoid Payment Increased Duty

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16.—In a race against time the Canadian-Australian liner Niagara, carrying 88,000 boxes of New Zealand butter in her refrigerator space, docked at Victoria at 9:00 o'clock last night and will reach Vancouver at daylight Friday.

The Niagara was expected to dock at Victoria early Thursday afternoon but unfavorable weather conditions off the Vancouver Island coast slowed the vessel down.

Under the present duty, this shipment of New Zealand butter will pay a duty of one cent per pound, but had the ship failed to make port before October 15 an additional seven cents a pound would have been added, as on that date the new duty increasing the rate to eight cents a pound becomes effective. By landing the ship-

CASE AGAINST G. M. CUNDAL IS DISMISSED

Charges of breach of trust laid against George M. Cundal of Manorville by Mrs. Catherine Stopher were brought abruptly to an end in the supreme criminal court on Wednesday when Mr. Justice Ford dismissed the case at the conclusion of the Crown's evidence without calling on the defence. His Lordship pointed out that the dismissal entirely cleared the accused of any stigma which might have arisen out of charges against him. W. R. Howson of Edmonton and Jos. D. Adam of Vermilion acted for the accused, while A. H. G. Gibson prosecuted for the Crown.

The charge against Cundal was that while acting with power of attorney for Mrs. Stopher, he used $2874 of her money for his personal use.

Immediate Relief for INDIGESTION

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude baking. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful aftereffects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' on the bottle. All drug stores—50c.

Flaky Pie Crust

The secret of making a real pie crust is to "flake" it. Here's how to keep the dough dry. Try the recipe—for 2 shells.

2 cups Purity Flour 1 cup lard
1 teaspoon salt ice water

BUTTERY Mix the flour and salt; using ½ half the shortening cut in the rest with a knife. Add the remaining shortening and work in with the fingers. Sprinkle water a you go, and the pastry will fit from bowl. Turn out on floured board and roll out. Fold over, roll out again. Repeat this folding and rolling process three times. Then roll out and fit into pie plate. Bake in hot oven (450°).

IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Walter Ashfield, Editor Of the Grenfell Sun

Weekly Newspaper Publishers Meet

Fourteenth Annual Convention Of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, Saskatchewan Division

At their fourteenth annual convention held at the Saskatchewan Hotel, Regina, the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association (Sask. Division) elected Walter Ashfield, Editor of the Grenfell Sun, as president for the ensuing term.

H. G. Sheldrake of North Battleford, the retiring president, was chosen as honorary president. Mr. T. J. McInnis, of the Bureau of Publications, gave an interesting talk, and Hon. J. F. Bryant spoke on the subject of Saskatchewan's Resources. The members of the association were the guests of the Saskatchewan Government at a banquet on Thursday evening, Oct. 2. Following the banquet an informal reception was held at the Toronto Type Foundry Co., who greatly enjoyed. At noon on Friday, Oct. 3, the members were tendered a luncheon by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, and on Friday evening the Weekly Newspaper Association Ball Supper was held at which the newly-elected president presided. It was decided to hold the 1931 convention at Regina.

Good Recipes

Nasturtiums Of Texture In Recipes That Call For Mint, and Sugar

Do you ever have difficulty in getting a smoothness of texture in recipes that call for milk and sugar? Good recipes obtain wonderful flavor and consistency through the use of Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk. The milk and sugar are thoroughly combined (almost pre-cooked you might say) so that results are obtainable that could not be expected if you mixed the sugar and milk yourself. Having the milk and sugar already blended is a great advantage. Aside from saving sugar—and the pounds of sugar saved in the cookbook of a finer flavor to the dish. The condensed milk combines quickly and easily with all other ingredients. Lumps them closer together and gives the recipe a smoother texture. Another advantage of condensed milk is its convenience. One can keep several cans on hand as it keeps perfectly, so there is no fear of using a running short, but rather a certainty of pure, fresh milk whenever it is required.

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool

Nomination papers for the annual election of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool delegates are being mailed out from the Head Office at Regina. Nominations will be accepted up to 6 p.m. on Tuesday, November 4. As soon as possible after the closing of nominations, ballots will be mailed out to all Wheat Pool contract signers in the sub-districts where two or more candidates have been nominated. The closing date of the election has been set for Tuesday December 2

Marvellous Yield Of Oats

Alert to the possibilities of "Marvellous" oats, William White, farmer of the Delisle district, north of Biggar, Sask. has reaped a marvellous yield from an experiment plot of land and a large area, he threshed 131 bushels to the acre. The oats, weighed 42 pounds to the bushel. The land was now breaking on an old pasture field. Neighbors threshed the grain, measured the plot and verified the yield.

Immigration Returns

During the first four months of the current fiscal year 58,373 immigrants were admitted to Canada as compared with 94 214 for the similar period of 1929. Those from the British Isles numbered 19 317 and from the United States 12,673, while 13,169 came from Northern Europe.

Building Of Sydney Bridge In Australia Is Nearing Much Skill

The central arch of Sydney Bridge in Australia has been closed and it is expected that 18 months will elapse before the bridge is open for traffic. Construction by the British firm of Dorman, Long & Co., it is the largest arch bridge in the world. The contract price was £4,217,721, but the total cost will probably exceed £6,000,000. There were thousands of tons of steel in the arch construction and 15,000 tons in the approaches or a total of 50,000.

SIMEON AND ANNA — THE INSIGHT OF THE PURE IN HEART

Golden Text: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Matthew 5:8.

Lesson: Luke 2.25-38.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 84.1-7.

Explanations and Comments

Nunc Dimittis, 2.25-32. — At the time of the birth of Jesus there was living in Jerusalem a righteous and devout (the Greek word means literally "God-fearing") man named Simeon, who was looking for the coming of "the consolation of Israel," for the promised Messiah. "It is striking to observe how the description of Simeon's character expresses the aim of the whole Old Testament revelation. All that was meant by the preceding long series of manifestations through all those years was accomplished in the man. For hearken how he is described—'just and devout,' that is the perfection of moral character stated in the terms of the Old Testament; waiting for the Consolation of Israel,' that is the ideal attitude which the whole of the gradual manifestation of God's redeeming purposes running through the ages was intended to make in the attitude of every true Israelite—an expectant, eager look forwards, and, in the present, the discharge of all duties to God and man. And the Holy Ghost was upon him,' that, too, is a measure, was the ultimate aim of the whole revelation of Israel. So much man stands as a type, the consummate flower which had at last efflorenced from the roots; and in his own person, as embodiment of the very results which God had patiently brought through millennium to pass, he is dential dealing and inspiration." — Alexander Maclaren.

The Holy Spirit had revealed to Simeon that before he died he should see the Lord's Anointed. "Some interpret mention, which he recognized to be of God, sent him to the temple by the expectation that at last he was to see the Lord's Christ." When the parents brought in the child Jesus, Simeon took the Babe in his arms and blessed God and uttered the beautiful words which have received the name of "Nunc Dimittis, the first two words of the sentence in Latin.

WHY FAT MEN STAY FAT

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 90 out of every 100 men who are putting on weight', I didn't have the energy or 'pep' to keep it off. I lost all interest in my healthy activity and just loafed around accumulating the old pounds, until I got that "Knock-out feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—and don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fill you with vigor and tireless energy.

As a result, instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every five minutes and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel so urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water to-morrow morning and every morning —be careful of the foods you eat take regular moderate exercise—watch the pounds slide off.

Health Service By Air

Interest Taken In Possibilities Of Development For Peace River District

Possibilities of developing a regular aerial health service for the Peace River country similar to that in use in rural parts of Australia, are viewed with interest by Dr. W. W. Chipman, professor emeritus of obstetrics and gynaecology at McGill University, who returned from the north recently.

Interviewed, he said: "The medical people, I believe, are keeping pace with the demand as far as is practicable. I would like to see more nurses in the country. Motor transportation and the aeroplane have revolutionized medical conditions and sick people now can be brought to the hospitals. There are excellent hospitals in the country.

"I looked for a landing on an aeroplane service carrying doctors and nurses to outlying points such as is in operation in Australia, would be practicable in the Peace River country. Dr. Chipman said. He thought it has interesting possibilities and might be employed to advantage.

"I was not in any settlers' house but saw people looked healthy and vigorous, and were extremely optimistic even with the price of wheat lower than it has been for 16 years and hitting them extremely hard. I was impressed by that."

No Unemployed in Iceland

Hon. W. J. Major Found People Busy and Prosperous

Economic depression may be worldwide at the present time, but it has not reached Iceland, where unemployment is practically unknown, and business flies on wings of activity. Hon. W. J. Major, K.C., attorney-general, told the Winnipeg Rotarians at a recent luncheon in the Fort Garry Hotel. Mr. Major described his visit to the island democracy of the north last summer when he represented the Manitoba government at the millenial celebration of Parliamentary government.

Reykjavik, capital city of Iceland, Mr. Major said, was much like a Canadian city of similar size, with excellent schools, business houses and public buildings. In the realm of literature, both in poetry and prose, he said that Iceland had achievements of which she could be proud. Her influence for good had spread far across the earth.

Out of a population of 100,000 at the present time, and a single metric ally sound adult was unable to read or write, and there were only four or five cases of unemployment at the time he visited the country.

The Mayor painted a pleasing word picture of Iceland, with its pleasant green fields and majestic mountains, describing how its people had wrung every possible advantage from its resources. He paid special tribute to the sterling qualities of its population

KEEP THEM HAPPY BY KEEPING THEM WELL

They gently regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains. Concerning them Mrs. W. J. Heyworth, Dorset, N.B., writes: "I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets as I know of nothing to equal them for fretful, fussy babies who are troubled with colds or sour stomach."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Interesting Discovery

First Illustrated Book Printed in England Was Found Recently

One of the heads of a firm of English booksellers has recently discovered the first illustrated book ever printed in England. It is the Machlinia Book of Hours, and is valued to be worth $100,000.

William De Machlinia was London's first printer to use wood blocks for illustrations, and this volume was issued from the printing press near Fleet bridge in the middle of the 15th century.

Although fragments of the Book of Hours have been found from time to time in the bindings of old books, it was ever suspected it was illustrated. The volume consists of a hundred vellum pages and has eight full-page pictures, the nativity of the Virgin and Elizabeth; the holy family at Bethlehem; the presentation at the temple; the worship of the magi, the massacre of the innocents; the shepherds, the Nativity and the annunciation.

The book is particularly interesting because these first two drawings can be said to be the foundation from which all picture reproductions have their origin. It is thought that the book may go to America.

Little Helps For This Week

"God is our God for ever and ever: He will be our Guide even unto death." Psalm xlviii. 14.

They way, not mine, O Lord,
However dark it be,
Lead me by Thine own hand,
Choose out the path for me.
Not mine, not mine the choice
In things, or great or small,
Be Thou my guide, my strength,
My wisdom, and my all.
—Horatius Bonar.

We want a guide who knows us, Father: we are self-willed and overconfident, or despondent and oversensitive, or weakly and aspiring. We want a guide who knows our frame and pities us, is not vexed with our ignorance or mistakes, but is tender to deal with us human beings. We want a guide who values character, and knows how to train while He guides, who guides for the purpose of training, sometimes into very hard paths, but profitable for the soul.

Radium Ore Discovery

Deposits in Ontario May Yield Sufficient To Supply the British Empire

Belief that there are deposits of radium ore near Wilberforce, in Haliburton County, Ont., capable of supplying the needs of Canada, and possibly of the whole Empire, is expressed by Dr. G. S. Richards, head of the mineralogical X-ray department of Toronto General Hospital. Dr. Richards is director of a company interested in the project.

He asserted that investigations over a period of three or four years have proved that apparently attractive deposit which averaged 126 milligrammes of radium per ton.

Should a higher average than is the radium-bearing ore of the Belgian Congo, at present the world's great source of supply.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 21, Professor James Adam of Edmonton will give an illustrated lecture in the United Church entitled "Prints from Punch." The following clipping from the Edmonton Journal describes it:

As unique in character as the magazine which formed its text, was the address "Pickings from Punch," and illustrated by a set of lantern slides, presented for the first time by Professor James Adam of the University of Alberta, in First Presbyterian church, Friday evening.

Permission was given the department of extension of the university by "Punch" to reproduce 50 slides from cartoons and illustrations appearing in that famous publication since its inauguration in 1841. Such permission had never been granted before nor such a lecture prepared. The idea was Prof. Adam's own and his lecture delivered for the first time before an interested audience in aid of funds for young people's work.

The speaker said the audience would find themselves in very much the same position as the old lady who, seeing "Hamlet" played for the first time did not like it because it was full of quotations." There is many a boon met first published in Punch that is a household word.

Developing Social Life

The slides constituted what Prof. Adam termed "a moving picture of the development of social life in England for nearly a century, showing the way women dressed and the way men acted."

Punch, he pointed out, is unique a most comic paper in that it not only expresses the opinions of "the man in the street," but for 90 years has set and maintained a standard of excellence in its drawings and written allie. The weekly cartoons in Punch are "editorials in drawing" which interpret and frequently ridicule public opinion. The magazine has stood out as a leader in social reform and has helped England best known and during its 90 years of publication pen drawings alone of all forms of art have been published in its pages. These first were reproduced by the hand made wood-cut, later by the process of photographic reproduction. The cover design, known the world over, was made by Richard Doyle, uncle of Sir Conan Doyle, and familiarly known as "Dickie Doyle."

Punch, the "laughing philosopher and "social reformer" said Professor Adam, "is as definitely English as

Surgon Is Powerful Invigorating Tonic

Surgeon Tells Bodily Vigor, Eat With a Keen Hunger, Digest Food and Enjoy a New Kind of Energy Following Shop By Taking Surgon.

The instant and record-breaking success of Surgon is easily explained. Its effect is almost immediate. Right from the first few doses people who are suffering from lowered vitality, loss of appetite, poor assimilation and constipation, begin to feel its stimulating tonic effects. Thousands of tasic, run down men and women who have taken it report it seems to pick them right up and put them on their feet.

It is not only a powerful reconstructive tonic, designed to impart new life and strength to the entire system, but it is a constitutional treatment as well and exerts a tremendous influence upon the processes of assimilation and elimination. It also contains ingredients of recognized therapeutic value which are valuable for their influence upon the appetite and digestion.

If you do not wake up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed and ready for a good hearty breakfast; if you are not brim full of energy and ready for a good day's work, you are not enjoying the blessings of health that should be yours.

It is not natural for people to stagger through life never knowing what it is to enjoy a well day. Nature never intended it and unless you are suffering from some organic or specific disease, Surgon and Surgon Soft Mass Pills are designed to overcome your troubles and give you a new grip on life.

Wherever constipation exists Surgon Soft Mass Pills are a necessary part of the Surgon treatment and should be taken daily until regularity of bowel movement is well established.

Surgon now has the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world today and may well be considered one of the greatest health giving remedies of the age.

Surgon may now be obtained in Vermilion from Long's Drug Store.

Yorkshire pudding."

Appreciative laughter greeted the familiar sentiments among the many famous ones reproduced in the slides and hearty applause concluded the lecture.

Imperial Conference Delegates Sail

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia might almost have served as a Cabinet Council room during its last voyage to England with the Prime Minister of Canada and several members of his cabinet as passengers. There was an almost a crowd at the pier to question that photographers had to go to Father Point to get pictures of the party.

Above are several groups made while the ship was on her way. L. The Premier and his sister Miss Mildred Bennett shake hands with Captain R. C. Leslie, commander of the Empress of Australia. R. Prime Minister G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario and a delegate.

Mrs. Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson said that while he was not attending the Imperial Conference, he "hoped to learn at the hotels." He will open the Ontario Building in London during his visit. Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who is an official delegate. F. Hon. Sir Granville Gutchie, Minister of Justice, also a delegate.

"Metis" Dancers for Quebec

From far-off Edmonton, outpost of Canada's wide West, to old Quebec, cradle of her civilization and economy, from Europe's past both French and English reprinted, a group of men and maidens of mixed French-Indian and Scotch-Indian blood will bring their tributes to the shrine of Jacques Cartier, when the Dunes and Folk Song Festival opens at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Chateau Frontenac hotel, on October 16th, 1930.

There are twelve in the party and all proudly claim that their ancestry gives them the prime right to the title of "Canadian". The above drawing by Kathleen Blackburn, noted portraitist, made from life, shows the hearty resultant from the mingling of the European and Indian blocks. As performers, the Westerners have a varied programme to offer, including boomerang in succession.

Here and There

(1919)

Western Canadian cattle almost swept the boards in 16 classes at the Washington State Fair just concluded at Yakima, Wash., when the Holstein dairy herd owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway Supply Farm at Strathmore, Alberta, won fourteen first prizes and nine seconds, also taking senior, junior and grand championships in both male and female classes.

A 254-lb. muskallonge, largest to be taken from the waters of the French River this year, was caught a few days ago by F. R. Spotten, a visitor from Houston, Texas, and was entered in the annual competition for the French River Bunnaclow Camp Trophy. The monster was landed after a thrilling fight that lasted forty minutes during which it broke water a number of times. When gaffed it was found to measure 56½ inches in length and 26 inches in girth. A little later the same fishermen caught an 18-pounder muskay.

Modern developments in railroad traffic leading to heavier trains and increased speed is bringing about a concentrated study of the rail weights, according to Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, interviewed recently. The railway, he stated, has used 100-lb. rails since 1921 and has more than 4,000 miles of this weight of steel, particularly in the heavy traffic districts between the larger cities and the Rockies, but the heavier trains made possible by greatly increased engine power have combined to bring up the question of 130-lb. rails which is now being studied and on which a final decision will soon be reached.

The history of the fall zone in Canada will be illustrated at the Quebec Festival of French-Canadian Folk-Song and Handicrafts which will be held October 16-18 under the headquarters at the Chateau Frontenac. The Canadian Pacific Railway has again planned a comprehensive series of evening concerts of folk-song, folk-music, chorus choral arrangements and children's play parties and dances.

All alarmist talk of world-over-production of wheat is wholly unwarranted, according to Dr. W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, who recently on board the Empress of Australia on his way to the Imperial Economic Conference. He instanced, in support of his view, the fact that in the midst of the campaign to reduce wheat acreage in the United States, a drought had occurred which had reduced the total yield of cereal crops by more than the average wheat crop of the country.

For the second time in two years the Shaughnessy Shield, emblematic of the First Aid championship of police forces in Western Canada, has come to rest in Vancouver. It was won by the Canadian Pacific Railway police team of that city, under the leadership of Constable W. E. Darkwell.

Reports from Gloucester recently state that the schooner "Gertrude L. Thebaud" footed along remarkably fast under full sail. She is Gloucester's hope of re-establishing the sailing supremacy of the North Atlantic and is scheduled to meet the "Bluenose" of Lunenburg, in a series of three races opening off Gloucester October 8, for a cup offered by Sir Thomas Lipton.

WEATHER SUFFERS RELAPSE

Country in Grip of Blizzard — Little Threshing Done

After showing signs of settling down to regular clear fall weather over Sunday and Monday, the weather broke again with rain Tuesday morning which turned to snow early in the day. The snow fell continued heavier and turned into a regular blizzard during Tuesday night and all day Wednesday. Several inches of snow with drifts two feet deep greeted the people Wednesday morning.

Thursday saw a continuation of the high wind with somewhat lower temperatures. The thermometers lowest points so far have been around 15 above zero.

Possibly only ten to fifteen per cent of the threshing has been done in this district.

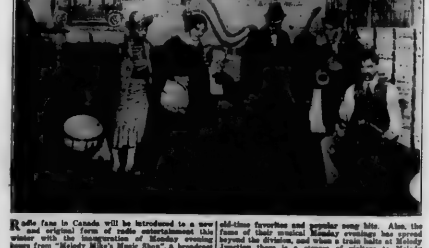
"MELODY MIKE" TO BE BROADCAST.



Radio fans in Canada will be introduced to a new and original form of radio entertainment this winter with the inauguration of Monday evening hours from "Melody Mike's Music Shop", a broadcast over the Canadian Pacific Railway's transcontinental network.

"Melody Mike", as the above picture shows, runs a music shop near the station at a railway divisional point. The shop becomes the centre of numberless adventures in which Mike himself, Mary, his wife ("Molly Maloney, as ever"), Ted and Larry, their sons, Scotty Macgregor, an argumentative but friendly neighbor, and Lank-a-day Lil, quite the most surprising of the characters, all play parts.

Interspersed are instrumental numbers, and short adventures are sprinkled with charming music, old-time favorites and popular song hits. Also, the fame of their musical Monday evenings has spread beyond the division, and when Melody Mike's Music Shop in Melody Junction there is a stream of visitors to Melody Mike's emporium, many of whom contribute to the enjoyment of the evening.

The first programme from "Melody Mike's Music Shop" will be broadcast from 9 to 9.30 p.m. on Monday, October 6th, by the following stations, linked together by the broadcast transmission system of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Telegraphs, CFAC, Calgary, CFCL, Toronto, CFCO, Chatham, CFPL, London, CFCO, Chatham, CFPL, Brantford, CKCO, Ottawa, CKCH, Hull, CFCF, Montreal, CKAC, Quebec, CFCY, Charlottetown, CJCH, Halifax, CFCY, Saint John, CKCW, Moncton, CFCN, Calgary, CFAC, Edmonton, CJCJ, Calgary, CFLC, Red Deer, and CKWR, Regina.

BROWNIE NOTES

Miss Lipsey was again with us last week and we had a musical afternoon. We are learning folk dances now and everyone seems quite enthusiastic. There were songs, too — Remember to learn that Brownie Song, Brownies.

When the Pack reaches the first class work I shall again outline it in the column so that anyone interested may follow.

We would like all the members of Brownies to be present at the Local Association Tea to be held in the Presbyterian hall on Saturday next, October 25th.

Geo. Young and Goose in Swim Race

George Young found out that a broken wing does not hinder a goose's swimming ability. One of George's party wounded a goose on Campbell lake early in the week and the well known swimmer undertook to swim and speeded back to shore through the numbingly cold water.

He could do, however, and the fowl led him a merry chase till he came up and speeded back to shore through the numbingly cold water.

V.S.A. Not To Open Until November 11

Owing to the fact that there is so little threshing done at the present time and also realizing the fact that the students who attend the Vermilion School of Agriculture are, in many cases, the mainstay for work on the farm, the Hon. Geo. Hoadley has postponed the opening of the schools of agriculture from October 20th to November 11th.

It very often happens that during the latter part of October and the first or November we have excellent weather for threshing and it is hoped that this may be true during the present fall.

Over 200 students had registered to attend the V.S.A. but the delayed threshing and poor prices has caused a number to cancel their applications. It is hoped that the delayed opening may make it possible for a great many of these boys and girls to send in their applications again.

SPEED LAW UNIFORMITY

The overinteresting subject of speed limitations crops up ever and again. In England conflicting speed measures now seem to have been abolished with perfect success. They have a statute covering in one part clause the operation of motor vehicles, which reads as follows:

"If any person drives a motor vehicle on a road recklessly, or at a speed or in a manner which is dangerous to the public, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including nature, condition and use of the road and the amount of traffic which is actually on it at the time, or which might reasonably be expected on the road, he shall be liable."

This comprehensive law covers the whole country and a motorist knows just what he is up against at all times. In contrast to this, Canada might be cited, where every province, county, city and town has its own distinctive speed law. Governments are beginning to realize, however, that safe speed varies with the circumsances of traffic and road condition, and that driving at 15 miles an hour under some conditions is just as dangerous as 50 miles an hour. Also in the majority of places the law is paying more attention to reckless driving and less to ordinary speeding.

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Optimistic Over Future of Canada

Canadians are not the ones to whine over hard times. The fathers and mothers of the present generation were graduated from the school of hardship, and it turned them out strong men and women. Kerala are hard to take, but they are good for us. This is the philosophy of Leonard O. Calder, known throughout the West as Sheriff Calder of Saskatoon, for of his fifty years in the West, he spent 22 as sheriff. Mr. Calder is now vice-president and general manager of the Bird-Archer Company, Montreal, and is on an inspection trip in the West, travelling via the Canadian National.

Canadian National Broadcasting Plans

From Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, comes an announcement of the most outstanding and characteristically Canadian series of broadcasts for the fall and winter season ever planned in Canada, in addition to continuing the All-Canada Symposy concerts from Toronto, a series of dramatizations depicting dramatic incidents in the early history of Canada will be presented. These will take the form of playlets in which the various characters will be represented by actors of outstanding ability. Referring to programmes for the coming season Sir Henry Thornton said:

"Last year we brought to Canadian listeners a series of symphonic programmes featuring the world's greatest composers and played by the most outstanding orchestras in the Dominion. The expressions of appreciation from innumerable family groups scattered across the entire country have so encouraged us that we have renewed the arrangements, and commencing October 11th there will be twenty-six concerts for this season will open.

"As was the case a year ago, this will be known as the All-Canada Symphony Hour, and as a further symbol of its national character, it will open each Saturday at 5.00 p.m. with the striking of the great clock in the Peace Tower at Ottawa, thus bringing clearly to the minds of all listeners the capital of our country and also its magnitude through the variation of time.

"Again we will feature Canadian soloists exclusively. By creating an environment and atmosphere in which Canadian artist could best express themselves, we succeeded in revealing and in a measure developing a standing of artist that I venture to say most Canadians did not dream existed. The keen interest and response on the part of our best artists themselves showed us clearly that among them there exists a deep intensity of interest in the future of Canadian music and art and a keen appreciation of our efforts last year.

"Not less gratifying was the public response. We made an earnest effort to give Canadians the best Canadian provided in music, and our All-Canada Symphony Hour became almost a national institution. That it contributed materially to a general broadening and elevation of the public taste for good music is beyond question. We hope that the practice which became so general of forming little family and social groups on Sunday afternoons to listen to this concert will become even more widespread."

Attitudes Of Mind

It is reported in a daily newspaper that some doubt existing as to which side of the international boundary line between Canada and Maine a certain old lady's farm was located. Attorneys were employed and the decision finally reached that it was on the United States side. "I'm so glad!" exclaimed the old lady, "because, after all, we are Yankees."

Travelling from the United States to Canada on one occasion, the writer overheard a passenger remark just after the train had entered Canada "The air is so much more exhilarating, so much purer, so much fresher in Canada." To those people such an attitude of mind, but, nevertheless, very real. It leads one however to wonder whether many people do not approach many of their tasks in a somewhat prejudiced attitude, due to some purely mental reasons.

In the days following the general election of July 28 last a merchant in one of the Canadian cities, who had been a supporter of the way that had been defeated, was greatly disappointed. He overlooked the fact that two-thirds of the electorations then in session in the city might have added somewhat to his day's sales. But his attitude of mind with him. Consequently business ought to be the Conservatives had won the election.

People came with maximum respect toward times. Some people whose salaries, wages or their sources of income are the same now as they were in the boom days, or even greater, but whose cost of living is more than double, commodity prices "feel harder up than many who actually suffer from income taxes, are continually harp on the blue turn aspect of things and how difficult they are finding it to make ends meet.

Without in the least considering actual conditions it is safe to say that with many people hard times is an attitude of mind superinduced by a state of the mind rather than the thing itself. Unfortunately there are many who are faced with real hard times and have concrete problems to solve and difficulties to overcome, but there is a multitude of them who create worry out of nothing, they ever were but who "think" they are. The are largely responsible for cultivating and disseminating those false conceptions of hard times which are such a curse to many.

The influence of mind over matter is a well authenticated and recognized fact. Instances of this are common enough and hundreds of cases of people who, having nothing the matter with them, imagined there was something wrong and by constantly and mentally dwelling on their imagined ills actually became those invalids.

There are, on the other hand, many people who are possessed of the power, without any evidence to support such conjecture, but having tremendous powers of intuition, every word and act of such person however simple and innocent, only serves to confirm and intensify the suspicions of the former.

Such attitudes of mind are to be deplored, and their cultivation to be resisted against by every individual. The best cure through constant thinking of unpleasant and evil things and the harbouring of thoughts of suspicion of others, or even of weaknesses in one's self is almost incalculable. It spread like a miasma through society polluting the life of whole communities.

Fortunately the reverse is true to some extent. The cultivation of clean, kindly and noble thoughts of the development of confidence in and goodwill towards one's neighbour, creation of the habit of looking at the bright rather than the dark side of things also spreads through society and until it, and it begets, the effect of all persons with whom such a sane and happy individual comes in contact.

Weekly For a Day

Girl Student From Copenhagen Enjoyed Herself in Berlin

Miss Mathan Borring, a student of medicine from Copenhagen, Denmark, experienced being a millionaire for a day in Berlin. She had won first prize in a contest sponsored by the Danish daily, "Politiken," which meant that she was permitted to spend one day in Berlin with all she could matter how high, paid by the paper.

There was one condition, however. Miss Borring was not allowed to acquire anything which might be of value to her after her role of millionairess expired.

She therefore found its task of spending money somewhat difficult. A visit to Prof Albert Einstein, an airplane flight, a drive about town in a ready limousine, accompanied by at the most expensive Berlin restaurants and attendance at a theatre comprised her day's "extravagance."

Pale People Are In Peril

Some Form Of Nervous Breakdown Always Threatens Them

Pale people are almost always nervous. They have a watery lack of blood and too little blood usually results in headaches, backaches, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism, kidney troubles, headaches or neuralgia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are different from most other medicines it is not necessary to "dose" them and feel better. The whole mission is to make new, red blood. This new blood strengthens the nerves and gives vitality to the whole body. Concerning them Mr. A. Cook, Lake Dore, Temiskaming, says: "Two years ago I quest Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after a severe breakdown with the result that I have felt like a new man ever since.

You can get these Pills from any druggist in the province or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada Playing Valuable Part

Vancouver Expert Will Lay Rails For Bermuda's First Railway

Canada will play a valuable part in the construction of Bermuda's first railway which it is hoped will be completed within a year, it was learned by Vancouver expert in road beds and track laying, has gone to Bermuda on behalf of the C.N. steamship "Lady Somers" after engaging ten men in Montreal to follow him later to Bermuda. The Vancouver expert has been 25 years in the business of rail laying. He served under General J. W. Stewart, who left Canada to war. Troops during the world war and is now working with Beltour, Beatty and Co., Limited, England, builders of the new railroad.

If Miller's Worm Powders needed the support of testimonials they could be had in plenty. Everywhere they have the great virtue of this excellent medicine. Their prompt action will speak for themselves and in such a way as to leave no room for question as to them. They act speedily and thoroughly, and the child to whom they are administered will show improvement from the first dose.

Permits Are Cancelled

Food and Mouth Disease Bars Imports From Britain

Owing to the existence of food and mouth disease in England an order in council has issued from the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa under the Animal Contagious Diseases Act cancelling all permits for the importation of ruminants and swine from Great Britain to Canada. This action has been made necessary as food and mouth disease has been confirmed in most Leeds in England. The order reads in part: "Owing to the presence of food and mouth disease in England at present, the importation into Canada of cattle, sheep, goats, other ruminants, and swine from Great Britain are prohibited with the exception of those covering shipments which are at this date actually embarked on vessels en route to Canada." The order was dated September 4, 1920.

Farewells Sent By Message

This often repeated nightly message which his chauffeur delivered to Sir J. Bickerstaffe was on the latter's funeral wreath: "The boss's dying out: the water is nice and hot; the windows and doors are bolted; the small electric child without fear or injury to the constitution

Seaweed In Machines

To learn what and how much you should eat simply drop a coin in a new slot machine which was shown at the International Hygiene exhibition at Dresden Germany. The machine weighs you measures your height and then it issues a card containing a report, showing the amount of the food and the number of calories you should consume daily.

An Interesting Discovery

Iron Foundry In Northern Rhodesia Thousands Of Years Old

Entirely new light will be thrown on the history of metallurgy by the discovery of an enormous iron foundry 3,000 or 4,000 years old, at Mumbwa, Northern Rhodesia. Three different races appear to have built this foundry. The last race was an intelligent people, who knew how to choose stones, mix them in the right proportion with bone and quartz, place them in symmetrically constructed moulds in which they would subject them to a torrid heat, pour in molten lead and form furnace, and as fashion recommended cutting and piercing implements

Food Hardships In North

Men and Wife Blazing Trail Had To Live On Moose Meat

A three-months' silence since a daring couple plunged into the trackless wilderness of Northern British Columbia, bound for Alaska on foot, has been broken by word from William Albee to his parents at Glendale, California, telling of the successful adventure of the young man and his wife.

A short letter, scribbled on a sheet of ledger paper and borne in a brown, weather-beaten envelope, delivered to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Albee, recounted a valiant struggle against a series of hardships. The letter was mailed September 17, from Telegraph Creek, British Columbia.

Leaving Port George, British Columbia, in the middle of June, Albee, 24 years old, and his wife, 22, cut a path toward Laird Post, far to the north.

Albee carried an 83-pound pack, his wife a 52-pound pack, and a dog was loaded with 30 pounds. They hoped to make Laird Post in four weeks. "Instead," Albee wrote, "it took nine weeks." Five weeks out of Fort George, their provisions gave out. "We lived the remainder of the journey on moose meat—three times a day," he added.

Albee said what maps they had apparently were in error for they never found any landmarks. They will spend the winter in Dawson.

The young man's parents said the couple probably will cross Alaska next summer and they might plan to continue across Bering Strait to Siberia and around the world.

HIGHER DUTIES ON WINDOW GLASS ARE REVOKED

Ottawa, Ont.—Increased duties on window glass, approved at the last session of parliament, have been revoked. This action constitutes the first definite step of this kind by the government to protect the consumer against profiteering in commodities, the duties on which were increased. The action according to an official statement issued by Sir George Perley, acting prime minister follows complaints that the price of window glass since the duties last summer has been doubled since the special session of parliament.

Enquiry by the government, it is stated, resulted in the conclusion that no active steps have been taken to produce glass in Canada by the new tariff factories here.

Duties on window glass now revoked, they were before the special session of parliament, namely 7½ per cent under the British preference 12½ per cent under the intermediate and the same under the general tariffs. The schedules approved at the last session divided the commodity into classes and fixed specific rates which were a great deal higher than those which has been effective.

Strenuous debate followed the introduction of the new schedules into the House of Commons. Premier Bennett read to the House a letter from the Canadian Window Glass Sheet Glass Company, Ltd., in which that company undertook to take immediate step to bring their factories into operation, if the increased duties were granted There was to be an increase of 15c per case in the undertakings from manufacturers declared

Prime Minister Bennett said if the prices were increased duties would come above The government at had the power to reduce duties imposed but it felt that the undertaking had not been lived up to.

Under the tariff approved at the special session of parliament specific rates on window glass were effective as follows: Not exceeding 50 square inches per pound, British preferential tariff, 1½ cents, intermediate tariff 1¾ cents, general tariff 1¾ cents. Of the sheets exceeding 50 square inches but not exceeding 120 square inches in area, per pound, British preferential tariff 2½ cents, intermediate tariff 3 cents, general tariff 3 cents. Of the sheets exceeding 120 square inches in area, British preferential tariff 3½ cents, intermediate 4½ cents, general 4½ cents.

Favor Steel Impetus

Regina Sask.—A resolution favoring the establishment of a steel rail mill somewhere in the west was unanimously adopted by delegates to the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association here. The resolution was introduced by the Moose Jaw Board of Trade and was supported by delegates from municipalities and live stock and butcher associations at meetings in the city Hall on Tuesday.

Lumbermen Sentenced

Labine, Idaho.—Three lumbermen of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, were sentenced to jail terms and fined by Federal Judge Dietrich for violation of the Federal reforestation act. The men were charged with cutting timber on government property without permission. Two were sentenced to serve 60 days in jail and fined $100 each. The third was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50.

Work On Bay Line Satisfactory

No Foundation For Criticism says Minister Of Railways

The Pas, Man. Returning here from his first trip to Churchill, a journey made at this time partly because of charges that the seaport project was not proceeding as speedily as it might be, Hon. H. J. Manion Minister of Railways and Canals declared that criticism is unfair and unfounded, and that the undertaking is going ahead in an extremely efficient manner.

The minister said that it is the government's intention to open the route in September, 1931, for tests in both export and import shipments. Under circumstances this may change present plans, but it is hoped that the late government's plan to open the route in a commercial way next autumn will be carried out.

The visited he was especially pleased with the excellent roadbed to the seaboard, and he also paid tribute to Duncan Kidd, superintendent at Churchill, and his staff for their efficient handling of the entire scheme To his mind, an immense amount of work has been accomplished, reflecting great credit on the whole department of the interior and the C.N.R.

Authorities Must Work Together

Co-Operation Is Only Way To Solve Transportation Problems

Kelowna, B.C. S. L. Squire, of Toronto chairman of the Canadian Good Roads Association, addressing the annual convention of the Good Roads League of British Columbia here, said that it was essential for federal provincial and municipal authorities to work together to solve transportation problems. He outlined how good roads were changing the national and even political aspect.

"Good roads," he said, "are bringing about a better national understanding and are having a beneficial effect on the business life of Canada than any one realizes. Distance is now measured by time and not miles, and East and West are becoming better known to each other by means of the motor car. Within a few years a national for federal provincial and municipal authorities to work together to solve transportation problems. He outlined how good roads were changing the national and even political aspect.

Winnipeg, Man. R. G. H. Johnston, reported to be Canada's richest north staker, has returned to Winnipeg from Great Bear Lake, Mackenzie district, where he has been working for two years. He has 200 miles south of Great Bear Lake on Hudson Bay. He was a member of the party held up for two weeks by commercial gales while coming down by boat from the claims.

MORE SUPPORT FOR AVIATION IN CANADA IS URGED

Toronto, Ont. — "Governments should refrain from carrying out aerial work which rightly belongs to commercial aviation notably aerial survey," said Gen. J. J. MacBrien, president of the Aviation League of Canada, in speaking before the Canadian Chambers of Commerce here. "Experimental, development, exploration duties and aeronautical training provide plenty of work for the government machines," he said.

Among other suggestions made by General MacBrien for the assistance of commercial aviation were Progressive government policies, Dominion and provincial, needed so that commercial operators and manufacturers may plan accordingly.

Organized airways, which include up-to-date landing fields, a wireless system of truck and branch lines should be energetically developed

Subsidy support should be given to Canadian aircraft manufacturers as it is most important the industries both be firmly established.

Small companies should be encouraged to amalgamate and branch out beyond their present restricted to them. Commercial schools should be supported by an allowance for ambulance work.

Aeronautical education and research should be established Any such institution for providing facilities within its scope for its attributes to gain a knowledge of aids to flying should be behind the times and unprogressive.

General MacBrien outlined the present regular aeroplane routes in the Dominion, and predicted that within two years the present jump from Prince to Winnipeg would be bridged by air mail.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

On Sunday, October 19th, First United church will celebrate its anniversary. Five years ago the local Methodist and Presbyterian congregations, in conjunction with the parent bodies, entered "the United Church of Canada." Since then the church has grown steadily in numbers and influence. Two years ago a large extension was made to the church building and today it accommodates a large and flourishing Sunday School, the W. M. A., W. M. S., choir and congregation. The present minister, Rev. H. A. Boyd, B.D., was called and inducted in April 1928 and has associated with him in the work of the church a strong session and board.

This year the anniversary services are being arranged for by an exchange with the local minister and choir of Grace United church, Lloydminster. The visit of this able young minister and choir is being eagerly looked forward to and every provision is being made for the accommodation of those who wish to attend. Asking Federal Government To Assume Cost Of Drying Grain

Important Matter Brought To Attention of the Dominion Authorities.

Following are copies of telegrams passing between J. W. G. Morrison, K.C. and the federal government with regard to the assumption by the latter of the cost of drying the grain for the farmers of Western Canada:

"Hon. G. D. Robertson,

Minister of Labor, Ottawa.

"Early coming of winter finds normally five per cent of the grain still unthreshed. Gives rise to serious situation. If threshing done grain will be wet and must be sent to drying plants at Edmonton or Saskatoon. Drying costs five cents per bushel. If farmer has to pay realizes little on his grain. Would urge government assume drying charges. Estimated sixty million bushels in west still unthreshed. Assistance would be practical relief. Urge that action be taken otherwise serious consequences may follow. Business interests suffering along with producers. Adoption would create considerable employment.

J. W. G. Morrison."

The Reply

"J. W. G. Morrison,

Vermilion, Alberta.

"Your wire. Am bringing subject of grain drying to attention of government and particularly the minister of agriculture for consideration and such action as the government may determine. Fully realize importance of the problem.

G. D. Robertson,

Minister of Labor."

Mr. Morrison suggests that the U.F.A. locals take this matter, if they approve of it, up with their federal and provincial representatives. The proposition was heartily approved by the chamber of commerce at a meeting of the executive held Monday afternoon. Mr. Morrison has already taken the matter up with Hon. Mr. Bindley at Edmonton.

Advertising Is Good Business

And Is Especially Necessary In Times Of Depression

It is a curious fact that the art of advertising at home is on as high a plane as in any country in the world but manufacturers and merchants do not seem to have learned the faculty of showing the rest of the world how really good their products are. British traders are inclined, when bad times prevail, to reduce costs by cutting down advertising, a procedure which has been proved time and again to be against all the principles of good business. As was mentioned in a recent article contributed to our columns by a local advertising specialist: "Among experienced advertisers today, it has become an established policy to redouble efforts in bad times, because of the actual results which have been derived in so many instances from the adoption of this policy."—Hong Kong Press

Advocates Clothing Reform

College Professor Thinks Men Should Wear Dresses

Men should wear dresses, Prof. Albert Hunkins, of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, advises.

For health and comfort the ideal garment for men would be a one-piece dress, he declared in a recent address before a medical society.

"We men, under our garments," he said, "are terribly always living in a tropical climate. Women's clothing is much more reasonable.

"There are four places where I would suggest to improve our clothing. Either it could be made more porous and ventilated possibly of cane fabric, or it could be worn very loosely."

"THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP"

Should Check Up Unemployed

Some May Not Be Deserving of Government Relief

Unemployment figures in urban centres are augmented each winter through the migration of men who work steadily on farms in the summer and rather than accept a smaller wage for the winter months or perhaps more comfortable board they journeyed eityward in the hope of sharing in the jobs handed out by benevolent city councils. Urban municipalities should keep a close check on these migrants and refuse to increase the burden placed on municipalities and the country at large by maintaining these men in semi-idleness for five months out of the year.

It will be grossly unfair to taxpayers everywhere if the "part" special twenty million dollars appropriated by the Dominion Government and the provincial funds of dollars that are added to it by the provinces and municipalities is used to maintain the unemployed in idleness. Every man who is able to work and who has been offered winter employment and turns it down in order to share in the relief funds is not a deserving merit relief Farmer's Advocate.

PRETTILY DRAPED

All Tuggy models are created and sketched in Paris and the patterns are made in New York

Delightful draped effects mark many of the new bodice and skirt effects giving almost Greek grace to the youthful dresses.

The model illustrated for today's pattern has a new and charming collar. It forms a pretty drape on the side and is caught with a motif in brown or a button, preferably a jeweled one if the material is rich like satin, crepe-de-chine, marocain, chiffon velvet, etc. The model would also call charmingly in a fascinating velvet of which some lovely new designs are to be seen

To be in keeping with the bodice trim, the skirt drapes prettily on one side where the weight of the full hem of stuff just caresses the marvel dip at the point. The belt is narrow and of self tissue

This pattern may be obtained in sizes 14 to 20 and 34 to 42. It is ready for immediate delivery It is easy to make.

Send 25 cents in stamp or coin to Fashion Bureau Write carefully and plainly your name and full address, the number of the pattern and the size you want.

OCTOBER 26

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY —SPIRITUAL WEAPONS IN A WORLD WAR

Golden Text: "Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self-control in all things."—Corinthians 9:25.

Lesson: Galatians 5:13-26.

Devotional Reading: Romans 14: 13-21.

Explanations and Comments

Christian Freedom, verse 13. —"Brethren," wrote Paul to the Galatians. "you are free from the law" but Christian freedom does not mean that you can do as you please. Liberty and license are not synonymous. Do not use your freedom as a license for indulging your lower impulses, but serve one another in love. "Flesh" is used here for "that element of man's nature which is opposed to goodness and makes for evil. It signifies the lower tendency of sin."

The Christian Love, verses 14, 15. Through loving service for others, you fulfil the whole divine law which is, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Paul here quotes Leviticus 19:18. Then, recalling the fact that the Galatians were prone to quarrel, Paul adds, "But if ye bite and devour one another (or, literally, wound another like dogs or wild beasts), beware lest you destroy one another."

Antagonistic Spirits, verses 16-18. Submit to the guidance of the Holy Spirit in all your acts, Paul counsels, and then you will not fulfill the desire of your evil nature, for the evil nature and the Holy Spirit are at war with each other. The Spirit strives to prevent your obeying your evil nature, and your evil nature strives to hinder you from obeying the Spirit, for they are at enmity with the one another and prevent your doing what you would. "Those who devote" to this Man's glory live in his will. In him, however, are two hostile factions. The flesh seeks ascendency, urging him to choose the things he likes. The Spirit urges him to unite himself with God" and thereby forbids, to use his will to govern his life according to spiritual motives."

The Final Counsel, verses 25, 26. If we live by the Spirit, let us also let us walk. Walking by the Spirit is the effect of living by the Spirit. If the Christian life has come into our spirit, then we are living rightously.

Loss Crime In Britain

Several Prisons Are Closed For Lack Of Occupants

Crime in Great Britain has deteriorated so much that prisons are operating far below capacity, and several have been closed for lack of occupants, states Dr. Higgins, medical officer of the prison in Liverpool, who returned to New York recently.

He attributed the decrease in crime to the system of swift justice, but declared that the closing of asylums at certain hours, and to the fact that a prisoner or a person fined was aided by many. "There is no surveillance after his release or payment of the fine.

Finds Use For Monkey

May Establish Industry To Produce Insulating Material

An American company with headquarters at Minneapolis, is investigating commercial uses for the northern monkeys with a view of establishing an industry to produce insulation material. While the prospect of using monkey as an insulating material is something new to the majority of citizens of Canada, it is an old trick of the veteran prospectors in this area.

But hundreds of log cabins of trappers and prospectors in the northern areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan have been packed with the bog material for years, keeping out both the howling blasts of the northern winds and the burning sun of northern Manitoba to the entire satisfaction of the owner of the cabin.

No local information can be obtained regarding the investigations by the American firm of the industrial use of monkey, but early in the spring a substantial shipment of the mushog left here for the south.

Started In Small Way

The dahlia began its spectacular career most modestly in 1770 when a few seeds were sent from Mexico to Madrid. By 1841 some 1,300 varieties had sprung from this little packet of seeds and bulbs—"a truly remarkable example," says Dr. Howe "of a plant's capacity for variation when aided by man." Today more than 3,000 varieties are in cultivation, thousands have been developed and there is a dahlia society in every state.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms, such as headaches, gas, heartburn, etc., will disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove on this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid. It cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

Considering all it meant it was over in an incredibly few minutes, but during the short time Gay had a look at Nick. She looked at Lincoln, not alone because his familiar visage reached her first, but because of the sympathy she couldn't see upon his face.

Somehow she found herself shaking hands with the owner of the beard, and nodding dazedly to the clerk and the stenographer. Somehow, with the help of Nick's firm hand, she got down the dark stairway, and into the blinding sunshine of the city street.

Still she didn't meet Nick's eyes The whole performance had been a nightmare. Behind them appeared strange things. She was hurt and quivering. She glanced down at the gold band on her finger, and remembered vaguely where Nick had got it, and realized at its sight that she was married somewhere without the knowledge of her husband's lips. The thought that not once during the whole day had Nick even mentioned the fact that he was married, or that he was a minister, or that he had ever been married before, didn't occur to her.

And just then a voice broke in upon them: a high shrill, old-man voice: "By gorry! It's Nick Hart, sure!"

They both stared, to behold a little man in baggy trousers and a wide-brimmed hat, the latter carrying a huge umbrella, and looked to Gay like a character from Dickens, but Nick, head that wave his ring, slipping it beneath his own upon the steering wheel; and the act brought Gay a sense of security and well-being.

But they were children again when they explored the cabin. Nick declared that it was even more delightful than he remembered it; and insisted, with an ardent glance that brought color to Gay's cheeks, that the added charm was due to present circumstances.

"It's—perfect," she agreed.

They had finished their supper and stood together in the doorway, looking down through the pines that guarded their hearthstone, to where green woodlands bordered on greener meadows—where quiet lakes gleamed dully in the twilight, and mountains, blue and majestic, were silhouetted against the sky. The stars were deepened. A star shone out—and then another. . . . Gay drew a trembling breath.

"I feel like a bird in its nest."

Nick's arm went round her shoulders, drawing her closer.

"A bird in its nest," he echoed. "Well—" He dropped the protecting arm, and faced her suddenly. "Say—what have you thought of me all day? It came to me there in that abominable office when I knew you wouldn't look at me that I hadn't behaved the way I should have. I suppose I've let you treat me like a child. I didn't realize that I was tossing you as well as myself into a situation where people couldn't help misjudging us. Oh, Gay, don't you know that it hurts me as much as ever it ever did? That—that—if only I could look into my eyes I'll make her understand! But you didn't look, dear girl, and of course I couldn't look you there! And when we got outside it was hard to speak. I was scared to death, scared of what you must be thinking.—Gay dearest—let's forget it, and and——"

"Nick, dear, one wedding——"

"Yes if you call that miserable affair a wedding. I don't! I think it was a fine thing once I knew you were safe. Justice of the Peace and the signatures of a gum-chewing girl and a sleepy-eyed boy. If only you'll say—that's a good enough wedding for me, Gay; and I promise you now that I'll love you all my days, and be true to you, dear, until death us do part."

"I've not been in a long and steadfast look

Mutely she stretched out her hand, and Nick, taking it in a sudden fierce grip—laid the free, long arm of command gently, thinkin' maybe I'd be goin' to stay a day or so. May need a suit o' clothes, but I guess I can get the Central House! You're welcome to stay long as you want to, Nick, that is if your wife'd like it."

"You would wouldn't you Gay?" asked Nick eagerly. "It's the craggy a beneath a pine tree, while the bay lies at its feet. Gay, darling, the brown needles through his finger

"But I could stay here I could be cuddled and his reared at the thing "The Bird's Nest," as the hut christened their first stopping place during the long days of the summer that the girl smiled.

Canadian Girl Is Master Of Science In Aeronautical Engineering

Miss Elsie Gregory MacGill of Vancouver, can now write the letters M.S.E. after her name besides the more familiar B.A., and B.Sc., for she graduated not long ago from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbour, with the degree of master of science in aeronautical engineering

When Miss MacGill entered the graduate school of Michigan, she already had the degree of bachelor of science from the University of British Columbia, and another degree in engineering from the University of Toronto

Toronto fellow graduates will recall as the only girl student at the school of practical science and who also graduated in engineering physics—a specially small real large hall to be made for her finger, as none of the engineering students were of a size in this emergency. It was Miss MacGill's intention to be an electrical engineer, but after this young British Columbian turned to aeronautics.

Professor Petit Pawlowski, who holds the chair in aeronautical engineering in the University of Michigan, said during the graduation exercises at Ann Arbour, Miss MacGill displayed not only admirable qualities in this difficult field, but also an unusual ability for engineering in general" Her work was of such a nothing other than high order that it is especially appreciated by her professors that in spite of the fact that her health broke down when she was within one of her scholastic year, that on coming was again of the matter she was able to complete her work and was satisfied that she fully deserved the degree.

Miss MacGill is particularly interested in design of aeroplanes having already built a small amount of machine in this direction and is also occupied in engineering. Ann Arbour, and she is planning to continue this work which has never ceased to interest her. Her health is now in perfect condition, and she is anxious to get back to her chosen work.

City Of Calgary Experimenting With Bituminous Sands

An experiment with bituminous sands from the Fort McMurray district in Northern Alberta was being tried in the city of Calgary public works, it was stated recently by Commissioner A. G. Graves, following a visit from a representative of the company which is exploiting the sands.

About 30 tons had been ordered, he said, and some of it was already in use for crossings, sidewalks and so forth. It had been found necessary to mix it with sand and gravel according to a formulae decided upon by city chemists, but even with the added labor of mixing the product was very economical for the use to which it had been put. Commissioner Graves was not prepared to say anything just yet about the lasting qualities of the material, but said that it appeared to be giving satisfaction. Further experiments would have to be made before it was decided to extend the use of it to roads

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe Or the Growing Child

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for the ones whether it be for the newborn babe or the growing child that they are always good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Brunelle, R.R. 2, South Indian, Ont., says "We have three fine, healthy children for whom when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in the house when baby has a young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels, banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The 1931 budget of New York City will so sunt to a new high record of $1,632,600,000 a sum more than New York's expenses, past, present and future indicated

The would amount to $67,830,273 more than the budget for the current year and would be the greatest in any year in the history of any city anywhere

The entire governmental expenses of the Dominion of Canada in 1929 was about $281,400,000 in round figures.

DEPRESSION

"I'm a different woman"

"Two years ago I began to get depressed, and everything was too much trouble for me. I was a misery to myself and everyone around me. I was advised to take Ghadier Salts by my friends who said it was the same as Kruschen but it did me no good, so at last my husband got a bottle of Kruschen and no one would realize the different woman I am. I have been taking Kruschen now constantly for two years. My daughter also would not be without it. I have told my neighbor to take Kruschen as well and she has found its worth as she feels a different woman."

—(Mrs. C. A. W.)

The comes next cause of depression is partial constipation—an insidious complaint because the sufferer is often unaware of it. It means the gradual accumulation of body poisons which spoil the mood, damp the spirits, sap the nervous strength and lower the whole vitality.

Kruschen Salts make constipation impossible. Therefore, if you keep to Kruschen you need never know the misery of melancholy I never feel merry " or depressed.

Few are needed to do the out-of-the-way tasks which startle the world and one may be most useful just doing commonplace duties and leaving the issue with God. And when it is all over, and our feet fall from the mountain, our hands are helpless, and we have scarcely strength to murmur a last prayer, then we shall see that instead of needing a large field we have left unfilled many rows of corn, or single acres and that none of it is fit for our Master's eye were it not for the softening shadow of forgiveness.—Grace Macdonald

POWERFUL FORCE OF NEWSPAPERS.

At a meeting of the Du Forest Crossley radio sales organization, Mr. J. A. Lowdon, advertising manager, stressed the importance of advertising in general business conditions. He said, in part:

"I believe that newspapers are the greatest single factor in maintaining or restoring prosperity. Cut off newspaper advertising and business conditions are aggravated.

Newspaper advertising and you have the greatest force towards the restoration of prosperity. Why do this? It is simply because advertising has told its story and goods can be bought, where they can be purchased and, furthermore, creates a strong desire to buy them. When I buy a box of biscuits I am putting money in the hands of the biscuit maker with which he may buy our product. In other words, each of us is a market for the other's product. If we buy freely, others buy freely and general prosperity exists but if either one of us refuses to buy, then the wheels of industry slow down.

"The company has increased its newspaper advertising substantially. We know if a radio is bought the revenue will be paid in wages to workers who will buy the product of some other worker. It is an endless chain which results in greater prosperity for everyone."

In the five years prior to the war Russia was the leading wheat buyer with an average of 153,000,000 bus. per annum. At that time the average annual shipment of Canada was 56,000,000 bus., but now Canada wants to ship 240,000,000 to 250,000,000 bus. per annum, whilst Argentine also has greatly increased her crop and exports, therefore the Russian supply is not really wanted on the International market. But evidently Russia is determined to sell and export substantial quantities, and as Canada also is bound to sell much wheat to reduce the heavy stocks with which the Dominion is burdened, competition keeps keen and prices are constantly forced to a lower level, with disastrous results for growers; and at the same time the cooperation of buyers in the value of an article is destroyed. SAFEGUARDING TOWN'S INTERESTS.

As a provision during the present period of depression, Mayor Paliser has been active in investigating unprofitable expenses in connection with the administration of town affairs for the year 1931 with the object of safeguarding its interests generally until the depression be prolonged Owing to the vagaries of the weather, no appreciable amount of threshing has been done as yet and the record heavy snowfall made the situation much more serious, making it hard for a time—the crop outcome very problematical The conditions in so far to-day after the town have lost many thousands of dollars of unpaid taxes for the current year, thereby making it extremely difficult to finance the town's obligations.

Along these lines the school board held a special session last Friday night of the request of the mayor, to check over and if possible curtail its expenditures for next year, and on Monday night a joint meeting of the board and town council dealt therewith in the financial situation so now confronting the town for next year's financing. The result of the conference between these representative bodies was satisfying, inasmuch as being that it was found possible to reduce the estimated expenditures for 1931 to $9,000 lesser than they made this year for town and school purposes, which should secure a more extended credit in the endeavour to carry on during the period of present depression which the country is now battling with the hope that the one bush will soon become brighter.

Long an outstanding member of his second profession, Rev. Dr. Somerville of the Presbyterian general assembly and "Moon of the kirk" in western Canada, Rev. D. G. McQueen, B.A., B.D., LL.D., aged 76, died at the Royal Alexandra hospital at 11:30 Wednesday morning. He had been a patient for two months and while recently he had shown some improvement, developed a chill Tuesday from which he failed to rally. Mrs. McQueen and two daughters, Jean and Helen, were at the bedside when death came. He bent a stern age Dr McQueen was taken ill with a severe attack of pneumonia, but he recovered and was soon again assisting with his work. It is now believed that this attack is the serious after effects because of his years.—Edmonton Journal.

Six Month's Sentence For Careless Driving

Issuer of Worthless Cheques Draws Two Months

Before Police Magistrate P. G. Pihlo on Saturday last, John Jandris pleading guilty to the charge of careless driving of an automobile, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Fort Saskatchewan. The accident happened on Saturday night, October 11 near Minburn on Highway No 16 when a Chevrolet car driven by Jandris crashed headon into an automobile, both cars being badly wrecked and all the occupants, to the number of five, more or less severely injured. The Chev. contained three men and the other car two, Jandris being on the wrong side of the road. The preferring of the charge was delayed pending the progress of three of the injured who were in the Minburn hospital.

The charge against Jandris was that while operating and having charge of a motor vehicle, by reason of his driving and wilful neglect did cause bodily harm to Robert Fowler, David Fleisher and Antony Ritchan. The section of the criminal code under which the case was tried reads: "Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years imprisonment who, having the charge of any carriage or motor vehicle or vessel, whether by wanton or furious driving or racing or other wilful misconduct or by wilful neglect does or causes to be done any bodily harm to any person."

Before the same magistrate on October 9th, Ernest C. Burd of Edmonton, charged with passing worthless cheques on an hotelkeeper at Innisfree, was given two months in gaol.

"Here and There"

After a trip through southern Canada during which he and his fellow-directors studied all phases of range business and agricultural conditions in the four western provinces, R. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently announced a programme of improvements, additions and extensions to be undertaken forthwith by his railway which may be described as bold in conception and extensive in magnitude. This work is estimated to the spending time from next year and 1932 and will furnish work for farmers and their work animals and absorb as much as possible of the surplus labor in towns and cities.

Speaking at Winnipeg after a tour of western Canada, with E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, General Sir Arthur Currie said he returned to the east "more proud, more confident of the country than ever before." Admitting that the times were uncertain and anxious, Sir Arthur urged that wealth, opportunity and resources belonged to Canadians and the solution of nation-wide depression lay "not in our men and women and I believe in the Canadian breed and the Canadian breed." As an instance of the creation of new wealth in Canada, he cited the Peace River country which will be had been profoundly impressed.

Along these lines the school board held a special session last Friday night of the request of the mayor, to check over and if possible curtail its expenditures for next year, and on Monday night a joint meeting of the board and town council dealt therewith in the financial situation so now confronting the town for next year's financing. The result of the conference between these representative bodies was satisfying, inasmuch as being that it was found possible to reduce the estimated expenditures for 1931 to $9,000 lesser than they made this year for town and school purposes, which should secure a more extended credit in the endeavour to carry on during the period of present depression which the country is now battling with the hope that the one bush will soon become brighter.

Conscripting of gasoline in Canada increased 5.5 per cent. from 1929 to 1929 and in the same period the use of fuel and gas oils advanced 125 per cent. The wider use of motor cars, farm tractors and other agricultural machinery is given as the reason for the great increase in the use of gasoline and the growing popularity is the use of oil for heating purposes accounts for the advance in the consumption of fuel and gas oils.

Are Behind Present Liquor Act

Moderation League Registers Opposition To Any Change Being Made

Representatives from various parts of the province, executives of the Moderation League of Alberta, met in Calgary on Saturday morning, at the Canadian Legion hall for the purpose of considering the action of the Prohibition Association of Alberta in circulating a petition with the declared ultimate object of a return to total prohibition.

W. Wallace Howe of Edmonton, Secretary of the Moderation League, reported that the prohibition petition is being sent out from headquarters to different parts of the province, asking for signatures to abolish the retail sale of beer, either by the glass or bottle in all beer rooms, whether in hotels, clubs or canteens.

Mr. Howe stated that in the official organ of the Prohibition party, the objects of the petition were clearly set forth and in the petition, it seemed inconsistent to attack the retail sale of beer in hotels and clubs when the petition especially condoned the sale of all kinds of liquor in general stores. Mr. Howe further stated that the executive of the Moderation League has, at all times, kept in touch with the workings of the present Liquor Act and that a favorable opinion as to the working of its provisions is amply justified by official reports which record considerable improvement in the habits of the people, and general social conditions.

The Executive of the Moderation League considered that the question of beer rooms was an important one and this particular section of the Liquor Control Act was framed with the local option clauses, looked upon as the "safety valve", whereby any district could, by a majority vote, have the right to declare itself "wet" or "dry" by a vote of the people. From the foregoing, it is clear that there has been 56 local option plebiscite on the question of beer licenses, yet there are made applications with licenses in Alberta which have been renewed each year, and only four licenses have been cancelled as a result of these votes, and they due to peculiar local conditions.

The meeting felt, too, that the people of Alberta have expressed an opinion upon the record of the Liquor Control Act since its inception, and the motive prompting the circulation of the petition was a remedy for an unworkable, by eliminating the sale of beer by glass or bottle in hotels, clubs and canteens, which the Act in its wisdom has been a return to total prohibition.

Mr. Cousins, President of the Moderation League of Alberta, at the above meeting that, since his arrival in Alberta in 1883, he had seen the country pass through two forms of prohibition and that, in his opinion, the present Act was the best that any province had ever had. He expressed his confidence in the citizens supporting the Act in all its provisions and that the province would fall because of the ability of the present Act to educate the people what they want—moderation: it being a new workable law and in the open where all can see its operation.

The executive decided that steps be taken to make known facts regarding the present Liquor Act, its accomplishments since its inception, and to ask any means necessary to enforce the attempt to change what is now considered a satisfactory piece of legislation.

MILK FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Esther Ralston, a well known screen actress, who has been making personal appearances in theatres throughout the country, singing and dancing several times daily, insists upon a glass of milk before each performance in every city she visits.

"Since my early childhood," says Miss Ralston, "my chief nourishment has been derived from fresh fruit, nuts and milk. Milk, particularly, keeps my complexion clear and healthy, and every few days I bathe my face in sour milk. In the studios one stage and screen life, I have discovered that pure milk has a soothing effect on highly strung nerves and I drink a large quantity daily instead of using coffee, tea or other stimulants."

Of greater interest, perhaps, to millions of young women is Miss Ralston's statement that she drinks a glass of milk, at intervals during the day, most refreshing and invigorating way to avoid fat formation.

This statement is supported by two other women — Flora Rose, director, and Sarah Louise Arnold, dietitian, New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell University — as follows:

"Milk is maligned by many persons as a 'fattening' food and is thereby strictly avoided . . . A diet is 'fattening' or 'reducing' according to the number of calories taken in relation to the body's total expenditure or activities . . . A glass of milk does not add total calories more quickly than, or as quickly as, one serving of a potato or bread, so that the person on a reduction diet is very willing to accept. It is because milk carries such high calories and proteins and, along with its calories, supplying substances not easily obtained from other foods, that a part of the total calories in every diet should come from milk."

YELLOW STOCKINGS

One of the oldest boys' schools in the British Isles is known by the strange name of "The Bluecoat School," or Christ's Hospital. Like many other famous English schools it has acquired its history behind it. Wearing long blue coats and bright yellow stockings right up to the knee, the boys make a striking picture in the London streets or in the playground. Their attire is always the same, whether in or out of school, and despite the weather they go hatless constantly.

The Prince of Wales visited them lately and gave a fine speech on the opening of the New Science Building. Over 800 members were present. Their Royal Visitor in virtue of his princely office, knows the imperial value of a sound education. He emphasized the importance of study from an imperial standpoint, and impressed on the boys the value of mastering such subjects as geography, biology, etc.

One sees more and more how universal is the appreciation of a sound education and its work to our children. In a recent pamphlet issued in Alberta, the Minister of Education says, "It is of the utmost importance as a piece of national insurance that our boys and girls receive the opportunity in fit themselves physically, mentally and morally for the proper discharge of all their duties and responsibilities both public and private."

Among the many agencies at work along these lines is the Junior Red Cross in the province, conducting by new methods, health, citizenship and service. The Superintendent will be glad to mail you information on this work. Write to 407 Civic Block, Edmonton.

Presented With Address On Eightieth Birthday

Police Magistrate Pihlo Honoured by Old Timers' Association

Vermilion, Oct. 19th.

Mr. P. G. Pihlo, Esq.,
Vermilion, Alberta.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Vermilion Old Timers, we wish to tender to you on this your eightieth birthday our sincere congratulations on having reached this age and our earnest hope that you may be spared to see a great many more birthdays in your usual good health and vigor.

As a Citizen, our enterprise you have accomplished yourself with, have been the better for your wise counsel and good judgment.

As Magistrate for the past twenty-four years, you have administered justice impartially and without fear or favor, but your judgments have been tempered with mercy, and while some have had to be punished, yet even they have been compelled to admit that your judgment was sound and just.

Your fairness and humanity has been evidenced most in the treatment you have accorded the wayward youth of the community, who by suspended sentences and good sound fatherly advice have been saved from degradation, and in most cases they have been set on the road to respectable citizenship.

We sincerely trust you may be long spared to us as a Citizen and as an Administrator of Justice in this community.

Yours truly,
Jos. Cousineau, President.

SKATING LAST SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Some Get Wet Reception

Skating on the river commenced last Saturday and Sunday and although the ice wasn't any too firm, many made a pilgrimage to the river crossing to don the steel blades again. Most of the skating is confined to the river immediately above the dam. Two skaters received the usual early season dousing as the ice gave way in two instances.

It looks like an extremely early season for winter sports; hockey with the civic league in action again, and the old broom and stone, may help to pass even a long winter pleasantly.

Canadian Aviation History Is Made When Bird Men Travel 20,000 Miles Over Arctic Area

When two seaplanes soared down to a gale landing on the Ottawa River recently, it marked the end of possibly the most outstanding flight in Canadian aviation history. For the past two months the planes had traversed the frozen wastes of the far north. In that time, they travelled 20,000 miles, mapped a small empire of virgin territory and made meteorological and topographical surveys of many parts of Canada's hinterland.

Yet it was all in the day's work for the men who made the trip. With a mere shrug of the shoulder and the terse comment, "Why, it was nothing!" they, who had written such an important chapter in Canadian aeronoration and aviation history, dismissed the whole matter. Flight-Lieut. F. J. Mawdesley was in charge of the detachment and piloted one of the machines. Flight-Sergt. A. E. Winay handled the other plane, while the survey and photographic work was in charge of C. S. Macdonald, of the Department of the Interior, an experienced Arctic traveller. Sergt. B. C. Dorsey was the mechanic and camera operator.

The trip took the two 'planes as far west as Aklavik, on the Mackenzie River, and as far east as Repulse Bay, an inlet on the extreme north. Forty pounds of mail, the personal field Inlet and Churchill were two of the intermediate points touched which are familiar to many and 5,000 photographs were taken, representing thousands of square miles of territory never before mapped or surveyed. In addition to this work, the caches of gasoline and oil, maintained in this mechanics of the trip, were inspected. Suitable air routes were mapped and the river bottoms charted. This latter work was undertaken to determine, if possible, the economic possibilities of the country.

The party made numerous tests of aeronautical equipment and, among other things, discovered that a new type of thermometer was very high in comparison with the result obtained when the Germans were now turning to Hibbing for light alloy, it was pointed out. The Canadian engineers found that in the pure condition, and in vast tonnage in the southern portion of Saskatchewan.

This company which has a payroll of approximately $7,000 per month, has been going ahead in an area that has suffered severely from recent crop failures, is helping, according to the statement, to relieve the local situation. It at present preparing about 100 tons per day. Additional machinery is being installed to increase this output. Already 150 cars of 45 tons each have been shipped to the International Nickel Company, and the output is so booked ahead that the Horse Shoe Company can take no outside orders.

Automobile Export Business

New Zealand Canada's Best Overseas Market in 1929

New Zealand was Canada's best overseas market for automobiles in 1929, according to a return issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The two Antipodean dominions, New Zealand and Australia, accounted for nearly 23 per cent. of Canada's export business in this industry. To New Zealand this country exported automobiles amounting in value to $5,022,060, while Australia took cars valued in the aggregate at $3,563,273.

Second to New Zealand was the United Kingdom, which purchased $4,289,148 worth of automobiles, while British South Africa bought automobiles with a value of $2,792,180. Then, at a little more than half of $2,000,000 the United Kingdom and the three other dominions accounted for considerably more than 50 per cent.

Of the foreign countries the Argentine republic was Canada's best customer, purchasing $3,905,888 worth of automobiles.

Automobile production in Canada during 1929 reached the figure of $177,815,993, as compared with $162,867,481 in the preceding year, and $138,700,614 in 1927.

Extraction May Be Costly

Germans Find Extracting Beryllium From Beryl Hardly Pays

Canadian technical experts professed themselves interested in the news of any special report for the Imperial conference on the beryl deposits near Winnipeg in Manitoba. On behalf of the mines branch of the Canadian government there had been inquiries into the possibilities of the extraction of beryllium—which is used in light metal alloys—from the Manitoba beryl, it was pointed out.

Experiments by a German concern, however, had tended to show the cost of extraction of beryllium from beryl was very high in comparison with the result obtained when the Germans were now turning to Hibbing for light alloy, it was pointed out. The Canadian engineers found that in the pure condition, and in vast tonnage in the southern portion of Saskatchewan.

This company which has a payroll of approximately $7,000 per month, has been going ahead in an area that has suffered severely from recent crop failures, is helping, according to the statement, to relieve the local situation. Mink Shipped From Yukon

Five Hundred Sent To Sweden and United States Points

Five hundred dark, damp, little mosses pressed unceasingly against strong wire bars, and five hundred little mosses unceasingly spat disgust at being caged, signified the arrival at Vancouver of the steamship "Princess Louise" from Skagway, with the largest shipment of mink to ever pass through British Columbia. Raised in captivity by George Simmons, of Carcross, Yukon Territory, the fur-bearers were en route to Gothenburg, Sweden, for a few days, for United States points, where they will either serve milady's wardrobe or be distributed for the breeding of mink farms in and around these territories.

Eighteen head of dairy cattle from the Canadian Pacific Supply Farm at Strathmore, carried off sixteen firsts and ten second prizes as well as all the championship ribbons at the Inland Washington State Livestock Exhibition at Spokane recently, according to Ward James, superintendent of the railway's department of agriculture and animal industry. Included in the awards won by the Strathmore herd were the male and female grand championships, senior and junior female championships and the junior male championship.

Sodium Sulphite Plant

Important Industry to Established In Southern Saskatchewan

A visit to the sodium sulphate plant at Horse Shoe Lake at Ormiston, Sask., along the Assiniboi branch of the C.P.R., gives a fine indication of the prospects that is being made, and like prospects for the future success of this valuable provincial resource, according to a statement issued by the Saskatchewan Provincial Bureau of Publications.

Horse Shoe Lake contains millions of tons of sodium sulphate, and already a considerable start has been made on its utilization, the statement continues.

The plant which is operated by the Horse Shoe Mining Company, Limited, is a very extensive one and the investment of several hundred thousand dollars. It is owned jointly by the Bertram Reduction Company of Chicago and Vancouver, which holds a majority of the stock, and the International Nickel Company of Canada.

This company has successfully solved the problem of dehydrating the product, a problem that may have been the difficulty in the past in the way of utilizing these deposits.

Saskatchewan possesses most of the world's supply of sodium sulphate in its natural condition, and there are large deposits that it is hoped to find a large and growing market.

In the past it has been regarded as the most valuable digestant in the manufacture of paper from pulp, Dorlag, however, it is found that in obtaining supplies in volume, many of the pulp plants in Eastern Canada duty from southern deposits are being replaced by the precipitated process which is also used in textile manufacture, the making of tanned glass, photographic films, dyestuffs, sodium sulphate and many other things, besides being the basis for many veterinary remedies. It is found in an exceptionally pure condition, and in vast tonnage in the southern portion of Saskatchewan.

This company which has a payroll of approximately $7,000 per month, has been going ahead in an area that has suffered severely from recent crop failures, is helping, according to the statement, to relieve the local situation. It at present preparing about 100 tons per day. Additional machinery is being installed to increase this output. Already 150 cars of 45 tons each have been shipped to the International Nickel Company, and the output is so booked ahead that the Horse Shoe Company can take no outside orders.

Wheat Situation Sound

Canada's wheat situation, both as to marketing and prospective price, and also as to the wheat-growing future, fundamentally is such as to discourage pessimism. That is the verdict of B. P. Aley, assistant-general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in charge of the bank's business in Western Canada.

THREE RECORD BREAKERS

Three heifers that have made dairying history have been owned above. They are, right to left: Mona Pontiac Walker, Rose Echo Warwick and Lassie Comassie, Provincial champions. They produced 77,480 pounds of milk and 2,902 pounds of butter in one year, respectively, in the year last May and last April. This average out to 29,820 pounds of milk which beats the highest record made by a four-year-old in Canada in 1929 by 1,000 pounds, while the average dairy cow in Alberta produces less than 4,000 pounds. They are the property of the Canadian Pacific Railway at the company's experimental farm at Strathmore. The first two are five-year-olds and the last is a three-year-old. They were bred on Alberta Industry for the railway and by the same bull and each purchased by the Canadian Pacific when under two years of age.

Production, according to F. W. Jones, superintendent of Agriculture and Animal Industry for the railway, is very largely a question of progressive development and handling Three cows produced in one year more than nineteen average Alberta dairy cows. To do it, they were well fed and given good care during the lactation period, but up until freshening were developed outside where in winter months they were given good roughage but very little grain.

Winter Feeding Of Bees

Entire Supply is Given Them At One Time

One of the strange things to the ordinary individual is that the feeding of bees for the winter differs from that of other live stock in that the bees are given their whole winter supply of food at one time, while other stock receive their rations day by day. Toward the end of September, the bees should receive sufficient food to take them over the fall, the winter and the spring until the warm days come and they can gather pollen.

Some beekeepers feed their bees sugar syrup; others give them natural stores —honey. When natural stores are given, the food chamber method is usually employed. To get an idea of what the food chamber is, let us look at a hive and we will see that it is built up like a large building.—Entrance by the lower part ground story is called the brood chamber and it is here that the queen reigns The storeys above that are the ones in which the honey is placed by the bees.

As the first honey brought in at the beginning of the main flow is considered the best, and as the bees, which are sometimes confined to the hive without the chance of a cleansing flight for close on 22 weeks, must have the best, this honey is set aside for them. This storey or box full of honey is called the food chamber. — Experimental Farms Note.

Japanese Schoolboy's Essay On Banana Was Not So Bad

Japanese descriptions are almost always good for a few laughs says the Los Angeles Times. One of the best is the theme of a little Japanese schoolboy in the Sacramento Valley. The subject was "The Banana," and the little fellow wrote:

"The banana are great remarkable fruit. He are constructed in the same architectural style as the honorable sausage. Difference being also that sausage are habitually consumed while it are not good advisable to eat rapping of banana.

"Banana are held aloft while consuming; sausage are usually eaten in reclining position. Sausages depend for creation on human being or stuffing machine while banana are virgin fruit product of honorable mother nature.

"In case of sausage both conclusions are attached to other sausages; honorable banana on other hand are joined on one end to the stem and opposite termination are entirely loose.

"Finally banana are strictly member of vegetable kingdom while affiliation of sausage is often undecided."

Skim Milk For Hens

Tests Show It Gives Better Results Than Beef Scraps

In tests carried on for five winter months, November to February, by the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Barred Rocks receiving skimmed milk laid more eggs and gained more weight than those getting beef scrap, reports G. A. Langelier, of Cap Rouge Experimental Station. In the latter of the two experiment, beef scrap is worth nine times as much as skim-milk, weight for weight so that at the current valuation of skim-milk at 20 cents per 100 pounds, beef scrap would only be worth $36 per ton.

"That skim-milk has definite advantages over beef scrap as a poultry feed is proved by the fact that the pullets raised from the same hatch of chicks and given skim-milk instead of beef scrap, laid 24 eggs per pullet more during the first winter of their lives," Mr. Langelier estimates. "If skim-milk can be secured for the poultry one should be taken that it be given always sweet or always sour, to prevent digestive troubles, and that it does not freeze."

Twenty Hours To Tie

A very tired man left a call with the telephone girl at one of midtown hotels at 4 o'clock Sunday morning to be called at 2 p.m., but instead of making it explicit, he said:

"Please call me at 2 tomorrow afternoon." forgetting of course, that it was then 4 o'clock in the morning.

He slept through fourteen hours and dressing, went to the management and complained that the girl hadn't called him.

When the manager talked to the girl about it, she said:

"Why, he's got twenty hours to go yet!"

Early Canadian Shipbuilders

The first shipbuilding in Canada was done by Champlain, who built two pinnaces at Port Royal (Annapolis Basin), Nova Scotia, in 1606, but it is to be believed himself to have been described by DeMonts. It was Talon, however, who in 1667 established the first of an industry, for in 1683, before he returned to France, 350 men out of a total population of less than 7,000 were engaged in constructing wooden vessels

15,000 Demand New Sargon Daily

Vast Growing Army of Sargon Users, Marching Single File, Would Encircle Globe in Only Few Years Time.

(By Sintoned L. Simmons)

ATLANTA, Ga. — More like a tale from the Arabian Nights of old than a record of modern business achievement reads the story of the marvelous growth and development of Sargon the New Scientific Compound which has become the sensation of the drug trade throughout Canada, the United States and other countries.

The old illustration of the leaden dropped into the pool best describes the phenomenal and unprecedented demand and its flame is rapidly spreading over the entire Continent.

Recently compiled figures reveal that approximately 15,000 men and women are marching into drug stores daily for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the marvelous new treatment that is restoring health to countless thousands by new and remarkable methods understood of only a few years ago.

Already more than 5,000,000 suffering men and women have put it to the test and have told other millions what it has done for them.

Marching regulation army fashion—single file—this vast army of Sargon users would reach from New York to San Francisco and at the present rate of sale would, in a few years time, encircle the entire globe.

The only explanation of Sargon's triumph in the Medical World is Sargon's true worth. Back of its triumph in the drug stores is its triumph in the homes and it is the grateful endorsements of its thousands of users that has made it the most widely talked of medicine in the world today.

Sargon is extensively advertised, it is true, but no medicine, no matter how extensively advertised, could possibly meet with such phenomenal success unless backed by outstanding merit and extraordinary powers as a tonic.

There can be but one possible explanation for Sargon's amazing success and it can be told in one word — MERIT!

Sargon may be obtained in Vermilion from Long's Drug Store.

Here and There

(6271

"The reason why interference by the government in business, or worse, the active engagement by the government in business is harmful, is because it is not accompanied by efficiency, and, inevitably, means waste and incompetence," was one of the outstanding statements made by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in an address at the annual dinner of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce held at Toronto recently. It was, he thought, a dangerous tendency and one that should be combated by Canadian and American business men.

There are at present in the Province of Quebec 12,500 miles of rural roads, of which 6,316 miles are first-class roads; 4,211 miles second-class and 1,973 third-class. Over 12,000 miles of roads in the province are open 43 per cent. are permanently improved with surfacing of either concrete macadam or gravel.

Thoroughly representative of Canadian business across the breadth of the Dominion from Montreal to Vancouver, members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce left the latter city October 10 on the Empress of Russia on the Chamber's official tour of Japan and China, there to join the Canada Delegates, editors, representatives of industrial and financial interests in the most extensive commercial mission in the history of Canada. The Tour is the first to leave Canada for the Far East.

Sir Campbell Sifton, member of the Council for India, who has just completed a session in the Indian capital, Simla, in the Punjab, said he had been greatly impressed both by the people and by the preparation for economic development of the Dominion. Sir Campbell was entertained to a dinner by the Canadian Club of Calcutta, at which he spoke briefly on Canada's future possibilities. He was presented with a silver cup by the Canadian Club of Calcutta.

Sir Benjamin Robertson, member of the Council for India, who has just completed a session in the Indian capital, Simla, in the Punjab, said he had been greatly impressed both by the people and by the preparation for economic development of the Dominion. Sir Benjamin was entertained to a dinner by the Canadian Club of Calcutta, at which he spoke briefly on Canada's future possibilities. He was presented with a silver cup by the Canadian Club of Calcutta.

Among the new steamer Princess Helena was put into service on the Bay of Quinte between Belleville and Picton, and, from what has been experienced during the past season, she will be a popular boat. The new steamer is 150 feet long, 30 feet beam and 10 feet deep. She has a speed of 15 miles an hour and is equipped with the latest navigation devices. She has a capacity for 1,000 passengers and 100 automobiles. She is the property of the Canada Steamship Lines.

Since the new steamer Princess Helena was put into service on the Bay of Quinte between Belleville and Picton, there has been an increase of slightly more than 25 per cent. in the general traffic on the route between Prince Edward County and Toronto, it was announced recently by the Canadian Pacific Railway representatives.

"Lash-a-day, Lin," enigmatical young person whose character is chockfull of surprises, made her first radio appearance on a recent Monday evening in the programme from "Melody Music Shop." The new Canadian Pacific Railway radio broadcast over the C.P.R.'s transcontinental network and which has stations linked together by the broadcast transmitting system of the railway, including ten stations in western Canada. Many unusual songs and other entertaining old-time invention and popular song hits, are incorporated in the programme from Melody Music Shop, each Monday.

Addressing the Toronto Conversion held at Montreal recently Major G. S. Gooderham, president of the city-street of development Canadian Pacific Railway, stated a wealth of data and figures to support his contention that the Canadian people have shown their confidence in the country's future prosperity as a country.

War News: British are engaged in desperate fighting around Lille. German have evacuated Ostend under pressure from Allies and it is not likely they will hold Bruges as Allies control all routes. Germans on the roads near Warsaw have suffered severe defeat from Russians, retiring leaving dead and wounded behind. Position left bank of Vistula considered safe. Allies may make strong movement against German fortress of Metz.

Under Control OR No Control?

UNDER CONTROL with beer being sold by reputable licensed hotels under provincial supervision.

NO CONTROL: with bootleggers running rampant as in the old prohibition days.

Reasons why you should NOT sign the prohibition petition urging the government to abolish the sale of beer by the glass or bottle, thus doing away with the beer rooms, clubs and canteens.

1. The proposal to disturb the act comes from a small body of people whose social theories have not withstood the test of actual experience.

2. The Trades and Labor Congress are on record as being in favor of the sale of beer-by-the-glass.

3. By virtue of the local option provisions of the act, communities may extinguish a license when a majority of public opinion so expresses itself.

4. No license has been withdrawn as a result of a local option vote either in 1929 or 1930, though licenses attacked were at points where conditions appeared to the prohibitionists, as favorable to a dry result.

5. In a total of 58 local option votes taken since the act came into force only four licenses have been cancelled as a result of votes and these licenses were, in every case, adversely affected by peculiar local influence.

6. Absence of criticism at the last two provincial elections.

7. Hotel accommodation, particularly at country points, has improved as a direct result of the act, to a standard unequalled in any other province.

8. The general endorsation of the act by the travelling public and the willingness of the public generally to assist in enforcing the act by giving information regarding infraction and interdicting those needing protection from their own weakness.

9. Bootlegging and moonshining have been eliminated as remunerative pursuits. This, together with strict government control, has placed all intoxicating liquor beyond the reach of minors; fewer cases of intoxication in the police courts, in spite of a considerable increase in population. Leave the police of the province free to perform their natural functions, that of protecting the people, not taking up their time trying to enforce what has proved to be unenforcable legislation. Remember you cannot legislate men's minds, because they will never obey a law they do not respect. This was proven in prohibition days.

10. The operation of the act provides a large public revenue (4½ cents of every 10c expended); this has helped to increase the general revenue of the province and prevent increased taxation. Formerly such revenue went to the bootleggers and moonshiners.

11. Official reports commend the act as eminently practical. They contain no important criticism of the act's clauses. Police reports indicate a continuous improvement in the general state of law and order.

12. The real motive prompting the petition is to render the act unworkable by eliminating the retail sale of beer-by-the-glass or bottle; the ultimate aim being a return to total prohibition.

If the beer rooms and clubs are abolished what does the Prohibition Party suggest to take their place? Is it to be liquor for the wealthy and prohibition for the worker?

The Moderation League of Alberta.

POOR OLD DAD

To can scarce pick up a paper
Ah' it's poet's corner greet.
'Cept ye'll see a purty poem
'Bout the simpler saintly sweet;
But ye'll have a time a-searching,
Eyes will be aching bad
Ere ye'll overtake a poem
At this time for poor old dad.
No. it isn't willful in 'em,
Those that write of mother dear,
That there's ever action taken
Of her old man sitting near;
No, it's never meant to slight him,
But it looks a little bad—
All the bouquets made for mother,
Not a bloom for dear old dad.
True, our mother watched above us
"I'll her dear old eyes would ache;
But old dad, he humped to feed us
"I'll his old back would nearly break.
Mother crooned above the cradle,
Gave devotion, all she had;
Well, there wasn't any virtue
At this time for poor old dad.
Do not take one line from mother
When you write the soul-sweet song;
But if there's a word for father
Now and then, it won't be wrong.
Poor old soul, he's beat and wrinkled
An' I know 'twould make him glad
If, while you are praising mother,
You'd say a word for Poor Old Dad.

No More Tree Cutting For Him

Bill Katchenahl, who had his picture in the last issue of The Prospector, showing himself and his hired man in the act of cutting down trees, has retired. Bill thought the matter over and decided that it took a long time to grow the trees and he might be glad to have them back there some day.

More farmers should follow his good example and lay off destroying their trees. In the past it has been the ambition of many western landowners to get their farms cleared just as soon as possible. In the older areas many settlers suffered from soil drifting last spring. Just as soon as the binding fiber has been worked out of the earth through constant tilling the high winds that come in the spring often blow out the newly planted grain and pile the valuable top soil up in fence corners

Two methods open to farmers in combating soil drifting are planting of grass seed (thus putting fiber back into the soil) and setting out wind breaks. Those fortunate enough to have fine windbreaks at different parts of their farm should spare no effort to protect them. In years to come the man who destroys his trees will be very gladly pay much to get them back.

A HEAVY SHIPMENT

The S. S. "Canadian Planter" of Canadian National Steamships liner coastal service, sailed from Vancouver for Montreal, via the Panama canal, with a cargo of three and one-half million feet of lumber and one hundred and sixty tons of tea. The cargo was consigned to merchants on the Atlantic coast.

"In The Mother Tongue"

Being the Popular Report of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 1929, by the Rev. Edwin W. Smith, Literary Superintendent.

Few surveys of religious or philanthropic Societies maintain the high literary standard of the Popular Reports issued by the British and Foreign Bible Society. This year's Report entitled "In the Mother Tongue" is no exception to the rule. The idea behind the Report is the power of native speech in the deepest and highest human experiences, and is developed along the lines of Bible translation in the vernacular. Some six hundred and thirty translations out of a possible nine hundred stand to the credit of this great Society.

The Report abounds in apt literary quotations and the chapters are headed by quotations from poets as diverse as Milton, Tennyson, Dryden and J. W. Holme. The very titles of the chapters are suggestive: "Tongues of all the World," "Largess to Mankind," "Chapmen of the Word," "Finding the Saviour in the Mother Tongue." "Language of Gratitude."

Amongst the illustrations is a beautiful photograph of Saint John Harbour in New Brunswick which is one of the great immigration ports at which the Society distributes the Word to each incoming immigrant in required speech. There are references to Canada in the volume, and special mention is made of the new version of Rev. Dr. Rosser Hatch, one of the special immigration agents and a colporteur of proved value, not only at the seaports but in the numerous camps and wherever groups of workmen are found in Eastern Canada. Dr. Rosser is to be said habitually uses fifteen languages in his work amongst the immigrants and is said to speak twenty-three.

There is a most interesting story at one of a farmer in Saskatchewan of German origin who bought the Bible in his mother tongue, and having read it was influenced by its message "with all his heart." Immediately he dedicated three acres of his farm, the proceeds of which were to go to the Bible Society. Part of his gift was to supply the Scriptures in German to the people of his race and blood and the rest was given to the support of a colporteur in China. Such an instance — and there are many in the Report — only serves to remind us that the Word of God still exercises its power over the hearts of men and does influence them to a higher and nobler life.

We have pleasure indeed in commending this report to all who can [illegible] easy, and having read it and pondered over its message there will be few who can remain unconvinced of the great work already accomplished by the Bible Society and the great opportunities that await it in the coming days. In the preface the Rev. Edwin W. Smith, Literary Superintendent of the Bible Society, states that he has sought to present an account of the Bible Society's enterprise in a form that will be attractive and readable, and certainly he has succeeded in his endeavors

Alberta Rich In Varied Resources

A visit to the Peace River country and then to Turner Valley impresses one forcibly with the tremendous resources of Alberta, and leads one to believe that the future of the country is very bright, according to R. Lyall man, passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways visiting the province with a business trip through Alberta this month

Mr. Creelman was interviewing things Mr Creelman witnessed in the Peace River country was the extraordinary progress that has been made in farming by the farmers of that district The climate and conditions generally are ideal for raising turkeys and he saw large flocks of healthy, fine looking birds almost everywhere he went

They are a very optimistic people and they have the right spirit. They have an excellent grain crop and there is very little evidence of any business depression, as seen by Mr Creelman

FUNERAL OF VERMILION PIONEER AT VICTORIA

POWELL — Funeral services were held yesterday morning, Oct. 6th at 10:15 at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel for George Powell, who passed away in this city on September 24, Rev. E. W. D. Carter officiating in the presence of many friends. The casket was covered with beautiful floral offerings and the following acted as pallbearers: C. H. Wilson, J. W. Minette, W. Waterfield and A. Hansen. The remains were laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park. Mr. Powell was the first pioneer settler in the Vermilion district, and for nearly twenty years carried on cattle and horse ranching on a very large scale, and was a friend to all the newcomers in that district at that time.—Victoria Colonist

It will be noticed that all four of the pall-bearers are ex-residents of Vermilion.

High School Notes

Don't forget the High School Tea in George Capstoe' Cabaret on Saturday, Oct. 25th, from 3 to 5.30 p.m. Bring your friends, neighbors and yourselves

Vermilion High School held their first literary meeting in the High School assembly hall Friday last. A number of very interesting speeches were given by the Composition IV class. Mr. Topper and Mr. Addison were judges. At the conclusion of the programme Mr. Addison announced the decision in favor of John Zaparuniuk. first, Doris Irwin, second, Jenny Pluykowski, third. Next meeting the Composition II will hold their elimination contest

A boys' band has been started and by the sound of them after four they seem to be progressing in the right direction

Arthur Dobson from Peace River has been seen wandering about the high school. He brings our attendance up to 141

The thaw has made snow-balling just too easy for the boys, as a sum of the girls will tell you

Much jubilation was caused in the school when Mr Pillar invited six boys and staff to a free show on Wednesday Three cheers for Mr Pillar

Skating on the river has made quite a sensation in the school despite the fact that some of our students have already tested the temperature of the water

A very interesting event will be held in the high school assembly hall on Saturday, Nov 1st in the form of a Hallowe'en party with our own boys band playing

Mildred McKinnon of Clandonald who is attending Grade Nine here was successful in winning the Governor General's medal for the highest standing for Vermilion inspectorate in the Grade VIII departmental examinations

The High School trophies will be on view in George Capstoe' Cabaret Saturday, October 25th. Come and see them

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

Last Friday evening the First Company Guides had a jolly party at Mrs. Jonson's home After Guide business was over, they played games. We can't say who is the ping pong champion, as Nellie Brewett won the most games but Jenny Law defeated Nellie.

The Second Company are like so many busy bees, working on Tenderfoot and Second Class. Wednesday afternoon after the regular Second Company's meeting there was a court of honor meeting. We wonder what good things they are planning.

Trans-Canada Telephone Lines

All-Canadian System Will Be In Operation Next Year

Canadians will be able to phone from one extremity of the Dominion to the other over all-Canadian long-distance system by 1931 according to an announcement by Hon. J. F. Bryant, K.C., Minister of Telephones. In the past it has been necessary to route messages through the United States.

Work is proceeding rapidly with the construction of the special lines linking the trans-Canada system across Saskatchewan. All the telephone companies of the Dominion are assisting on the construction of the all-Canada system. Formerly it was necessary in telephoning from British Columbia to Eastern Canada for a message to pass through American lines.

Owing to congestion occurring in shorter distances, it was often necessary to route the call through United States lines. The new system, which is under construction, will eliminate this dependency upon the American systems. It will also assist in clearing up the congestion in the present lines. The system will not be fully completed until next year Hon. Mr. Bryant stated.

Canada's Population Growing

Great Impetus Given By Settlement Of Western Provinces

The census of 1865 of settlers of European origin in Canada was probably says Reuter's Ottawa correspondent the first enrolment of population since William the Conqueror listed the resources of his new subjects in the Domesday Book. It revealed that the white population of Canada was little more than three million souls.

Today it is estimated at slightly under ten millions. In the beginning of the nineteenth century it was approximately 260,000. At the time of the confederation of the original four colonies in the year 1867 the Dominion had a population of about 3,500,000 The settlement of the great agricultural areas which now comprises the three prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, gave a tremendous impetus at the beginning of the present century to the growth of Canada's population, which increased thirty-four per cent. in the first decade following 1900. British-born greatly predominated in the flood of settlers which laid the foundations of what is now the great wheat belt in Canada. The rest came from eastern Canada and from northern and central Europe In 1871 about three per cent. of the population of Canada lived west of the Great Lakes now approximately thirty per cent of the people in Canada live in the West

Cattle Shipped To Britain

First Shipment Of Cattle From Calgary Under New Ottawa Policy

The first shipment of cattle from Calgary to Great Britain under the policy inaugurated by Hon. Robert Weir Minister of Agriculture, was made the other day. The shipment, which amounted to 24 feeder steers, averaging 1 080 pounds, was made by the Alberta Co-operative Livestock Producers and was part of a larger consignment to be made up at Moosejaw The ultimate point of shipment was Manchester where carload lots of similar feeders have already been received and distributed to farmers and feeders in England to be finished there

Africa Has Gorilla Sanctuary

Wild gorillas are becoming so rare that steps are being taken to protect those still living in the wilds of Africa Accordingly, a gorilla sanctuary has been proclaimed in the southwest corner of Uganda, in the neighborhood of the Sabinio Mountains and close to the Belgian Congo border Gorillas do not long survive captivity, and few living specimens are found in zoological gardens.

Kansas Taxi Driver Had Lord Bryce

But Told Him He Did Not Think Much Of Physicians

Lord Dawson, of Penn, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., physician in ordinary to His Majesty the King of England, and to the Prince of Wales, found out what a Kansas City taxi cab driver thinks about doctors as a group.

Arriving at Union Station, Lord Dawson hurried to a taxi stand and told Driver Jack Sanford he wanted to be shown the city—all in 15 minutes Sanford did his best.

He showed the baron the million dollar Liberty Memorial, saying that there were people who "didn't think it was so hot." He told Lord Dawson how many workers had fallen from the scaffolding. Finding itself under construction. Driving past the theatres he explained about the movies and plays; he told about the turtle race to be held in Convention Hall.

Passing the new Professional Building Sanford informed the Englishman he didn't think much of physicians and that they have given him nothing but grief. He admitted, however, they were good persons to have around when a man was sick

And so back to the Union Station in time for the train to the west coast

So he's an English high muckymuck, Lloyd Grover Sanford to a reporter later. "Well, he's a swell guy, anyway. He tipped me 50 cents."

Best Ration For Pullets

While Variety Of Materials Make It Well Balanced

A definite plan of feeding is necessary to insure best results from layers, the poultry experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture advise The well balanced ration includes such grains, mash, green feed grit, shell, certain supplementary vitamine feeds, and plenty of fresh clean water There are, however, a wide variety of materials which go to make up this ration Home grown or suitable formulae is recommended Wheat, oats and corn should every go into the making of a good mash Fifteen per cent. of animal feeds, one per cent. of salt, and five per cent. of charcoal or shell should be mixed in. Grit and oyster shell should be available in hoppers at all times. Alfalfa, clover, or cabbage make excellent green feeds, and where these are not available alfalfa leaf meal may be used. Raw potatoes, field carrots and mangels make succulent supplementary feeds. The feeding of cod liver oil supplies the vitamine which prevents rickets.

Fruit Crops Figures Revised

Shortage Of 1929 Crop Is Less Than Apples Then Last Year

The September survey of conditions throughout Canada in the fruit industry by the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture shows the apple crop to be 75.5 per cent of 1928, and 300,000, barrels below the five year average. Nova Scotia, Ontario, Quebec, and New Brunswick are all considerably "off" Production prospects this year, but British Columbia expects some 260,000 barrels more than last year and a million and a half barrels more than her five year average. Weather conditions generally have not been entirely favorable and the general lack of rainfall has retarded growth, at the same time orchard pests have been kept in check and there has been no serious outbreak of apple scab. The pear crop is substantially ahead of last year and the peach crop while lighter than expected will be well ahead of 1928. Plums and prunes in Ontario show a slight increase while the British Columbia production is down by 2 per cent Grapes will be about the same as last year.

How To Find Happiness

Forget You Are Trying Says Eminent Viennese Psychologist

Man dominates nature, but finds no more happiness despite his power. That is the finding of Dr. Raymond Fryad, eminent Viennese psychologist.

The anomaly is that, while striving for conquest brings happiness, the conquest itself does not For the pursuit proves to be merely a starting place for more striving. Again, those who set out to seek happiness seldom find it.

How to be happy, then? Here is one suggestion To be happy, forget that you are trying to be happy.

Perhaps that sounds involved. Or, on the other hand, so simple as to be absurd Anyway, those who have tried it—or rather, those who have not—say it works. Vancouver Sun.

"No two people think alike," says a psychologist. He evidently hasn't had any experience at wedding-presents.

The Queen's Telegram

British Red Cross Received Congratulations On Occasion Of Diamond Jubilee

An interesting paragraph in the "Times" of London, England, reads that Her Majesty the Queen sent a telegram of congratulations to the British Red Cross Society on the occasion of the Society's Diamond Jubilee.

The Queen is President of the Red Cross in Britain, while His Royal Highness, the Duke of York, is the Chairman of the Council.

The Queen's message read in part: "I appreciate more than I can say the wonderful results achieved by the Red Cross Society. I wish all success to the members in their future efforts for the alleviation of suffering and distress."

The Duke of York's greeting was warm in its terms and concluded with the words: "I am proud to be the Chairman of the Red Cross and I am confident that the Society, which holds so fine a record of service to humanity, will ever continue to uphold the high traditions of the past sixty years."

It was the experiences of the Crimea, repeated later in Lombardy in the Italian war, of the unofficial corps of the army medical services of that day, that the Red Cross owes its birth

No definite action was taken in Britain until the year of the Franco-Prussian war, when there arose a strong desire to help the wounded of both sides. A letter appeared in The London Times, suggesting the formation of proper committees to deal with these contributions, and calling attention to Britain's part in the Geneva Convention. Soon there began a great and enthusiastic work, with the Prince of Wales as Chairman, and branches of the Red Cross were formed up and down the country as aids to the sick and wounded in war.

This modest beginning resulted in a magnificent and powerful organization, which in the period of 1916-1919 contributed in a marvellous manner to the sacred work of healing and nursing the wounded.

So valuable was the Red Cross that in 1919 the League of Nations encouraged the continuance in Peace-times, having as its purpose the alleviation of suffering, the prevention of disease, and the improvement of the world's health.

Painting By Periscope

Miss Dorothy Koch, an amateur artist, is making a tour of the world for the purpose of painting pictures of every kind of marine life. By using a large upside down periscope, which projects far down into the water, she has secured views of undersea vegetation and fish. In Cyprus recently she obtained a number of unusual pictures of tropical fairy swimmers.

Wheat Market Depression

Thinks Cheap Wheat May Continue For a Few Years

Cheap wheat may continue for a few years, as a result of a possible huge exportable wheat surplus in Russia, but this is no reason why wheat farming should not be carried on a sound basis, states Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The present depression in the wheat market was not unexpected, Sir John said. Reports from German bankers, who are in close touch with the Russian agricultural situation, forecast huge Russian crops for some time.

"Before the war, Russia had a tremendously large wheat production, frequently having a surplus of 250,-000,000 bushels to export. It is the opinion of some that Russia will at least reach its pre-war production again, with the resultant surplus for export, and very probably exceed the former surplus for export business, particularly as the Soviet will take almost any steps and sacrifice anything to obtain cash for development purposes and to purchase goods in other countries"

Sir John was inclined to be cautious regarding hopes for growth of the Canadian wheat export to Britain.

"As regards the Chinese wheat situation, many think that it would not be wise to depend on this business growing rapidly, as Russia has the cheap, low-grade land, such as is wanted in Oriental countries, whereas, Canada's wheat is the highest type in the world," he said.

Using More Wheat

Report Shows Increase In Consumption By Tropical Countries

A report issued by the Food Research Institute of Stanford University, California, shows a strong tendency towards increased wheat consumption in the tropical and sub-tropical countries. The survey covers the years from 1909 to 1927, and reveals that in this period the consumption of wheat flour in excess of the growth of population; the years from 1909 to 1913 showing an annual increase per capita use of 11.36 pounds of flour while the period from 1923 to 1927 shows a rise of 13.67 per cent.

How He Escaped

She was not out over forty, but she was still a flapper. She had conversed a young man at a bridge party.

"Oh, no," he replied blandly. "That was my father."

Honor Changes Create Confusion

Trade Authorities Wrong Addresses Or Business Lookup Wrongly Addressed Are Undelivered

The incorrect use of place names having several spellings may affect trade, according to Helen Strong, geographer in the U.S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. She reports that a committee of the United States Geographic Board which recently decided on the procedure in the usage of foreign names disclosed a great need for uniformity. Cities of new nations at the close of the world war changed geographic names in many parts of the world; this is especially commonly known. Transfer of territory from one sovereignty to another almost invariably makes maps obsolete. Thus in Poland are the German city of Lemberg became the Polish Lewow. Adoption of the Latin alphabet by Turkey has thrown older spellers into despair. The city of Smyrna, famed for its figs, is now Izmir; Adrianople has become Edirne.

Trade may be affected when shipments or business letters wrongly addressed or marked. Important and valuable freight may be lost en route or spoiled, if perishable, when delivery is delayed. There is also national consciousness to be reckoned with. The capital of Poland is commonly called by American and European non-Swedish name; the Finnish name, which naturally is preferred by Finnish merchants, is frequently ignored. Departments of experienced exporters will keep fast pace of error, as most of them doubtless now use the spelling of place names supplied by their representatives abroad. Just as a man resents errors in the use of his name nations are sensitive to deviation from the place names they accept.

Buying Food From West

Shipments To Maritimes May Reach Fairly Large Proportions

Possibly the first of food from the prairies may be purchased in the Maritimes, according to estimates made here. Several thousand bushels of 25 carloads have reached Moncton, N.B. The Wheat Pool has established a representative in the province in the expectation that the movement may reach fairly large proportions. Cheap food will enable Maritime farmers to increase dairy production, it is believed.

Big Ex-ater Lifts Steamboats

Nearing completion at Neiderbrow, Germany, is what is said to be the greatest ship elevator in the world. It is designed to lift boat thousand-ton boats 118 feet in five minutes This giant lift will replace a series of locks in the ship canal that links Berlin with the Port of Stettin and the Baltic Sea. It formerly took ships two hours to make the 118-foot ascent in the series of locks.

Round The World By Radio

Sunday afternoon, October 5th at 5.15, radio history was made by the inauguration of a series of programme broadcast simultaneously over Canadian and United States networks. For the first time the service is being to be addressed to the radio listeners of territories covering a population of 75,000,000, and was the joint of the Crusaders, an aggregation of artistes who will make a radio cruise round the world, sponsored by the Canadian Pacific. the series will follow the fortunes of Julia Petrie and Major Kemp who are making the round the world cruise of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia" in company with Julia's parents and Professor Calhoun, Julia's singing master. Amid the reproduction of the authentic sounds of shipboard life, the outshing of the waves, street scenes of the various ports visited by the liner and the music of foreign lands the party will trace out the route to be followed by the "Empress of Australia" when she leaves New York next December on the eighth annual world cruise by the Canadian Pacific.

The programme will originate each Sunday afternoon in the United States Hotel studios of the Canadian Pacific at Toronto and will be broadcast in Canada by stations from Quebec to Vancouver linked together by the broadcast transmission system of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs. In the United States the eastern network of the National Broadcasting Company with WJZ as the American key station, will carry the programme.

In the picture the Crusaders are shown all ready to start on their cruise of the air with Alfred Swenson easily recognizable as Professor Calhoun to make the monopoly of the rest of the cast.

Beothic Returns From Arctic

Government Vessels Arrives Safely After Completing Cruise Of Northern Waters

The health of the native population of the Canadian Arctic archipelago is, generally, very good this year, and they have benefited materially from a satisfactory fur catch and seal hunting, said George P. MacKenzie, head of the Department of the Interior's annual northern exposition, when the supply ship "Beothic" arrived here from Arctic waters recently.

The "Beothic," completing her fifth successive trip to the north, docked after a 9,00-mile cruise, in the course of which all the major purposes of the expedition were achieved. Supplies were delivered to various government officers in the Arctic and changes in personnel effected.

Members of the expedition making the round trip were the commander, Mr. MacKenzie, Inspector A. H. Joy, R.C.M.P., J. P. Richards (secretary), Messrs. Harris and Jackson, Eskimo artists, and Dr. P. Hudechker of Washington University. A party of University of Michigan scientists were left at Ogoonoo, Greenland, whence they will travel to Upper Greenland to make meteorological observations. Dr. Pyvald, Danish scientist in charge of the government station, was also left at Ogoahaven. Captain E. Falk was master of the "Beothic," with Captain L. D. Morin as ice pilot.

Navigation south of 73 north latitude was especially favorable as far as ice conditions were concerned. North of that latitude conditions were distinctly unfavorable. Near the vicinity of Etah the ice was packed firmly against the Greenland shore, and it was impossible to follow the usual route to Etah before crossing to Smith Sound. The ship worked through the ice to Buchanan Bay, and while it was impossible to reach the Greenland settlement, supplies were left within easy hauling distance and changes in personnel were effected.

A severe storm was encountered near Cornwallis Island. Rigging was blocked at Austin Chappel, and for nearly a week the ship was fast in the ice. Other difficulties were overcome by the use of dynamite.

Ice conditions on the return journey through Lancaster Sound were unusually favorable as far as Lancaster Sound, where the ship was fast in the ice for nearly a week. Other difficulties were overcome by the use of dynamite.

The ship being north of the magnetic pole compasses were useless Gyroscope and log have been added to the hazardous conditions, and delayed the ship until Navy Board Intelligence was reached. The post at Ponds Inlet was reached August 29.

Here was taken on board Dr. Smith, a health officer for Baffin Island, who made his patrol among the natives from Pangnirtung, returning to Ponds Inlet on the "Beothic" This stage of the voyage was uneventful. Material was landed for the construction of a hospital by the Anglican mission. At Lake Harbor lumber for a department building was transferred to the Mounted Police department representative. The expedition's commander had high praise for Mrs. Soper and her work during an epidemic among the Indians

Sorry She Asked

They were visiting friends one evening. Presently their 3-year-old son became restless. The hostess noticing this, gave him a soft rubber ball to play with. During the course of his play the ball rolled under the davenport, and the little fellow crawled in after it. Presently the hostess asked him if he saw the ball. He replied: "No! I don't see anything but dirt."

DISTRICT COURT SITTINGS

Two interesting cases were tried here last week before Judge Green of the Medicine Hat district. The first that of Wilbur Range school district against Ballas (father, wife and son) was one of damages for filling a well. John Ballas, the son, purchased a quarter section of school land from the government. The father is paying for it. The school district were desirous of securing two acres for additional ground. Ballas and the district could not agree on a price and the matter was referred by the trustees to the Department of Education. In November last the minister secured an order from the court vesting three two acres in the name of the school district. The district last spring borrowed $75 and purchased water to Otiawa and received in due course a receipt dated the 27th day of May. The district now claimed out of the order of the court. On May 30th the trustees ordered a well dug on the plot in question. Water was encountered and eventually put the drillers to cease drilling. The secretary informed him that the district claimed the two acres and Ballas wanted them to show him the papers. He said he would fill the well. On the 28th of May Ballas carried out his threat and filled the well with straw and manure. Two of the trustees had stated to him the two acres belonged to the district and each time he claimed the land belonged to him. About two weeks after Ballas was served by the attorney general's department that the land belonged to the district and he must, not interfere with it. Ballas had been preparing to plow it. About the same time John DeNas got a letter from Ottawa stating that the land had been deducted from the quarter section. He also got a copy of the judge's order, then a letter from the school district and finally a statement of claim for damages, all after the well had been filled. It developed at the trial that John Ballas, to whose name the land appears and who figured in the judge's order and all the departmental correspondence was an infant. It was admitted that there had been no notice in writing to the defendant, no arbitration as to price of land nor even expropriation and learned counsel for the defendant claimed that the regulations of the land was confounction and that from an infant The plaintiffs claimed that Ballas had notice that the land belonged to the school board, whereas the defence contended that the district could not be the owners nor be in possession until the 27th of May, and in any event no notice in writing had ever been served on the actual owner of the land. Decision was reserved. F. J. Richardson for plaintiffs and J.W.G. Morrison, K.C. for defendants.

The other case was that of Kimbel-is against Connon, an action over a promissory note. Connon claimed that in May last he met the plaintiff and told him he would have to settle or take a good boating, and that Kin shella compensated for $130.00. A receipt covering the alleged transaction was produced. Kinshella denied that he saw Connon on that day or that he ever got the money, but admitted his signature to the receipt The judge commented he would reserve decision to see if he could not find out which party was lying. V. U. Miner for plaintiff and F. J. Richardson for defendant.

Other cases tried were: Pawlish vs. Tetsch, an action on a debt. Dismissed, Richardson for plaintiff, Morrison for defendant; Fuhr vs Steimarcuk, action over cost of digging well. Judgment for plaintiff, James for the plaintiff, Morrison for defendant, Edmonton Credit Co. vs Ewing et al; judgment admitted Duncan for the plaintiffs, Morrison for defendants.

Two or three other cases were put over until next sitting.

HIGH SCORES AT THE NORTHERN BOWLING HALL

Valuable Silverware To Be Given Away

High scores at the Northern Bowling were scarce this week, nothing worthy of mention being done in ten pin bowling. The league ended a 4/1 to open five pins while Jack Baddock made 286, Mrs. Mackenzie scored 198 playing line pin the ladies' match. From now on two alleys only will be reserved for ladies on Wednesday ove ings. Phone reservations remaining the same.

The proprietor has on display a silver cup which will be awarded. It will be given for the highest total score made in three consecutive games of five pin bowling. The cup will be open until Dec. 22rd, the prize being awarded on the 24th. Jack Baddock is leading the race for this at present with a mark of 726 to his credit.

The C. N. R have formed a league of three teams and expect to play their first game on Tuesday night.

Sir,—Under the caption "Anniversary Services" in your issue of the 16, you state that "five years ago the United Methodist and Presbyterian congregations, in conjunction with the parent bodies, entered the United Church of Canada." This is incorrect The Presbyterian Church as a parent body never did enter the United Church of Canada. Had it done so it would have required to exist, as the Methodist church did at that time. The Parliament of Canada admitted the importance in this respect and the Privy Council only recently emphasized the existence of the church The reason is quite obvious

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT

"Sound economics demand that the dairy industry maintain only cows which produce efficiently and economically The consumer has the right to expect that the industry will increase its productive efficiency."

These are the words of Dr. O. E. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Dairy herd improvement associations enable the dairyman to know exactly what each cow in his herd is producing, and what that production is costing him over the year. They enable him to get rid of his low producers, in feed the rest according to their capacity for economical production, and to breed to further increase the average of production. The association is the two-fold purpose of the improvement of cows, and the proving of bulls.

Here is the time, when dairy products are low, for the dairyman to get rid of his unprofitable cows. With lower grain prices he can get them ready for the block by a few months feeding, and thus get a good return for his grain.

Herd improvement work is making excellent progress in Canada as herd improvement associations are doing good work in every province. In Saskatchewan there has been a nice increase in butter-fat production per cow during the past few years. In 1928 the average of the cows entered in dairy tests was 250 the butter fat per cow. In British Columbia where cow-testing work has been longer in it urtee the average for 1929 was 3... lbs.

Imirymen, it is good business to enter your herd in a cow-testing association!

"A French-Canadian Wedding in 1830"

A hundred years ago when our great-great-grandfathers and great-mothers were marrying and giving in marriage, the French-Canadians made the occasion one of the most colorful and joyous in their lives. Reconstruction of such a wedding with the utmost fidelity to costume and customs has been done by Alexandre Bourgeois, Montreal newspaperman and versus writer, who has written a sketch with the above title for the Quebec Festival to be held at the Chateau Frontenac, October 16-18. Musical settings will be by Conor O'Brien, Montreal composer and song writer.

One of the old customs was the arrival of uninvited guests, attracted by the good cheer and general gaiety, who paid their rent with songs and dances. These will be represented in the sketch by Lionel Daunais, Miville Bellens, Emile Boucher and Fortunat Champagne, of the Bytown Troubadours. who will keep things moving with true French-Canadian verve, singing in all 15 old wedding songs harmonized by Mr. O'Brien. There will be choruses of men and women's voices, a quartette of young girls, fiddlers and folk dancers.

DISTRICT COURT SITTINGS

Two interesting cases were tried here last week before Judge Green of the Medicine Hat district. The first that of Wilbur Range school district against Ballas (father, wife and son) was one of damages for filling a well. John Ballas, the son, purchased a quarter section of school land from the government. The father is paying for it. The school district were desirous of securing two acres for additional ground. Ballas and the district could not agree on a price and the matter was referred by the trustees to the Department of Education. In November last the minister secured an order from the court vesting three two acres in the name of the school district. The district last spring borrowed $75 and purchased water to Otiawa and received in due course a receipt dated the 27th day of May. The district now claimed out of the order of the court. On May 30th the trustees ordered a well dug on the plot in question. Water was encountered and eventually put the drillers to cease drilling. The secretary informed him that the district claimed the two acres and Ballas wanted them to show him the papers. He said he would fill the well. On the 28th of May Ballas carried out his threat and filled the well with straw and manure. Two of the trustees had stated to him the two acres belonged to the district and each time he claimed the land belonged to him. About two weeks after Ballas was served by the attorney general's department that the land belonged to the district and he must not interfere with it. Ballas had been preparing to plow it. About the same time John DeNas got a letter from Ottawa stating that the land had been deducted from the quarter section. He also got a copy of the judge's order, then a letter from the school district and finally a statement of claim for damages, all after the well had been filled. It developed at the trial that John Ballas, to whose name the land appears and who figured in the judge's order and all the departmental correspondence was an infant. It was admitted that there had been no notice in writing to the defendant, no arbitration as to price of land nor even expropriation and learned counsel for the defendant claimed that the regulations of the land was confounction and that from an infant The plaintiffs claimed that Ballas had notice that the land belonged to the school board, whereas the defence contended that the district could not be the owners nor be in possession until the 27th of May, and in any event no notice in writing had ever been served on the actual owner of the land. Decision was reserved. F. J. Richardson for plaintiffs and J.W.G. Morrison, K.C. for defendants.

The other case was that of Kimbel-is against Connon, an action over a promissory note. Connon claimed that in May last he met the plaintiff and told him he would have to settle or take a good boating, and that Kin shella compensated for $130.00. A receipt covering the alleged transaction was produced. Kinshella denied that he saw Connon on that day or that he ever got the money, but admitted his signature to the receipt The judge commented he would reserve decision to see if he could not find out which party was lying. V. U. Miner for plaintiff and F. J. Richardson for defendant.

Other cases tried were: Pawlish vs. Tetsch, an action on a debt. Dismissed, Richardson for plaintiff, Morrison for defendant; Fuhr vs Steimarcuk, action over cost of digging well. Judgment for plaintiff, James for the plaintiff, Morrison for defendants. Edmonton Credit Co. vs Ewing et al; judgment admitted Duncan for the plaintiffs, Morrison for defendants.

Two or three other cases were put over until next sitting.

HIGH SCORES AT THE NORTHERN BOWLING HALL

Valuable Silverware To Be Given Away

High scores at the Northern Bowling were scarce this week, nothing worthy of mention being done in ten pin bowling. The league ended a 4/1 to open five pins while Jack Baddock made 286, Mrs. Mackenzie scored 198 playing line pin the ladies' match. From now on two alleys only will be reserved for ladies on Wednesday ove ings. Phone reservations remaining the same.

The proprietor has on display a silver cup which will be awarded. It will be given for the highest total score made in three consecutive games of five pin bowling. The cup will be open until Dec. 22rd, the prize being awarded on the 24th. Jack Baddock is leading the race for this at present with a mark of 726 to his credit.

The C. N. R have formed a league of three teams and expect to play their first game on Tuesday night.

Vermilion, October 20th
Editor the Standard.

Sir,—Under the caption "Anniversary Services" in your issue of the 16, you state that "five years ago the United Methodist and Presbyterian congregations, in conjunction with the parent bodies, entered the United Church of Canada." This is incorrect The Presbyterian Church as a parent body never did enter the United Church of Canada. Had it done so it would have required to exist, as the Methodist church did at that time. The Parliament of Canada admitted the importance in this respect and the Privy Council only recently emphasized the existence of the church The reason is quite obvious

Our National Parks

On May 9th of this present year a bill to be known as the National Park Act passed the house of commons. It was shortly afterwards read [illegible] senate and received the royal assent.

By the provisions of this act the National Parks branch, Department of the Interior, is created and the duties of the commissioner of Dominion Parks are defined. Provision is made for the establishment of national parks and for the withdrawal from settlement, sale or occupation of lands required for park purposes. Authority is given to the governor in council to grant leases for terms not exceeding twenty-one years of portions of national parks for the development of hydro-electric power, for the construction of railways, roads, trails, telephone lines, buildings and other works necessary for the development of the parks and the comfort and convenience of visitors. Provision is made for the granting of leases for terms not exceeding twenty-one years of portions of national parks for the development of hydro-electric power, for the construction of railways, roads, trails, telephone lines, buildings and other works necessary for the development of the parks and the comfort and convenience of visitors. Provision is made for the granting of leases for terms not exceeding twenty-one years of portions of national parks for the development of hydro-electric power, for the construction of railways, roads, trails, telephone lines, buildings and other works necessary for the development of the parks and the comfort and convenience of visitors.

The act also provides for the protection of game and fish in the parks and for the establishment of game preserves therein. Provision is made for the granting of licenses to hunt and fish in the parks and for the appointment of game guardians. Penalties are provided for the violation of the provisions of the act and of the regulations made thereunder.

The act is the result of a movement which has been in progress for several years. Its purpose is to preserve for the people of Canada, as a national heritage, areas of outstanding scenic beauty and of great interest and value because of their natural features. The act is in line with the policy which has been followed in the establishment of national parks in the United States, Australia and other countries.

The Canadian national parks are situated in the mountain regions of the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. They include the Rocky Mountains park, the Kootenay park, the Yoho park, the Glacier park, the Mount Revelstoke park, the Waterton Lakes park and the Buffalo park. The Rocky Mountains park, which is the largest of the national parks, has an area of 5,300 square miles. It contains the famous Lake Louise and Banff districts. The Kootenay park has an area of 587 square miles. It contains the Vermilion Lakes district. The Yoho park has an area of 1,000 square miles. It contains the Yoho valley district. The Glacier park has an area of 521 square miles. It contains the Glacier district. The Mount Revelstoke park has an area of 100 square miles. It contains the Mount Revelstoke district. The Waterton Lakes park has an area of 50 square miles. It contains the Waterton Lakes district. The Buffalo park has an area of 10 square miles. It contains the Buffalo district.

Seek Lower Rate On Cattle Shipments

Negotiation For Decrease In Transportation Charges On Reports to Ottawa

Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, is in negotiation with the Atlantic shipping companies and the railways in an effort to obtain a decrease in the transportation charges on cattle exported to Great Britain, which will open up this market to large scale shipments from western Canada.

The negotiations have not proceeded far enough to warrant any forecast of results. Mr. Weir, however, has got to the point where he will, on advocating an entirely new policy, endeavoring to change the whole basis upon which rates have been imposed in the past.

In regard to the ocean rate, Mr. Weir is endeavoring to have the whole rate basis changed. He wants shipping companies to quote rates on the one instead of by the head. Such an arrangement would give shippers advantages in shipping as much of each one weighed as definite decision in this regard will be reached before long.

For Underwater Safety

Invention Ensures Escape From Submarines At Great Depth

R. H. Davis has perfected an invention which will enable people from submarines far under the sea. The invention consists of a breathing helmet which is supplied with air by a small cylinder of oxygen fixed below it. Potassium carbonate acid gas of the breather is absorbed by the contents of a cartridge of soda lime. A special suit containing the breathing apparatus is worn by a man in water. Under the water it has been tested at a great depth.

Keep Highway Open in Winter

No. 1 Highway Between Winnipeg and Brandon May Be Open For Winter Traffic

No. 1 highway between Winnipeg and Brandon may be kept open all winter for auto traffic if it stands the test. To combat the heavy snowfalls that closed the highway early in 1929-30 the motor vehicles department will probably use two large snow plows of new design, with one of the units stationed at the western end of the high way here and the other working west from Winnipeg. Should the task of keeping the highway open be a success, there is every probability of the Minnedosa-Brandon-Roosevelt route being kept open too.

For some years now there has been an effort to secure snow-fighting units that would keep the road dry on the highways. The Retail Merchants' Association and the Board of Trade cooperated for two winters in a work that kept roads into Brandon from neighboring districts open. Since then the department has been approached to establish a more permanent force for winter road maintenance and plans have been drawn up this route will get first attention in the new scheme for all-year-round traffic.

Set On Top Of World

Fur Canadian Red Tide Reporter During Eclipse Of Moon

Men who literally sat on top of the world for a moment are described by Dr. Willard J. Fisher, of Harvard Observatory in a report just published on the 1927 moon's eclipse.

These men were a far-flung line of fur traders, trappers, missionaries and hunters in Northern Canada, and at the moment of total eclipse their shadows were exactly on top of the round, black shadow of the earth as it slipped over the face of the moon, 240,000 miles distant.

A 100-inch telescope might have shown there the rough outline of the hills around them cast in the upper edge of the shadow on the moon.

Astronomers wanted to know just how much sunlight passed over this top edge of the world horizontally through the earth's surface atmosphere. To figure this they needed weather, cloud and haze conditions along this rim. George A. Wendt, of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, established the KDKA short wave broadcast to reach the men on the "rim" by radio.

They were advised two months in advance what the astronomers wanted. Radio was the only way to reach them. Months after the eclipse Dr. Fisher received the report, and now after long computations, their astronomer's value has proved up. They show that clouds shut out light horizontally across this top of the world to a height of 2,000 meters, more than a third of a mile This cloudy layer was almost as opaque as solid earth, and had four breaks

Commends Development In Transportation

Letter To Canada Amazed At Railway Facilities In Dominion

Delighted with what he has already seen of Canada and expressing amazement at the developments which have taken place in transportation facilities in the Dominion, Gordon B. Roelph of "The Examiner" and the "Weekly Courier" of Launceston, Tasmania, left Montreal on "The International Limited" of the Canadian National Railways for Toronto, en route to Vancouver to sail for home.

Radio and telephone connections to and from moving trains were an amazing development to him, Mr. Roelph stated, while the speed of "The International Limited," six hours for the 334 miles journey between Montreal and Toronto, was one at which he had never anticipated travelling over such a distance on any Canadian railway.

CONFERENCE AT LONDON STUDIES WHEAT QUESTION

Free Consideration Of Subject Expected During Meeting

London, England.—With the reply of the British Government to the preference proposals of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, expected soon, the heads of the Imperial Conference settled down to consideration of wheat and other Empire foodstuffs.

The expedients of bulk purchase of wheat and of import boards were considered in a general way and the whole subject was referred to the economic committee, under the president of the board of trade, for consideration.

"It was not just a question of establishing import boards which would lay in the cheapest market as for instance, purchasing Russian wheat," said one British official recently, "to the consumer that is not enough. "If there is a lower form of human life than the Canadian politician I do not know it," exclaimed a third. "I know Canada, I have met politicians and farmers, and they are downright honest. The only thing is to boycott goods."

Lady Simon Says Liberia Commission Report Will Reveal Abuses

London, England. Lady Simon, wife of Sir John Simon, recently appointed to the forthcoming report on the commission of inquiry into Liberia would show that natives had been shipped overseas from the African coast "under conditions scarcely distinguishable from slave trading and slave raiding."

Lady Simon, addressing the meeting of the League of Women's Liberal Association, said that these and other abuses had been committed by the private agents of Liberia-American negro stock, including those in highest authority.

She contended that there should upon the United States Government and to some extent upon the British and French governments responsible for coming to the aid of the Liberian Government to heal sickness in the part of the system under which abuses exist.

N. Z. Butter Exporters

Are Anxious To Know If New Duty Is In Effect

Vancouver, B.C.—Cables from New Zealand ask if the latter exporters there are eager to know if the new rates on butter for the United Kingdom have come into effect, due to the fact that information received from London indicated that the old rate would remain until negotiations between Premier Bennett and Premier Lyons, now in London, had proceeded further.

It was ascertained from the office of the collector of customs here, however that the new rates of 8 cents preferential rate are now operative "So far we have not received any official, the old rates expired on October 12, when the extension of Imperial preference was effected," reminded the new rates becoming immediately effective thereafter

BENNETT SUBMITS PLAN FOR EMPIRE CO-OPERATION

Preference Proposals Are Considered By Imperial Conference

London, England.—In this opportunity for closer economic relations has not ceased it may not come again," said Mr. Bennett. "In the near future it will either be accepted or rejected. We can only await the decision. It will be a momentous one, for I believe and believing, I consider it my duty to say, that if this opportunity for closer economic relations is not seized it may not come again.

"Then I would be left powerless," continued the Canadian prime minister, "in so far as is intended as a threat. It is rather a prediction that will happily, I believe to be true. For we must all have regard for the basic changes in the conditions of world trade and realize that in this age of great industrialization and fierce competition it is the only way in which we may continue to promote the prosperity of the Empire as a whole We would as an initial step safeguard our home markets, reduce to a minimum unemployment We would then sell to the foreign markets the excess of our products over home consumption By increasing the Empire market for our goods we would not, in my opinion, in any way decrease the foreign market, for such mutual competition is closely related to the question of production, and increasing prosperity, the greater the production the greater is the cost of products e

Adolphe Hitler, head of the Fascist party in Germany, which made sensational gains in recent elections, against whose charges of high treason he is being instituted, according to a dispatch

nothing but your acknowledgement of this preference in return, I fear it could not long continue

"But if there is an agreement inspired by sentiment and buttressed by definite and lasting and mutual advantages, then it will not fail, for it will be our common wish and for the benefit of each and all to support and sustain it. Under that agreement each of us will be working primarily and properly in the interest of our respective countries, and that is the only way in which we may continue to promote the prosperity of the Empire as a whole We would as an initial step safeguard our home markets, reduce to a minimum unemployment We would then sell to the foreign markets the excess of our products over home consumption By increasing the Empire market for our goods we would not, in my opinion, in any way decrease the foreign market, for such mutual competition is closely related to the question of production, and increasing prosperity, the greater the production the greater is the cost of products e

A BILLION FAT FOLKS CAN'T BE WRONG

And that's a low estimate of the number taking Kruschen to keep down superfluous fat.

When you take vivifying Kruschen Salts for a few days that sad outlook man's chub feeling diverts you — it doesn't matter how fat you are — there's no "slipping" lively.

And least of all was like this activity —you walk a couple of miles and more —for you thought you'd never dance again, but you find you're getting as spry as ever — the old tingling, active feeling reaches even your feet.

Kruschen is a combination of the six salts Nature has already got using your body to keep you alive if it were not for these vital salts you could not live.

Use bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel younger — years younger — and you'll enjoy life every morsels of it.

A half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning is all you need to keep healthy; keep your stomach, bowels and kidneys in splendid condition — free your system from harmful bodies and outfit.

Relief Activities

Hon. Howard McConnell Reviews Relief Work in Southeastern Drought Areas

Details of relief activities in the dried-out areas of Southeastern Saskatchewan undertaken by the Provincial Government and by the municipalities adjacent, with governmental aid, are given in a statement issued for publication by Hon. Howard McConnell, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Municipal Affairs in the Saskatchewan Government. Text of the statement follows:

"In connection with relief given to farmers in the dried-out areas of our province last year, the Provincial Government distributed $919,000. This was made up as follows:

1.— Freight paid by province on fodder shipped in such areas $450,000
Relief roads built by province in such areas $260,000
Relief provided by Government for seed, fuel and fodder together with seed grain in Local Improvement Districts in such areas $119,000

Total $919,000

"The rural municipalities in such areas contributed $1,964,000 for the relief of farmers in such areas, particulars of which are as follows:

1.— Sums advanced by municipalities to farmers within their boundaries for relief purposes to purchase flour, fuel and fodder $1,750,000
2.— Sums advanced by municipalities to farmers resident within their borders for seed grain ..... $ 204,000

Total $1,954,000

"Urban municipalities received from the Government for unemployment relief, $50,000. The Provincial Government guaranteed the repayment to the banks of all loans made by such banks to such municipalities to enable them to dispense such relief.

"This year again, the major portion of the municipalities suffering drought last year, are again experiencing adverse conditions. The position of a great many of the people residing in such areas is serious. To enable the farmers in those areas this coming fall and winter, the Government is spending approximately $1,000,000 in relief road camps, between forty and fifty such camps having been already established. Further, to assist many municipalities, the Government is advancing this year, next year's municipal road grants. In some municipalities where the situation requires more than ordinary attention, but where road camps were not established, the Government is contributing to such municipalities an extra grant. The Government appreciates that such road camps do not completely solve the situation in those municipalities, but they do permit the residents in these areas to receive $1,500,000 on account of such work being carried out instead of continued until freeze-up. On account of adverse conditions, the Government is not asking for any contributions from such municipalities toward such road work.

"Further, to assist the farmers of these dried-out areas, the Government is again this year, paying one-half of the freight on all hay and fodder shipped into these areas by the railways, the railways paying the other half of the freight. The portion of such freight chargeable to the Government this year, will approximate $600,000.

"Requests have been made on behalf of a great many of the municipalities in the dried-out areas that the Government, with the assistance of the railways, supply coal free of all freight charges, to the residents of such dried-out areas. The Government approached the railways with a request that the railways absorb one-half of all the freight charges on Saskatchewan-mined coal shipped to the dried-out areas for relief purposes, agreeing to pay the other half of such freight. The railways, however, were unable to agree to this proposal The Government has decided, therefore to assume one half of all freight charges on coal mined in Saskatchewan and shipped to the rural municipalities in the dried-out areas, on their order, for relief purposes in such rural municipalities, this policy to take effect immediately.

"The expenditure incurred and to be incurred by the Government this year in granting relief to the residents of the dried-out areas, will approximate $2,500,000. The Government is receiving from the Federal Treasury the sum of $500,000 for relief purposes in the dried-out areas. This $500,000, it will be seen, will only take care of a small portion of the money which the Government has spent this fall and is spending for such relief in such areas.

"The Federal Government is further assisting Saskatchewan in the matter of unemployment by a further contribution of $1,000,000 to be used in assisting to pay for certain public works to take care of unemployment in the municipalities of this province. For every dollar that the Federal Government contributes, the Provincial Government must contribute one dollar and the municipality receiving assistance must pay two dollars. In other words, if the contribution of $1,000,000 from the Federal Government is spent, then the total amount that the Provincial Government must contribute will be $1,000,000, while the municipalities must contribute $2,000,000, thus making a total of $4,000,000.

"This year, as last year, the Government again proposes to continue to guarantee the banks against loss for loans made by them to the municipalities in districts where, on account of crop failure or other adverse conditions, such assistance is necessary. Further details in connection with the administration of the relief will be worked out in due course.

"The Government wants to emphasize that it thoroughly approves of municipal authorities, must be pleased to provide the maximum amount of employment with the minimum expenditure of materials on such works. Any project which does not satisfy this test cannot be entertained by the Government. It wishes to emphasize again, that the relief is to be distributed in to be distributed only to those municipalities where resources are insufficient to enable them to provide for their own unemployment. This is a fundamental principle laid down by the Federal Government and will not be departed from."

Real Service To Travellers

Railway Station At Napier Has "Walking Telephones"

Nine out of ten inventions these days seem to be a boon for saving time and energy.

And one that has just been put into service at the railway station at Napier surely caps the list, for it is nothing more or less than a walking telephone.

A number of boys dressed in uniform, carry, suspended round their neck a telephone.

From the telephone hangs a long rest of flex, which is quickly connected up at the station wall. The telephone is then ready for use, and the carrier stands and waits your convenience whilst you transact your business deal or a friendly chat over the 'phone.

Having completed your conversation you pay the required fee—which is very small—and the "telegraph" departs to another likely customer.

SENIOR PETER—FROM WEAKNESS TO STRENGTH

Golden Text: "Now when they beheld the boldness of Peter and John, and had perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus." — Acts 4.13.

Lesson: Mark 8.27-30; Luke 22.31-34; John 1 35-37; 21.15-17.

Devotional Reading: Philipp'ans 2. 1-13.

Explanations and Comments

Peter's Great Avowal, Mark 8.27-30.—"Who do men say that I am?" Jesus suddenly asked His disciples one day as they were in the towns of Philippi. "John the Baptist," they answered—so Herod the tetrarch had said, Matthew 14.1; "and others, Elijah (Matthew 7.10; Mal. 4.5, 6); and others, One of the prophets." "But who say ye that I am?" Jesus next questioned. "A theologian," He makes his sensitive plate, expose it to the rays of light. But if he chooses, dips it into the proper solution and holds it up to the light to see if his picture is there. What else did the Great Teacher do on this day but hold up these souls to the light to find out if the reflection of the Son of God were fastened there?"—J. M. Gilles. And Peter answered for all in the disciples, "Thou art the Christ." Peter's Over-Confidence, Luke 22. 31-34.—"Simon, Simon." Jesus solemnly said, "behold Satan asked to have you, that he might sift you as wheat." And then Jesus assured Peter that he had prayed for him that his faith might not fail. "And do thou, when once thou hast turned again (recovered from thy failure), establish (encourage) thy brethren."

"Then Jesus sadly foretold Peter's shameful fall. He warns people against self-confidence. He warns people against temptation; he prays for them; he warns them by the crowing of the cock before the dawn of day. Peter would have said that they that he knew the Lord.

Peter's Sin, John 18.25-27.—After the arrest of Jesus, Peter followed afar off. He came to the high priest's and was standing in the inner quadrangle before a brazier of coals, a warming himself, when he was asked if he were not one of Jesus' disciples, and he denied that he was. One ill the servants of the high priest, a kinsman of the one whose ear Peter had cut off at his arrest in the Garden of Gethsemane (Matthew 26.51), said to him: "Did I not see thee in the Garden with Him?" Again Peter denied, and immediately he heard the cock crow. "In that moment Simon Peter was etched into an everlasting picture."—F. W. Norwood.

"Alone and crushed, his enemies close by,
With hasty speech Peter denied his Lord.
Yet safe and careless, with light light laughter,
Denied Him with the small, unspoken word."
—Ethel A. McNish.

Peter's Penitence and Pardon, John 21.15-17.—On the shore of Galilee Jesus turned "to Peter and said, "Simon, son of John, loved thou me more than these (more than these other disciples love Me)?" Once Peter had boasted (Mt. 26.33), "If all shall be offended in Thee, I will never be offended." But he was no longer self-confident, and in great humility he answered, "Yea, Lord; Thou knowest that I love Thee." Instead of "I," in these words, he said, "Thou knowest all things; Thou tellest Thine heart-brother is himself he was trusted, that he would have a chance to redeem himself. A second time Jesus asked the same question, and received the same reply. "Tend my sheep," said Jesus. The third time, Peter was grieved and said, "Lord, Thou knowest all things; Thou knowest that I love Thee." "Lord, thou knowest everything, all I said and all I did, and all I am, but (the Teacher knows) that the deepest thing in my heart is my love to Thee. By that love which has borne no fruit, which has failed in the hour of need, which has been restored by fear, but which is real and is my very soul, by that let me be judged." John Watson.

Great German Memorials

In memory of German undergraduates of New College, Oxford, England, a tablet has been erected in the chapel of the college, it bears names and the following inscription: "In memory of the men of this college who coming from a foreign land, entered into the inheritance of this place and returning, fought and died for their country in the war, 1914-1918."

Canadian Fox Export

The export of Canadian live foxes to Germany continues to increase in number. During 1929 a total of 892 valued at $220,552 were shipped from the Dominion as compared with 875, valued at $105,980 in the previous year.

The amount of natural and artificial gas produced in the world in a year would fill a dirigible a mile in diameter and 30 miles long, powerful enough to lift the Egyptian pyramids.

Manitoba Buys Western Coal

Manitoba bought 135,000 tons of Alberta and Saskatchewan coal from June 15th to September 30th, according to F. G. Neale, secretary of the Dominion Fuel Board.

Speeding Christmas and New Year's At Sea

Life Saving Patrol At Dangerous Ice Receives Orders From Ottawa

Speeding Christmas and New Year's at sea, Commander of H.M.C.S. Armentieres, whose base is at Esquimault, will spend both Christmas and New Year's Day on the high seas, according to orders that have gone forth from the Department of National Defence for Ottawa. "Armentieres" will undertake life-saving duties off Stamfield, B.C., Barclay Sound, on the coast of Vancouver Island adjoining. The patrol is an unusual feature during the winter, shared between the ships of the Department of Fisheries and those of the defence forces. This year it falls to the lot of "Armentieres" to be at sea from December 15 to January 14, 1931, and from February 6 to February 28.

The duties involve the searching for wrecks on the storm-lashed west coast of Vancouver Island.

Vast Sodium Sulphate Deposits Located In Saskatchewan One Of Richest In The World

A survey conducted by Dominion Government experts has revealed that Saskatchewan possesses one of the greatest deposits of sodium sulphate in the world, according to a bulletin issued by the provincial bureau of publications. It is further stated that exploration of these deposits is now well advanced and present indications are that they are a potential source of wealth to the province.

It was stated by an official of the bureau of publications that the company engaged in the preparation of the sodium sulphate found in Horseshoe Lake is supplying local labor and is a source of considerable wealth to the province in the near future.

"For many years these deposits were regarded as valueless, consequently unsaleable. Now, however, with the rapid development of the chemical industries, it has become a thing of the past. Chemical engineers declare that it is proved if there is now no market for a nitre cake used as a base for the synthetic product to be had nearer than Lake in South Antrim. Furthermore, the demand for sodium sulphate for the treatment of cree can hardly fail to exercise a stimulating effect upon the whole country.

"The problem of successfully drying, or dehydrating the material has been completely solved. A new mining company, which during the last year has erected a large plant at Ormiston, in this province, is drying it at the rate of about 100 tons per day. The concern has already shipped about 7,000 tons to the great chemical works near Sudbury, Ont., where they have apparently found it so successful in refining operations that they are at present taking their total output. Another company operating at Dunkirk, also in southern Saskatchewan, is drying and shipping in considerable quantity. A large demand seems to be springing up for the material, and while the industry will have the effect of adding materially to the wealth of the province."

Kent County Farmers Pay High Grade Dividends

For walnuts, Kent County, Ontario, long famous for a variety of high grade farm and orchard products, claims to be in the front rank. This was proven recently at the Nut Growers' Conference held at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, when an exhibit of Japanese walnuts grown by Harold Bradwick, whose farm is close to Chatham, was declared the best ever seen by those in attendance at the Conference. Large size, good cracking, extraction quality, and fine flavour were the points on which the experts based their decision. The tree from which these nuts came is a beautiful specimen and has made very rapid growth. It is only six years old and has borne two good crops.

Helped With Problems

Canadian Farmers Receive Many Publications and Circulars Free Of Charge

The Department of Agriculture at Ottawa through its Publications Branch last year distributed to farmers all over Canada free of charge a total of 4,361,370 publications, bulletins, circulars and reports. In addition to this material 256 press articles and 198 magazine features were supplied. This is one of the ways in which the farmer is helped with his problems and kept in close touch with the condition of his markets and informed new developments in agriculture.

Debt Adjusting Plan

Saskatchewan Shortly Will Co-Operate With Commissioner

Letters have been sent to each of the 300 governing bodies of the rural municipalities of Saskatchewan advising them that the sheriffs of the provinces will co-operate with the debt adjusting commissioner in collecting all cases in which arbitration between creditors and debtors is asked for, to the commissioner, it was stated by Hon. Howard McConnell, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

It was further indicated that the municipalities had been asked to report all cases needing this assistance to the sheriff.

This action has arisen out of the meeting of the special committee of creditors and debtors, which was held recently at the parliament buildings, Regina. Following this meeting, at which representatives of various retail bodies, financial institutions, the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, and the wheat pool were present, it was recommended that the sheriffs be asked to assist in matters of debt adjustment.

The debt adjustment plan was called as result of representations to the government by the United Farmers of Canada that many farmers were, in many cases, pressing unduly for payment and that a condition of unrest was existing among the farmers of the province.

Soybean Becoming a Valuable Product

When Oil Is Extracted Residue Makes Good Stock Food

A chemical analysis of soybean varieties being developed and tested by the agrostrologists of the Dominion department of Agriculture shows a very close relation between protein and fat content in the soybean. The correlation is fairly constant. The greater the amount of fat or oil in the bean the lower the protein content and vice versa.

This is a development of special interest at the present time, in view of the fact that the commercial crushing of the soybean crop depends directly on the market price obtaining for the oil extracted therefrom. The residue, of some twenty-five varieties grown at Ottawa, and eighteen grown at Harrow, Ont., have apparently been of so successful in refining operations that they are at present taking their total output. Another company operating at Dunkirk, also in southern Saskatchewan, is drying and shipping in considerable quantity. A large demand seems to be springing up for the material, and while the industry will have the effect of adding materially to the wealth of the province."

Alberta's Wild Roses

Beautiful Flowers Made By Crippled Children Of Junior Red Cross Blooming

Alberta has been fortunate of late in having many visitors within her borders from all parts of the world. Since Royalty has set the fashion for the West, the world and his wife fain would follow suit, and by "whoop" Canada, must include the land of the foothills where the Prince of Wales has his static cattle ranch and is known amongst his neighbors as the owner of the Bar U Ranch at High River.

En route to High River the visitors pass through the modern city of Calgary, less than fifty years ago a cow-town of wooden sidewalks, and today one of the most thriving and brisk of western cities.

One of the sights of the city of which Calgarians are immensely proud is the Crippled Children's Hospital under the Junior Red Cross, where sick and afflicted little ones are receiving every care that science can bestow. Here the interesting things about the fine little hospital is the fact that boys and girls are given an education, while they are in bed, and can go right through the grades from one to eight. Text books provided for sale and have received many orders from all over the west.

When the Alberta banquet was tendered to visitors at the C.N.E. Exhibition at Toronto this year, the guests were favors of wild roses, the emblem of the province. These beautiful flowers were all made by the little cripples in the Junior Red Cross Hospital of the city of Calgary.

Creamery Plant To Be Erected At Saskatoon

Starting a little more than three years ago with no assets, the Saskatchewan Milk Pool, which now has assets of $15,000, will enter the creamery business. A large plant will be erected at Saskatoon shortly to take care of expanding interests, officials announced recently.

To date, the Milk Pool has handled only shipments of whole milk, preparing the surplus for sale as cream and milk powder. During the last year 16,500,000 pounds of milk, valued at $420,000, were handled. The Pool is a purely co-operative organization with Saskatoon district farmers as directors.

Canada Provides Britain With Breakfast Foods

Prepared Cereals Now Dominate Market Says Trade Commissioner

Canada supplies most of the prepared breakfast foods for Great Britain, according to Harry A. Scott, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Liverpool. Apart from two or three English products, and the notable exception of shredded wheat, which is being manufactured in England by the Canadian company, "nearly all the advertised lines of breakfast foods are imported from Canada."

According to a report from Mr. Scott, the present demand for the Canadian product has been built up and maintained through large-scale advertising campaigns, coupled with intensive sales methods.

In his report to Canada Mr. Scott discloses that the "Prepared cereal foods have to a large extent displaced the old-fashioned porridge oats supplied in bulk.

"There is still a very considerable proportion of the population clinging to the old-style porridge," he reports, "but there is being taken each year by the older generation in the extremely conservative market. It is the middle-class population that mainly supports the advertised package article; the poorer working classes still buy bulk porridge oats, which retail at comparatively low prices." Mr. Scott reports.

Branch Canadian Bank Commerce Opened 25 Years Ago Today

On the 30th of October 1905, just twenty-five years ago today, the Canadian Bank of Commerce opened its branch office in Vermilion. The original site was a small frame building located on a part of the present town park and the first manager was Mr. A. C. Brown, a brother of H. W. Brown, secretary treasurer of Vermilion Valley municipal district Subsequently the bank erected the premises now known as the veterans Memorial Hall which they occupied until 1920 when the present imposing structure was built.

Some of the old timers will recall the opening of this pioneer financial institution and Mr Whitby, their present manager, has exhibited to the editor the "original Cash Book" used at that time, containing business transactions by the following people on the opening day: W. J. Kisse, F. Buckle, H. T. Green, Vermilion Trading Co., Hayward & Long, P. G. Fiddle, D. J. Berry, W. J. Macnab and F. A. Hamilton.

Many of those names are well known here even now and most of them will certainly be remembered by old residents.

During the next week to ten days business in the new premises will commence under Mr. A. Brimacombe, A. R. Aldridge (Rev.), Pilkie Bros., J. A. Fowler and the first manager was Mr. A. C. Grain throughout the district has practically recovered from the effects of the recent snow storm, due to the return to the weather. Only in dips and ravines is snow to be seen, none being left around the grain stacks which, coupled with sunshine and wind, are now all back in threshing shape. The wind and sun prevailing Tuesday gave smartly the conditions desired for a quick recovery from the adverse weather which had put a considerable stop to threshing. The winds are reported to have thoroughly penetrated the stooks with good results. Every rig in the country is working overtime in the endeavor to clean up as much of the crop as possible for fear of another fall in the ideal conditions now existing, and soon wheat marketed at Vermilion on Tuesday was given a straight No. 5 grade. This means that most of t'w wheat from now on will grade dry having been rather damaged. Another good feature is that it is showing no sign of bleach or weather damage, samples recently buried in a bonefied order and being well matured. Altogether news regarding recovery of th wheat, which was buried beneath drifts of snow a fortnight ago, is likewise

247 TEACHERS JOBLESS.

In answer to an advertisement inserted in some six papers in the province, last week, 247 out-of-work unemployed teachers registered with Mr. Barnett, secretary treasurer of the Edmonton Public School Board. This included a large number of first and well as second class teachers, and a few with academic standings. Of both of the jobless pedagogues are in the southern part of the province.

EFFICIENCY WHICH LEADS TO BANKRUPTCY.

"Some obscure idiot evolved the theory that bad trade must run in cycles; it is a vicious and absurd lie, self out. But such a statement is a disgrace to a scientific age. If it were true we would have had world depression every half century. We've sponged on Mr. Bartlett long enough. Say, let's ask the old man up to supper. It would tickle him to death."

So Simeon Bartlett was their first guest. He arrived panting, after the hard pull up the last path that led from the wood road.

"I take this kindly, ma'am," he said, stalking down breathless into the porch, and mopping the dampness from his brow with a huge handkerchief. Although expecting him, and approaching he carried his umbrella, indeed he seemed always afraid to give it up when Clay offered to relieve him of it.

"Never travel without it, ma'am, he repeated. "Shouldn't hardly feel at home if it wa'nt along. Well, well, this looks real cosy, don't it?" Built the place for my old wife's mother, before I got so confounded fleshy. Time was when I could come up that path without haste" an eyebrow, as Nick here. A good boy, Nick. You didn't make no mistake when you got said him out."

"She didn't do the picking," laughed Nick. "I picked her, and then didn't want her. Glad you like it, though."

"Well, well," chuckled the old man, "just you take care that she don't regret it. By-the-by! This ain't by any chance your honeymoon, be it?"

Clay blushed; but Nick only laughed at their guest's embarrassing interrogation.

"We hadn't been married ten minutes when you met us, Mr. Bartlett."

In an instant the old man was serious.

"You ain't runnin' away from your folks, be you?" he asked soberly. "If you might any, always bain' sure o' my old woman, and signin' the pledge it's twelve year old. Do I smell chowder, ma'am?"

"That I sounds," laughed Clay, "like a gentle hint for supper. Shall we have it here on the porch?"

"That would suit me fine, ma'am. My old wife would've mixed to eat here summer evenin's. Sometimes the hermit thrushes would sing for us. We called 'em our orchestra; and a darn sight prettier music it was than what comes out o' the brass band over to Medley Falls."

"We'll agree on that," said Nick. "They sang the night we came here. I told Clay it was a bridal chorus, sung specially for us."

"And I don't doubt it was, sonny," said the old man promptly. "You was along now and help your mamma dish up supper. You don't need to make company o' me; and I ain't sure that I'd'even a man's place is on the front porch while his wife is rastlin' with the kitchen stove or the dish pan."

"For am I," said Nick, rising to obey. "You can ask Clay if I'm not a champion dish-wrestler."

It was a festive little supper, and Simeon Bartlett pronounced his mother's fried cakes could," a failure that brought the happy color into Clay's cheeks, and a proud light to her husband's eyes. Later, when the world was drenched in moonlight, they escorted Mr. Bartlett home.

"I've had a real good time," he said in parting. "Don't know as I've enjoyed anything so much since my old woman went away. Blay me now, if ever you're a mind to, but not a minute longer. I know how 'tis. Once I had that height to was down-right myself; but it's long years now since home seemed the best place of all. Sorry! If it wa'nt for all the things I've got to remember, I'd almost envy you, startin' out with the whole o' life before you. Good-night, young folsters; and don't you go forgettin' the good advice I give you."

He chuckled, but Nick said soberly: "I shan't forget, sir."

"Nor shall I," Clay promised. She laid a gentle hand on the old man's arm. "If I don't make Nick happy it won't be because I forgot your warnings, and I think I won't."

I think it over. Once when I was'nt more than six year old I cheated at the egg race. Twas at a Sunday School picnic. I didn't hardly know I was cheatin' till afterward; but I took the prize (it was a whistle, ma'am, hung on a red silk cord), and I ain't never been able to forget it. Well, I'm glad you ain't quarreled with yer folks."

"We have none to quarrel with," said Nick.

"Not neither of you?"

Nick shook his head. He boldly put an arm about his wife and drew her close. "But you are," he said to Mr. Bartlett, though his eyes sought Clay's, "we seem to belong together."

"That's right," responded the old man. "That's the way to feel; and don't you ever let nothin' come between you. Don't lie. If that time comes when you make a fool o' yourself, Nick, you just own up, and if yer wife hova you she'll forgive an awful lot. The good book says that the peace o' God passeth all understandin', but I don't believe it's a mite more wonderful than the love o' women. Want a woman? Just try it with

Well, I'll say this, son: you're a good boy, but you probly ain't one third good enough for her."

"Well?" Nick questioned as a moment seemed forthcoming.

"I'll be wonderful."

"Wonderful what?" He looked at her amiss'ly. "It seems to be difficult to spell."

"It is. Nick I think you're wonderful."

"Is that all?" Nick queried with a slow smile.

"No. There's a profession in treating me sit evening. I can't fix it if alone, and ..."

"Of course you can't; you've got me to face it with you! But my dear girl, I thought it was to escape such things as problems that we came away. Anyhow, we won't face it till we're back at camp. I'm going to take you the long way round for a glorious night to ride."

It was no glorious thing they forgot the flight of time it was late when they reached the cabin late despite the hour they sat down either on the porch and Nick with his head in his wife's hand, twisting it under and ding ring around her finger.

"You've guessed this was on mother's, haven't you? She told me to keep it till I found the one girl in the world I used to think I'd never use it or not for years and years. Resettling down for me! I was to be a vagabond, you know traverse the earth conquer the world. Oh Clay what a kid I was, even a week ago!"

She stirred uneasily.

"And aren't you now?"

"My dear, how can I be a kid' I'm a married man in love."

He was laughing, but Clay said soberly: "But I like having you a kid, Nick. You're not to be ever-one. It it's that. . . ."

"Oh" said Nick "I see I'd forgot ten the problem. That is not going to help, and we'll go to it, though you've no moral right to pester the abominable thing on a quest for freedom."

Condescending

An itinerant collector of old iron was trundling his barrow along a very narrow road. Behind him was a very ancient motor car, the impatient driver of which was hooting and tooting in his anxiety to pass the old ironmonger.

The old-iron merchant looked round at the car, and then addressed the owner: "Get right, guv'nor, I'll call for that to-morrer!"

"Thank goodness then, that you didn't discover my secret first!"

"Is it so awful—kissing me?" asked Nick.

"It would be awful kissing you good-bye," answered his wife demurely."

"For that," he said, putting his arm about her, "you shall have another!"

"Clay," he continued with much severity, "you're downright silly. You wouldn't have believed we could behave so. And I suppose you're right. We've sponged on Mr. Bartlett long enough. Say, let's ask the old man up to supper. It would tickle him to death."

So Simeon Bartlett was their first guest. He arrived panting, after the hard pull up the last path that led from the wood road.

"I take this kindly, ma'am," he said, stalking down breathless into the porch, and mopping the dampness from his brow with a huge handkerchief. Although expecting him, and approaching he carried his umbrella, indeed he seemed always afraid to give it up when Clay offered to relieve him of it.

"Never travel without it, ma'am, he repeated. "Shouldn't hardly feel at home if it wa'nt along. Well, well, this looks real cosy, don't it?" Built the place for my old woman's mother, before I got so confounded fleshy. Time was when I could come up that path without haste" an eyebrow, as Nick here. A good boy, Nick. You didn't make no mistake when you got said him out."

"She didn't do the picking," laughed Nick. "I picked her, and then didn't want her. Glad you like it, though."

"Well, well," chuckled the old man, "just you take care that she don't regret it. By-the-by! This ain't by any chance your honeymoon, be it?"

Clay blushed; but Nick only laughed at their guest's embarrassing interrogation.

"We hadn't been married ten minutes when you met us, Mr. Bartlett."

In an instant the old man was serious.

"You ain't runnin' away from your folks, be you?" he asked soberly. "If you might any, always bain' sure o' my old woman, and signin' the pledge it's twelve year old. Do I smell chowder, ma'am?"

"That I sounds," laughed Clay, "like a gentle hint for supper. Shall we have it here on the porch?"

"That would suit me fine, ma'am. My old wife would've mixed to eat here summer evenin's. Sometimes the hermit thrushes would sing for us. We called 'em our orchestra; and a darn sight prettier music it was than what comes out o' the brass band over to Medley Falls."

"We'll agree on that," said Nick. "They sang the night we came here. I told Clay it was a bridal chorus, sung specially for us."

"And I don't doubt it was, sonny," said the old man promptly. "You was along now and help your mamma dish up supper. You don't need to make company o' me; and I ain't sure that I'd'even a man's place is on the front porch while his wife is rastlin' with the kitchen stove or the dish pan."

"For am I," said Nick, rising to obey. "You can ask Clay if I'm not a champion dish-wrestler."

It was a festive little supper, and Simeon Bartlett pronounced his mother's fried cakes could," a failure that brought the happy color into Clay's cheeks, and a proud light to her husband's eyes. Later, when the world was drenched in moonlight, they escorted Mr. Bartlett home.

"I've had a real good time," he said in parting. "Don't know as I've enjoyed anything so much since my old woman went away. Blay me now, if ever you're a mind to, but not a minute longer. I know how 'tis. Once I had that height to was down-right myself; but it's long years now since home seemed the best place of all. Sorry! If it wa'nt for all the things I've got to remember, I'd almost envy you, startin' out with the whole o' life before you. Good-night, young folsters; and don't you go forgettin' the good advice I give you."

He chuckled, but Nick said soberly: "I shan't forget, sir."

"Nor shall I," Clay promised. She laid a gentle hand on the old man's arm. "If I don't make Nick happy it won't be because I forgot your warnings, and I think I won't."

I think it over. Once when I was'nt more than six year old I cheated at the egg race. Twas at a Sunday School picnic. I didn't hardly know I was cheatin' till afterward; but I took the prize (it was a whistle, ma'am, hung on a red silk cord), and I ain't never been able to forget it. Well, I'm glad you ain't quarreled with yer folks."

"We have none to quarrel with," said Nick.

"Not neither of you?"

Nick shook his head. He boldly put an arm about his wife and drew her close. "But you are," he said to Mr. Bartlett, though his eyes sought Clay's, "we seem to belong together."

"That's right," responded the old man. "That's the way to feel; and don't you ever let nothin' come between you. Don't lie. If that time comes when you make a fool o' yourself, Nick, you just own up, and if yer wife hova you she'll forgive an awful lot. The good book says that the peace o' God passeth all understandin', but I don't believe it's a mite more wonderful than the love o' women. Want a woman? Just try it with

Well, I'll say this, son: you're a good boy, but you probly ain't one third good enough for her."

"Well?" Nick questioned as a moment seemed forthcoming.

"I'll be wonderful."

"Wonderful what?" He looked at her amiss'ly. "It seems to be difficult to spell."

"It is. Nick I think you're wonderful."

"Is that all?" Nick queried with a slow smile.

"No. There's a profession in treating me sit evening. I can't fix it if alone, and ..."

"Of course you can't; you've got me to face it with you! But my dear girl, I thought it was to escape such things as problems that we came away. Anyhow, we won't face it till we're back at camp. I'm going to take you the long way round for a glorious night to ride."

It was no glorious thing they forgot the flight of time It was late when they reached the cabin late despite the hour they sat down either on the porch and Nick with his head in his wife's hand, twisting it under and ding ring around her finger.

"You've guessed this was on mother's, haven't you? She told me to keep it till I found the one girl in the world I used to think I'd never use it or not for years and years. Resettling down for me! I was to be a vagabond, you know traverse the earth conquer the world. Oh Clay what a kid I was, even a week ago!"

She stirred uneasily.

"And aren't you now?"

"My dear, how can I be a kid' I'm a married man in love."

He was laughing, but Clay said soberly: "But I like having you a kid, Nick. You're not to be ever-one. It it's that. . . ."

"Oh" said Nick "I see I'd forgot ten the problem. That is not going to help, and we'll go to it, though you've no moral right to pester the abominable thing on a quest for freedom."

WHEN PAIN COMES···

Two hours after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often acidity but citizen acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c a bottle; any druggists. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the Phillips' name on the bottle.

Engineering Wizard Will Build Tunnel Under Mediterranean Sea

Paul J. Morantl, the man who put Wall Street on stilts and carved a metallic hair cut and dress that the greatest financial section without discarding the powder on a stenographer's nose, is seeking new holes to dig.

His looks forward to his next job —building of a railroad tunnel under the Mediterranean Sea to connect Spain with Morocco. The Spanish Government has appointed him consulting engineer for the project and he will leave soon to make borings off Gibraltar.

Morantl's task of constructing a subway excavation to link the lines of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit System is practically complete after one year ahead of schedule. "Seven hundred men contributed to the work and it will cost the city 85,725,-140.

In executing a job that experts said could not be done without suspending operations on the main, Morantl jacked-up 53 skyscrapers shifted a solid mass of electric conduits, gas, water and steam pipes; removed a brick armory—and put them back in position.

Making use of constructing the excavated mud thirteen miles at sea, and fought every step of the way against dense traffic and swarms of pedestrians on the narrowest streets in the city.

Matrimonial Ad in Japanese Paper in Very Tempting Vein

The matrimonial ... has recently been introduced into Japan, and we have just seen the translation of a quaint specimen. It reads:

"I am a beautiful woman. My curly hair is like a gentle wave. My figure is supple as a reed, and my skin soft as silk. I possess a heart enough fortune to go safely through life at the side of my beloved. If it were my good fortune to meet an honorable man, well-bred and intelligent, I would remain always kind and obedient to him, and would happily share with him eternal repose in a tomb of rose colored marble."

All very tempting—even to the offer of the rose-colored marble tomb, which would appeal to the Japanese rather than to the British mentality.

As Old As Methusaleh

The modern parrot is apt to think that the health is something new and modish and as a matter of fact it is as old as Methusaleh.

In writings of the ancients of the days before Christ, we find health axioms and slogans, which go to prove "There is nothing new under the sun."

Today we compare our bodies to engines, and say they need as much care as one's motor car. But Cicero, the famous Roman orator, made that comparison save before the dawn of the Christian era, when he said "A man, too busy to take care of his health, is like a mechanic too busy to take care of his tools."

This year the wide world over, there are great celebrations in honor of Virgil, the great Roman poet who lived before Christ. It is of interest to note that his dictum on health is still quoted in medical college and hall: "The greatest wealth is health."

Glancing at the famous health teach ing of Moses we find his command to the Israelites: "Bathe your flesh in running water."

In Greece, the home of philosophy and culture, we find that Plato, who lived 300 B.C., was one of the greatest philosophers, recommends early rising and much bathing for "they are predicable to keep a man in health and to increase his wisdom and learning."

Thus spake the immortals. Today, no one 12 million children in 46 countries of the world, pledged to healthy living under Junior Red Cross.

Write to Superintendent, Junior Red Cross, 407 Civic Block, Edmonton, for a free booklet on this great subject.

Canadian Utilities Make Headway With Line

Will Connect Islay and Manyville

Canadian Utilities Limited line gangs are making good progress with the new high tension line which will connect up two parts of their line. The Vegreville section which hereto fore ended at Manyville, with the Lloydminster section ending at Islay It is understood that this move will do away with the smaller stations located at Vegreville and Lloydminster as regular sources of supply, the power coming from Calgary and ultimately from Ghost River.

Doing little things all day long, such as saying a kind word, giving a helping hand, an encouraging smile, putting cell out to please another with no expecting or thinking of a return doing these little things from sunrise until sunset makes us more like God; at the same time it makes us useful to our neighbor.

Toleration Towards The Wheat Pool

President of Canadian Chamber of Commerce Says Farmers' Hearts Are With Their Pool Organization

Hon. Col. J. H. Woods, of Calgary, retiring president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in the course of an address delivered at Toronto, made the following statement:

"I do not hesitate to speak to you about the pool system of marketing. I have no brief for the pool, nor any excuse or explanation to offer for any errors that it may or may not have made. Concerning these I am not sufficiently expert to be a judge, but it is my firm conviction that the wheat pool is the greatest stabilizer of the morale of the farmers of the West that exists today.

"To it in great measure these farmers have pinned their confidence and their pride as masters of their own commanding destiny. In my belief, the destruction of that confidence, the lowering of that pride, the psychological results that would inevitably follow upon an abandonment or even a partial abandonment of that system that they themselves have created, would be an injury almost beyond calculation.

"My information from home is that the membership of the wheat pool has never been more loyal to it than today. In those conditions of strain, the unexpected test of which the pool has been, to and will be, but none the day more than in the days of high prices and rapid markets. Mistakes have doubtless been made. Whoever heard of no vast an enterprise being directed and conducted without mistakes?

"Pardon these references to what might be considered a controversial subject, but my appeal is psychological rather than material. We are too apt to criticize one another to the extent of condemnation for errors that are no greater than we commit ourselves. And therefore I urge that we extend in greater measure charity of thought and tolerance of judgment to one another in all branches of our commercial and financial lives, and look forward to the future that lies before us rather than turn our faces to the troubles that lie behind."

15,000 Demand New Sargon Daily

Vast Growing Army of Sargon Users, Marching Single File, Would Encircle Globe in Only Few Years Time.

(By Richard L. Simms)

ATLANTA, Ga. — More like a tale from the Arabian Nights of old than a record of modern business achievement reads the story of the marvelous growth and development of Sargon the New Scientific Compound which has become the sensation of the drug trade throughout Canada, the United States and other countries.

The old illustration of the pebble dropped into the pool best describes the phenomenal and unprecedented demand and its fame is rapidly spreading over the entire Continent.

Recently compiled figures reveal that approximately 15,000 men and women are marching into drug stores daily for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the marvelous new treatments that is restoring to health countless thousands by new and remarkable methods undreamed of only a few years ago.

Already more than 5,000,000 suffering men and women have put it to the test and have told other millions what it has done for them.

Marching regulation army fashion—single file—this vast army of Sargon users reach from New York to San Francisco and at the present rate of sale would, in a few years time, encircle the entire globe.

The only explanation of Sargon's triumph in the Medical World is Sargon's own worth. Back of its triumph in the drug stores is its triumph in the homes and it is the grateful endorsement of its millions of users that has made it the most widely talked of medicine in the world today.

Sargon is extensively advertised, it is true, but no preparation, no matter how extensively advertised, could possibly meet with such phenomenal success unless it possessed absolute merit and extraordinary powers as a medicine.

There can be but one possible explanation for Sargon's amazing success and it can be told in one word — MERIT!

Sargon may be obtained in Vermilion from Long's Drug Store.

Championship Fish from Ontario Waters

Results are out for the three major annual competitions held in Ontario each year at French River, Algonquin River and Devil's Gap Bungalow Camps, all these contests being sponsored and trophies awarded by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

They were: a 40½ inch muskinonge taken from the French River by F. E. Sproule, of Hamilton, Ontario, weight, 35 pounds, seven ounces, girth, 23 inches. It took nearly three-quarters of an hour to land this monster. A 6 pound speckled brook trout from the Algonquin River caught by Edward Feldman, of East St. Louis, Ill., 23½ inches long and 14 inches in girth. A 4 inch fish from the Devil's Gap Bungalow Camp, taken at Devil's Gap Lake of the Woods, four pounds, 1½ ounces in weight, just over 21 inches long and 12½ inches in girth. It fell to the rod of J. C. Jones, of St. Louis, Mo. Each winner was awarded a framed certificate signed by the judges of the contest and were also given gold lapel buttons.

Fishing was exceptionally good this year in three sections and the winners were up against the stiffest kind of competition.

Vegreville Broaches Idea of "Simon Pure" Hockey

No Paid Players This Year

With the hockey season in the offing the Vegreville Observer remarks that efforts are being made by some to form a league to include Vegreville, Vermilion, Lloydminster and Fort Saskatchewan. It goes on to say that this year, with the prevailing financial stringency that these towns must consist of purely local talent, it being understood that no outside players will be paid for playing hockey.

Looking back over the teams we have had here it needs no very smart dude to see that all the money paid to hockey players in this town would not amount to very much. The pure amateur hockey idea is the only one for towns in towns of this size, although no doubt any kind of a hockey league will have its knockers and croge hangers this year owing to the afore-mentioned scarcity of maruns. Vermilion should have a wealth of good amateur material with the old veterans still around and many youngsters who showed speed and ability last year to fill up with.

Free Freight Policy To Help Cattlemen

Expected To Aid Materially In Building Up Western Beef Industry

Major the Hon. Robert Weir, federal minister of agriculture, has authorized a free freight policy which is expected to do much to build up the beef industry in Western Canada.

Under the new policy, which is effective from October 15th, heifers not over twenty-four months old and of approved types and quality, will be returned from stockyards west of Ft. William to country points in the same area free of freight charges to farmers or their property authorized agents, where such stock is to be used for breeding purposes.

Up to the present time 25 per cent of the freight charges on such stock has been absorbed by the railway companies. Under the new policy the Live Stock Branch will absorb the other 75 p.c. of freight charges.

Farmers and livestock men desiring to benefit under the policy are required to make application to the authorized representative of the Dominion Live Stock Branch at the nearest stockyard. They will also be required to make a declaration to the effect that the stock will be used for breeding purposes only.

Shipments must comprise carlots of not less than twenty heifers under twenty-four months of age and, as far as practicable, all heifers included in a carlot must be of the same type and breed.

Each shipment is subject to inspection by the authorized agent of the Dominion Live Stock Branch at the stockyard from which it is made who will issue a certificate only to ship ments which qualify as to desirability of type and quality.

The certificate of the Federal Live Stock agent will enable the shipper to bill out his car free of all freight charges, and automatically entitle him to the 25 per cent. railway rebate, and to the railway's authority for collecting the remainder of the freight direct from the Dominion Live Stock Branch.

Complete information regarding the policy can be obtained by enquiry to the stockyards agent of the Dominion Live Stock Branch at the stockyard nearest the prospective applicant for the benefits of the policy.

Canadian Apples to Belgium

Apples grown in the Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, one of the most productive fruit growing districts in Canada, are this year being exported to Belgium in large quantities. It is expected that the total shipments will be over 50,000 barrels.

SKATING AND CURLING RINKS BEING PUT INTO SHAPE

With the putting into shape for flooding of both the skating and curling rinks, thoughts turn decidedly towards winter sports and hockey and curling chatter is again being heard here and there. The curling club will shortly appoint a caretaker for their rink as tenders for the position were called for last week, while Charlie Wilson will look after the arena ice palace for the coming winter.

What Is Prosperity ?

(Farm and Ranch Review, Calgary)

My old friend, Bert Huffman, of Langdon, Alta., recently contributed the following observations on the meaning of the term "prosperity" to the columns of the "Market Examiner" of Calgary:

"The word Prosperity has been hitched about from land to land since time began, or at least, since human history began to measure time.

"And, after all, prosperity is but a state of mind. It does not mean so much salary per week or month nor so much income a year. It does not really mean anything definite.

"People with a contented mind is a pleasant environment making an honest living and keeping out of debt no matter where their lot may be are the truly prosperous people of the earth.

"Prosperity is not in racing over the earth chasing fairy tales of an no-one wealth won overnight. Prosperity is not a fabulous fortune today vanished tomorrow. Prosperity which is solid and lasting is that state of mind which holds humanity stable active, home-loving and enduring in one spot upon the earth.

"The United States is credited with great prosperity yet 96 per cent of its people have incomes of less than $2,000 per year, and 1 per cent of its population owns 59 per cent of the wealth. And rumbling with a most formidable menace to-day are the voices of 5,000,000 idle men.

"Canadians, before deciding to leave their homeland, should ask themselves candidly what they expect to find in this so-called prosperity in the United States.

Winnipeg Woman Upsets 435 Pins

Marjorie Graham Is Believed To Have New World Record

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct 25—Miss Marjorie Graham, who takes her five-pin bowling seriously, is believed to have set a world's record for women. In a league game, Miss Graham toppled 435 pins for a single match. She marked up a score in the first frame, then struck out. Her team scored 1,212 pins in the game, claiming a Canadian record.—Journal

CARS COLLIDE ON MAIN STREET — BOTH DAMAGED

A truck driven by Stanley Jakubinsky, while turning into Lawrence's garage on Main street, was struck by another car which was in town from Dewberry. The truck suffered a bad fly damaged wheel, while the car received off most of its appendages along one side. Khachinsky's car came to another car, which had broken down into the garage when the accident occurred. The collision took place on Monday evening.

Moving 3000 Reindeer

The herd of 2,000 reindeer purchased by the Canadian Government from an American corporation in Alaska in 1929, will, by the end of the month, resume its journey eastward toward Kittaguazi, in the delta of the Mackenzie River, Northwest Territories of Canada, according to information received by the Canadian National Railways. The reindeer began the 1,000 mile journey from Napakiouk in Western Alaska to Kittaguazi in December last year and hailed at Hent River, Alaska, for the summer season. It is expected that the herd will reach their intended destination early in the spring of 1931. This herd has been purchased by the Canadian Government as Northward Territories and Yukon Ground to be the nucleus of an additional food and clothing supply for the Eskimos living in the extreme northern area of Preparations for the reception of the reindeer have been going forward rapidly. The timber and lumber for the buildings, corrals and other equipment have been moved to the site selected on the 15,000 square-mile range east of the Mackenzie delta and everything will be in readiness when the reindeer arrive.

What Does Your Work Mean To You?

In the current issue of a well known magazine there is an article, leading the title Do You Ever Get Off On the Wrong Foot?" which discusses the problems of people who at some stage in their career come to the conclusion that they are misfits, or square holes in a round hole, that they do not fit the job they are doing, mostly in the choice of their business occupation or professional calling, and as a result are not making the progress they feel they should make, or are not finding their niche in life.

I'm the other hand, as a newspaper is at present running a series of short sketches of men who in their business or early manhood had ambitions of doing certain things, but on account of environment, fate, call it what you will, decided otherwise and instead of being what in those other days they "wanted to be," they have achieved success in radically different walks of life.

In this present period of world-wide depression, a tercentenary period when we are for the first time feeling and suffering the real aftermath of the Great War condition many people are asking themselves the question: "Have I got off on the wrong foot?" Am I a square peg in a round hole? Should I make a change abandon the business trade or profession in which I have so long been engaged and try something new and different."

Possibly at the time farmers particularly may be inclined to indulge in such questioning as there is little room for the many vicissitudes which agriculture has undergone during the past two years as a result of climatic conditions, marketing difficulties and a selling price for their products below the actual cost of production. But the outlook may not look promising to those of them any more than it does to the city wage-earner. The question, however, who is in better circumstances must consider is whether, after all, any change would be better

For example if the man engaged in agriculture really likes farming and a rural life, and has a degree of independence resulting from the fact that he is his own boss, and is getting more than the average share of the good things of life, as the result of his own efforts and those of others, and breathing the air of unexpended country, if population there has not made a mistake—he is not a misfit. He is in the right place. He has the right environment. He has the air life and activities of the farm and the less strenuous life of rural communities makes no appeal to him.

Possibly in both city and country, and with men in all occupations and callings in life some part at least of their dissatisfaction with their own condition is to be found in their failure to fully grasp all the opportunities of their present calling.

In the magazine article I much referred to has already been made, the story is told of a young man possibly quite dissatisfied with his position and the prospects for his future, who, owing to the passing of the ways, An orphan forced to make his own way, at fourteen, he took a humble position in a feed and seed store in Chicago. In course of time he became a salesman, acquired a family and a home worth four thousand dollars, and at forty-three was working long hours every day for forty dollars a week. An opportunity presented itself to become produce manager in a newly organized business at fifty dollars a week, but he was required to invest two thousand in the business. He mortgaged his home to raise the money, and took on the new job. But the promoter of the business was unexperienced and in ten months it failed with the result that this man lost his money and ruined his health by worry. He then took stock of himself. He realized he knew a little about the whole lot of vegetables, but did not know everything there was to know about any one of them. So, on the advice of a friend, this man went back to his old job and worked two years more during which time he made close and expert study of one particular vegetable for which there was an unsatisfied demand. He learned where the best varieties were grown, and by whom, refrigerating methods, packing methods; costs; who bought that particular variety of vegetable; ways to use it, everything. Then he launched into business in a rented dark basement dealing exclusively in that one particular vegetable. Today he heads a huge and profitable business and employs hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The point of this is the diversified agricultural farming in any district where it is adapted such as mixing any kind of seed, good and clean or not, using any kind of weeds either noxious or harmless, or feeding any kind of farm stock" is the discomfited city artisan, or clerk, or business man, just drifting along doing what comes to his hand, without giving much heed to the method of doing it? In the city or country, for instance content to be merely a "saw and hammer man" instead of studying and striving to become effective and an expert in his trade. In the merchant pedaling along items of local necessities, without any special effort to study the requirements of his particular field and the needs of his customers."

In a word are we treating our present occupations in life merely and solely as a means of physical existence as life so are we finding some real pleasure and satisfaction in the work itself? If the former is our approach to our work we will, of course be dissatisfied with it and with ourselves, and ultimate failure must result. If on the other hand, the work itself means something to us, and we take a keen interest in it study it and its possibilities (not materially) strive for its improvement then satisfaction will result, leading to contentment and a reasonable measure of success.

While there are exceptions to the general rule that it is not so much the nature of the work in which we are engaged that counts, as our attitude towards that work which makes for dissatisfaction and failure on the one hand or satisfaction and ultimate success on the other hand.

Winter Holiday Trips

Canadian Pacific Offers Special Inducements To the Winter Traveller

Sharp stimulus to winter travel in Western Canada this year is forecast by Canadian Pacific Railway officials in Winnipeg, chief among the factors receiving further being the many special trains arranged to connect with special sailings to the Old Country for the holidays and New Year. While this rail movement will be easterly, there are also many interesting winter features in the west that annually bring thousands of easterners. Canadians and Americans, to the winter playground of the Canadian Rockies.

The Banff Carnival is now known all over the civilized world, and each year attracts visitors from far and near. The Banff Carnival is now known all over the civilized world, and each other attractive winter sporting event that has become firmly fixed on the calendar is the mid-winter golf tournament, sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Hotels, At Victoria, capital City of British Columbia.

This tournament, started in 1923, enters its third year next February, when, from February 23 to 28, a host of golfers will gather in the Pacific Northwest to quest of the Bently challenge trophy. The tournament is being held this season at the Oak Bay course of the Victoria Golf Club, where all-winter golf is one of the many attractions of Vancouver Island's evergreen playground.

As a special inducement to winter travellers, low round trip fares have been named by the Company to Eastern Canada and Central Station, commencing December 1st, and to the Pacific Coast during December, January and part of February. These tickets are considerably lower in price than the ordinary fare and bear a much longer limit.

Canadian Trade Office For Egypt

Dominion Has 34 Trade Commissioners In Different Parts Of the World

A new Canadian Government Trade Commissioner office will be opened at Cairo, Egypt. The territory for this new office, which will open sometime in December, includes Egypt, the Sudan, Palestine, Cyprus, Syria, Irak and Persia. When the Canadian Trade Commissioner takes over at Cairo, Canada will have 34 trade commissioners in different parts of the world and a commercial agent at Sydney Australia. These commissioners function under the Commercial Intelligence Service of the Canadian Government Department of Trade and Commerce, which is designed to further the interests of Canadian trade in all parts of the world The trade commissioners make periodical reports upon trade and financial conditions in their respective territories and keep Canadian manufacturers and others advised concerning opportunities for the sale of Canadian products. Canada's foreign trade in 1929 was $256 per capita, the highest in the world.

Soviets Take Third Method To Raise Money For Treasury

Hoviet dumping of wheat and other products abroad at a time when the supplies are urgently needed in Russia itself is in the nature of "tax" collection under the Russian system, says the Financial Post, which continues:

In Soviet Russia, the word taxation has no such meaning as Western minds attach to it. Holding private ownership to be unethical, the government itself is officially the owner of all property. Consequently, there is none for it to tax. Proclaiming private profits to be opposed to human welfare, it officially permits the accumulation of no incomes which might be taxed. It is obliged, therefore, to obtain its revenue from the actual products of the mines, forests and farms which it operates or to take as taxes the produce of those who still operate privately—mainly the unsocialized peasants. But since it cannot operate a treasury directly with wheat and lumber, it must sell those articles in the outside world.

"This is what it is doing to the utmost even of having its own people on the verge of starvation. Officially they are permitted to eat only what is distributed to them by the government, and the heavy purchases of machinery abroad mean that the quantity of food must be kept to the very lowest limit of supplies."

Old Milestone Found

Supposed To Indicate Distance From Chicago, Finally, To Rome

Quite recently a most interesting discovery was made in Chiappa, Italy, by workmen excavating in the ground to light an old marble milestone. On the stone could still be distinguished the marking of 108 miles and the name of Augustus Caesar. Presumably the stone indicated the distance from that spot to Rome, and formed part of the old road running between Rome and the Gallic countries, and known then as the Via Aurelia.

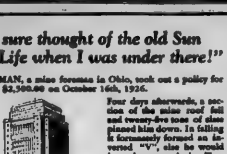
"I sure thought of the old Sun Life when I was under there!"



A MAN, a mine foreman in Ohio, took out a policy for $2,500.00 on October 16th, 1926.

Four days afterwards, a section of the mine roof fell and twenty-five tons of slate pinned him down. In falling it fortunately formed an inverted "V", else he would have been crushed. Cracksmen Blow Safe At Islay

Two Barnes' Stores Are Entered Monday Morning

Cracksmen who evidently knew their business when it came to blowing a safe but were sadly lacking in the tuition that leads them to a paying job, visited Islay early Monday morning and blew the safe in Hartford Barnes' butcher shop. The safe was empty, however, except for $4.00 in change, the other valuables having been removed on Saturday night. Nitroglycerine was evidently used to wreck the safe. Getting nothing for their pains on the first endeavor, the yeggs crossed the street to Bill Barnes' general store, broke in and rifled the till, and again in vain, getting only 35 cents.

Constable Reay of Lloydminster is investigating the case and in the opinion of the police the jobs were pulled by cracksmen from Saskatchewan since a train from North Battleford pulls into Islay at 2 a.m. and another train travels eastwards at about 1 a.m., between which times it is believed the cracking was done

No cars were around at that time and one resident reported hearing a muffled report shortly before 4 a.m. but attached no significance to it at the time. The night policeman made the discovery when returning from the 4 a.m. train.

Will Ship Fish By Airplane

Aerial Transportation To Speed Up Distribution From Northern Waters

Another western industry is to be aided by the airplane. Freshly caught fish from the lakes in northern Saskatchewan are to be transported by swift airplane to the Canadian and American markets, according to plans now under way by the Brooks Construction and Transportation Company, of Prince Albert. R. D. Brooks, manager and owner of the company, left Winnipeg recently for Detroit to take delivery of a seven-passenger Buhl air sedan, which will be the first of a fleet of airplanes to be put on the northern Saskatchewan fish route. Three airplanes are on order now, Mr. Brooks stated, and others will be added to the fleet as the business develops.

Mr Brooks, who has been in the northern transportation and fish business for years in the Prince Albert district, is optimistic on the use of the airplane in the fish industry. Dogs and horses, he said, had previously been the means of getting his product out to market, and recently caterpillar tractors had been used in speeding up transportation. Now, he said, the airplane would be available to annihilate the long distance between the northern lakes and the Canadian and American markets. The fish caught at Lac La Ronge and Pipestone Lake, approximately 200 miles north of Prince Albert, will be on the Winnipeg market in less than 24 hours, according to an airplane schedule mapped out by the Brooks Company. Hitherto it had taken 22 days with horses and 14 days with tractors to get the product to a railhead. The Brooks Transportation and Fish Company handles from 500,000 to 1,000,000 pounds of fish per season, and Mr. Brooks states that approximately 300,000 pounds of choice fish will be shipped by airplane express at the commencement of operations. About 200 men are normally employed by his company in the fishing operations and it will be possible to add another 75 men to the pay roll with the use of airplane transportation, as it will permit the company to harvest a much greater catch

Money In Raising Geese

Requires Very Small Investment and Comparatively Little Labor

Geese raising does not receive the attention by this farming community that the business warrants, assert poultry experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The industry is the natural habitat of the goose, providing these two great essentials to successful goose raising: free range and an abundance of green foods. Raising a flock of geese is one means by which the farmer can reap a good reward with a very small investment, and comparatively little labor. Geese command a good price on the Christmas market and the demand is always greater than the supply

How To Talk About

The motorist adopted pleading tactics.

"I wish you'd overlook it this time, constable," he said. "As a matter of fact, I was hurrying to town on very important business."

"Pruid I can't help that," said the policeman.

"I never drive fast as a rule. But I've got to get to town quickly to see my solicitor."

"Well," said the policeman, "you'll have a bit more news for him now."

Mice Will Tie Him

Feeding tests at the Cap Rouge Experimental Station of the Dominion Department of Agriculture show that it pays to feed laying hens skim milk. Five year tests show that with a basal ration of grain meat, shell and vegetable foods hens fed skim-milk had more eggs and gained more in weight than hens fed feed scraps. Incidentally the cost of skim milk is just one-ninth that of beef scrap.

Frenchman Invented The Sewing Machine

Worked For Years Before First Model Was Perfected

Progress moves down uncharted paths. One hundred years ago, noble in Paris smashed into bits the first model of the invention that the little manufacturing town of St. Etienne, 130 miles southeast of Paris, home of the inventor, is this year joyously celebrating, relates the Christian Science Monitor. For what the Parisian gurnsel makers of 1830 thought threatened to steal their work, today gives employment to thousands upon thousands the world over.

Barthelmy Thimonnier, a tailor was inspired by the longing to "lighten the burden of those who sewed." Although he knew nothing of the elements of mechanics, he set to work and in years of effort managed to build a crude forerunner of the electrically operated, easily handled sewing machine of today. A vast number of industries such as the manufacturing of shoes, gloves, hats and wearing apparel of all kinds owe their huge growth to Thimonnier's invention, a legion of articles from books to airships has been fashioned in part by its flying fingers. The modern machine is capable of 2300 stitches a minute, contrasted with the twenty or thirty stitches a hand worker can take One modern manufacturer alone has made 3,000 different types. How fitter it must surprise the humble Thimonnier's wildest dreams!

Thimonnier's right to the title of "originator of the sewing machine" is established by his patent data of 1830, fifteen years before Elias Howe, often credited with the invention, completed his device. Thimonnier subsequently improved his machine, and other men after him worked toward its perfecting, until now it is common household equipment.

Then progress, though unforeseen and unimagined, moves steadily on, and the town which in the last century feared and reviled Thimonnier as the "enemy of thimbles" today honors and extols him as inventor of the indispensable sewing machine.

A Costly Ounce

Radium is the most costly mineral in the world in order to find this valuable mineral tons of earth are sifted before a grain of it is discovered. In Cascade-Novalaka, three hundred men employed in a chemical plant labored for eight years to produce an ounce of radium. One year's output at this rate is valued at about $2,500,000.

Record Production Of Sardines

British Columbia Pack More Than Double That Of Last Year

Present indications point to a record production of canned salmon in British Columbia this year.

The pack from the end of the first week in September was 1,570,682 cases, or more than double the pack up to practically the corresponding period of 1929, and upwards of 200,000 cases above the production up to approximately the middle of August in 1926, the record-making year in the British Columbia salmon industry.

With two months still more of operation yet to be reported, the prospects are that the total production of canned salmon this year will go beyond the 1926 record mark of 5,060,196 cases.

An outstanding feature of the 1930 operations up to the early part of last September is that the production of canned sockeye, the most valuable variety of British Columbia canned salmon, had reached 618,126 cases, or considerably more than the total pack of this variety in any full year since 1917.

The pack of pinks is this year far beyond even the pack of 1925, when the previous record for this production was made. In the full year 1925, the canneries put up 793,363 cases of pinks, while 618 cases have packed, 766 of them originated on the trains for various cities in the United States and Canada. A coin call, placed by a passenger to London, England, the transmission quality of the call was reported 100 per cent. perfect. There were 47 calls for passengers originating from points as far away as Chicago.

Dollar Value Of Agriculture

Few People Realize It Is a Big Business

Few people appreciate the dollar value of agriculture in Canada, or realize that it is really a big business. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates the agricultural wealth of the Dominion as for the year 1929 at the huge sum of $7,-976,633,000. This figure is made up out of the following estimated values:—Lands—$3,316,041,100; buildings, $1,502,694,000; implements and machinery, $605,172,600; livestock, $864,-911,000; poultry, $84,000,000; bees, $2,-000; fur farms, $19,477,800; and agricultural products, $1,647,218,000.

Canadian Troops Led Way

Gave Status Splendid Example Says U.S. Minister To Canada

Striking tribute to the example set by the Canadian troops in the Great War was paid by Lieut.-Col. Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, speaking before 300 members of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Legion gathered in his honor. Colonel MacNider, commander of the American Legion said: "You led the way; you showed us the example and set a splendid model which we tried to follow. We in the United States have not always lived up to the example you gave us. I feel is not often enough expressed."

Train Telephone Service

Phone Service On Moving Trains in Canada Brought To Perfection

"The train telephone service in operation on Toronto-Montreal trains of the Canadian National system, has proved phenomenal successful," says J. C. Burbidder, chief engineer Canadian National Telegraphs, in an address before the Association of Passenger Traffic Officers Convention at Atlantic City.

"Since January 1st, 1928," he stated, "The train telephone system has been operating daily on one train each way between Toronto and Montreal, namely, "The Maple Leaf," leaving Montreal at 9:30 a.m., and "The International Limited," leaving Toronto at 9:00 a.m. Since the service was inaugurated, there have been no interruptions to calls or circuits, nor time loss due to failure of any of the train telephone equipment. The Bell Telephone Company have recently commenced favorably in a printed statement on the subject of transmission furnished by this system, stating that the service was 95 per cent. perfect, based on their method of computation."

"During the five months in which this system has been in commercial service," Mr. Burbidder continued, "a total number of 618 calls have been handled, 766 of them originated on the trains for various cities in the United States and Canada. A coin call, placed by a passenger to London, England, the transmission quality of the call was reported 100 per cent. perfect. There were 47 calls for passengers originating from points as far away as Chicago.

Names Three Essentials

Federal Minister Of Agriculture Speaks On Improving Farming As An Industry

Speaking at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, the Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, named three essentials for the improvement of farming as an industry: First, the use of better seed; second, the breeding of better results from the same work and the same amount of feed. Second, more scientific feeding and where possible the purchase of cheaper feeds of equivalent value; and Third, the development of more highly specialized marketing, decreasing the spread between producer and consumer, insuring the best quality at a uniform standard to hold a market once obtained, and to develop a dependable volume of quality products. He further urged the farmer to eliminate weeds wherever possible; and the exercise of sober, balanced, and constructive thought in relation to farm problems.

Canada Leads Aerial Surveying

Canada has for years led the world in aerial surveying, and during 1929 consolidated that leadership by applying, for the first time in any country, aerial methods to geodetic reconnaissance and transportation.

Wheat Straw Products

Methods Devised For Utilizing Wheat Straw That Now Goes To Waste

The plight of the wheat farmer during the past few years has been serious. Discussion has given rise to a major political issue. For every pound of wheat produced by the farmer there is produced one and one-half pounds of wheat straw. The farmer tries to sell his wheat on a market which is unsatisfied, while the straw largely goes to waste. Can the wheat straw also be economically used and thus carry its share of the cost of production of the entire plant?

A pioneer in the development of methods for using wheat straw in an industrial way is George H. Harrison, near St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Harrison has perfected a small plant for the destructive distillation of wheat straw whereby important organic chemical products are obtained from the gas piped off which are produced. Harrison claims that each ton of a mixture of oat and wheat straw, treated in his distillation 1,000 pounds of new, useful chemical products worth at the present retail prices $100 to $150. When a ton of straw is burned in the open air all that remains is about 15 pounds of ashes which has only small value as a fertiliser. From the distillation products he obtains disinfectants, fly spray, straw oil, roofing and damp-proof material, straw carbon, paints and automobile top dressing. All these products are now being produced commercially. As the industry develops it should create a wider market for wheat straw, thus furnishing a new outlet for the products of the farm.

The destructive distillation of the wheat straw also produces a gas of fairly high value for burning internal combustion engines. Its bulky nature renders its use rather impracticable. The gas, however, may also be used as a motor fuel and as an activator for gas engines.

A wheat straw board is adapted for making insulating board, in growing demand each year from builders of homes, refrigerators and other devices where temperature control is essential. A modern pulp and board mill has been erected for this purpose near St. Joseph, Mo., and is now in operation. This firm is reported to be working on a twenty-four-hour schedule turning out 120,000 square feet of straw insulating board a day. — Robert Stewart in Barron's.

French Statesman Has Extraordinary Memory

Raymond Poincare Quotes Facts and Figures Without Effort

Raymond Poincare, one of the strong men of French politics, is said to have the most extraordinary memory among living public men. He can quote facts and figures at hours on end concerning the celestial intricacies of French finance without once referring to books of statics or printed texts. He stands before the Chamber of Deputies day after day spouting facts and figures as the most detailed sort effortlessly. "What is the use of arguing with him?" the members say. "He is always right." How does he do it? By hard work and application is his answer.

Lake Winnipeg Tragedy

Two Fishermen Drown When They Leaped From Burning Tug

Winnipeg, Man. — From the blazing deck of the tug "Magnus," four fishermen leaped into the chill waters of Lake Winnipeg, near Gimli. Two were drowned, and the other pair were dragged, half-dead, from the icy water by another tug which rushed to the rescue. The "Magnus" sank after a gasoline explosion shattered the craft from stem to stern.

The dead:

Captain William Bjarnson.

Engineer Joe Bell.

The rescued, Ing "Goldfield," summoned by frenzied blasts from the ill-fated "Magnus" stem, saved Martin Johnson and Ole Kendall, surviving members of the crew. Bodies of Captain Bjarnson and Engineer Bell have not been recovered. The tiny gasoline-propelled launch-tug had caught fire below deck soon after it left Gimli on October 22, but the blaze was not discovered for some time, until it was too late to fight the flames or fix the fiames.

The "Magnus," owned by the Arnstrong Gimli Fisheries Company, was engaged in hauling fishing vessels to the open air all that remains is about 15 pounds of ashes which has only small value as a fertiliser. From the distillation products he obtains disinfectants, fly spray, straw oil, roofing and damp-proof material, straw carbon, paints and automobile top dressing. All these products are now being produced commercially. As the industry develops it should create a wider market for wheat straw, thus furnishing a new outlet for the products of the farm.

Postpone Return Flight

Capt. Errol Boyd Will Not Attempt Trip This Year

London, England. Captain J. Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry F. Gilman, who were planning to make a return flight across the Atlantic early next month, have definitely postponed the attempt until next spring.

The two men who flew to England from Harbor Grace, Nfld., 10 days ago, will return to Canada on the monoplane "Columbia" for the first round-trip north Atlantic attempt.

When the airmen eventually make the return flight they will do so as owners of the "Columbia," for Sherwin Cuttingham, aviation enthusiast in Montreal, has bought the veteran plane from Charles A. Levine and presented it to Boyd and Connor on condition that they do not fly the Atlantic again this year.

Boyd and Connor plan to sail for Canada, October 21, returning to England in the spring.

British Airship Workers Worried

Disaster To R-101 May Mean Reduction In Staff

Carlington, England- Flight lieutenant workers of the Royal Airship works here and their families are undergoing an anxious time pending decision of the future of airship development following the disaster to the R-101.

Officials of the works met secretly and the fact they also kept their conclusions, if any, to themselves, forced to increase the apprehension.

It is rumored there is a proposal to cut labor down by 30 per cent. immediately and, in the circumstances, the workers are profoundly anxious as to the course the conference will take. A consultation before final action on the report of the 1929 conference.

The 1929 conference, composed of legal experts from the various dominions, was a belated aftermath of the status resolutions of the 1926 Imperial Conference. The 1929 gathering studied the conflicts in Dominion legislation and British legislation and finally recommended an Imperial act to be passed nullifying the effect of the Colonial Laws Validity Act.

Critics of these recommendations claim they go farther than mere repeal of the Colonial Validity Act; that in effect they authorize an amendment to the Canadian constitution. Premiers Ferguson and Taschereau both took the ground that as Canadian confederation was a pact between the provinces the constitution cannot be amended by a two-minute silence at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, November 11 1930.

Automobile Production Down

Fewer Cars Produced In September Than Any Month In The Year

Ottawa, Ont.- Canada produced fewer automobiles in September than in any month this year, it was shown in a report published recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The total was 7,957 cars, being 19 per cent. lower than for August, and 42 per cent. lower than for September, 1929.

Likewise production figures for the first nine months of the year showed substantial reductions over 1929 totals. To the end of September, Canada plants produced 138,522 cars, compared with 233,853 cars for the same period last year. This reduction amounts to 41 per cent

Asking Six-Hour Day

Railroad Men Want Shorter Hours With Same Rate Of Pay

Cleveland, Ohio. The seven rail road labor unions of Canada and the United States have taken the leadership of organized labor in the movement seeking a six-hour working day without reduction of pay.

Officials of the railroad unions estimated that the proposed six-hour day would put to work 50,000 men now unemployed in the railroad industries.

The campaign for the shorter working day will be planned in detail at a meeting of 700 representatives of the railroad unions in Chicago, Nov. 12.

CANADA TO BE REPRESENTED AT CHICAGO SHOW

Chicago, Ill.—Canada it again expected to make an impressive showing in the International Grain and Hay Show, to be held at Chicago, November 29 to December 6, in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition. Already entries are being received, some from the most distant parts of the earth. Three carloads of wheat have arrived from New South Wales, according to the management.

Distinction for having made the first entry in the rye and wheat classes of the exposition this year goes to a Saskatchewan grower, James A. Paur of Langham. In the rye classes of the 1929 exposition no horse sample ranked high

Other successful Canadian exhibitors at the last exposition, it is also expected to take part this year were George Akery of Kelso, Sask., who had reserve champion and two-rowed barley sample at the 1929 show W. G. Gibson of Lacombe, Alta., and William Hardwick of Laura, Sask. who had champion and reserve champion respectively on field peas Joseph H. H. Smith of Wolf Creek, Alberta, and J. Lorenda of Little Manitoba, who ranked first and second with samples of Red Spring Wheat; Eddie J. Shank of Athabasca, Alberta, who won a blue on early oats sample, and many other provincial exhibitors whose samples placed creditably high in the competition

A well known Canadian De ll Chemist president of the Canadian Agricultural Paper Chemist and a director of the International Live Stock Exposition is a member of the International Grain and Hay Show Thomas Ewing Canada will be invited to judge in the oats and barley classes. Prof. J. A. Shutt, Ottawa, has been asked to judge the wheat classes. Prof. Shutt is the chief dominion chemist and government scientist.

Added interest in the show by farmers in particular in the 1930 International Grain and Hay Show will be generous cash prizes offered by Canadian interests in the Canadian Open-Cattle Wheat Production, in all the Canadian National Exhibitions the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian Northern Quebec Grain Exhibition Association will be awarded cash prizes in the form of trophies, which are to be competed for by exhibitors at the 1931 International Grain and Hay Show.

It is believed that the Canadian exhibit at the 1930 International Grain and Hay Show will be the largest and most comprehensive ever assembled in the history of the show, and will be second in quality to none. Canada has always been noted for its fine grains, and favorable growing conditions have enabled Canada to produce samples which have won the admiration of the world. Canada is especially well known for its fine wheat, and it is expected that the Canadian exhibit will be generally representative of the best wheat grown in all parts of the Dominion.

Grain Grading High

Northern Wheat Grades Good Average After the Rains

Prince Albert, Sask. Grain grading is high at local elevators contrary to expectations of some of the most pessimistic. As the fall harvest progresses a number of loads of wheat threshed since the rains have been marketed and loads from well-stacked sheaves are grading No. 2 Northern and No. 3 with little and to some cases no evidence of sprouting.

Elevator officials estimate the average has been No. 3 and that will be the maximum after the drying is resumed. Garnet is holding up, except cleanly, this sporter average being No. 2 Northern. Wheat from well-stacked crops, it is estimated, will be assured of a No. 2 average

English Firms Would Bring Own Workmen To Canada

Ottawa, Ont Admission to Canada of a limited number of skilled textile workers is being sought by an English firm which has purchased a textile plant at Carlton Place. The mill, which has been closed for some time, will be reopened shortly and will employ 300 hands

The company wishes to bring from its home plant about 25 people. They will work on the manufacture of wash-leather coatings and other cloth of a kind never before made in this country.

Nurses Save Child's Life

Belleville, Ill. Nurses at St Elizabeth Hospital sitting in two-hour relays with a finger pressed tightly against an incision in the carotid jugular vein of Josephine Janise, 9 of Lebanon, Ills., probably have saved the little girl's life. Frozen clots from the wind-shield of the Jarvis car, driven by her mother, severed the vein and a branch of the facial artery when the Jarvis car and another collided

Threshing Resumed

Edmonton, Alberta.- Another good comeback by the Alberta crops will be registered if weather permits in the opinion of Hon. George Hoadley Minister of Agriculture Threshing is already resumed in some districts, in addition to reports to the department and I sufficient sunshine continues.

Bank Honored Old Notes

Sarbro, Ont - At a local banking institution a new Canadian entered to make a deposit. The customer handed to the teller a roll of bills such as designed and merged banks, including those of the Ontario, Sterling, Farmers, Home and Merchants Bank. The notes will be honored.

N. Z. BUTTER WAS SUBJECT TO DUMPING DUTY

Vancouver, B.C.—A dump duty of 40 cents per 46-pound box was assessed by the Canadian customs on the 84,000 boxes of New Zealand butter which arrived on the Niagara on October 11.

This was in addition to the regular duty of one cent under the old treaty tariff, which expired on October 12, and represented approximately $16,000 added impost on the 3,864,000 pounds of butter in the big shipment which arrived just in time to avoid the new duty of 8 cents a pound.

Local butter importers who have conferred with Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, during his visit here, explain that the dumping duty is so assessed when it is discovered that the home price and the export price in the country of origin are only up to 30 per cent. of the dumping duty. Under the new plan announced by the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New Zealand at the time of shipment and home market price in New Zealand

Under the new dumping clause the customs department may assess an extra duty equal to the difference between the home price and the export price in the country of origin but only up to 30 per cent. of the export price. Under the new plan announced by the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New Zealand at the time of shipment and home market price in New Zealand

It is understood that in future the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New Zealand will advise the customs department here of the fair market price there on the day of shipment so that collection for duty here may not be affected by possible market fluctuations while the butter is in transit.

Five Reasons

WHY LADIES SHOULD BOWL

Because it is a game that compels enthusiasm — and enthusiasm is the elixir of perpetual youth.

Because it provides a delightful out let for pleasure and sociability

Because without being too strenuous, it gives exercise to every part of the body.

Because it tends to improve the figure, restoring the balance of nature from excessive weight or underweight to a normal and healthy condition — the result of keeping in perfect form.

SPROULE — BADGERO

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Badgero was the scene of a lovely wedding on Tuesday, October 28th at high noon, when the Rev. H. A. Boyd solemnized the marriage of their elder daughter, Ruby Eileen, to Mr. Orbin Du Vernet Sproule, of Lloydminster Saskatchewan, only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sproule of Mannville.

The wedding march was played by Miss Adrienne Sproule, sister of the groom.

The bride was given away by her father, and she wore a simple gown of eggshell satin with long graceful skirt falling to the floor, and wore a pretty lace hat and shoes to match. Her flowers were deep pink roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Little Miss Lois Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Long, as flower girl was dressed in pale green georgette and carried a basket of pale pink roses.

Following the ceremony the wedding breakfast was then served in the dining room and the table was beautifully arranged with the wedding cake, pink carnations in silver vases, and long pink tapers. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. H. P. Long and responded to by the groom. Misses Eleanor Welch, Norma Badgero and Adrienne Sproule assisted in serving.

Amongst the lovely gifts received by the bride were remembrances from the Vermilion and Lloydminster staffs of the Alberta Government Telephones, of which the groom is a popular member.

Mr. and Mrs. Sproule left on the afternoon train for the Coast amidst showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return they will reside in Lloydminster.

A charming girl was taken to see a Rugby match. She didn't understand Footy

"Why did they stop that man and knock him down as soon as he picked up the ball?" she asked.

"Because he was trying to score," explained her companion.

"But isn't the object of the game to score?"

"Yes, but he's on the other side he was going the wrong way—that is, towards the wrong goal."

"Well," said the girl, "I don't see why they should knock him down for that. Everybody is likely to make mistakes."

A slight motor accident occurred on first street south on Saturday last when Tom Cairns drove in behind the Imperial oil truck just as that machine was about to back out from the curb. The collision was very slight but sufficient to make a new radiator on the passenger car a necessity.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 29th, the Guides had a Hallowe'en party at the armories. This is a fine place for a spooky party and ghosts and witches popped out from dressing rooms and stair. Muriel Dunsmore and Jay Watson, Annie Brown and Grace Cooper were in charge of the hair-raising games. During the evening Anna Thomson, Jean Bell, Doris Gilbert and Eleanor St. Pierre were invested with the Tenderfoot Badge.

On Sunday afternoon at 2:15 all Guides are to meet at the Veterans' hall for the Memorial service. The leaders have asked all girls having uniforms to please wear them; all others to wear dark dresses and hats

BROWNIE NOTES

We had a very jolly time last meeting. Brown Owl gave us a surprise Hallowe'en party. We had a Fairy Ring in which we had to do a stunt and as a reward we received an apple. Next we played "Poor Mary Sits a-Weeping." Then Tawney Owl taught us a new game called "Pixies and Fairies." We then sang the Brownie Taps and Brown Owl gave us some peanuts and wished us a good Hallowe'en.

There were not many of us there, as there was a party at the school, but we hope to see more next week.

HEADACHES
Aided by Bromben

Upon a meeting in Bromben, with terrible attacks of dizziness affecting my whole... My occupation is a very ordinary one—a printer's reader. I gave Bromben Salts a good trial, and from then onwards I owned quite another person. The headaches disappeared and the dizziness, and the most wonderful thing to me is that I have gone back to weaker glasses, a thing which I had discarded some years ago as not being strong enough. I also suffered from bad circulation during the early mornings of winter, but at 58 I can enjoy cold baths all the year round, enjoy and am eager for my food, and see what I consider very fit—the sort of fitness that makes living a joy."—(L. F.)

Bromben can result always be traced to a disordered stomach or to partial constipation—a combination many indoor workers suffer from without ever suspecting it.

Bromben Salts go right down to the root of the trouble and remove the cause by gently persuading the organs of elimination to function exactly as Nature intended they should.

Reverse Only Temporary

Britain Not Likely To Abandon Imperial Air Program

In its stunning effect upon the public consciousness, the disaster to the R-101 may be likened to that which overtook the "Titanic" before the war. But the loss of the largest, finest and fastest trans-Atlantic liner that had been built up to that time has not prevented the British from continuing to produce great ocean-going vessels. In fact, there now on the stocks or projected exceed in size, speed and superb furnishings anything ever before contemplated. The terrible mishap to the R-101 will doubtless delay Britain's dream of an all-embracing Empire air service, if only for the reason that so many of her air experts have been lost. But it may be taken for granted that the British will not abandon the Imperial air programme of which we heard so much on the recent visit of the R-100 to this country. All down through her history the Mother Country has displayed a gumbo for converting failure into success—for turning temporary reverses into lasting triumphs.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Tenth Anniversary Of Radio Broadcasting

Although Opportunities Were Restricted Development Has Been

The tenth anniversary of radio broadcasting, which gave the industry its greatest impetus, was celebrated a few weeks ago. The first program went on the air from a Pittsburgh station in 1920, and some weeks later the radio audience introduced radio to politics by broadcasting returns of the Harding-Cox election. Crystal-detector sets were then the last word in reception, and it was necessary for members of the family to take turns at wearing the earphones. Restricted as were its opportunities, however, broadcasting developed so rapidly that within a few years the air was listened in a few the Government was seeking some form of regulation.

The substitution of electrified vacuum-tube sets for those with crystal detectors and the requirement of earphones with loud speakers, together with other improvements, then announced the range and quality of reception. Television today is accepted as a novelty that broadcasting was in 1920.

These developments have created great industries.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

WAFFLES

2 cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt.
1½ cups milk.
2 eggs.
6 tablespoons butter.

Beat yolks until light; milk and sift; add dry ingredients quickly. Add melted butter. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites last. This recipe makes six large waffles.

[illegible]

½ cup melted butter.
½ cup sugar.
Heat honey and add melted butter.

SCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES AND APPLES

2 cups cold boiled sweet potatoes cut in ¼ inch slices.
½ cup sugar.
1½ cups thinly sliced sour apples.
4 tablespoons butter.
Salt.

Put one-half the potatoes in buttered baking dish, cover with one-half the apples, sprinkle with one-half the sugar, dot over with one-half the butter and sprinkle with one-half the salt. Repeat. Bake in a moderate oven one hour.

First Compound Steam Engine

The first compound steam engine was invented in Canada by Benjamin Tingley, who built it for the steamship "Reindeer" which he designed and built at St. John, N.B. This invention, which marked the advent of the reciprocated engine, was a great transportation.

Canada's Wooden Ships

The building of wooden ships in Canada reached its maximum during the year 1874, when in 1893 Quebec alone had 25 shipyards, and eight floating docks, giving employment to 5,000 workers.

At 50 years of age we know; at 30 we think we know; at 40 we are uncertain, and at 50 we give it up.

WHY SUFFER FROM YOUR LIVER?

Why be handicapped with unsightly blotches on the face, eyes with yellow tinge and that tired and listless feeling? Thus indicates a torpid liver

Headache, Dizziness and Biliousness surely follow. You must stimulate your liver, your bile flow, start the life flowing with Carter's Little Liver Pills.

They also act as a mild laxative, purely vegetable, free from calomel and poisons, sugar-coated for easy to swallow, and not habit forming. They are not a purgative that griping or pains, nor harmful after effect following, on the contrary a good result. All Druggists 25c and 75c red page

Brilliant Triumph Scored By Kingsford-Smith

Australian Has Proved Himself One Of World's Greatest Aviators

If the British Empire suffered any loss in aviation prestige through the recent disaster that befall Great Britain's great airship the R-101, that prestige would seem to be restored by the outstanding later achievements. These were the flight of a Canadian aviator, Captain Hinchliffe, from Newfoundland to England, and now the brilliant triumph of Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith of Australia in flying from England to his own country with such speed as to clip more than five days from the previous record. Kingsford-Smith completed this 10,000-mile flight in the remarkable time of 10 days, 23½ hours as against the 15½ days it took Bert Hinkler, the previous record-holder, to make this trip in 1928. Kingsford-Smith's time is the more impressive in view of his temporary disability—loss of sight—shortly before his flight he had undergone two operations and had experienced other difficulties, but was not by his doctor not to make the flight.

The view is expressed that this Australian accomplishments are of a more impressive nature even than those of Col. Lindbergh's in America, whose great solo flight from New York to Paris and whose subsequent tours in the air also met in neighboring countries since that time have stamped him as perhaps the world's greatest one-time hero. Certainly Kingsford-Smith's achievements, in crossing the Pacific, then the Atlantic, and now in making this 10,000-mile hop across the vast sea and terrain of the southern world, have placed his brilliant career on the list of the greatest aviators the world has known. He has distinctly scored in behalf of the conquest of the air by this community of nations as a whole. He has written high the name of the British Empire as one of the leaders in daring and achievement in the skies. —Regina (Evening) Leader-Post.

Ancient Barley

Specimens Of Three Thousand Year Old Barley Received By Manitoba Agricultural College

The Manitoba Agricultural College has just received a specimen of three thousand year old barley from Palestine. The barley was found by the archaeologist, Sir Flinders Petrie, and has reached the college through the courtesy of Prof. Leroy Waterman of Ontario Museum of Archaeology, at Toronto. Dr. C. T. Currelly. The barley was found in a tomb at Gerar in Tell-Fara, Palestine, which date back to the time of King Solomon. The barley had been placed in a small receptacle of charcoal, but the shape of the seeds or broken pieces of seeds show no evidence of charring.

Among the New Fruits

Fort Arthur Man Grows Orange From Pumpkin Seed

Further samples of Fort Arthur grown bell products have been shown by J. Hamilton, who has specimens which attracted so much attention recently. Mr. Swanson displayed a large head of melon, described as the banana melon. In shape it is between a banana and a cucumber and in texture between the two. Another sample of cantaloupe. The chief product of his backyard garden was an orange pumpkin. It appears much like a hybrid of the orange and peach. In taste it is more like a pumpkin. Mr. Hamilton also showed the orange peach grow on vines.

Alberta Sugar Factory

The refinery of the Canadian Sugar Factories Limited at Raymond, Alberta, will likely be kept working to the end of January, the crop of beets having been heavy this year in the neighborhood of 11,000 tons, consist of beets began September 29th last.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 9

THOMAS—THE HONEST DOUBTER

Golden Text: "Thomas answered and said unto Him, 'My Lord and My God.'"—John 20.28.

Lesson: John 11.14-16; 14.5-8; 20. 24-29; 21.1, 2.

Devotional Reading: Proverbs 3. 13-26.

Explanations and Comments

"Thomas the Pessimist, John 11.14-16; Mark 10.32-34. When Jesus told the disciples that Lazarus was sleeping and that he would awaken naturally, and He had to tell them plainly that Lazarus was dead, they misunderstood, and that at first sight seemed strange. "And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe." When He had first heard of the sickness of Lazarus, He said, "This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified thereby." It was the last and great opportunity to render service and inspire faith.

"Let us go unto him," thus Jesus announced His intention of going to Bethany. Thomas is called Didymus, "Didymus means twin," was certain that death would be the fate of Jesus if He were seen at Bethany, but loyalty he said to the other disciples, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him."

Thomas the Practical, 14.5-8. Read John 14.3-6. In His last discourse with His disciples Jesus told that He was going to prepare a place for them in His Father's house. When He said, "And whither I go, ye know the way," Thomas voiced his failure to understand the words: "Lord, we know not whither Thou goest: how know we the way?" Thomas was still expecting Jesus to establish an earthly kingdom, and this obsession prevented his mind from grasping the deeper sig nificance of His words. "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life," Jesus answered. "The Kingdom which I came to reveal, is not of earth, but by one; the mansions of which I have spoken are in heaven, not on earth. To share in my Kingdom is to share that state of exalted spiritual life and communion with the Father, which is not possible on earth. I depart to heaven, to enter that state of life; and you may follow and enjoy it, too, if you will have faith in Me as the one Mediator between God and Man (the Way). No one therefore can succeed to reveal the things of God (the Truth), and the one Author of spiritual as of natural life (the Life), but Myself. The Way there is no going without the Truth there is no knowing without the Life there is no being." I am the Way which thou should pursue; the Truth which thou should believe; the Life which thou should hope for."—Thomas A. Kempis.

Thomas the Doubter, 20. 24, 25. Read the account of His appearance in the evening to His disciples. John 20.19-23. Thomas was not among them at that time; he was the only one of the eleven disciples to whom that first Easter was not Easter. His mood and mind were "dark" that they had seen the Lord. Thomas firmly maintained that nothing less than the evidence of his own senses —the putting of his fingers into the prints of the nails, and his hand into His wounded side—would convince him of the stupendous miracle as the resurrection of His Lord.

Thomas Convinced, 20.26-29. Again Jesus appeared, but this time the customary greeting, "Peace be unto you." He turned to Thomas and said: "Reach hither thy finger, and see my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and put it into my side, and be not faithless but believing."

Author: Proof Given Thomas, John 21.1, 2.—Peter, Nathaniel, James and John, Thomas, and two other disciples were by the Sea of Galilee. In the old haunts. By the Sea of Galilee Jesus had called them to be fishers of men. On the occasion of which we learned in our lesson last week, when James forgave Peter.

Has Faith in Sub Trip

Sir Hubert Wilkins' Voyage To Pole Will Be a Success

With luncheon Stefansson, who has spent most of his life in the Arctic circles, is firmly convinced that Sir Hubert Wilkins' voyage to the North Pole in a submarine will be a success. Sir Hubert was second in command during Stefansson's 1913-1918 Arctic expedition.

"If I were an insurance agency," he said, "and were to write a policy on Wilkins and his party, I would insure them for less in a submarine trip than I would in a polar flight in an airplane.

"The reason I believe the experiment will work out is that there are less storms under the surface of the North Pole. There are ice floes, but those floes are of no great depth and a submarine might be safely piloted under them.

"Many people think the Arctic area is covered with icebergs. This is not the case. If it were true, then such an undertaking as Wilkins suggests would be impracticable, for icebergs have a depth of a thousand feet or more."

Carnival Pudding

One of the most delicious desserts one can serve, and it is one especially loved by children, can be made from ingredients usually on hand in the cupboard. Here is the recipe: When He said, "And whither I go, ye know the way," Thomas voiced his failure to understand the words: "Lord, we know not whither Thou goest: how know we the way?" Thomas was still expecting Jesus to establish an earthly kingdom, and this obsession prevented his mind from grasping the deeper sig nificance of His words. RUSSIAN EXPORT OF WHEAT WILL BE GREATER NEXT YEAR

Labor newspapers in Great Britain are publishing glowing accounts of the efficiency of the huge grain farms in Russia. Some of them are as large as an English County and employ thousands of workers who are equipped with all the latest big power machines

Next year's harvest will be much greater, they suggest than this year's, and by 1933 the Soviets are expected to produce 750,000,000 bushels of wheat from these farms, which is twice as much as Russia used to export in a single year before the war.

Solving the Agriculturist Problem

"Has that expert in farm relief been of assistance to you?"

"Some," answered Farmer Corntassel. "He showed me where I can get a good golf course on my land as soon as I can afford to play the game."

WESTERN WHEAT MOVEMENT HEAVY

It is estimated that over 100 million bushels of prairie wheat will move through the port of Vancouver during the present season. E. C. Spaulding, Foreign Freight Agent for the Canadian National Railways following a survey of the shipping situation expresses an opinion that all records for the movement of grain westward will be broken before next fall and next spring. In order to cope with this increased movement additional motive power has been sent to the British Columbia district of the Canadian National Railways and some of the largest engines in the system will haul longer grain trains than heretofore have been attempted on any mountain division between Jasper and Kamloops.

Ex-Vermilionite In Los Angeles Writes

Maybe some of the folks at Vermilion would like to know just what this Vermilion stuff in Sunny California is celebrating, so here goes for some of the news:

Some of the people there will remember Venetia Shea and Bill Trimble; they went to school many years together in Vermilion, and have now decided to go thru life together, so they were married several weeks ago.

Then Esther Shea (the younger crowd will remember her) has also been married within the last month, to a Los Angeles boy.

We are very glad to see Mrs. Lamb (Alison Ebbett) among us for the winter, and we know that "Slim" will be glad to have our Pastor back.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Wemer and Dorothy paid us a flying visit but did not see all of the gang, so we all want to live so far apart, but next time they come we will send them a bush of sufficiency as we enjoy seeing old Vermilion folks around.

We also heard that Mrs. F. G Webster (Miss D Bowman) is expecting Miss Lark "anglish to visit her this winter some time. Come ahead, Lark, we will be glad to see you again

Mr and Mrs. Cecil Porter certainly have a fine looking baby girl.

Well folks, we think that it is time for us to sign off for this time, but you will be hearing more about that of many of ours at a later date

EIGHTH-YEAR-OLD GIRL IS BADLY BURNED

Rushed To Hospital Here Monday Night

Little Margaret Cloughyr, 8-year-old daughter of Michael Cloughyr who lives some nine miles north of town, was brought into the Vermilion hospital badly burned last Monday evening. The child's clothing caught fire when she was pouring wood into the fire, evidently catching from the wrist as the arms and hands were badly injured, as well as the limbs and lower part of the abdomen. In connection bout one-third of the body was suffering from the burns and her condition is extremely serious.

The little girl retained sufficient presence of mind to douse herself with water, extinguishing the flames.

GIRLS' CLUB MASQUERADE MOST SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

Good Costumes and Large Crowd Lend to Enjoyment

Hallowe'en, black and orange decorations, good music, and a large crowd of dancers, embracing the cream of Vermilion's social, professional and business life, all combined to make the dance, held under the auspices of the Girls' Club, the most successful affair of its kind in Vermilion for a long time.

From the commencement of the opening dance at 9:30 p.m. until 2:30 a.m. "joy was unconfined," and the few dancing enthusiasts who missed this terpsichorean event most certainly failed to avail themselves of an opportunity which comes all too seldom.

It is doubtful if finer masquerade costumes have ever been seen on a local dance floor, and the judges were presented with a formidable task in selecting the winners of the various classes.

The judging committee, consisting of Mrs. J. F. McQuarrie, Miss Dale Swanson and Mr. W. B. Elford, awarded prizes to the following: Best dressed lady: Miss Franklin Arm. Most dressed gentleman: Mr. Lee-mosting (Most original lady: Miss L. Kobos; Most original gentleman: Mr. W. McLaughlin; Best comic lady: Miss Lewis; Best comic gentleman: Mr. Good.

The music for the occasion was provided by the Orioles' orchestra, who dispensed a brand of dance rhythm which pleased all.

At midnight a most delectable lunch was served by the members of the Catholic Women's League, after which the exercise of "the light fantastic" was resumed.

Too much praise cannot be accorded Miss Madge McConville, the energetic president of the Girls' Club, and her able band of assistants for the splendid arrangements in connection bout one-third of the body was suffering from the burns and her condition is extremely serious.

The little girl retained sufficient presence of mind to douse herself with water, extinguishing the flames.

Manitoba Has Fine Beet Crop This Season

WINNIPEG—Sugar beets that are superior in quality to the finest beets produced in the United States were grown this year on the Rasi Selkirk, Lilydale and Stonewall beet settlements, according to a report made at a meeting of the beet committee of the industrial development board by H. A. Benning, general manager, and C. T. Lund, agriculturist, of the American Beet Sugar company. The two officials from the company at East Grand Forks, Minn., stated that they were highly pleased with the results of the tests made by the development board in the cultivation of Manitoba sugar beets.

The report shows that compared with the average yield of 9 to 10 tons per acre on American settlements, the Manitoba fields produced an average of 13.8 tons per acre. The purity is also greater than that of the American beets, the report stating that the local product is 85.1 per cent pure as compared against 83.2 per cent.

What counts most, of course, is the sugar content of the beets which are grown, and in this also the Manitoba product is superior, giving on an average 17.1 per cent sugar compared with the American average of 13.4 p.c.

CRUISE PASSES OVER "WICKEDEST SPOT"

This winter, Canadians and Americans can sample the new Canadian cruise ship Prince Robert will pass over the "wickedest spot on earth," the subterranean city of Port Royal, whose profligate inhabitants sank to oblivion in the earthquake which visited Jamaica 300 years ago. On clear days the submerged streets can be seen beneath the ship's hull.

Finishing touches have been given to the plans of the Canadian National Steamships in connection with their debut into the West Indies cruise business. Beginning December 20th, three cruises of a fortnight each will be conducted from Boston, visiting Bermuda, Jamaica and Cuba.

An order-in-council has been passed by the dominion government authorizing the granting of 160 acres of land to the United Greek Catholic church of Canada at Jaris at Pegasis. A similar order has been passed with regard to a 10-acre plot for the United Greek church at Myrnam. The lands are being taken for church and cemetery purposes.

It is estimated that there is fully 40 per cent more fall plowing done in the Vermilion district this fall than last season, which leads us to hope the farmers were preparing to take advantage of the very probably big demand for grain next year.

Frank Oyerstaden, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Greenslden, town, died suddenly Sunday afternoon at Pilot Butte, Sask. at the age of 23 years and 20 days. The remains were brought to Vermilion and the funeral held from the Methodist church this Thursday afternoon, interment taking place in the Vermilion cemetery.

Britain and a Wheat Preference

Whatever hopes may have been entertained by a considerable section of the Canadian people, our Western farmers in particular, that, as a result of the Imperial Economic Conference the British Government would grant a preference to the wheat of the Dominions through the imposition of a food tax or tariff on all foreign-grown wheat have gone a glimmering with the definite announcement of Premier Ramsay MacDonald that the British Government will not take this action because it cannot be done.

The British Government is extremely anxious to help out the food producers of the Dominions. It is most desirous of promoting and developing Empire trade. It is willing to do everything it can, but it will not place a Customs tariff on the food of its own people because it cannot do so. As an alternative it is giving serious consideration to bulk purchasing of wheat by the Government with a view to enough such bulk purchasing to giving a preference to Empire-grown wheat.

Undoubtedly there will be regret and disappointment in this country over Britain's decision. It is to be hoped such feelings will not be allowed to develop into anything approaching bitterness or antagonism towards the Old Country. Canadians generally should strive to understand and appreciate the British position. They should realize the facts of the situation.

In Great Britain this is not a political issue in a partisan sense. Liberals, Conservatives and Labour are all of one mind that, whatever preferential policies may be evolved at this time, they cannot include taxation of food supplies. Mr. Baldwin, who is more favorably disposed towards adoption of a policy of tariffs than either Ramsay MacDonald or Lloyd George, nevertheless admits it clear that he did not include tariffs on wheat and other food supplies and raw materials in his programme.

Here is the situation. Great Britain is a country small in area but with a large population. It raises only a small fraction of the food its people require. It is a highly industrialized country, yet the variety of its natural raw products for purposes of manufacturing industry is small and strictly limited in scope. She would like to see her supplies and raw products from that it may exist. In order to pay for such food supplies and raw materials it must sell its manufactured goods abroad. Taxing its food and raw materials would so increase the cost of production that it could not compete with other nations engaged in manufacturing but which likewise possess large food producing areas and needed raw materials, as, for example, United States, Canada, Germany.

Now consider Britain's trade position with two countries, Canada and Argentina, by way of illustrating the position of the Old Country. Both countries have large surpluses of wheat for export; both are nations to add to the British market. Britain has two main articles she is anxious to export in large quantities, manufactured goods of all kinds and coal. The Argentine lacks coal, and is prepared to purchase it from Britain in exchange for wheat. Canada, on the other hand is rich in coal deposits and is averse to large importations of coal from Britain entering into competition with Canadian miners. The Argentine is not a large manufacturing nation, and is prepared to purchase extensively in Britain, selling her wheat and meat products in exchange. Canada, on the other hand is a manufacturing as well as an agricultural country. Its production of manufactured goods per head of population is one of the highest in the world. Canada is capable of manufacturing not only all the cloth, textiles boots and shoes, paper, automobiles, and a multitude of other articles required by her own people, but enjoy a large export trade in manufactures of all kinds. Canada therefore, takes as a whole is not anxious to take manufactured goods from Britain in exchange for wheat, meats, and various raw materials.

Viewed as notwithstanding a sentimental desire to favor Canada as a sister nation of the Empire, Britain simply cannot afford to impose a tax on eggs not the Argentine and jeopardize her profitable trade with and her huge investments in that country. As Premier Ramsay MacDonald has stated: "We cannot do it."

Nations are like individuals in many respects, but in some more emphatically than in this, that they will buy where they can buy the cheapest and where they can sell their own goods and products to the best advantage. And they do buy. Sentiment may alter this to some extent, but it can never overcome it.

The Americans, North and South, are food-exporting countries, with what the big item, so, too, is Australia, New Zealand, India, and so has Russia been in the past and will be in the future. China and Japan need food but the British purchasing power of vast millions of their people is not sufficient to enable them to buy high priced food. The wheat exporting countries which are prepared to buy from her in exchange for the sale of food products and raw materials, this interesting her own unemployment problem and at the same time increasing the cost of food to her people and of needed raw materials for her industries.

The British Labour Government says: "It cannot be done." The British Liberal party says: it cannot be done." The British Conservative party, while favoring tariffs, to safeguard Britain's industries, says in regard to food and raw materials: "It cannot be done." It is no repeal, and a political question in a party sense in Great Britain. It is an economic question.

And in Canada, whatever our sentiments, desires, interests, or political views and opinions may be, it is just and right that we should at least look at and appreciate the British point of view.

Boy Quits Save King's Absence Would Not Disappoint His Parents

When the King was in Yorkshire no one occasion he promised to review a boys' brigade. At the last minute, however, His Majesty was forced to cancel the engagement and a local notability was hastily substituted but the managers of the affair thought it only right to notify their purchasers that Royalty would not be present. Presently a small boy, who was to take part in the parade, came along with a request for two tickets for his parents. He was told of the disappointment in store for them. "Oh," said the lad, "they'll not be disappointed! It's not the King that father and mother are coming to see —it's me!"

Wild Life Valuable

Canada realizes quite a revenue each year from its wild life. According to Dr. H. F. Lefcis, of the Department of the Interior, this wild life has a capital valuation of one billion dollars and a yearly business turnover of about $45,000,000. This valuation includes the fur harvest, game fish, and their influence on sales of sports goods.

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, deprive infants of the nourishment that they should derive from their food, and mal-nutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full nutriment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

Northern Indians Need Help

Federal Government To Take Steps To Relieve Distress

Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of Interior, is taking immediate steps to relieve distress among Indians who have neither money nor food to carry them through the winter. Discussing the conditions of three wards of the state, Mr. Murphy said that the Indians on the southern reserves, where agriculture is the main source of livelihood, are in fair shape for the winter months, and it is not expected that federal assistance will be needed.

On the northern reserves, where trapping is the only occupation, the Indians, in many cases, have had a bad year and are in urgent need of succor. The problem, he intimated, was not a purely unseasonal or extraordinary one. He is a matter of fact that the fur-bearing animals in these areas are rapidly disappearing as a result of operations of white trappers.

The Indians on these northern reserves are unable to catch enough fur within the limits of the reserve, tion to make a living, and they have been accustomed to trap over contiguous territory. These non-reserve areas belong to the provinces. The federal government has no control over them.

The Indian, said Mr. Murphy, is a fur farmer, and does not exterminate wild life. But the white trapper who have gone into these areas, under provincial licenses, have had no regard for the protection of wild life and have seriously depleted the numbers of fur-bearing animals. For this reason, some of the Indian reserves are now in distress.

The Indian affairs branch of the interior department, under instruction from Mr. Murphy, is making a rapid survey of the situation and relief will be given at an early date.

IN MUTUAL TRUST LIES THE WAY TO SOLUTION OF WAR

London, England.—The Prince of Wales told delegates to the Imperial Conference that in the establishment of international habits of co-operation and mutual trust lies the way to the solution of war. He spoke at a banquet to the delegates in the Guildhall, his words coming clearly to thousands of Canadians by means of radio broadcast.

"Britain and her Dominions," he said, "have solved the problem of association among themselves and relegated war to the scrap heap. Is it too much to hope that the other three-quarters of the world, despite difference in language, ancient enmities and mistrusts, may tread the same path?"

The approach of Armistice Day, he asserted, has made that awful period when the British Empire demonstrated to the world its own complete solidarity as the greatest brotherhood the world has ever known, and its readiness to help in the creation of a similar brotherhood among all nations.

"There remains those who profess a disbelief in the ability of the League of Nations to prevent war, but what," he asked, "have they to offer as an alternative for the establishment of peace and the rebuilding of world prosperity?"

B.C. Bandits Escape

Four Evade Guards But Part Of Booty Was Recovered

Vancouver, B.C.—Showing their way through a guard established on the Fraser River bridge by two Westminster constables, four safe-crackers who obtained $10,000 in stocks and bonds and $300 cash from a store at Haney, B.C., made their escape from the province and eluded all efforts of police posse to surround them.

The $10,000 loot, apparently dropped by the robbers in their dash towards the woods of Queen's Park, was recovered. It was found on the grounds of the mental hospital, reposing safely in a small drawer which had been removed from the safe.

Pledge Not Kept

British Government Protests Against Continuance Of Soviet Propaganda

London, England.—The British Government has made representations to Soviet Russia that the Moscow Government has not been observing its pledge against propaganda exchange between the two countries on the resumption of relations.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, divulged in the House of Commons that this representation had been made as a result of inquiry into propaganda carried on by the Third Internationale in Great Britain and other parts of the Empire.

"I asked the ambassador to impress seriously on his government that continuation of this propaganda would be calculated to endanger relations between the two countries. The ambassador, continued Mr. Henderson, "said that the Soviet government would continue to observe the pledge but could not control the activities of the Third Internationale."

Loud Conservative cries greeted this statement, but the matter was allowed to drop.

Prospectors Drown In Northern Manitoba Lake

News Of Tragedy Reveals Tale Of Hardship

The Pas, Man.—Lakes of Northern Manitoba took their first human toll of the season when two prospectors, Charles Stabbard and Fred Miller, drowned. They crashed through thin ice while travelling across Herb Lake, details reaching The Pas from the north, indicate a typical northern tale of heroism lies behind the tragedy.

The men were travelling by dog team with a canoe on the sled. One prospector fell in while the other was on shore himself. He also broke through, but far away, obtaining a long pole and attempted to save his companion, reaching him once but the latter apparently lost grip. Meanwhile snow storm that swept the Herb Lake area, he met death with his partner. The pole was floating on the surface of the water to mark the tragedy for searchers. The bodies were recovered.

Recover Part Of Money Only

Winnipeg Police Succeed In Locating Only Part Of Loot Of Bank Bandits

Winnipeg, Man.—Detectives of central police headquarters made records in the fast round-up of alleged bandits in the Transcona Bank of Toronto robbery on October 1, but they have had little success, despite diligent search, in locating the majority of the $12,000 "haul."

Ten persons were arrested in connection with the robbery, one is now under sentence of three years in the penitentiary, three others have been committed for trial, and charges are pending against the others. Only $3,000 of the $12,000 secured by the bandits has been recovered, and a solitary arrest has been made who has escaped with the missing $9,000.

EMPIRE RADIO STATIONS MAY BE ESTABLISHED

London, England.—At the Imperial Conference, the committee on communications, which has been considering the erection of an Empire broadcasting station, encountered both associal and technical difficulties. The cost of the central station, which would be built in England, is estimated at 40,000 pounds, or about $194,800 a year for the first five years. The cost would be allocated has still to be determined.

Relaying stations would have to be constructed in the Dominions to ensure proper reception. The idea would be to broadcast a regular daily programme, including news bulletins, through out the Empire. According to the skeletonized plan already submitted, four safe-keeping stations would be built in England, separate hours of broadcasting, and Canada, owing to the difference in time, would have that the position of the provinces will not be determined until the un-ist 1929 grab is disposed of, namely, he says, in about three months

No ultimate ban will accrue to Alberta in any case, states Premier J. F. Hodgins, who claims that it will all be taken care of by the Wheat Pool "He states that the prairie governments are not being pressed to meet the guarantees they offered to the leading banks and chain tedious crop-loan talk as "a matter of speculation." No stand on the question has been taken by Saskatchewan's premier, Dr. J. T. M. Anderson denied that when the provincial government deem a statement necessary it will be made.

Premier Hodgins at a recent speech described the agreement as a fair one as somebody's guess.

Pool Guarantees

Information In Connection With Wheat Pool Loans Will Be Given In January

Winnipeg, Man. At about the end of January, "loans" to the Prairie Provinces in connection with their backing of Wheat Pool bonds will be definitely known, according to the statement of Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, one of the leaders who says that the prairies may lose more than $10,000,000 unless wheat prices rise. He has been quoted that the position of the provinces will not be determined until the un-ist 1929 grab is disposed of, namely, he says, in about three months

Home Government Will Not Interfere

Dominions May Choose Governor-Generals For Appointment By King

London, England.—The Daily Herald says one of the most important results of the Imperial Conference would be elimination of interference of the home government in selection for governor-generals for the dominions.

The paper said a method of procedure had been worked out in committee and that in the future each governor-general would be appointed by the King solely in consultation with and on the advice of the dominion government

SUGGEST BONUS TO ASSIST THE WHEAT FARMER

Ottawa, Ont.—A proposal that the all wheat farmers whose wheat crops were caught in the rain and snow storms this fall be given serious consideration by the Department of Agriculture. It costs three cents a bushel to dry tough wheat and five cents a bushel to dry damp wheat

The proposal which the department has under consideration is said to be that the Dominion offer to pay one and a half cents a bushel to all grain caught in the storms if the province would pay a like sum.Sir Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, has stated that the government would be prepared to recommend to his colleagues that the government make such an offer, if would be accompanied by a provision that it would only apply to a limited number of bushels for each farmer.

The undertone of raising the crops injured by rains has made more acute the situation of the prairie farmer who already actives because of the low price grain is bringing. It is known that Mr Weir has been studying every suggestion to cope with the difficulty ever since the drying rains which will be paid for often in drying, which because thashed and stacked in a grade. The proposal would make whether the government in case it is done, will be able to find a way to pay for drying. Experts estimate that much of the wheat caught in the rains would make No. 4 grade. The point has been raised whether it would be economic if to transport all such wheat to the head of the lakes, whether it would not be much more practicable to feed it on it.

One point of view which is the trade is that if the low prices which is the farmer with the wheat would be the cost of drying, the farmer would be the cost of drying, the farmer would be the cost of drying, the farmer

"PRUDENCE IN PARTICULAR" IS GREAT COMEDY

Dramatic Society's Presentation Is Replete with Wit, Humor

Reserved seat tickets will be on sale this week end for the St. Saviour's Dramatic society's annual presentation, which this year is "Prudence in Particular," a particularly brilliant comedy in three acts. It will take place in the Columbia Theatre on Monday evening, November 17th. The cast selected for this play is, it is felt, a most able one, and the members of the dramatic society, whose aim is to give a good humorous play each year and at the same time something different from previous efforts, feel that in "Prudence in Particular" they have accomplished the desired end

Full houses have invariably been the rule at each of the plays presented by this local organization, and as the reserved seat sale will only be on for ten days, the general public is urged to secure tickets early. The plan will be at Long's Drug Store on Saturday and the admission price for reserved seat tickets is 75c. The first three rows are reserved for children twelve and under at 50c

Those purchasing exchange tickets are reminded to exchange same for the reserved seat tickets at Long's.

Watch for particulars as to the cast and synopsis in next weeks Standard, and remember the date, Monday, November 17th at 8:15 p.m. at the Columbia Theatre, Vermilion

SYNOPSIS

Sara Manners starts the trouble by telling Nancy that John has paid attention to other girls before his marriage, and to Prudence in particular. As Nancy is old-fashioned in her ideas, she bothers John to know if it was "Prudence in particular." He says he can't remember—there were so many. The trouble is made worse by the fact that Prudence comes to see John "late at night" and when tazed he won't tell Nancy what for — so they quarrel, badly. The play relates the result and sequence of their quarrel, which involves other people. Cleverly written, this play furnishes a pleasant evening's entertainment.

Craig Bros., Ltd Celebrate 25th Anniversary Sale

Quarter Century Successful Merchandising

Twenty-five years ago, the firm of Craig Bros., Ltd. was established in Vermilion and are now operating three large departmental stores with forty clerks in their employ. Their aim has been to sell dependable merchandise at a fair price — to operate stores where shoppers could buy safely and economically.

Today they feel that the greatest asset that they possess is the goodwill of their countless friends, and it seemed fitting that their friends should participate in some manner in the celebration of their twenty-fifth anniversary of successful merchandising.

Time has wrought many wonderful changes. A common sight on our streets in 1905 was the ox-team and cart used by many of the early settlers. This in time gave way to the domestic and carriage, to be followed by the more modern means of transportation—the automobile, and who can say that should Craig's be permitted to continue serving the people of Vermilion and district for twenty-five more years, that customers will not come to town to do their shopping in aeroplanes.

They have made elaborate preparations for the "Big Ten Day Anniversary Sale" and extend a cordial invitation to all to come and visit them some time during this period.

Confidence and friendship unite in winning and holding customers, who make success in business possible. Confidence cannot be won in a day—it is the result of frequent contact and numerous experiences. The firm of Craig Bros., Ltd. have successfully entered to the home requirements of the people of Vermilion and district for the past twenty-five years and the solid foundation which they have built will, undoubtedly, continue to merit the confidence and good-will of customers in years to come.

THE STUDENTS REGISTER AT AGRIC'L COLLEGE

Term Opened on Tuesday — First Classes Wednesday

The fall term of the Agricultural college opened on Tuesday with an enrolment of about 100 pupils. This may yet be augmented by further students during the end of the week. Owing to present financial conditions it was hardly expected to have even that many for this year's courses. The Standard expects to have a more detailed account of the opening for next week's paper.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

"Peace" was the theme of the address by the Rev. Gerald McComas at the annual Memorial service held in the Columbia theatre on Sunday, November 9th and which was attended in bodies by all Returned Men, Ladies' Auxiliary, I.O.D.E., Boy Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies, as well as a large number of the citizens of the town and district

At 2.15 p.m. the above named organizations paraded from the Memorial hall to the cenotaph, where wreaths were laid by the Canadian Legion, Auxiliary and Girl Guides, and a prayer was offered by Capt Ennis of the Salvation Army. Continuous to the theatre, the service was opened by the Rev. H. A. Boyd, followed by a Scripture reading by Rev. G. McComas, and the "Last Post" played by J. Waring. The address of the afternoon followed, by Rev. G. McComas. Several well known and appropriate hymns were also sung. A prayer by Rev. Boyd and the singing of the National Anthem closed the service.

JUDGMENT IN FAVOR OF SCHOOL BOARD

His Honour Judge Green has now handed down judgment in the action of the Board of Trustees for the Wolf Lake Range School District No. 2 in the province of Alberta vs John Biel (ex. Wilhelm Ballas and Zinka Ballas of Primula post office, in favor of the plaintiff school board for all of amounts claimed, namely $95.65 for the cost of a well destroyed by the defendants, $23.50 for expense incurred by the school board and $200.00 damages together with the costs of the action. F. J. Richardson acted for the plaintiff school board and J. H. C. Morrison, K.C. for the defendants.

This action was for damages against the defendants by reason of their act in filling up a well belonging to the school board, with straw and manure. The land had been taken from the defendants by expropriation proceedings and the judge held that the order of Mr. Justice Ford vesting the title to the land in the school board could not be attacked by the defendants in this action. He also held that filling in the well was a most reprehensible act unquestionably wilfully and maliciously done and that it rendered the land entirely unfit for the purposes for which it was obtained He further stated that in his opinion the amount claimed as damages was very modest

The case was heard by him on the 7th of October last.

A dance will be held in the Pelican Lake school on Nov 28th. Everybody welcome. Gents — Dollar 25. Ladies and a good time. 28-2x

Let These 6 vital Salts rid you of

PIMPLES

Would you like quickly to free yourself of those hideous pimples, those unsightly blackheads—and have that smooth soft skin perfection you've always craved?

Do you want to have eyes so sparkling and bright as water dancing in a summer's sun?

Would you like to enjoy glorious health with plenty of energy and promise a long span of life?

Then take a courier compound of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast!

Kruschen is a combination of the six vital salts which your nerves, glands and body organs ought daily to receive from food if they're to function correctly and which are impossible to obtain in these days of modern cooking.

Kruschen swiftly clears your blood of those harmful acids which cause your skin to erupt—you'll possess a skin the velvet and a health perfection you didn't think possible!

Saskatchewan Plan Wins Enthusiastic Approval In Rural Sections

The correspondence course by which the Saskatchewan Department of Education has made high school instruction available in rural districts in the province unable to take advantage of ordinary high school facilities, has apparently won the enthusiastic approval of parents, students and teachers in rural parts of the province. Already a total of 641 pupils have been enrolled, while 1,200 applications forms have been sent out in response to requests.

Parallel Drops In Two Tragic Deaths

Thomson Perished With R-101, Blackmore Killed By Fleet Train

A curious parallel is being spoken of in London between the death of Lord Thomson, Air Minister, who perished in the R-101 disaster, and that of the last Cabinet minister to be killed in an accident, William Blackmore, who met death almost exactly 100 years ago.

Blackmore who was president of the Board of Trade, was knocked over by a train when he was attending to his official capacity the opening of the first British railroad, the Manchester and Liverpool line.

His death caused a great outcry at the time against the new means of transportation.

The moral does not need to be pointed out, British observers say.

First Metal Base Highway

Man Just Been Completed For Test In Springfield, Illinois

Just about a quarter of a prediction made at the meeting of the International Acetylene Association that cars would become the base of highways was soundly ridiculed, but the world's first metal base highway has just been completed in Springfield, Ill., as a test for wear and influence on the construction of highways in the future.

Iron plates were used on the rolled and leveled sub surface and then the section was covered with a concrete mud cushion and the brick wearing surface. The only fuel completed was the first task of three designs with which experiments will be made. The next step will be in determining the matter with great interest because of the possible outlet for additional iron in the coming years.

Adds Thrill To Sport

Hot Summer Can Fly With New Germans Invention

Some of the thrills of flying are reproduced in the winter sport of skiing with a pair of wings worn by the old runner. The wings made of aluminum by a German inventor, are fourteen feet from tip to tip and enable the wearer to take short flights 15 to 20 feet above the ground without momentum on the skis. They are so constructed that the ski rider is virtually sealed in the centre of them when he leaves the ground. They are moveable from a horizontal position and easily controlled, enabling the rider to change direction of flight.

Canada Has Valuable Fur Farming Industry

Over Sixteen Million Dollars Invested In Fur Bearing Animals

Fur farming in Canada is now established as a leading industry. The latest available figures show that the industry today represents a capital value of $32,880,617, of which $16,401,453 is invested in fur-bearing animals.

Ten years ago the total value of fur-bearing animals on fur farms in Canada was placed at $4,732,105. The industry today represents a capital investment of practically four times as much as in 1920. The silver fox heads the investment list with a capital investment of $14,922,578—an increase of $10,400,900 over 1920. The negi from the standpoint of investment value is the muskrat, which now represents an investment of about $600,000. With a capital investment of $328,928 the mink comes next. This is an increase of 56 per cent. over the preceding year and of $234,153 over 1920. The otter, coypia, silver blue fox and beaver are other newcomers to the fur industry.

Hugh Walpole Chooses His Books Worth Being Called Literature

Hugh Walpole has revealed in a speech at King's College, London, England, that there were only six books in the world worth being called literature. He listed them as follows: "War and Peace," by Tolstoy; "The Iliad," Homer; "The Brothers Karamazov," Dostoyevsky; "Keats' Poetry"; "Arabia Deserta," Doughty; "Canterbury Tales," Chaucer.

"As wickly divergent as can be," was Mr. Walpole's comment on his selection.

ACID CONDITION
the common cause of pain and discomfort after eating--

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your stomach is "sweet," the fire is lamp in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods. Take one or two tablets and the acid will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume of acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and harmlessly passes these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headache, nausea or biliousness indicate an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days after you will experience the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drug-stores—in 50c bottles.

THE BELIEVING CENTURION—A GENTILE WHOSE FAITH JESUS COMMENDED

Golden Text: "And they shall come from the east and west, and from the north and south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God."—Luke 13:29.

Lesson: Matthew 8:5-13.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 60:1-9.

Explanations and Comments

The Centurion's Faith, verses 5-7.—Capernaum, a city situated on the Jordan, a centurion approached Him.

A centurion was an officer in charge of a century, a company of troops fifty to one hundred men, the hundredth part of a legion. This centurion was a Gentile, possibly a proselyte, who had built a synagogue for the Jews at Capernaum (Luke 7:5). He came to Jesus and told Him that his servant, who was a dear boy, lay at his side sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. Some diseases then classed as paralysis produce violent pain, we are told. "It would have been in accord with the general manners of his day —a day in which the servant was a slave without civil rights, liable to be tortured in a court of law, and to be slain at the caprice of a brutal master—if the centurion had scorned the families of his own household. On the contrary, his servant was dear to him, and he treated him with the tenderness he would show to his son. Perhaps there is no more or surer test of the meanness or magnanimity of a man's nature than the simple question, 'How does he treat his inferiors?'"

The Centurion's Faith, verses 8-10.—The centurion declared himself unworthy that Jesus be under his roof. "Only say the word, and my servant shall be healed," he said. Then he illustrated the power of His word. Jesus by this act experience: "For I also am a man under authority, having under myself soldiers: and I say to this one 'Go,' and he goes; and to another 'Come,' and he cometh; and to my servant, 'Do this,' and he doeth it." If he, a man under authority to others, could say to his soldiers, 'Go,' and they gave obey, how much more might Jesus, under authority to God, say to the disease of the servant, 'Go,' and it would be gone! "Instantly, as it would seem, as large and true a conception of God as Jesus had, and as its one sublime system of authority and obedience running up to the highest, rushed down on the mind of its activities, filled the soul of Jesus with delight." Phillips Brooks. And as His marvelled at the centurion's belief that He would heal at a distance, Jesus said to those with Him, "Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel."

The Centurion's Reward, verse 13. —Turning to the centurion, Jesus then said, "Go thy way; as thou hast believed, so be it unto thee." Thy blessing shall be as great as thy faith. And the servant was healed in that hour.

Space Development Of Plants

To shelter them from chill and speed their development every plant on some English truck farms is being provided with a hot-house of its own. The hot-houses take the form either of forcing jars of solid glass or pyramid-shaped metal frames into which panes of glass are set. The latter type is the most popular because the panes can be replaced if shattered. Each type provides the necessary ventilation through a hole at the top

Trouble For Labor Party

See Clouds On the Political Horizon In Great Britain

The British parliamentary barometer is at the "stormy" mark. Those who have studied the age-old history, and have followed the recent course of the parliament at Westminster decidere there have seldom been more clouds on the political horizon.

The present political upset will face a strong criticism from both Liberal and Conservative wings of its opposition on the score of its stated Palestine policy—a policy which Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, has already denounced as a step towards nullifying the Balfour declaration of the hard-pressed war-time days.

The tariff controversy is the most uncertain element in present day politics and is threatens as much danger to the Conservatives as to the government. The Imperial Conference, by the very fact of its meeting and discussions, will probably feed the issue to the British parliament.

Then the government is determined to repeal the Trades Disputes Act—a piece of legislation which practically all labor sections have united in terming "iniquitous." The press as a whole and labor speakers in particular have foreseen strong opposition from the House of Lords to the repeal of this act.

An Oil That Is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was put upon the market 60 years ago and finds favor fifty years ago. It was put up in small bottles to meet a small section, but as soon as its merits became known the demand became so great as to fatal, and it is now known and prized throughout this continent. There is no substitute for it.

Administration Of Lands And Other Resources Of The West Passes Under Provincial Control

The power now terminates the administration by the Dominion Government of the lands and other resources of the three Prairie Provinces, and of the areas in British Columbia known as the Peace River Block and the Railway Belt. These resources now pass under provincial control.

One of the notable changes involved is that the historic Dominion land grant policy now gives way to a much land policies as may be framed by the several provinces concerned. For nearly sixty years the homestead system has played a cardinal role in the disposal of what have been known as "Dominion Lands," and in the advance of Canadian development. Since 1900 nearly 600,000 homestead entries have been made, and while many of the post-War period, generally speaking, has represented only a limited degree of homesteading activity. The rise and fall of homestead entries has been somewhat better than anything else the fact that in more recent times the granting of homesteads has not been the all-absorbing task for the Department of the Interior that it was fifteen or twenty years ago.

A New Yorker On Canada

Points Out Several Points Of Superiority Over U.S.

Charles Johnston, who is one of the most scholarly of New York reviewers, criticizes in the pages of the New York Times Book Review on the Cambridge history volumes on Canada and Newfoundland. He says: "From this admirable historical study," that the Canadian view of American affairs is a certain definite atmosphere, which may, perhaps, be described as modest superiority. Not that there is any assertion of superiority anywhere in the book. The points of superiority simply emerge in passing. For example, we met some story by the year 1492, underlining its significance by an annual holiday. The Canadian date is 1473, when John Scolp the Dane, reached Canadian territory in the region of Labrador. We commemorate the founding of Jamestown in 1607, and of the Pilgrim State in 1620. But the year 1534 marks "the birth of Canada." Again we celebrate July 4, but here also, Canada outstrips us, for July 1 is the birthday of Quebec, in the year 1608. Finally the fact slips out that the area of Canada is greater not only than that of United States including its dependency Alaska—incidentally it may be added also greater than that of China—but the largest country in the Western Hemisphere.

Canadian "Pogue"

Small Fresh Water Lakes Found Along Coast Of Arctic Ocean

Pingoe are conical sand or gravel hills which rise sometimes as high as 100 feet above the swampy ground skirting the shore of the Arctic Ocean, particularly that part of the coast extending from the Mackenzie River to Cape Bathurst in the North West territories of Canada. The summits are hollowed out like a crater, and always contain a small lake of fresh water. All of the lakes in the vicinity are more or less briny, the natives have been known to walk long distances to get drinking water from the pingoe. The origin of these hills remains an unsolved puzzle.

Resistance For Wheat Growers Of Canada

No Cause For Pessimism Says Well Informed Bank Official

There is resistance for Canadian wheat growers and, therefore, for the whole of Canada in the review of world market conditions given to the Toronto Mail and Empire by Sir Frederick P. Alley, assistant general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. As Mr. Alley has charge of the bank's business throughout most of Canada, and as he must, therefore, be specially well-informed regarding the wheat export trade, his remarks at the time of the 1931 world-wide crisis.

The exhibit will take the form of a display of varieties of Siam best and glutinous rice. In addition it is highly probable that an officer of the agricultural industry will visit Siam in charge of the exhibit. The question is now under consideration by the industry, according to Mr. Butler's communication.

With the acceptance by Siam of the invitation to take part in the world's grain show in 1933, the total number of countries already accepting the invitation of the organization reaches ten.

Rice, which will form the exhibit of the Siam kingdom at the world's grain exhibition and conference in 1933, forms the chief article of food in the country, being the national food and staple article of export. Over 873,000,000 worth of rice was exported from Siam last year to different parts of the world, some 30,000,000 acres of land being devoted to rice cultivation.

Number Of Farms Reduced

United States Census Bureau Records Decrease Of 2.3 Per Cent. Since 1920

A reduction in the years of 72,763, or 1.3 per cent. in the number of farms in the United States was reported by the census bureau on the basis of complete returns from the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

The farms, which, under the census bureau definition, means a tract of land used for the purpose of farming composed of more than three acres or producing crops valued at $250 or more, totalled 6,287,377 as compared with 6,371,640 in 1925, when the last census of farms was taken.

Rice Varieties Will Be Sent To World's Grain Exhibition

Arrangements have been made from the office of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference of the acceptance by the Kingdom of Siam of the invitation to participate in the world's grain show to be held at Regina in 1933.

Horse Standard Improving

Better Class Of Hunters and Jumpers Being Bred In Canada

Both in number and in quality the situation in Canada as regards hunting or jumping horses is improving, it was stated by Lieut.-Col. Lieut.-Col. Moss said the society, with the aid of government grants, was generally making progress in its aim to interest the farming communities in the breeding of hunters. Practically 50 per cent. of all hunters shown at farms were suited for cavalry work, he said.

New Style Railway Coach

A railway coach, shaped like a streamlined car, with 500-horsepower aeroplane motor and driven by a propeller, was tested on a five-mile section of the Canadian Pacific Railway, near Toronto, Ont., recently. Capable of speeds of 125 miles an hour, the coach is equipped with a 500-horsepower aeroplane motor and driven by a propeller, which is controlled from a cabin at the front of the car. The car is designed to reduce the cost of operating branch line passenger trains.

New Machinery Needed

Development Of Flax and Hemp Making Machinery Offers Opportunity

In handling crops such as flax and hemp when so much labour is involved, the need of new machinery that will lower the cost of production can not be overemphasized, observes the Prize Specialist of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, in his annual report. Special attention is now being given to the processing of flax and hemp at the present time, and it is expected that some way of speeding up the production in stretching and retting will soon be found. The development of flax and hemp working machinery provides one of the greatest opportunities to Canadian enterprise at the present time.

Virtue In Soap

Found That a Liberal Use Teaches Boys Self-Respect In England

It is to the splendid advertisement of a firm of (by a strange coincidence), soap manufacturers that we owe the sudden general awakening to the worldwide significance of soap. These advertisements brought to our notice a fact of the utmost value, hitherto overlooked. The fact was this: Soap teaches boys self-respect.

Even though it ostensibly referred only to one kind of soap, I find it impossible to exaggerate the immediate and salutary effect this announcement had upon the national attitude. Grubby boys throughout the country were sternly commanded to wash; boys who had already washed were sent to wash again. A wave of self-respect began to sweep over the youth of England. Legions of astounded but appreciative scrubmasters sat down and recoiled. In letters to the manufacturers concerned, their gratified amazement at the way in which not only self-respect, but integrity, sterling worth, piety, benevolence, sportsmanship, kindness to animals and extraordinary mathematical ability began to show themselves in lads as soon as they began to wash with soap.—From G. K.'s Weekly.

Fifth Of Series Of Studies In Plant Diseases

One of the most useful publications which has been issued recently by the Federal Department of Agriculture recently is the fifth in the series of studies in plant diseases being carried out under the direction of the Dominion Botanist. The study deals with "Cereal rusts in Canada, the cause of cereal, forage and flax crops." It contains the latest findings of the Dominion Cereals Laboratories of plant pathology at Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Edmonton. The subject dealt with forms one of the general rules useful in the control and eradication of cereal diseases, but specific recommendations for the treatment of a wide variety of specific cereal diseases. The crops dealt with include wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, millet, flax, sunflowers, alfalfa, sweet clover and common clover. This circular, No. 123 New Series is available without charge on application to the Publications Branch of the Department at Ottawa.

20,000,000 Acres Of Land Under Cultivation In the Province

Recent reports show that the Province of Saskatchewan has grown from 60,000 farms in operation with 2,000,000 in crop when the province was organized in 1905 to 118,000 farms with 20,000,000 acres under cultivation at the present time. Also, the province is now organized along agricultural lines; the wheat crop of 300,000,000 bushels vies with various other farmers' organizations now operating to the benefit of the province.

History of Quinine Is Interesting

French Botanist Made First Effort To Transplant Tree From Peru

One of the most important contributions in the pharmacopeia in quinine, which is not only a valuable drug, but fortunately, of the cheapest. No white man goes to tropical countries without securing himself of a supply, and every member of the family in human throughout the world, has blessed its uses many a time.

Originally it hailed from Peru, but the trees were destroyed so extensively to obtain the bark from which the powder is obtained, that the price rose to an almost prohibitive sum. It soared to five dollars an ounce and thousands of people in the east died for lack of it Today there is plenty for manufacturing thanks largely to the efforts of a British civil servant, whose name should for ever be blessed

The history of quinine is interesting. The first effort to transplant the cinchona from its native habitat was made in 1743 by the French botanist La Condamine who lost his specimens in the Amazon after penning them for eight months. Juneau, after fifteen years' laborious work, was robbed of his collection because a native thought that the box containing them being so closely guarded, must have gold in it. The loss deprived the botanist of his reason

Clements Markham in 1870, a clerk in the India Office, who had been to Peru previously suggested another effort at transplanting, and he was appointed head of a small expedition in which his principal assistant was the celebrated Kew gardener Spruce It was absolutely necessary not to let the natives know what he was doing, for he quickly found that intentions were suspected so, instead of waiting till the seeds ripened, he decided to get what he could now and soon so, he met with several adventures A hurried departure from one village saved his from scarcity and from another he got away by virtue of a timely flourish of his revolver—headed with hopelessly damp ammunition. When at last he got the plants to the shore he heard that the boatmen who were to convey them to the ship had been bribed to pour boiling water on them.

Nevertheless Markham always maintained that it was with the full permission of the Peruvian Government that he took the plants, because he was not allowed to put them on board till he had interviewed a Minister Grown at Kew, they yielded seeds which were sown in the Neilgherry Hills, India The plantations were bringing in a revenue to the Government of thousands a year by 1880, and twenty years later the price had reduced the price of quinine to a few pence per ounce.

The total cost of the expedition was only $4,200.

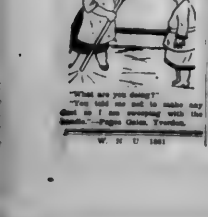
When Cleanliness Was Next To Impossible

Old French Retreat Allowed Only Three Baths a Year

A copy of a catalogue issued by a method for the nobility about 200 years ago at St. Cyr, shows that cleanliness was next to impossible then It shows that pupils were entitled to the use of underwear, a pair of stockings and two handkerchiefs a month. One towel was allowed each week, one foot bath a month and three complete baths a year The baths were taken during May June and July, and pupils went bathless the rest of the year.

Ball Singing Is An Art

Francis Fraser has completed his sixty-second year as bellringer at the Kirkton, Bingland, parish church. He is 80 years old, and plans to ring bells for many more years, although he is not an easy task. "Then was ring what we call an Oxford Triple Bob Major," he said. "It means two hours and 40 minutes continuous ringing with 5,040 changes and no two changes alike Ball ringing isn't a job. It's an art."



"What are you doing?"

"You told me not to make any fuss so I am swooping with the handle."—Pogue Onion, Yvordon.

Canadian Grown Tobacco

Production For 1930 Is Estimated At About 23,000,000 Pounds

Though tobacco has been grown in Canada for hundreds of years, production on a commercial scale dates from only a few years before the opening of the present century. In 1900 there were 11,000 acres of tobacco under cultivation which yielded 11,000,000 pounds. The preliminary estimate for 1930 indicates an area of over 65,000 acres and a production of about 23,000,000 pounds. The greatest increase in the past 30 years has taken place in Ontario, which grew 99 per cent. of the crop in 1930 and 75 per cent. in 1900. Except for a small experimental area in British Columbia, the remainder of the commercial tobacco is grown in the Province of Quebec.

Most of the Canadian grown tobacco is of excellent quality. This is indicated by the fact that over twenty-five million pounds are used in the manufacture of cigars, cigarettes and pipe mixtures, representing nearly 60 per cent. of the leaf utilized by Canadian manufacturers. Exports of Canadian grown leaf to the British Isles have averaged over five million pounds annually for several years. Smaller quantities are exported to Australia, Germany, Netherlands, Denmark, Switzerland, Spain, Malta and China.

Belong To Exclusive Family

Pitcher Plant Escaped Not Behind Tall Canadian Animals

Exactly who are the Pitcher? A family of four footed, furry mammals bearing this name arrived in Edmonton from Germany by Canadian National Express and were delivered to the Canadian silver bodger farm there.

In answer to the burning question, zoological authorities were called into consultation. The settler family travelled in special de luxe and the scenic of their travel diet had attracted much attention, according to V. A. Hall, superintendent of the Canadian National Express at Edmonton.

Now, there are not Pitches listed in the register of mammalian within the encyclopedia. It was thought that the name was German for Pitcher, but when consulted one of the Canadian badgers, because they were en route to a badger farm. Then someone got caught the name Pitch in the animal bluebook, and great was the loss of family prestige when even the definition European polecat.

But, matters could be worse, the European polecat is a very exclusive family, not found in the new world and not at all connected with the plebeian polecats known to Canadians.

Maintains Fertility Of Soil

Dominion Field Husbandry Experts Advocate Crop Rotation Scheme

The maintenance of soil fertility is absolutely essential to successful farming. Unless the soil is in a fertile condition it is impossible to produce large crops and large crops are the foundation of profitable farming, observe field husbandry experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The adoption of a good system of crop rotation is necessary as additional expense and is the most effective way in which to maintain the fertility of the soil thereby increasing the yield of farm crops. In addition, crop rotations assist in the control of weeds and help to keep in check insect pests and fungous diseases. The labor on the farm, too, is better distributed throughout the season when suitable acreages of various crops, planted and harvested at different times, are grown in rotation.

King George's Sheep For Canada

Sheep from the farm of His Majesty, King George V., at Sandringham, England, and from the famous flocks of Lord Harlech of Cowentry and other farms in the British Isles, have been received at Victoria for the Vancouver Island Pinckmasters' Association. If these importations of pure-bred sheep prove to be as successful for breeding purposes as exported additional flocks will be bought from British breeders.

Fertilizers Increase Yield

The use of fertilizers would appear to be justified by the results obtained on the experimental plots near Unity, Sask. The average increase in yield is about ten bushels to the acre The plots at Round Prairie, run as high as fifty bushels, and R. S. Hamilton got twelve bushels of commercial fertilizer on land which otherwise produced only two bushels. Similar striking results are recorded from other plots.

Farmers are accepting the giveaway of Yellowstone National Park, in an effort to eliminate the death of which is cleared off pasture, pumice and lumber.

Eggs Millions Of Years Old

Find Authenticated Account Of Reproduction Of Eggs by Dinosaurs

Princeton Party

The first discovery of eggs of the dinosaur, prehistoric animals ranging from the size of turkey cats to 50-foot lengths, was announced recently at Princeton University.

The eggs were found last summer near Red Lodge, mountain country, along with discovery of another fossil which suggests an answer to one of the great riddles of evolution, why dinosaurs became extinct after populating possibly the whole earth and consuming thousands of tons.

The other discovery indicates that they coddled with a higher form of intelligence.

Announcement of finding the eggs was made by Dr. Glenn L. Jepsen, director of the Scott Paleontological of Princeton University, who returned from the field.

This is the second authenticated find of dinosaur eggs. The first was found in Mongolia by Roy Chapman Andrews, of the American Museum of Natural History. The Mongolian eggs, nearly a foot long, at first were proposed as belonging to birds, an estimate which was raised to 25 million years last winter after scientists had checked the chemical activity of the minerals which turned them to stone. Describing the Montana work Dr. Jepsen said:

A number of broken remains of eggs were found, fragments not more than an inch in diameter. These age is estimated at millions of years.

"The fragments resemble those found in Mongolia in several particulars, both occurring in closely similar geologic formations. The American eggs were found in the upper lance formation which was deposited in the upper cretaceous time."

Upper cretaceous is the end of the period which geologists estimate as being about 125 million years ago and lasting about 50 million years. Thus the Montana eggs might be about 75 million years old.

The eggs found in Montana are thick, whereas those found in Mongolia are thin, of the same color and texture.

The suggestion of the dinosaurs' fate came from finding near the eggs the remains of a carnivorous dinosaur, a temporary animal, a mammal possibly of the possum family. The early mammals, though small, had better brains than the dinosaurs, which were repeatedly caught in their traps, various forms, armor plate, claws and teeth

The little mammals had the intelligence reasonably to eat dinosaur eggs, a prolific source of food.

The competition from some higher form of intelligence may have been a favorite theory to account for the extinction of dinosaurs, but mammals have been largely left out of the picture because evidence of their beginnings is found mostly in a later age.

Was Badly Fooled

Received Stoned Golf Balls Thinking They Were Nuts

The great mystery of disappearing balls at the Golf and Country Club here at West Orange, N.J., has been solved.

A wandering caddy now a squirrel pushing a hot ball through the rough. He followed. Arriving at a tree stump, the squirrel lifted the ball and deposited it in a hollow there. Investigating the caddy found a cache of seventy-five golf balls.

It is believed the squirrel mistook the golf balls for a new kind of nut and stored them for his winter meals.

Traveller: "What's the use of you here?" is a time-table if your rotten train don't run to it."

Porter: "Now you're all smiles! How could you tell they was smiles? Me if you didn't have a time-table?"

Traveller: "Aberdeen."

"Give me both your heads," said the Canadian. "You have but one," replied a Scot from Aberdeen plucked and waded.

VALUABLE MYSTERY PACKAGE

A mystery package, in bond and bound post haste for Denver, Colorado from Constantinople (now called Istanbul), Turkey, has attracted the attention of transportation officials. The package weighs five pounds and is said to contain necklaces. Their value is declared to be staggering.

The parcel is now in the hands and is being rushed in bond by the Canadian National Express to its destination. Since the beginning of their long trip the necklaces have experienced all manner of travel. They were sent over a week ago from Turkey to England by air mail and they just connected with the Cunarder Aquania, which brought them from England to Canada, landing them at Quebec. From Quebec their route is obscured by the mystery which surrounds the shipment. It is believed that they will complete their journey partly by air again.

Brit ish officials who cabled to Canada, to make arrangements for the reception of the bonded jewels said that their journey will establish a record for long distance express shipments from Turkey to Colorado in about two weeks.

WINTER MANAGEMENT OF THE BROOD SOW

Dry, well ventilated and reasonably, warm sleeping quarters, exercise, good wholesome food and plenty of water from which the chill has been removed, are the main essentials in the successful handling of brood sows during the winter months.

Expensive and elaborate piggeries for the winter housing of dry brood sows are unnecessary. All they require is a clean, well ventilated and reasonably dry sleeping berth. Such conditions are difficult to provide in either a permanent piggery or an ordinary stable as permanent sheds are likely to be poorly ventilated, damp and unsanitary and there is little opportunity for exercise. Brood sows do not suffer much from low temperatures providing the shelter is dry, free from draughts and of such a nature as to protect the animals from wind and storm.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alberta, the 6 by 8 foot portable colony houses have proven very satisfactory winter shelters for dry brood sows. A number of these are ranged side by side and erected and banked to the eaves with straw, leaving the fronts open and facing south. A heavy burlap sack hung over the door breaks the wind and provides suitable protection for the doorway. Each 6 by 8 foot colony house will comfortably accommodate four mature sows. The colony houses are placed some little distance from the feed trough in order to force the sows to take exercise. Weak pigs are probably more often due to lack of exercise on the part of the sow than to any other factor.

An important consideration in the care of the brood sow is the feed. Throughout the winter she should be kept in a thrifty condition but not fat. Over-feeding of breeding stock will almost invariably produce small litters of weak unthrifty pigs with a high mortality. The brood sow should not be fed exclusively on a grain ration but must have some muscle and bone building material if she is to produce a large and healthy litter. This she can obtain from skim-milk, tankage or legume hay. A satisfactory ration which is made up of two parts ground oats, one part ground barley, and one part bran fed dry. A mixture of 76 pounds clothed coal, 20 pounds salt, 3 pounds ground limestone and 1 pound of sulphur placed in a box for the use of the sows will supply the mineral nutrients which are needed for the development of the unborn young.

As a measure to prevent goiter in the young pigs, potassium iodide is given the brood sows in the following manner. One ounce of potassium iodide is dissolved in one gallon of water and one tablespoonful of this liquid per sow is added to the drinking water once per day.

TRUSTEES' CONVENTION HERE ON NOVEMBER 28

The seventh annual convention of the Vermilion Inspectorate School Trustees' Association will be held in the high school here on Friday, Nov. 28th. Registration will take place in the morning from 10 to 12 at Secretary Long's office in the town hall, while the regular session of the convention will start at 1 o'clock sharp in the assembly hall of the high school.

The program will comprise the discussion of resolutions, and addresses by prominent speakers, including Mr. A. B. Clarke, a member of the Provincial Legislature, Inspector H. R. Parker, who will speak on the attendance act as it effects rural schools, and it is also hoped to have a representative of the department of education present to address the meeting. With some 150 school districts in this inspectorate, a large enrolment is expected.

Sends Sargon To Far Off Roumania

President of Big Canadian Firm Says He Never Saw Anything To Equal New Treatment

"After taking five bottles of Sargon and two bottles of the Bett Mans Pills I want to say that in all my 70 years I've never seen anything to equal this remarkable treatment," recently said Jacob Oberman, Pres. of the Western Hardware Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Canada, who moved to Winnipeg from Roumania 30 years ago and who has acquired extensive real estate holdings in that city.

"In fact, Sargon has been of such great help to me that I am sending a full treatment to two friends of mine back in my old home country. I want them what a wonderful medicine it is and how it restored my health after all other medicines and treatments [illegible]

"I suffered torture with indigestion after meals and only those who have had this terrible affliction know what a blessed relief it means to get rid of it. I also suffered from chronic constipation almost as far back as I can remember.

"Now at the first few doses of Sargon my stomach seemed to right itself my nerves grew stronger and I began to sleep well and now I am in better health generally than I've been in 25 years.

"I used to take a physic almost every day of my life, but since taking Sargon Pills my bowels are as regular as clockwork. Their easy natural action makes them especially suited to elderly people like myself I only hope my statement will help other sufferers."

This is only one of the thousands of cases where grateful men and women have received such wonderful benefits from Sargon that they have sent it to their relatives and friends [illegible]

Sargon may be obtained in Vermilion from Long's Drug Store.

AMONG THE HORSE-SHOES

The Horse Shoe Club feel that the season is all over and are making plans for another year. Sammy is busy now compiling all the averages for the year and the members can get a real line up on their ability as players shortly. We hope to publish the table in the Standard in the near future, so look out for your record.

—RINGERS—

Bill still wears that mournful look. Too bad, Bill; why don't you rout out that shoemaker and trim him good?

Overheard on the courts — Who won that tournament anyway? Dave says "We did, three games to two." Sammy says "We did, by 14 points." Scotty just grins while Bill keeps spouring.

There are some good horse shoe pitchers among the travelling men, you bet. Ask Joe Leveille.

As Dave says, it was worth fifty cents and Scotty agrees. Money does not mean everything to some of the [illegible]

BROWNIE NOTES

On Friday we had a skipping contest and a sing-song. We decided to go on a hike on Saturday. Tawny Owl took us for the hike and we proposed Brown Owl with a box of chocolates for her birthday.

Brown Owl was very pleased with the good turn out of the Brownies on Sunday. One of the Brownies showed the real spright when she went without her dinner to be on time.

Brownies the motto for today is "Be Prepared."

NEWS FROM ISLAY

The Islay teaching staff, Miss V. Clement and Mr. E. Stirling, attended the convention in Vermilion last Thursday and Friday thus giving the local children a long holiday. Both the teachers spent the week end at their respective homes in the city.

Miss Floris Purser and Miss Rita Bothwell both spent the week-end after the teachers' convention in Edmonton. Miss Bothwell returning home on Monday afternoon by train and Miss Purser by car on Monday evening.

Clarence Elliott of the Vanesti district south of town, who is attending Varsity, came home on Thanksgiving. Clarence's hair still shows the effects of the initiation, this being his freshman year.

Gordon Weeks and Bernie Lees of the bank staff spent Sunday and Monday in Edmonton.

The teachers' convention dance in the dormitory at Vermilion drew quite a number of Islay people. All report an exceptionally enjoyable time.

Miss Jean Fyfe who came home for Thanksgiving last Friday is not returning to Edmonton until the week end on account of the illness of Mrs. Fyfe.

A vast amount of threshing has been done in the district since the weather cleared and a few more days will see many machines pulling in. From all reports other districts surrounding this are further ahead with their threshing than the Islay country.

SPIRIT OF PROPHECY

History has proven beyond a doubt —especially to Jack Canuck— that certain men of old in foretelling future events wr.o led in their wise sayings by the unseen hand, or mind, of Truth. They were proved true, in that some of their sayings came to pass exactly as foretold, to the minutest detail. That this Spirit of Prophecy has been the especial gift of some men in a fact the world cannot fail to acknowledge. How these men acquired this gift seems to many, at least, a mystery, and two separate views are commonly held. First, that they were guided by a greater and more unerring Power behind the man; second, that the men in themselves were of remarkable make-up and intelligence. As to the second point, we ask again, who were those men such a remarkable race to? Was it their parents? That also seems a strange answer, seeing that their relations also lacked in this superior gift. And even should this answer be correct, it lends us to the illustration of the hen and the egg, where a certain party asked "Where does the hen come from?" and another says, "the egg, to be sure"; but the first party asks again, "Where does the egg come from" and the answer is vice versa. Now, we would like to know where both hen and egg got their original start.—Contributed

What Have You Learned About Life?

A world-wide organization of men recently conducted a contest, requesting letters on the subject: "What Have I Learned About Life?" Numerous replies were received, and from the evidence, fools had better not do better than those men on one of the prize winning essays. It is brief and to the point, and reads:

"I used to drive my father's car on the country roads. While bumping along over the rough ruts on the right side the left part of the road always appeared more inviting, but one day it suddenly dawned on me that it was enough to straddle the centre.

This is the first lesson I have learned about the tendency of life. The other side is deceiving. The boy longs to be a man and the old man glorifies the golden days of his youth. The poor man thinks the rich man has some consistently calls for more expense. But the successes and gains of life are not in the fulfilment of the past nor in the other man's back yard. They be within our own reach at the present time and in the present conditions. Life has nothing up for an even start.

The second thing I have learned about life is that God hasn't mislaid the job. We rejoice in the accomplishments of science, religion and social reconstruction but yet in the crowded ways of life we find vile strife, unbrotherliness political corruption and the curse of a maladjusted industrial order. Civilization is in its infancy and its growth will depend on us of the present generation. There are still new worlds for men to conquer.

It doesn't take long for one to learn that there is no getting by in the long run of life Being born into the world with this or that fortune or pedigree does not guarantee that one shall have a sturdy character and a personality that shines like the morning sun. Regardless of where a man starts in life those things of lasting value education, religion business power, a strong and virile physique and a happy home life are obtained only by long hours of patient and arduous toil and self-denying which alone are the harbingers of a radiant and unadorned personality. There are no sales and cheap accounts in the market places of life. The price of the best is constant.

Finally I have learned that there is enough happiness in life to go around. No man is cut off from his heritage of happiness even though it be interspersed with hardships and sorrows. To be able to see the vision of life's task in spite of the cramped quarters of a small job to find outlet of soul and character in shoeing a horse in Aberdeen, persecuted by others, to rejoice in the exaltation of personality while crushed in the wheels of industrialism, and to be happy in a great and thrilling quest with the fresh dawn of each memorial day—this is the major lesson of life.

Woman's Fortitude

Forces Herself To Smile Through Pain

"I never seem to find time to rest," complained overworked Bourvita. Under smiles and forced cheerfulness she was constantly undergoing fatigue, depression, headaches and backaches. Often she is in real pain but still forces herself to "carry on." Nerve nourishment is what she needs. Bourvita helps to build up the nerves. It relieves distress she will soonest or later suffer from a nerve breakdown.

A noted doctor has stated that "Health of the Nerves is the Health of Life." Bourvita is a nerve nourishing food. Its use means better appetite and palpitation so that the whole life is brought to a higher level.

There is no need, however for women to suffer in this way. All miseries of insomnia can be banished by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills create an abundance of new, rich, red blood and this new blood will bring strength and vitality to nervous, overtired women. Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Veteran Government Worker

Walter Todd Has Served in Civil Service For More Than Half a Century

Walter Todd, for more than half a century clerk of committees and private bills for the House of Commons, died at Ottawa recently in his 79th year. His long and busy life had been of brief duration.

The 57 years Mr. Todd spent as a government worker made him, in point of continuous service, one of the oldest members of the civil service. He succeeded his father to the position of clerk of committees in 1874.

In addition to the coincidence that father and son gave many years to the same post in the service of their country, one other peculiar incident stood out similarly in both their lives. In 1848 when the Parliament buildings, then situated in Montreal, were fired by an angry mob during the agitation which followed introduction of the Rebellion Losses' Bill, Mr. Todd's father cut the portrait of Queen Victoria from its frame and once again the canvas was saved by a Todd.

Would Cancel War Debts

President Beatty Of the C.P.R. Tells People Of U.S. That Cancellation Would Bring Back Prosperity

"It is not for me to say either citizen of the British Empire to discuss either publicly or privately the propriety or otherwise of such action," Sir E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, said in a speech at Plattsburg, N.Y. "But it is not surprising that men of great vision in the United States have reached the conclusion that if their money removed, industry would be stimulated, trade would expand and prosperity would return." The railway president was addressing a banquet of the eighth annual convention of the American Institute of Steel Construction. He surveyed the amity existing between the United States and Canada, and stressed the importance of railroading to the two countries and spoke of business depression and the reason for that situation in Canada. The interruption to the marketing of Canadian grain, the direct and indirect results of the slack market collapse of last fall and the somewhat unsatisfactory present condition respecting the navigation industry, were the principal contributing causes to Canada's present depression, Mr. Beatty felt.

The United States Mr. Beatty said, had reached a population of 75,000,000 before its export business equalled the amount of that of Canada in 1927. "It speaks well for a country's progress when with less than 10 000 000 people it can produce this result," he said.

Alberta Gas Contains Very Little Helium

Report States Extraction Is Not Considered Economically Feasible

Alberta gas contains an element of helium but evidently not of such quantity as would make its extraction economically feasible it has been stated at the Interior Department.

About 1917 during the war, economic interesting experiments were conducted at Calgary by Prof. J. C. McLennan, of Toronto University. It was found that whereas in the Texas gas, there is a content of 3 per cent helium, the Alberta content did not exceed a half per cent. Again the commercial helium was extracted at all.

The problem was one of economic feasibility and it was stated that it was not demonstrated. Soon afterward the war closed and the experiments were abandoned. Plans were made available to the research council, and to some extent the possible developments are still being explored.

Two Of Volcanic Dust

Volcanic dust is mainly used in the manufacture of cleansers, scouring powders, and abrasive soaps, but lately, ouside Canada, there has been an increasing demand for its use as an admixture in cement and plasters Volcanic dust beds up to thirty feet thick are being worked near Swift Current, Saskatchewan. There are other beds in British Columbia.

Should Be Enlisted

A fussy old woman inquired of a black porter the time of the train to Chicago She then went to a white man and asked him The negro went to the white man afterwards, and said with a smile, "Perhaps she will believe it now she has got it in black and white."

The finest diamonds come from the neighborhood of fresh-water rivers.

Dairy Production Increases

Increasing Demand For Dairy Stock In Prairie Provinces

"Statistics of dairy production at the present time indicate that Canada is an appreciable increase in milk and cream production all over Canada at the present time," observes Dr. J. G. Ruddick, Dairy Commissioner of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. With respect to butter production Ontario and Alberta show a 15 per cent. increase for the first six months of the production year, December to 31. One of the interesting features in the dairy industry at the present time is the increasing demand for dairy stock in the Prairie Provinces.

Two Sections In Grain Show

Growers should bear in mind that there are really two sections in the wheat classes of the World's Grain Show, Regina, in 1932. One section of five classes, calls for an exhibit of fifty pounds, the other for an exhibit of ten bushels. The smaller exhibit will, of course, consist of much more careful selection than will the larger. The ten-bushel sample may be prepared with clean-ing machine, but the other should be done very thoroughly.

New Color To Be Adopted In Printing New Issue

Fall styles in postage stamps will show a radical change in color scheme. Within a month, or sooner, if present stocks are exhausted, a new issue of stamps up to the eight cent denomination will be released by Canada's Post Office Department. Most colors will be changed in conformity with regulations of the Universal Postal Union, of which Canada is a member.

The one cent stamp will change its "dress" from orange to green; the two cent stamp will be red in place of green as at present; the insure five cent stamp will make its way for some but blue and the eight cent postal carrier will give up its blue color for a modish orange

New System Of Lighting

Dummy or imitation "windows" are providing a novel kind of illumination for new office buildings in London, England. Concealed electric bulbs that simulate daylight are in the windows, which are constructed so as to resemble real windows in size and shape. Tests have proved that work is easier under this light than in the light provided by the customary indirect glow from overhead bowls.

Felt Tired Out All Day

Could Not Sleep at Night

Mrs Aldanscad Labelle, 2181 St. James St., Montreal, Quebec, says: "After a spell of the grippe I was left very nervous, and felt drowsy and tired out all day, and could not sleep at night I was also troubled with my heart so I did not feel at all like working. I was told about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking five boxes I was completely relieved of my troubles, and can recommend poor Pills to everyone."

Shipping Asbestos To Japan

About Eighty Per Cent. Used to Produce Roofing

"The market in Japan for asbestos in lump powder and fibre as well as in packing and other forms is increasing year by year owing to the expansion of industrial plants using this material and to the great variety of uses to which asbestos products are being put in everyday life" according to James J. Langley, commercial secretary to the Canadian Legation at Tokyo, in an article in the Ottawa by the association and in the October issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal

About 80 per cent. of the asbestos used in Japan comes directly from Canada, a small percentage from Russia and the balance through one or two English concerns interested in the African asbestos deposits. The demand for asbestos powder and fibre runs to about 12,000 tons

Will Teach First Aid

Art To Be Taught At Balfour Technical School In Regina

The art of first aid is to be taught in specially established classes at Balfour Technical School in Regina. The school is co-operating in this work with the St. John Ambulance Association and a statement issued at Ottawa by the association says that the new departure illustrated the increased recognition being given the necessity for knowledge of first aid in industry.

The step is being taken by Balfour School with a view to enabling employers in Saskatchewan to comply with the regulations of the Workmen's Compensation Board which requires that employers have by 25 or more persons on their pay rolls maintain a first aid room in charge of a competent student of the art

EXPENDITURES FOR RELIEF ARE GIVEN APPROVAL

Ottawa, Ont.—Expenditures totalling more than $37,000,000 for public works and undertakings throughout the Dominion to relieve unemployment have been given final approval. Announcement to this effect was made by Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, Minister of Labor.

Work proposals put forward by various municipalities and provinces, which the Dominion Government has endorsed, aggregate approximately $14,000,000. A number of these undertakings are already under way. Construction and improvement programs for the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways total $25,-000,000. Expenditure through the grade crossing fund is authorized to the amount of $600,000.

Expenditures approved for the different provinces are as follows:

Ontario	$10,989,667
British Columbia	7,807,850
Saskatchewan	1,292,800
New Brunswick	102,300
Manitoba	254,675
Prince Edward Island	160,000
Nova Scotia	109,100
Yukon	5,000
C. P. R.	11,514,000
C. N. R. (Approx.)	11,139,650
Grade Crossing Fund	3,500,000
Total	$37,128,842

Proposed works and undertakings for Quebec and Alberta, with estimated expenditures, are expected to be received from the provincial and their municipalities shortly, Senator Robertson declared.

Upon these reports they will be placed before cabinet council for approval as has been done in the case of other groups of proposed expenditures in Ontario, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and the Yukon Territory will be submitted from time to time for Dominion approval, prior to announcement of those undertakings will follow.

"The prime minister's promise to the Canadian people that prompt action to relieve unemployment would follow the placing of the budget, has been implemented since Mr. Bennett took office on August 7," Senator Robertson declared. "Within a survey of accomplishments in this regard to date, the minister expressed warm appreciation of the spirit, in which all interested had heartily co-operated in hastening the placing of employment on as large a scale locally as could reasonably be expected.

"Steps are being taken," Senator Robertson stated, "to encourage employers to make use of the employment service of Canada. Employers employed workmen registered therein may be promptly made available for and accepted for employment as required. A complete list of localities and extent of expenditures for relief works throughout the country as Canada will be given to the public press from time to time so that the public and particularly unemployed men will have knowledge of where and when opportunities may be found. In every possible way during every day since the Federal Government's fair-wage and eight-hour-day policies have been inserted in that application of labor though working unnecessarily long hours is prevented and the employment of unemployed non-resident rates are provided for."

Wheat Shows High Protein

Calgary, Alberta.—The earlier threshed grain from the southern part of Alberta showed remarkably high protein content, tests having been made from many points. It is reported by the Alberta Wheat Pool, Reception for Headley and Middleton showed a protein content of 19 per cent., while many other points supplied samples of wheat which tested from 15 to 18 protein content.

Pays Tribute To Grenfell

London, England - The Prince of Wales paid a tribute to the work of Sir Wilfred Grenfell in a letter which was read by the Lord Mayor of London recently at a meeting of the Grenfell Association. The letter read "There is no doubt that Sir Wilfred is carrying on splendid work in a fearfully rough country, where economic unit of great potential value to Newfoundland and the Empire."

Manitoba Birds Are Evidently Slow

Brandon, Man. — A poultry exhibit of considerable size will be sent to the Toronto Royal Show this month by the province of Manitoba. John Underer of the city stated that more than 50 birds would be shipped east and that turkeys will comprise a large portion of the exhibit

Freemen Of City Of London

Prince Ministers Of Canada, Australia and New Zealand Are Honored

London, England. — In the old Guildhall, with its five centuries of stirring history, the Prime Ministers of Canada, Australia and New Zealand became freemen of the City of London. Premiers R. B. Bennett, J. H. Scullin, and C. W. Forbes, were declared in the ancient formula to be "men of good name and fame."

They do not become the freemen of the city whereby they will defraud the King or this city of any of its rights, customs and privileges," nor can the declaration of the conqueror-tore, "they will pay their scot, bear their lot, and as they will."

Sir Adrian Pollock, city chamberlain, introduced the new freemen. He said Premier R. B. Bennett "has not belied his reputation for plain speaking and sanity, to get things done, and his admirable attributes are the more conspicuous on account of his well-known hereditary and passionate loyalty to the empire."

Premier Bennett declared he felt the honor was conferred not upon himself personally, but as an honor to the Dominion of Canada. "I shall tell my fellow-Canadians, when I return, of the high regard you hold for them in this old city and of the deep concern ever manifested in their progress and prosperity," Premier Bennett said.

Premier Bennett referred to the Imperial Conference. "Of this great conference in which we are now engaged," he continued, "I can only say that every delegate, whether from the homeland or the overseas dominions, is actuated by an earnest desire to promote the well-being and prosperity of this great empire, this commonwealth of nations of which we are trustees."

Not Exempt From Taxation

Toronto, Ont.—Replying to the statement that the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Air Service was tax-exempt and was exempt from taxation, Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the system, told members of the Toronto Board of Trade Club, that from 1926 to 1929 the railway had paid in federal, provincial and municipal taxes $16,709,000 This amount, he said, was only $3,000,000 less than the total paid by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The $3,000,000 less can be explained by the fact that Maritime railways are under a different arrangement.

Carried Out Father's Wish

Kingsford-Smith Sentiers Ashes Of His Father Over Waters Of Pacific

Sydney, N.S.W Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, using the aeroplane in which he made his last memorable flight from England to Australia, scattered the ashes of his father over the waters of the Pacific Ocean, which had witnessed his first notable triumph in the air.

In his deeds too, William Kingsford-Smith, father of the aviator, expressed a wish that his ashes be cast on the waters over the Pacific, and his famous son thus performed his last sad duty to his dead sire. The elder Kingsford-Smith died November 2.

Short Cannes Death

Southsea, England.—Major Hugh Thomson, 66, only brother of Lord Thomson, the air minister who lost his life in the R-101 disaster, died November 2. Physicians attributed his death to shock as a result of the tragedy.

London, England.—Premier R. B. Bennett, of Canada, will probably visit Paris, after the Imperial Conference has concluded, to discuss trade matters with the French government.

Labor Secures Majority

Premier Ramsay MacDonald Wins Through First Division

London, England.—A majority of only 31 votes carried the Labor Government of Premier Ramsay MacDonald safely through the first important division of the current parliamentary session.

This was regarded a crucial test, for the balloting was only on a motion by the Conservative party to amend the Speech in reply to the Address from the Throne. The amendment was defeated by 251 vote to 220.

The Speech from the Throne has been under bitter attack for two days, the Conservatives regretting the failure of the Laborites to propose any adequate measures to deal with the crisis in the industrial, agricultural and commercial fields or to check the growth of unemployment.

Liberals decided to abstain from voting on the amendment. As a matter of fact, five Liberals, including Sir John Simon, voted against the government, but they were almost completely overwhelmed by members of the same party who stood by the administration.

DOMINION-WIDE AIR SERVICE TO BE INAUGURATED

Winnipeg, Man.—Negotiations are nearing completion for the amalgamation of the Dominion-wide air service, in which the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways will participate, according to word received here recently. Preliminary plans for the mid-Canada service were discussed some months ago, and since that time negotiations, now nearing completion, have been under way with the railways and eastern aerial companies.

James A. Richardson, of Winnipeg, founder and president of the Canadian Canada Airways, who will be the majority stockholder in the organization, to be known as the Aviation Corporation of Canada, is at present in the east completing negotiations for the new amalgamation.

The Aviation Corporation of Canada will have under its control the Western Canada Airways, the Canadian Transcontinental Airways, the Canadian Airways and other companies, providing an air service from coast to coast. The railways will both be financially interested in the organization, which it is stated, has the sanction of the Federal Government, although it will have no financial stake in the enterprise.

Development of train and air schedules to provide speedy transcontinental service across the Dominion is expected.

There will be no public financing of the corporation in the immediate future, it is understood.

United States Ambassador Is Optimistic After Conference With Italy

Rome, Italy. — Hugh S. Gibson, United States ambassador to Belgium, has returned to Geneva apparently optimistic after a series of conferences with Italian government heads looking toward a settlement of the Franco-Italian naval difference.

He did not talk for publication about his conversations with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Grandi, but he left behind an impression that negotiations between France and Italy will be undertaken at the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission sessions with more likelihood of success than would have been the case before his visit to Rome.

For Improved Motor Cars

Increase In Speed, Comfort, Safety Has Followed Use of Steel

London England.—Motor cars of the future will have fewer parts hundreds of fewer parts—while lasting the same many long years, engines at the rear, according to a prediction made here recently by Sir Herbert Austin, eminent manufacturer, while addressing the Institution of Automobile Engineers. He added that transport would increase in speed comfort, safety and cheapness.

"Why we put up with the present archaic type of vehicle in London streets," Sir Herbert said, "the difficult to understand. The method of road vehicles could be reduced with advantage by Herbert Austin, who a design was wanted for a 15 h.p. four power closed car to weigh not more than 11 hundred weight.

Investigate Indian Conditions

Minister Of the Interior To Study Situation in the West

Ottawa, Ont. In order to examine at first hand conditions on Indian reserves in the prairie provinces, Hon. Dr. Thomas Alexander Crerar, minister of the interior, has left for Winnipeg, president of the system.

The large sum being effected by the proposed new freight rates will be devoted largely to the betterment of roadbed, rolling stock and other equipment, he said.

A condensed statement of the year's operations, issued by the railway, showed that the net operating revenue for the year was $1,000,000 less than the previous year, but that the net income was $1,000,000 greater.

Helium Gas For Airships

Dr. Hugo Eckener Will Use Helium Gas and Crude Oil Motors in New Zeppelin

Berlin Germany for Hugo Eckener surprised the annual dinner of the American Chamber of Commerce here by announcing that as a result of the recent disaster to the British dirigible R-101 he had changed the plans for Zeppelins now under construction so as to provide for helium gas and crude oil motors

He said he had received word from the United States that helium gas, which is non-inflammable and non-explosive would be available to inflate his airships in whatever quantities desired

Dr. Eckener added he would famine as commander of the Graf Zeppelin declared that had it not been for an explosion the crash of the R-101 in France several weeks ago would have resulted in minimum damages As it was the great airship burned to almost nothing values British investors lost

Brazil Establishes Provisional Government

Reforms and Democratic Elections Promised By Brazilians

Rio De Janeiro The Brazilian Government and Junta in the State of Virgas has become the scene of bloody violence in a brief revolution which ended as soon as it had begun. Reforms and democratic elections will then be conducted

Word was the assurance of Dr. Getulio Arandas, associate of Vargas and just named Minister of the Interior and Justice in the provisional government, who told the Associated Press that the new administration is prepared for the will of the Brazilian people

We have outlined a program of important reforms to that end," the republic was proclaimed in 1889," he continued. We shall shape our policies accordingly. The will of the people will be consulted.

Dr. Arandas said the provisional government would be made up of representative governments and bringing honest administration into all departments."

Earnings Forty Millions Less

C.N.R. Has Deficit This Year Of Ten Million

Toronto, Ont.—Gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways system will be $40,000,000 less this year than in 1929, but drastic economies in the several departments of operation and in capital expenditure will offset this to the extent of about $30,000,000, it was revealed here by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the system

The large savings effected by operating methods, together with the curtailing of construction work and other new operations, will materially reduce the deficit.

While the management considers that the improvement in C.N.R. earnings has been satisfactory, it is encouraged at what he thought was a fairly healthy business people and business men. The extreme pessimism indicated by the depression, he thought, was passing rapidly, which was a good sign.

NATIONAL FARM POLICY MAY NOW BE FORMULATED

Ottawa Next departures in Canadian agricultural policy will be announced between November 12 and 15, it is believed in Ottawa, between Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, and ministers of the provincial governments, when the annual conference of the National Council of Agriculture will be held.

Definite plans have been made for the conference, but some of the principal ministers to be present at the conference will suggest items for the agricultural program, it is believed. Many Members of Parliament in communication with their constituents have been inviting them to express their opinions.

The depression suffered by the farmers in all parts of Canada, it is believed, will be the principal subject for discussion, and the ministers will endeavor to devise an effective national policy.

Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that he will call a conference of the Dominion Marketing Board, which will be followed by a conference of the provincial marketing boards, and then by a conference of the two boards.

The Canadian Wheat Board, created by the Federal Government, will be dissolved on July 31, 1930, and the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, will be left to carry on the marketing of the wheat crop.

During the season 1929-30 we have killed sheep on three occasions with a total loss of over $500.00 to sheep killed, to say nothing of other damage. Two dogs and a dog may be destroyed for molesting any kind of farm livestock.

We wish to draw these matters to the attention of the citizens of this district and ask their co-operation in the establishing of this flock.

Play At United Church A Great Success

The United Church was filled with an interested and enthusiastic audience on the evening of November 12th to hear the play "The Dream of Queen Esther." The play was well presented and reflects great credit upon the caste and those in charge, particularly Mr. W. A. Brimacombe, the stage manager.

Vesale Hochbert, as Esther the Jewish damsel and later as the Queen of Persia, was charming; and the part of Esther's faithful old servant was nobly taken by Mabel B. Hunt. Jack W. Markle in the role of Mordecai, the captive Jew of Shushan, was in his usual good form. Elmer M. Stewart as the King of Persia was quite an impressive character. Frank M. Baker, in his voluminous wrappings and sandals, made a splendid master of ceremonies. The Witch of Endor, Barbara Hill, was indeed awesome and the haunted given Haiman by the various Jewish heroines which she called up was well presented. The humor of the play was brought in by Aunt Amy, a Persian Miss, Ann Jessop, a beautiful Persian maid; Grace Poole, a hanged Hy; Myrtle McDonald, a proud princess from Media, and Madison Mackenzie, a little Ethiopian slave girl who acted as a court jester, making fun of the above named young women in their attempts to vamp the King.

An interesting feature of the first act was the entrance of a group of little children and the conversation with Mordecai and Esther.

DOG CAUGHT IN CULVERT

Barry Dell's dog "Mush" who is an overgrown pup with considerable husky blood in his veins, seems to have the happy(?) facility of getting himself into tight corners, but usually manages to escape unscathed and little the worse for his experiences. Tuesday afternoon Mush spent several long hours caught in a culvert near the imperial block, several men exercising him shortly before 6 p.m. Mush must have been chasing a cat. The same morning a kind Samaritan extricated him from a fence, and a short time ago he broke through the ice near the dam and almost had his name written in his career.

How Women Lose Fat In England

How would you like to lose unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want, and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and wear less permanent abdomen, and at the same time make your skin so clear and true that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal, and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much your weight—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts. Take one-half teaspoonful every morning in a cup of hot water, and when you have finished the last bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat, and you'll also know that the old vitalizing salts in Kruschen have promoted you with glorious health.

That's the way Englishwomen keep slim—why not you?

Grassy Lake Coal

Coal Obtained By Methods New To Commercial Mining in Alberta

The recent shipment of a car of high grade lump coal, mined from the Grassy Lake, Alberta, to Winnipeg is of unusual interest. Apart from its marking the revival of coal shipments—for Grassy Lane was shipping coal to Saskatchewan in 1909 this shipment has a special interest in that the coal was obtained by methods new to commercial mining practice in Southern Alberta. Future shipments will be watched with considerable interest.

Holstein Herd Has Good Record

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently but surely stirs the liver, tells you when the bile is in your system, regulates the bowels, relieves constipation and thoroughly cleanses the system. Nothing else does all this so well. Try a vial. Your eyes will be clearer, your complexion will improve, your skin will be clearer and your whole system will feel better. Carter's Little Liver Pills are guaranteed to satisfy or your money back. Small pill, small dose, small price.

The Deadly Mosquito

Four Points Motorists Should Remember About This Common Pest

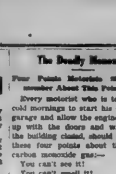
Every motorist who is tempted on cold mornings to start his car in the garage and allow the engine to warm up with the doors and windows of the building closed, should remember these four points about the deadly carbon monoxide gas:—

You can't see it!
You can't smell it!
You can't taste it!
But it is deadly!

Keep the doors and windows of your garage open when you have the motor running, or better still, don't let it warm up until you are in the driveway.

Don't run your motor in a closed garage. Statistics show that the hazard of carbon monoxide poisoning, while not very prevalent when compared with other accident dangers, is gaining rapidly. Last year there were more than twice as many deaths from this cause as in 1924. In 1926 and 1929 death rates from carbon monoxide poisoning showed a steady increase.

Many physicians claim there is no antidote for it The first thing to do is get the victim out into the air as quickly as possible, endeavour to bring him back to consciousness by artificial respiration and, possibly use oxygen.



Some Mighty Midgets

Many Small Creatures Stronger In Comparison Than Large Ones

It has been proved that the common snail can draw a load which is fifty times heavier than itself. If an elephant were as strong, in proportion to size, it would have to move nearly 270 tons.

That is only one specimen from Nature's collection of "mighty midgets" that partners in secret on land and in the sea.

Even the strongest man find it difficult to lift more than their own weight. Yet, a bluebottle fly can lift more than fifty times its own weight, while it can draw a boat that is 100 times heavier than itself.

Objects which are only about forty times heavier than themselves are often carried by the mason wasps.

Ants have even been seen pulling several grains which are used to tear up the road? Well, there is a mollusc, known as the cuckoo or pholas dactylus, which can rival their power, and is a superior worker, as it makes no noise.

Silently but none the less efficiently, the pholas bores through the hardest rock as casually as if it were soap.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

OATMEAL COOKIES

1½ cups special cake flour, sifted.
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves.
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sifted brown sugar
1 egg well beaten
1¾ cups oatmeal.
½ cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and spices, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add egg. Add oatmeal and flour, alternately with milk, mixing well. Drop by teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 18 to 20 minutes. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

THANKSGIVING CONSERVE

3 cups cranberries
1 cup chopped raisins
1½ cups water
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 lemon, juice and grated rind.
2 oranges, juice and grated rind.
2 cups sugar

Cook cranberries and apple in the water until tender. Add pineapple and orange and grated rind. Mix well and cook rapidly until thick and clear. Turn into sterilized glasses and when cold cover with paraffin.

Evidences Of Prosperity

Throw The Net Upon The Ice On Bad In This Western City

Among a number of evidences of prosperity in Edmonton, cited by "The Journal," is the fact that the number of telephones in use has increased while a year from 15,156 to 16,641, or over 500. Another evidence is that "one wholesale house in this city sold $30,000 worth of radio sets in September" thus showing a fair volume of luxury spending.

THE RICH YOUNG MAN—REFUSING A LIFE OF SACRIFICIAL SERVICE

Golden Text: "And He said unto all, 'If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow Me.'"—Luke 9:23.

Lesson: Mark 10.17-27.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 19:7-14.

Explanations and Comments

Refusing a Life Of Sacrificial Service, verses 17-22.—In Matthew the rich young man's question is stated, "What good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?" and Jesus' reply is, "Why askest thou Me concerning that which is good?" Mark says Jesus gave the question as, "Good Master what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" and the reply of Jesus is, "Why callest thou Me good? None is good save one, even God." Jesus' question as given here seems to indicate that the young man had not had word 'good'. (Good Master) with as little thought as we do when we say "Good Morning". Jesus would have him weigh his words and see whether he knew what he had said. If he were calling Him good in the sense in which God is good, Jesus would accept his homage. Jesus also knew the hidden heart of this man and knew it was a heart wholly for now to know what being His disciple meant, to weigh well the consequences of such a step before entering it.

What Following Christ Means. If this young man had made the right choice, if he had gladly agreed to give his possessions to the poor and then to come and follow Jesus, do you not think that Jesus would then have said to him, "You may keep your wealth and use it gladly, for now you are no longer under its snare, you have learned to put it first in your thoughts, you now have room in your heart for Me"?

The Choice the Rich Young Man Made. For several years a movement when the young man was face to face with a great choice. The struggle which Jesus gave in regard to the difficulty of the spiritual life for the wealthy should help young people in decision when he turned away sorrowful, was for a boy—his wealth not follow the Master. Wealth which is rightly might possess and rightly use, was for him a snare, for it kept him from following Christ. Not only did he have great possessions, but he loved them too much. They deprived him of a vision of God and of the needs of others.

"His soul was like a boat tied fast but tied with a long rope," says Phillips Brooks. "It was able to struggle up the channel, but the hand and light and buoy that marked the way that always something held it back from perfectly laying itself in the open sea and reaching its destination

Teachers Hold Most Successful Convention

One hundred and eight teachers of the Vermilion Inspectorate attended a very successful convention in Vermilion on Nov. 6th and 7th, 1930.

The programme proved to be most interesting and instructive, and was very much appreciated by all those in attendance.

The following speakers addressed the teachers during the sessions: Professor James Adam of the University; D. Dickie of the Edmonton Normal school, T. E. Hughes, supervisor of industrial and Manual Art, Edmonton, S. C. Heckbert, Inspector; H. R. Parker, Mayor Fallow and Mr. Morrison.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Hon. Pres.—G. W. Norman, chief inspector.

Pres.—A. C. Major, Cannuthus.

Vice. Pres.—R. A. Leadley, Kitscoty.

Sec. Treas.—E. M. Stewart.

Auditor—Miss Vera Winters.

Executive—H. R. Parker, I. P. S. Miss Maxwell, Miss Stone, Miss Oakley, Miss White, Miss Prill, Mrs. Hammond.

During the course of the convention some very interesting resolutions were passed, being in substance as follows:—

Be it resolved that this association hereby express its thanks to those who contributed to the success of the 1930 program, viz: Dr. Dickie, Professor Adam, Mr. T. E. Hughes, Dr. W. H. Swift, S. C. Heckbert and the Inspector Parker.

Be it resolved that the thanks of this association be conveyed to the staff of the Vermilion Agricultural college for the splendid entertaining provided by them for the teachers of this Inspectorate.

Be it resolved that the thanks of this association be conveyed to the Vermilion school board in allowing us to hold our convention in the High school.

Be it resolved that the members of the association express their appreciation of the fine standard and high calibre of the program which was arranged for them by the executive.

Whereas a serious condition of unemployment of teachers exists in the province, there being at the present time around 300 duly qualified teachers without schools, and— whereas many of these are teachers of long experience, and a considerable sum are indebted to the Dept. of Education for loans advanced for normal school training—

Be it resolved that the minister of Education be urged to take steps to restrict the number of new teachers given qualifications, (1) by limiting the number of teachers in training in the various normal schools to that number estimated to be necessary to fill probable vacancies, (2) by increasing the length of the normal school term, and otherwise raising the standard of qualification.

Whereas it has been found that a considerable number of Boards of Trustees are taking advantage of the present unfavorable financial situation, and are not making adequate arrangements to provide for the monthly payment of teachers' salaries as provided in the School Act, thus entailing hardship on teachers and those dependents: and whereas in certain account of the status of teachers in the province, the teacher himself are not in a position to take any action to enforce payment.

Be it resolved that the matter be drawn to the attention of the A. T. A. and of the Minister of Education, and that they be urged to bring such pressure as may be necessary to, obtain frequent boards to ensure compliance with the Act in the regard.

Here and There

(C.C.)

The Canadian Government is co-operating with ranchers and exporters in their efforts to secure a market in Great Britain for Canadian cattle. Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, who visited Montreal recently to inspect an experimental shipment of cattle sent out at the stockyards in that city. The cattle, comprising 416 head of shorthorns, Herefords, Angus and pure-bred steers, were brought to Montreal on Canadian Pacific Railway for shipment to Manchester, England.

Analyzing the causes of business depression in Canada, E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in a speech before the American Institute of Steel Construction recently, revealed American suggestions that cancellation of foreign debts due the United States would cure present world conditions and benefit the country that cancelled them. It is not surprising," said Mr. Beatty, "that most men of great vision have reached the conclusion that if they (the war debts) were removed, industry would be stimulated, trade would expand and prosperity would return, and our understanding of the world conditions would inevitably come great benefit to the United States.

A forty-mile ski marathon from Lake Louise to Banff will be one of the big features of the Banff Winter Carnival which will open February 1st next. The run will cross turbulent mountain streams and will follow ascending and descending ridges of great height. Snowmen travelling in the last half," is the way ski-ing experts who have planned it, describe the event.

Par farming in Canada is now established as a leading industry in Canada, the latest available figures show that the industry to-day represents a capital value of $22,990,817, of which $16,661,443 is invested in farming animals. Prince Edward Island is the leader in the industry, with Ontario and Quebec not far behind. Ten years ago total value of farming animals on our farms in Canada was placed at $4,722,166.

Showing of the Canadian Pacific Railway company for the month of September, in which an increase of $1,721,645 was shown in net earnings over the total for September of last year, in the face of an actual decrease in gross earnings, is a tribute to management's ability to adapt itself to unfavorable conditions according to a financial authority of Montreal. The showing itself is not an indication of improved business for gross earnings were only $19,192,238 as against $19,921,317 one year ago, a decline of $358,891, but it is a favorable development for the company itself, if what was done was to cut down operating expenses from $18,540,347, shown in September one year ago to $12,470,580 for September, 1930. Good indication of what retrenchment in overhead expense could accomplish was given in the August figures, which started out with a decline in gross earnings of $2,182,-242, the company was able to show a natural increase in net of $388,276 over the corresponding period of last year. The results for September are naturally even better than this.

Principals Of Craig Bros., Limited Who Are This Week Celebrating Their 25 Yrs Business In Vermilion

J. A. M. Craig, President, stated to the editor of The Standard that he was highly pleased with the results of their 25th Anniversary Sale, and wrote in many requests and enquiries from old friends and customers in the country, who on account of the late threshing have been unable to attend, that they have decided to extend the sale until Saturday, November 29th.

Lt. Col. W. C. Craig, who is Vice-President of the firm, now resides in North Battleford where he supervises their big department store in that city.

Mr. Craig has for his general manager, Gordon Chawlis, an old Vermilion boy.

A. M. Wood, Treasurer and Merchandise Manager, who has charge of Craigs' Big Sale, has been associated with this firm for over 25 years. He has been ably assisted in organizing this community wide sale by Mr. E. R. Edwards, manager of Craigs' Store at Turtleford, and Donald Craig of North Battleford.

Let the light from your enthusiasm throw its guiding genius over your vision, and then it will cast its shadow back on the path of the past. Look ahead; there are few rewards in retrospect. Cheer up! Smile! Nobody gives a hang about your yesterdays. Talk of today, and think of tomorrow. —Exchange.

Marble Pool on Palatial Liner

The curious also in the picture (left) who evidently does not believe the assurances of the two already in the tank that the water is warm and not too cold for one of the features of the 20,000 ton liner is that the golden dolphin seen in the background spouts warm or cool water as desired. One hundred and sixty tons of water are needed to fill the tank.

Surrounded by dressing rooms, showers and electric baths, the swimming pool has its own cafe with rubber-cushioned chairs where patrons may enjoy the afternoon tea. Oriental ingenuity.

A love at last sight there is not a bit of fun on the Canadian Pacific's new record-breaking Empress of Japan, largest, fastest and finest ship on the Pacific, recently arrived passengers as 4 at Vancouver.

Curling Club Notes

The organization meeting of the Curling Club was held on Thursday evening, Nov. 13th in the town hall with twenty members present. It was decided that the club affiliate with the Alberta Curling association. The ice fee was set at $16.00 per member payable before commencing to curl. Each of the members present took a list of prospective curlers and agreed to see same and report back at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, November 18th.

Adjourned meeting was held on Tuesday November 18th, with seventeen members present. From the lists handed in, approximately forty had signified their intention of curling this winter. Fourteen provisional skips were named and it was left open that any one else desirous of skipping could get together a rink and hand their names to the executive. The provisional skips are:—J. A. Morison, F. C. Long, H. R. Parker, E. M. Stewart, Joseph McKone, J. V. Bedlington, W. H. Dumont, W.E. Sutton, Dr. Knoll, J. P. McQuarrie, R. B. P. Cooper, W.A. Fallow, W. Waldenberger, and Dr. Chesick. The handicap committee, comprising Messrs. F. C. Long, J. A. Morison and W. H. Dumont, was appointed. A lengthy discussion ensued as to the advisability of commencing the season with an open mixed bspiel similar to that held last winter. Some were of the opinion that the curling season should not be cut in two with such an event while others contended that it would be a good advertising medium for the club as well as a basis to foster a community spirit. The question was left undecided. At a meeting of the executive immediately following the organization meeting, Clarke Wilson was appointed curler for the season. The Ladies club had advised that they would have 8 rinks so it was decided to give them the choice of either ice 1 or 4. Fees for high school students joining the club was set at $5.00. A motion was passed that all players be handicapped and that the caretaker be instructed to mark up the rinks' handicaps on the scoreboard before any game commenced. It was decided that in the event of Club members wishing to curl pick up games in the afternoon, that the game should be completed not later than 6 O'clock in order that the caretaker be given an opportunity to clean the ice for the regular draw games in the evening. W. H. Dumont is President of the club this year, F. R. P. Cooper, vice-president and the executive—J. A. Morison, C.A. Wilson, J. P. McQuarrie, W. P. Badgero, F. C. Long, Father O'Sullivan, E. Corley, W. C. Pelyehank, Dr. Knoll, J. A. Craig, E. M. Stewart and Geo. Webb.

MAMMOTH HARDWARE SALE STARTS THIS SATURDAY

Enterprising Firm Stages Fall Sale

Nelson-Hill, Ltd., prominent hardware firm of the town, are staging a gigantic fall sale, to commence on Saturday and which is a real price lowering and bargain offering event. Mr. Hill, manager, has now made the sale known over a tremendous stretch of country by means of bills and road signs, together with a full page advertisement in this paper.

A new departure for hardware stores in the town, the opportunity to obtain bargains will be eagerly seized, especially at this time of the year. See the advertisement in this issue for full particulars, read the catchy headlines and make a list of what you need.

Alex. Findlay has had a building moved onto First Street North, opposite the residence of W. B. Elford, and is having it entirely re-constructed into a modern residence. The carpentering work is in the hands of Chas Lipsey.

WANTED — SCHOOL GIRL TO DO household duties for board.—Apply Mrs. John Wener, Town. 20tf

THE STANDARD
VERMILION - ALBERTA
ESTABLISHED 1909.
Published every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.
S. R. P. COOPER - EDITOR.

Vermilion, Alta., Nov. 20, 1930.

OUTSIDE STUDENTS AND THE VERMILION HIGH SCHOOL.

Under the present strain of town finances and the movement made by administrative bodies to pare down operating expenses in all departments, it would seem timely to deal editorially with a matter about which there prevails a very wrong impression. This is the cost to the ratepayers of Vermilion for outside students attending our high school. At the outset we make the statement that the forty-odd students from outside points taking courses at the high school are not costing the ratepayers one cent. To make it more emphatic, if these students were not in attendance here and the four teachers were maintained on the staff, it would be necessary to raise an additional nineteen hundred dollars in the general rate to operate the high school. In the event of one teacher being dropped, taxes would be just the same as they are at present with nothing saved and over forty young people left in the town as at present.

The editor hears someone say, "Assertions only, but no proof."

Now for the proof. The department of education pays to the Vermilion school board one dollar per day for each pupil in attendance at the high school for accepting outside pupils. There are 200 teaching days in the year and at an allowance of $4.00 per day, the high school receives from this source the sum of $800.00; in addition to this the districts from which students come, pay $20 per student a year to our district (Grade XII excepted). The revenue for the current school year from this source is slightly over $1100.00, making a total revenue of $1900.00, or the salary of one member of the teaching staff. As stated above, in the event of cutting off a teacher, we remain in exactly the same position relative to taxes as before. But this is not quite all, for in addition, the grant of $1.00 per day for one teacher or $200.00 would also be lost, as well as all these young people. With a proper understanding of matters, no one could possibly maintain that we refuse outside students from a financial viewpoint.

Apart from the above it might be interesting to those who may not already be aware of it, that the high school receives as well a grant from the department of education of $2.00 per day for each teacher engaged for teaching high school subjects. This brings in $8.00 a day or $1600.00 for the year. The debarring of outside students and cutting off a teacher also means a further loss in the grant of $400.00.

COMMUNICATION

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

To the Editor Vermilion Standard

Dear Sir,—Referring to your report of the Memorial service in last week's paper, there were some omissions, also inaccuracies, which it is the object of this letter to correct.

Your report report makes no mention of the fact that this service was organized by the Canadian Legion. Post 11, should we say, mention the most important, may, I might say the whole object of the service—that of reading out the names of those from this district who laid down their lives for their country that we might live. There were some eighty names on the list which was read by the President, George Maxwell.

With reference to the inaccuracies, neither the I.O.D.E. or Cubs attended this service as a body.

There appears to be a tendency to drift away from the observance of Memorial Day and in this connection, words recently written by Rudyard Kipling might well be given some thought:

"Which things must perish But not
Comes not by staves or swords
So much as subtly through the power
Of small corroding words.
No need to make the plot more plain
By any open thrust;
But—see their memory is slain
Long ere their bones are dust!
Wisely but yearly fleck some wreath
Lay some proud site aside—
And daily tarnish with our breath
The souls for which they died
Distrust, decide, decry, confuse—
(Or—when it serves us—pray!)
So presently we break the use
And meaning of their day."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for according me this space, I am

Yours very truly,

"One Who Was There"

THE SAME TWO WORDS

Good service wins a good reputation; a good reputation warms up good-will; good-will gains confidence and confidence creates customers for the good service.

Circle this as often as you like — start from "Good Service," and you will end with the same two words.

We believe that service is something more than selling right and delivering promptly. It is more than a consideration of others in their personal needs and commercial requirements.

Service is far more than all this. Service is the satisfaction we enjoy in giving something that cannot be bought, and this something is . . . sincerity.

Players Delight Good Audience

Catching the fancy of the audience from the start, "Prudence in Particular" presented by St. Saviour's Dramatic Society at the Columbia theatre on Monday evening, was well greeted at all stages by a particularly appreciative audience. Although the play might not have made the overwhelming hit that some of the more uproarious comedies such as "The Mummy and the Mumps" have made, it called for more ability than ever before aspired to by this popular society, the comedy lying but so much in the words and catch sayings, as in gag productions, but more in the actions of the players. This great demand on histrionic ability was ably met by the local thespians, in fact, seldom if ever before has the cast been so well balanced, and this scribe failed to see one weakness in any character as portrayed on Monday evening. Too much praise cannot be given to the members of the cast for the way in which they handled the play.

Sara Manners, a young divorcee, enacted by an old favorite in the person of Miss Lucie English, left nothing to be desired. Lucie has a wonderful voice and manner, and also wore several stunning creations in gowns. Sara starts the trouble by telling Nancy, a bride of six months, who has so far had her own way in family matters, that her husband paid attentions to many girls before his marriage. Nancy, taken by Mrs. Marian Ganton, acted with a naturalness that had the sympathies of the audience with her in spite of her ridiculous demands. Her enactment of the leading lady's part could not have been improved upon.

Her husband, John (who had kissed more girls than he can remember) reaches a deadlock with his young wife on account of the "principle of the thing," was taken by Vernon Cooper, who after an absence from the play of last year, turned in a clear and vivid performance of a man striving for some measure of independence. The trouble is exaggerated when Prudence, said to be the object of John's attention "in particular," pays him a call "late at night."

Miss Betty Brown, who had a minor part in last year's play, but who really found herself in Monday's presentation, took the part of Prudence and acted with a becoming naturalness that was most agreeable to the audience.

The quarrel thus starts in earnest and it gradually branches out and involves Mrs. Lee, Nancy's mother, who does her best to pacify matters. This character was taken by Miss Grace Bury, and indeed it is hard to find anything new or better to say of her acting than what has been written of her previous efforts. Her ability on the stage is unquestioned and she drew the biggest laughs of the night.

Fred Seabrook as Peter Nethel, an old friend, making his second bow to a local audience, did splendidly, his portrayal of the part meeting with unqualified approval.

In taking the part of Tommy Manners, Sara's divorced husband, Tom Watts—although well known to Vermilion audiences—made his debut with this company and gave a finished performance. The manner in which the innocent Tommy was beguiled into a reconciliation with Sara, his ex-wife, was a scream.

The Society did local audiences a good turn when they introduced Syd Lancaster as Worthington Parr. Syd is a product of the Edmonton "Little Theatre" and showed by his casual stage manner and perfect articulation that he is a finished stage product; may be appear in many more local stage productions.

Great credit is due to Rev. G. McComas as general manager and play director, and to Mrs. C. D. Brown as assistant.

The thanks of the company are also due to those who supplied the stage furniture, and to Mr. Glanvill who rendered piano selections between acts; also to those who loaned props of say kind to the cast.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Demonstration Farm maintains a flock of good Oxford Down sheep so that farmers of the Vermilion district may secure, at small cost, breeding and foundation stock. During this autumn dogs have killed sheep on three occasions with a total loss of over fifteen in sheep killed, to say nothing of other damage. The law says a dog may be destroyed for molesting any kind of farm livestock.

We wish to draw these matters to the attention of the citizens of this district and ask their co-operation in the maintaining of this flock.

OFFICIAL FILM OF BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE HERE DECEMBER 5th

Mr. Beckman, Provincial Commissioner, To Speak

The local Boy Scouts Association takes pleasure in announcing that they have arranged for another showing here on Friday, December 5th of the official government film of the Boy Scout Jamboree in England last year. Those who have seen this film agree that it is well worth seeing, being an authentic record of the high lights of the greatest and most interesting gathering of young people that has ever been. In addition to the Jamboree film itself, the committee has arranged an unusually interesting program, including an address by the new Provincial Commissioner, Mr. Beckman of Edmonton. Not only these particularly interested in Scout work but the general public as well should spend an entertaining and profitable evening. So get your tickets from the Scouts themselves or from members of the committee and let's all go. The High School Hall, Friday, December 5th, at 8 p.m. sharp.

BROWNIE NOTES

Last Friday was musical Friday and we were very sorry to hear that Miss Lipsey was ill and unable to be present. We hope she will soon be well and be able to come to our next Brown Owl taught us some Folk dancing and Tawney Owl played the music. We were pleased to see some of the mothers present as it encourages us, and we hope to see more next time.

Early Pioneer Passes

James Common Stricken With Heart Failure Monday Morning

James Common, pioneer settler and prominent citizen of the town, died at his home here shortly before 7 o'clock Monday morning from heart failure. The sad intimation was received by the community with profound sorrow and feelings of deep regret. Earlier in the morning he had awakened and spoke of having a pain in the chest, and got up for a glass of water which he thought might afford him relief. Shortly after his condition was such that Mrs. Common left him for a brief period to have a neighbor call a doctor, and upon returning Mr. Common had passed away. Besides his widow, deceased is survived by a sister in England.

The late Mr. Common was born at Alnwick, Northumberlandshire, England, 64 years ago. In early manhood he left his native land for the United States and lived in Illinois for some years and then was one of a large party from that State which prospected Western Canada from Manitoba and the Riding Mountains up to Edmonton. He farmed with another Dominion settler south of Edmonton for a year or two, then with the Cutherford brothers trekked into the Vermilion district in the summer of 1899, the only other ranchers then in the country being the Powell, Bowes and Evans families. Locating valley lands along the Vermilion river two to three miles west of what is now the town of Vermilion, he engaged in ranching which was successfully carried on for many years. He also contracted during the heavy railway construction period for the supply of baled hay and oats for the big camps.

Upon relinquishing active ranching operations a number of years ago he became a resident of the town where he took continuously up to the time of his death. As a police magistrate and citizen, he won the respect and high esteem of all. His sympathies of the modern present as in earlier days, and we hope to see more next time.

Take Long Walks, Fat Men are Told

How can you walk off your fat if you haven't any energy to do it? You can take off that with Kruschen Salts if you will take one-half teaspoon in hot water every morning before breakfast, sensibly your diet and exercise regularly.

There are six different salts in Kruschen that your body organs must have if you are to enjoy good health.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in vigor, energy, vitality and power of endurance.

That means that soon you will be able to walk many miles without fatigue and enjoy every step you make.

Drug Stores all over Canada sell Kruschen Salts, and a jar costs but 75 cents—it is a real blessing to fat people.

Skullgoats Of Flying Tonight in London, England, From Table-Top

A table-top teacher for the rudiments of flying is being used in London, England, to teach student fliers, then, England, to teach student fliers. The "plane" is provided with a real joy-stick, a rudder bar and throttle, fitted under the table at which he sits. On the table at his eye level is a large model airplane and the rear end of the case is open so that the pilot will feel a wind up to 70 miles an hour. All movements of the controls at the desk are recorded by the enclosed "plane."

Personality Suffers In Mechanical Age

Toronto Minister Says Victorian Era Not Altogether To Be Pitied

The rise in general intellectual development in the modern age did not entirely compensate for the loss of the dominating personalities of the Victorian era, Rev. C. Stanley Russell, pastor of Deer Park United Church, Toronto, told members of the Toronto Public School Teachers' Association at its annual meeting. The loss of individuality and personality, he said, was one of the by-products of the enormous increase in mechanical inventions.

The art of hand-writing, he said was passing because of the prevalence of the typewriter. People "tanged" letter to one another on the typewriter, but the day of long hand-written personal epistles had passed its zenith. Because of the invention of the typewriter, people were laying by the use of their hands to writing and because of the advent of the motor car, they were losing their legs. The chance for close observation of nature, and one benefit to health as well, were being sacrificed when people gave up walking.

The glory and personality had likewise gone out of war. Military training, he stated, had no real relationship to warfare today because it had become merely a thing of mechanical and scientific devices.

Much sympathy, he felt, was now being wasted on people who lived in the reign of Victoria. It was a very happy period, he said, despite the fact which a certain faction of the "moderns" buried at it.

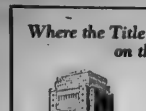
Where the Title becomes good on the First Payment



THIS is an age of instalment buying. Furniture, homes, motors—even clothing—is being bought on terms. If income stops for any reason and funds are insufficient to meet payments, the house or motor or furniture is forfeited, and the money already paid is lost. Life insurance is merely buying an estate on a yearly payment plan

BUT... Life assurance is the only form of property upon which unpaid balances are cancelled by death, and the property transferred, unencumbered, to the heirs.

MAN ELECTROCUTED AT LLOYDMINSTER

LLOYDMINSTER, Nov. 25.— Roy Bishop, a workman at the power and light plant of the Canadian Utilities at Lloydminster, was killed instantly Monday afternoon when a supply charge of 13,000 volts passed through his body. The deceased, with other employees, was engaged in lifting a barrel of oil to a scaffold at the rear of the power plant. Bishop had one foot on a ladder and the other on the ground and was steadying the barrel on the edge of the scaffold with one hand, when the bulge of energy apparently jumped a distance of about three feet to the barrel, passing through the body of the deceased to the ground.

ROOF LIFTED FROM HAYWARD LBR. CO. BY TREMENDOUS WIND

Considerable Damage Done Saturday Night

Gradually gaining in velocity, a tremendous wind swept over the district all Saturday and during the early hours of Saturday night, causing considerable property damage.

The local yards of the Hayward Lumber company were the heaviest sufferers in this community, the wind ripping the entire roof from their building and depositing most of it in the wreckage lot of Vermilion Motors Ltd. The roof from a smaller building shed in the yards was also blown off. The blowing off of the big roof which measures some 100 feet in length, occasioned damage of several hundreds of dollars.

A large plate glass window in the Bowie drug store also blew in, or rather out, as well as several smaller window lights, and an electric light pole with a transformer blew down in the west end of town.

CHEAP AIR RIDES ON TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY

Advancement Made In Canada For Providing Indian Population With High Standard of Education

(By Russell T. Porter, Superintendent Of Indian Education).

Great advancement has been made in Canada, particularly of late years, in providing our Indian population with a high standard of educational and vocational training. Through the aid of increased appropriations by Parliament during that time, the Department of Indian Affairs has been enabled to enlarge existing buildings, and construct more modern and fireproof schools; similar high standards and grants have attracted better qualified teachers and instructors.

There are now 72 residential schools and 372 day schools, making a total of 386 centres of Indian educational activity. The total number of pupils is now 15,743, the average attendance being 11,570, constituting an increase during the past ten years of 24 per cent. in enrolment, and 48 per cent. in attendance, ample evidence of the success of the work in preparing Indian children to become independent and self-supporting citizens of the Dominion.

The residential schools are conducted by the Anglican, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, and United churches, and high tribute must be paid to the zeal and self-sacrifice of those engaged in the work. The Department has had the close co-operation of religious denominations in the education of the Indians, and this well-established policy has demonstrated beyond all question of doubt the effectiveness of the system.

The formal opening of the modern residential school at Brandon, Manitoba, on July 1, 1930, adds another unit to the fine system of Indian educational institutions throughout the Dominion. It will be administered by the United Church of Canada and will have as its principal the Reverend J. A. Doyle, D.D., who succeeds the veteran educationist the Reverend Thompson Ferrie.

This school, which replaces the residential school built on the same site in 1894, is one of the finest of its kind in Canada. Built of tapestry brick with stone trimmings, the concrete, and terrazzo floors, it is fireproof throughout. Some idea of the accommodation afforded may be gleaned from the fact that it has a fine large assembly hall, four class rooms, four class-rooms, a large study room, recreation rooms for both girls and boys, sewing room, sunroom, hospital ward with nurses' quarters, also a laundry equipped with the most modern labor-saving machinery.

Adjacent to the school are a number of first-class farm buildings, one of which, the cow-barn, is one of the finest in Manitoba. There are, also, four residences for the use of the principal and married members of the staff.

The institution has a landscape setting, which places it on a par with some of the finest schools and colleges of the older provinces.

This school supplies the pupils from a wide radius, owing to the scattered location of the reserves. Residential schools are necessary because many of the Indians are engaged in occupations such as lumbering, fishing, freighting, and trapping, which take them away from their homes; and even the farms of those engaged in agriculture are not in solid blocks, as in white settlements, but are strung out along rivers and lakes, thus making it impossible to provide day-school accommodation for the major portion of them.

The curriculum provides academic instruction equivalent to the second year in high school. In addition the girls are given a thorough training in domestic science, and the boys, a course in agriculture, together with elementary training in carpentry, blacksmithing and the operation of internal-combustion engines, sufficient to enable them to apply it in a practical manner in modern farm life.

While every possible effort is made to impart a sound academic and industrial education, special attention is given to the health of the pupils. During the years spent in the residential schools medical treatment is provided, which, with a balanced diet, supervised recreation, results in the healthy growth of a normal constitution.

Under the care and tutelage of the Department of Indian Affairs the prairie Indian has now become a successful agriculturist. The official records for 1928 show that 66,104 acres, in the Prairie Provinces alone, were sown to grain, from which were garnered 65,104 bushels. In addition, 971 acres were planted to root crops from which 51,648 bushels were harvested; and 87,786 tons of hay and other fodder were produced.

Daylight and Twilight

Hours Of Day and Night Nearly Equal At the Equator

In the tropics, near the equator, nearly equal hours of day and night obtain the year round. The extremely short twilight which comes to this locality is proverbial. Hippolyte Hue pictures the Imani emerging "up like thunder; but generally speaking, in the temperate zones twilight lasts only an hour from the exact time of sunsetting until it becomes totally dark. Twilight, the transition period between daylight and darkness, increases in length as one goes north or south of the equator. It has been stated that of the 8,766 hours which make up a year, there are at the equator 4,467 hours daylight, 864 twilight and 4,467 night; while at the poles the proportion changes to 4,650 hours daylight, 2,556 twilight and 1,212 night. — Christian Science Monitor.

Egg Laying Contest

Eleventh Canadian Contest Is Completed At Ottawa Experimental Farm

Championship of the 11th Canadian egg laying contest which has just been finished at the central experimental Farm at Ottawa, goes to a pen of white leghorn hens entered by Richard Crean, of Portage la Prairie, Manitoba. Second place honors went to Mrs. W. P. Thompson of Hilda, Alta., with a pen of barred Plymouth Rocks, while third place was taken by a pen of Rhode Island Reds, entered by the University of British Columbia. The contest was held over a fifty-two week period.

The best laying individual hen in the contest was a Rhode Island Red "P.P.-326," entered by Dan Russell, New Westminster, B.C. It completed a total score of 287.8 points for 340 eggs.

Second individual honors went to a barred Plymouth Rock "No. 362," entered by Prair Experimental Farm, Morton, Pa., with a total score of 284.9 points for 346 eggs. Third place was taken by a white Leghorn, "No. 534," and owned by J. K. Dugas, Cobbdelit, B.C., total score 282.7 points for 340 eggs.

Scores of the leading pens in the keenly contest follow: Richard Crean, Farrington Park, England, pen No. 50, scored 2,176 points for 1,904 eggs; Mrs. W. J. Thompson, pen No. 18 (second), 2,174.6 points for 2,238 eggs; University of B.C., pen No. 53, 2,166.3 points for 2,174 eggs.

The fact that the English pen won the championship although the second and third highest during the year's total laying performance than the winners, is explained by the rules of the contest under which the size and weight of the eggs figure in the point scoring.

Out of a total of 800 scoring entries in the 50 pens which made up the contest, only 142 qualified for official registration during the year.

Four Ayrshire Heifer Calves Go To Experimental Station At Wandering Creek, B.C.

Four Ayrshire heifer calves which were purchased by Capt. Dan Walsarf Finlay, B.C., at the recent dispersal sale of Ayrshires at the University of British Columbia, have been offered to and accepted by Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms on behalf of the Dominion Experimental Station at Windermere, B.C. These heifers—Auchendrane Minstrel's Pansie, Muncraig Valentine's Polly, Netherhall Lovely Maiden and Nethercraig Majestic Beauty were all imported in dam and are of exceptionally good breeding.

High Record Of Milk Production From Cow At Indian Head Experimental Farm

The R.O.P. report of Tullochgorum Dorothy (82210), owned by the Experimental Farms at Indian Head, Sask. shows the Ayrshire to have given 15,251 pounds of milk, 600 pounds of fat in 305 days, three milkings a day in the mature class, honor roll division. This is the highest record so far this year in this class and is Dorothy's third consecutive record.

Canada's Hay Crop

Ample Supply In Sight In Most Of the Provinces

The need breach of the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports the total hay yield in Canada for this year is likely to be slightly less than in 1929. They find, however, that an ample supply is in sight in most of the provinces and a substantial exportable surplus will be promised. The quality of most of the 1930 crop is well above average, particularly with respect to timothy.

The hay yield in the Maritime Provinces is expected to exceed last year with a large surplus for export, particularly of timothy and dyke hay. Prince Edward Island put a good straw and the unusual surplus of the Maritime Provinces is placed at 35,000 tons.

The Quebec hay acreage was about the same as in 1929, but the yield per acre was greater. There will be about 300,000 tons available for commercial use.

The hay crop in eastern and northern Ontario shows a big gain with about 75,000 tons over local requirements. Eastern Ontario had only a 76 per cent., crop and the commercial surplus of alfalfa will be limited to about 2,500 tons.

In western Canada, Manitoba and northwestern Ontario put up 25 per cent. more hay than was sufficient to take care of the home demand. The Pas district has large quantities of slough hay, which will be available to the drought areas of Saskatchewan. In Saskatchewan the hay situation is even more favorable than it was last year, while in Alberta timothy and alfalfa were a good crop with wild hay below average. Alberta will have about 2,700 cars of hay for sale. The British Columbia crop is variable but estimated at 85 cents per cwt. sacks included, delivered at Montreal. Sorel and Quebec.

Any danger from the presence of weed seeds in these nutritious grain by-products would be corrected reasonably well by fine grinding with high power hammer grinders, and this fact, together with the low prices at which they are now available should render them profitable to the Canadian feeder, even at the present low prices for animal products.

Apples and Potatoes

Revised Estimate Of Apple and Pointe Production Throughout Canada

The final revised estimate on apple and potato production throughout Canada, prepared by the markets extension division of the Fruit branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, places the apple crop this year at a total of 3,120,356 barrels. This is well up to the five-year average while nearly 750,000 barrels below last year's crop. Similar conditions are estimated increase in production of about 450,000 barrels, while Nova Scotia's crop is about 800,000 barrels, below last year.

Canada's potato crop is estimated at 47,282,400 cwt., an increase of approximately 7,500,000 cwt., or ten per cent. over last year.

The onion crop in British Columbia is reported to have matured very well but to be considerably lacking in size The estimated yield is placed at 15,366 tons. The Ontario onion crop estimated at 18,000 tons. has matured under favorable conditions and is 20.5 per cent greater than in 1929

Says Security Of Our Future Depends On The Courage Of Farmers Of Western Canada

Screening Foods Officially Graded

Low Prices Should Make Them Profitable For the Farmer

Canadian farmers will be particularly interested in the following statement issued by the seed branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture:

Screenings shipped for feed from terminal elevators are now being sold under grade certificates, under the new grade standards and designations provided by the Canada Grain Act or regulations thereunder.

Standard reclaned screenings, containing essentially of broken wheat and wild buckwheat, are now designated "No. 1 Feed Screenings."

A second quality of these screenings which, in addition to the wheat and wild buckwheat, may carry appreciable quantities of wild oats and coarse grains, is designated "No. 2 Feed Screenings." This grade also allows a slightly greater tolerance of ball mustard than No. 1 grade, and would be specially serviceable for feeding sheep.

The product formerly known as "Cat Sealpings" and consisting mainly of wild oats, but with small percentages of domestic oats and barley, is now designated "Mixed Feed Oats."

Terminal elevators, members of the storage of wheat, are carrying substantial quantities of these grain by-products which are, in consequence, being offered at much lower than the usual prices. Mixtures of barley and wild oats, both small, are now offered at 55 cents per cwt. sacks included, delivered at Montreal. Sorel and Quebec.

Any danger from the presence of weed seeds in these nutritious grain by-products would be corrected reasonably well by fine grinding with high power hammer grinders, and this fact, together with the low prices at which they are now available should render them profitable to the Canadian feeder, even at the present low prices for animal products.

Soil Improvement Train

Campaign In Quebec For Securing Better Methods In Fields

A soil improvement train has just completed its three-weeks' itinerary through southeastern Quebec, having started at Coaticook on September 30th and finished at Vercheres on October 4th.

The train was organized by the Quebec department of agriculture in co-operation with the Agricultural Colleges in the province, the seed branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and the C.N.R., and was part of a campaign now under way in Quebec for increasing crop yields from a more intelligent and more general use of agricultural lime and commercial fertilizers.

Of the four coaches which made up the train, the first was used as a laboratory where samples of soil were brought in by visiting farmers, were tested for acidity, and recommendations given as to the approximate quantities of lime required according to the results of the acidity tests.

The second car was devoted to demonstrating the advantages from the proper use of agricultural lime; the third, those of commercial fertilizers, while the fourth was the lecture car to which lectures were given by the officials in charge on the use of agricultural lime and commercial fertilizers.

Upwards of 10,000 farmers visited the train in the course of its tour and about 5,000 soil samples were tested

Glasgow Port Opened For Cattle Shipments

Rate Is $15.00 Per Head From Canadian Atlantic Ports

Two important developments in the cattle export trade occurred when Hon Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, announced that the steamship companies had agreed to open a service from Canadian Atlantic ports to Glasgow at a rate of $15 per head.

Heretofore, the cattle boats have gone to Liverpool. Mr. Weir has got the shipping companies to fall into line on ocean rates, at a level of $15 per head. One of them had been [illegible]

A total of 18,029,973 telegrams was transmitted and received by Canada in 1929, an increase of 1,178,783 over 1928 There are 300,563 miles of telegraph lines in Canada.

Urging the people of eastern Canada to lend their moral support to the citizens of western Canada during their present trying period, E. R. Rattenbury, chief commissioner of the Canadian Board of Grain Commissioners, addressing the Canadian club at Toronto, recently, declared that upon the courage of western farmers to keep to their land and maintain production lies security in the future.

Farmers must be encouraged to continue to produce until consumption and growers in abnorm production.

"Western Canada today is swift up against it," Mr Ramsay said. "There is no doubt about that. They have had two unprofitable crops on their hands, the first due to to short production and the second to very low prices."

Continuing, the speaker declared the western provinces were in need of help. "I do not mean monetary help," he said, "for the west will always pay its debts as it has done in the past. But it needs the moral help of every man and woman in Canada in this crisis in its present difficulties. The thing of prime importance now is to keep the western farmer in full production until consumption increases to take care of it."

"I have noticed that those who have expressed views on the market are wrong five minutes after they start," Mr. Ramsay said. "I don't claim to know anything about it. We are doing a good export business in Canada. If that keeps up the farmer will recover from lost year may be diminished.

"Last year it was the fashion to blame speculation on the wheat pool. This year, it is Russia. I don't think either has had much to do with it. It was just one of those periods of liquidation that happened from time to time."

Easterners were inclined to underestimate the ability of western farmers, he contended.

"There are a great many statements flying around in the press and on the streets which seem. I believe, to credit the western farmer with little common sense or gumption," he said. "My own experience is that the western farmer is a very fine type of business man.

"He is just going to be stampeded and he is not going to abandon his farm. I have always thought that the biggest difficulty the western farmer has to on assurance of the stability of his tenure on the land; in other words that his work was going towards the building up of his estate.

"He doesn't want to have to move. There is a saying in the west that two moves on a farm is as bad as a fire, that money will be lost.

"It is a fact that he holds in his own power a great deal of ability to limit the cost of production. He can live off the land and he will do that before he will leave his farm."

Mechanized farming to introduce large-scale operation in western Canada would mean national disaster, in Mr. Ramsay's opinion.

"I think that there is a real place on the farm for some mechanical assistance," he said, "but I think it would be a national calamity if the farm home gave way to mechanized farming

"We need that population on the prairies. The big difficulty this country must face is to keep those people on the land until conditions remedy themselves."

R. D. VERMILION VALLEY MINUTES

A meeting of the Council of M. D. of Vermilion Valley was held in the municipal office on Saturday, Nov. 15 at 8 o'clock. The Reeve was in the chair and Councillors McPhee, Lord and Kent were present.

Minutes of last meeting were confirmed and auditor's statements for September and October accepted.

Mothers' Allowance for Mrs. McCrory for the winter months, and Mrs Robinson to the end of the year were approved.

Compensation for land taken to road purposes was passed on S½ of 8-56-6 and S.E. 9-53-6.

A report on the position of the Municipal District with Vermilion Hospital was presented and discussed as to requisition.

An error in Isley Hospital taxes of 4 14 in 1929 was rectified

The annual meeting, at which nominations for councillors will be in order, was set for Saturday, Feb. 21st at Isley. H. A. Searle was appointed returning officer and the following D.R.O.'s were also appointed.

D.R.O.	Poll
Div. 1 A. Lambert	Mr. Stone's house
Div. 2 E. Baldwin	W. Baldwin's house
Div. 3 C. Colton	Union School
Div. 4 J. D. Mix	J. D. Mix's house
Div. 4 E. Robertson	North Vermilion School
Div. 5 R. Ousness	Allanaire School
Div. 6 J. S. Caitanach	Trimbleville School

Bills amounting to $715.50 were passed, and Council adjourned.

CANADIANS AS MEAT EATERS

Consumption of meat in Canada in 1929 has been estimated by the agricultural branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as follows:

	Consumption Lb.	Per Capita Lb.
Beef	676,185,252	69.08
Pork	780,626,774	81.52
Lamb & Mutton	74,511,126	7.39

The figures show substantial increase in the quantity of meat consumed in Canada. In 1928 the domestic market absorbed 648 million pounds of beef. The market consumed 70 million pounds of lamb and mutton in 1929, as compared with 63 million in 1928, while there was an increase of over 1,400,000 pounds in the volume of pork consumed.

THE WORLD'S SHEEP

There are estimated to be 700 million sheep in the world, equal to a head and one for every three people. Russia leads with 116 million, with Australia next with 90, and the United States has about 47 million. The world's wool clip is some 3,500 million pounds.

HOGS BUYING HOGS

Twenty thousand pigs, worth several million marks, have been bought by the Reich Government from German farmers and transported to Russia via Poland in sealed railway wagons. The Reich is paying 20 per cent. of the purchase price in cash and the rest on a credit guaranteed by the German government. The pigs are to be used for breeding purposes. It is said, but it is believed in Germany that most of them will eventually be sold and their way into the Russian slaughter houses.

Former Governor Endorses Sargon

Former Governor Clifford Walker of Georgia, twice honored with the highest office the people of his State could give him, is prominent among the thousands of well known men and women throughout America who have publicly expressed their gratitude for benefits they have obtained from the use of Sargon. He recently said:

"For being stalwart in physical strength, it has been my custom for several years to recoup my physical energies at each change of season with some tonic. Owing to close confinement in my office, and rather sedentary habits of life my physical condition was such that, I decided to take a course of treatment at Battle Creek.

During recent years, in fact, I have been compelled to resort almost continually to laxatives and other special hygienic measures to maintain my health.

"This season a friend of mine suggested Sargon. I was convinced from literature which I read that it was a scientifically prepared product and decided to try it.

"Almost from the start its invigorating effects were noticeable. I seemed more alert, my appetite improved, my capacity for work was increased and I was conscious of a feeling of general well-being. I have gotten by the summer and am now entering the fall season with more energy and in better physical tone than I have experienced in many years.

"From my own personal experience I am convinced that Sargon contains certain therapeutic agents which are highly valuable wherever a tonic impression is required, and also for their influence upon the appetite and digestion. From its effects in my case I cheerfully recommend it as a tonic and corrective worthy the trial of all tired business men."

Sargon may be obtained in Vermilion from Long's Drug Store.

Vegreville Fire Does Big Damage

VEGREVILLE, Alta., Nov. 24. — Damage estimated at $15,000 was done here when fire of unknown origin broke out in the G. F. Sharpe Lumber company yard at 3 a.m. on Monday. The fire originated in a shed and is believed to have been started by hoboes spending the night in this shelter.

The entire town was at one time menaced by the embers from the big blaze, and the windows in the Reeder flour mills, nearby, were broken by the heat. Oil tanks and seven elevators were in the danger zone, but the good work of patrols of citizens, who turned out in the aid of T. Thompson, the manager of the lumber yard, confined the blaze to the yard itself. Fortunately there was only a mild wind at the time of the fire.

Plan now to holiday this winter. Excursion fares to many points in Canada and the Central United States commencing December ensure a pleasant trip at minimum expense. Enquire now for full particulars from your local Canadian National Agent or write

Local Contractors Awarded Contract

A tender from local contractors was accepted for the erection of a one-roomed frame — with basement — school building for the Brickfield district some ten miles north of Derwent. The successful tenderers were Messrs. Roy Fraser and Adrian Fisher. The excavation on the basement will now be well under way towards completion, as work was commenced on Saturday. The ground had been well covered with manure and straw to prevent freezing before the tender was let.

Cars Collide On East Highway

Two cars failed to give each other sufficient clearance last Thursday evening about a mile and a half east of town on a small hill on the highway, with the result that their front wheels caught and swung the cars into each other, with considerable damage to both. The autos are now resting in Vermilion Motors undergoing repairs. One was a Plymouth owned by Mr. Sutherland of the Island Hill district, while the other was a new Chevrolet owned by Neil Mclnnis.

SPIRIT OF PROPHECY

The prophets of old, with all the virtues mentioned in last issue, lived in times when often the slightest offence meant terrible punishment, in an uncertain manner. It took the mightiest of motives to make some men act at all, especially along lines of religion and prophecy. Those men were often suspected of blasphemy and heresy, etc. There was something [illegible] behind their actions, and that was the Mighty Spirit of Love, given them from the Unseen Hand, behind all good gifts and true. Men, no matter how much self-made, or strong, could not have stood what these Prophets did without that Spirit. How could Isaiah stand all day long before a disobedient and gainsaying people, or Jeremiah stand even till the collapse of Jerusalem, among its very defenders and prophesy that their efforts were useless, accusing them for bringing this calamity upon their own heads, by their own sins. True love to any degree is a marvelous thing. Even as we see a mother giving up so much of her time, hopes and efforts for her young, we wonder at the sacrifice involved, an outcome of her love and affection. But when we see and read of men and women, no doubt possessed by that Flaming Spirit of Love and Charity, effecting such changes throughout the world, by their declarations of truth and sacrifice of self, as to cause the Truth to shine as bright on a sinning world today. We marvel.

First Attempt To Fly Across Atlantic

Made in Dirigible "America" On October 7th-8th 1909

Dimmed by the passing years, man's first attempt to fly the Atlantic was recalled October 13, on the twentieth anniversary of the take-off.

The flight was made in the dirigible "America," starting at Atlantic City, and terminating 1 000 miles at sea October 14, 1910, when the crew of six forsook their craft for the royal mail steamer "Trent."

It was nine years later that the ocean was conquered by Navy fliers in the NC-4 and Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, were first to span the water non-stop.

Walter Wellman, veteran explorer and newspaper man, headed the America's crew which included Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer; F. M. Hance, navigator; J. H. Irwin, wireless operator; A. L. Loud and Jean Aubert, assistant engineer, and a kitten as mascot.

Their craft, a far cry from today's monster air liners was made of silk and cotton gummed together to form a cigar-bag 228 feet long and 52 feet in diameter.

On the under side was a car 158 feet long in the bottom of which was a 76-foot steel tank for gasoline. Below it was hung a lifeboat used to flight as sleeping quarters.

Suspended from the rigid bag was a novel device called the equilibrator, 300 feet of steel cable from which dangled 30 steel tanks filled with gasoline and a "rat tail" of 40 wooden blocks.

This device dragging in the water was thought vital to successful flight, but Wellman, after the rescue at sea, branded it as "the fatal mistake of the venture."

The equilibrator was believed necessary to ground the wireless, to maintain the ship on even keel and to lighten the load when gas escaped from the envelope of, shrank in cold air.

Starting from Atlantic City, powered by two engines of 80 horse-power each, the ship averaged 12 miles an hour, though it had attained speed of 26 miles an hour and for three days zig-zagged towards Bermuda until the dangling equilibrator, tossed by the waves, gave promise of tearing the "America" asunder.

On down the fourth day the "Trent" was sighted and signaled to stand by. The "America" was maneuvered close to the ship. The lifeboat was dropped and was nearly capsized by the thrashing equilibrator. The crew was transferred. The dirigible, free of the weight, mounted like skies as an aerial derelict, and was lost at sea.

Wellman, now nearing his seventy-second birthday, lives in New York Vaniman, undaunted by the first failure, built the dirigible "Akron" and was killed July 2, 1912, when it exploded over the Atlantic on a test flight.

Of the rest Wellman has no definite knowledge. Irwin, he believes, is in the naval service. Aubert is in Los Angeles. Loud untraced, and Simons, an Englishman, is somewhere in Great Britian.

Schoolboy Strike a Failure

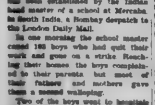
Students At School In South India Have Learned Lesson

A record for non-stop wheeling has been established by the Indian head master of a school at Mercara, in South India, a Bombay despatch to the London Daily Mail.

In one morning the school master caned 188 boys who had quit their work and gone on a strike. Reaching their homes the boys complained to their parents, but most of their fathers and mothers gave them a second walloping.

Two of the boys went to hospitals desiring to be treated but the surgeons gave them another caning. It was alleged, and sent them away. The same schoolboy strikes are expected at Mercara.

"Two good aids to health," says a doctor "are to swim regularly and drink plenty of water." To insure the most gratifying results, of course three should be done separately.



To teach the children strictest honesty

"Aren't you afraid it will handicap them in later life?" Meestigue, Montreal.

Will Aid Stock Raising

Opening Of Overseas Market Will Prove Boon To Western Farmers

Increased stock raising in western Canada involving a swing-over from straight grain growing to mixed farming, is looked for by cattlemen and prominent agriculturists as the result of the opening of Scottish markets to Canadian cattle and the obtaining of a flat rate of $15 per head for carrying the animals across the Atlantic, announced by Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

George H. Williams, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, said the announcement was a great achievement on the part of the new minister of agriculture, but also urged that efforts be made to extend the shipment of cattle to Cardiff, Wales, and to English ports, particularly those on the east coast, Norfolk, Suffolk, Lincolnshire and Cambridgeshire would, he thought, be predisposed to care for Canadian cattle as a large quantity of the beef sold in England is fattened there.

William Darbyshire, of Laura, Sask., holder of a number of world's championships for grain and stock, thought that the announcement would give renewed hops to farmers in the west. He also favored extending the shipments to England.

Popularity Of Radio

Over Half a Million Radios Now In Use In Canada

The radio is rapidly advancing in popularity in Canada. There are over 500 000 licensed radios now in use throughout the Dominion and by the end of the Canadian Government fiscal year on March 31, 1931, it is expected the total number of licensed sets in use will be about 600,000. All owners of radio receiving sets in Canada are required to take out a [illegible] from the Radio Branch of the Canadian Government Department of Marine at a cost of $1. For this nominal charge the government gives benefits and service helpful to the radio fan. The branch of this service is to detect and check causes of interference that prevent satisfactory reception. Ships with special equipment are maintained in a number of centres throughout the Dominion to find out where the trouble is anchored. When located experts apply the remedy. These men are constantly cruising over a wide area. Free radio licenses are issued to the blind.

Lessons For Home-Makers

Correspondence Course In Foods and Nutrition Arranged For Women Of Manitoba

The correspondence course in foods and nutrition is offered again to the women of Manitoba by the Extension Service in the Department of Agriculture. The course consists of 16 lessons, which are sent out weekly by the mail from November 3. The lessons are planned for busy homemakers and are simple in form and practical in application. Terms which have often served no better purpose than to frighten people away from the subject of nutrition are dealt with in everyday language.

This course was first developed in 1927, and was then offered in any woman anywhere. Sixty women took the course the first year. One hundred and sixteen took it the second year. When the course was announced last year it was offered to residents of Manitoba only, and 134 took it. This is evidence of the interest in the course.

Stop Only Temporary

Two suburban districts in London, one of which is the home of Conservative Leader Bennett, Hampstead and Islington They adjoin, and the same bus goes into each suburb. The conductor was complaining the other day of the first of these two places by shouting "Amstead! Amstead!" "Hampstead, man," said J. J. Thomas, the famous artist, as he was getting off the bus. "Conductor, you're suffering from something — the 'H' is Hampstead."

"That's half right! Sir," came the reply. "Stop only temporary. 'H'll pick bit hup hat Hislington."

Arrives in Time

The Japanese instrument of ratification of the London naval treaty arrived in England October 30, aboard the "Leviathan," crossing by three days a race with time to get it here for deposit of ratifications at the foreign office, 10 Downing Street, London, England, on October 27

Unnecessary Repetition

"Then you won't marry me?"

"No—a thousand times no"

"You needn't say 'No' a thousand times," said the subdued suitor, reverentially. "I only asked you once!"

Making Bread In Colours

Blue, Green, Rose and Yellow Loaves Produced On Sale Of Unusual Types

Loaves of bread colored in almost all tints of the rainbow are about to be introduced to Toronto, and possibly other parts of Ontario and Canada, according to the exhibit of baking equipment, materials and products staged in connection with the recent convention in the Royal York Hotel of the Bread and Cake Bakers' Association of Canada and Allied Industries.

Strollers through the display hall on the convention floor blinked and took a longer look when they came to the booth occupied by products of the Trent Institute, the baking school operated in conjunction with the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. For there, sitting demurely against a snowy damask cloth, was an array of loaves with not only their crusts but the dough emanating brilliant hues of blue, yellow, green, rose and pink.

Many of the surprised strollers decided that either they or the baker had been seeing things, but the possibilities of the thing struck them before long. Pink bread for pink teas, blue bread for blue dinner or when you are down in the dumps, green bread with salads, yellow bread to sell with corn on the cob.

A large demand for the bread which can be produced in almost any color or combination of colors by the use of harmless vegetable colorings is foreseen for use at special functions and social affairs at banquets given by organizations boasting colors.

"Imagine the hit it would make to have blue and white bread at a Varsity banquet, or red, yellow and green loaves at a dinner given by Britons," exclaimed Paul Haeberlin, producer of the bread on display at the Royal York. Colored bread is being sold regularly he said, in New Jersey, Chicago and other parts of the United States, and is apparently quite popular. The loaves taste the same as ordinary white bread, the color enhancing their appearance but changing the flavor not at all.

U. S. Military Invasion

Military Teams From Europe, United States and Canada To Attend Toronto Winter Fair

Military teams from Europe, the United States and Canada will take part in the program to be given each evening at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, November 15 to 27, 1930. This fair is one of the largest agricultural fairs held annually in any country. Last year there were 1 200 exhibitors with 16,328 competitive entries, and there were 228 from the United States and 10 from Ireland.

This great fair, with its international appeal, is held in the Coliseum, one of the buildings at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds in the west end of the city, which has a seating capacity of 10,000.

This year's show promises to be bigger and better than any of its predecessors and it will be the mecca for representatives of agriculture from many parts of the world.

The Philosopher's Stone

A person looking for a short cut to riches is said to be looking for the philosopher's stone. The ancient alchemists believed that somewhere in nature there existed a substance which would convert ordinary materials into gold. Imagining the substance was called the philosopher's stone because it was conceived to be linked up with the theories of matter advanced by the philosophers.

Linguistic Difficulties

Anglo-Saxons Do Not Usually Find Foreign Languages Easy To Master

The Americans who acclaimed Mistinguett, the suddenly famous girl in brilliant French has his counterpart in the advertising pages of French magazines. There the music-hall promises are made—the Britisher is told that he can acquire a fluent command of English in an amazingly short time.

The end truth, as most Americans see it, is that the French do indeed take to language as a duck to water, while the Anglo-Saxon, splash about as he may, never gets beyond the need of a life-preserver or pocket dictionary. The noblest resolves to speak to the French in their own language sink before the amiable determination of the French to parler anglais.

A capable young woman employed by an international organization with headquarters in America was promoted to a position which necessitated her living in Paris. She had little French, so it was arranged that she should live with a French family, some of whom spoke English. Wise counsellors assured that daily contact with Monsieur, Madame and their three lively children would soon remedy her faulty French.

The experiment fell short of success. At the end of a year the American Miss still spoke French haltingly, while the entire French family, down to the youngest tot of five, had acquired a fine command of English.—New York Times.

Caring For Idle Horses

Farmers Well Advised To Keep Them Through Winter

It is not always possible to buy a good team at a favorable price in the spring, while it is often hard to get a decent figure for the same animals in the autumn. It would thus seem advisable, when the ground freezes, to lay aside for the winter all horses which are not absolutely required and to feed them as cheaply as possible without impairing their future usefulness. They will fare very well on a daily ration of one pound of mixed hay, one pound of oat straw, one pound of carrots or Swedes, for each one hundred pounds of their weight. On this they have been known to gain an average of near 20 pounds during a five months' idle, during which time they have their work should be cut down gradually from November 1 to November 15, then placed in box stalls; then little or no work till April, when the feed and the work may be gradually increased.

Commerce On Great Lakes

Shrinkage If Any Equal Area Of Water Carries An Much

W. E. Tracey writing in The New York Telegram says:

"The United States has four coasts —one on the Atlantic, one on the Pacific, one on the Gulf of Mexico, and one on the Great Lakes.

Of all four, that on the Great Lakes is the longest, which will surprise many folks.

The fact that we have called them "lakes" seems to have made a deeper impression than the fact that we have called them "great"; a good illustration of the effectiveness of nouns, compared to that of adjectives. Rare is the visitor from other parts of this country who beholds one of the Great Lakes for the first time without expressing astonishment that he cannot see across it.

One-third of the American people dwell in States bordering the Great Lakes.

The second, fourth and sixth largest cities in this country are situated on the Great Lakes, not to mention Buffalo, Milwaukee and Toledo, which can hardly be ruled as unimportant, especially since Buffalo and Toledo are among our eight greatest ports.

Three times as much tonnage passes through the Detroit River and Sault Ste. Marie each year as through either the Panama or the Suez Canal.

It is doubtful whether any equal area of water on earth carries as much commerce as the Great Lakes."

Require Special Training

Horses Used In State Processions Must Become Used To Noise and Color

"Caesar" and "Castor," the late Lord Roseberry's favorite carriage horses, which have been presented to the King and Queen of England, will have to attend school and take some lessons before they are allowed to appear in State processions.

Each afternoon they will be taken, with the younger animals in the royal stables, to the riding school at Buckingham Palace Mews, for exercise amid waving flags and the music of the stables "band." Grooms, postilions, stable hands, and the royal coachman take a hand in the performance dressed in guards' uniforms, complete with busbies (tall beaver hats), bringing with them the quarrel assortment of instruments which ever combined to give forth [illegible]

The entertainment goes on for about half an hour every afternoon, to get the horses accustomed to the noises of public demonstrations, crowds, bugles, the sound of music close at hand, and the vivid colors of military uniforms, explains one of the royal coachmen.

To set a good example they bring some of the older and more experienced horses to school. These have a steadying effect on the youngsters. A guardsman's busby can be a terrifying object in the sight of a "raw" recruit at the stables.

Trade Conditions Reviewed

Review Of World Business Conditions Issued By U.S. Commerce Department

A review of world business conditions, made up from cable and radio messages, was said at the United States Commerce Department to show a number of hopeful indications as to the future development in some countries and dark prospects in others. The study was carried on in almost every quarter of the globe.

The review states Far Eastern conditions show several hopeful indications, though actual business has increased very little. Slowly returning confidence was noted in British India and the "good agriculture outlook" was reported in the sugar and jute features in the Australian situation."

The review says the French wheat crop was found to be one of the worst on record and that France's foreign trade, both import and export, was at a low ebb.

Reporting on Canada the review stated:

"Increases in contemplated construction in Canada and improved confidence in the textile industry are the principal favorable factors in the Canadian situation, but newsprint production has declined."

Food For Thought

Even Small Gardens Of Land Should Yield a Living

On many farms in Western Canada there are many pigs, hens and gardens.

On these farms there may be scarcity of cash at the present time but there is no threat of starvation.

On other farms there are no cows, pigs, hens and gardens.

On some of these farms there is a shortage of cash and the threat of hunger as well.

Where the weather was so dry that feed could not be grown there is some explanation of the absence of livestock and gardens.

In other districts where weather conditions were normal it is difficult to account for the lack of food essentials. Cows, pigs and chickens will get along on low-grade feed. In most parts of Saskatchewan gardens will grow with little attention. A quarter-section should at least produce food.

These things may be said without any reflection on the family that is facing a hard time. It is well that they should be considered.

Would a survey of our farming in Saskatchewan reveal that the best use was being made of the opportunity, perhaps, not to grow rich but to grow enough food? Would such a survey reveal a satisfactory situation?—Regina (Evening) Leader-Post.

Advantages Of Good Seed

No Farmer Can Afford To Use Poor Seed, Says Minister Of Agriculture

"No person can afford to use poor seed," stated Hon. Robert Weir, the new Federal Minister of Agriculture, at the banquet concluding the international plowing match at Stratford recently. Mr. Weir pointed out, in speaking about improvement of agriculture during this time of low prices, that the difference between the use of poor seed and good seed only amounted to around 50 cents an acre, whereas the results were vastly greater.

"It costs no more to make a good seed bed than a poor one," he stated, but it is also advisable to exercise that good seed on dirty land. It was by the use of good seed and good stock, involving no more overhead than working with poor material, that the farmer could materially reduce the cost of production and show some return on his labor even during the present state of depression in farming," is the new minister of agriculture contended.

Remarkable Growth In Newspaper Advertising

Many Readers Pass Up News For Advertising Pages

Once upon a time, advertising matter in a newspaper was regarded by the public as a sort of waste product like the pits in the cherries or the husks of the grain. A complete change of public opinion has been effected It has become an established fact that many newspaper readers confess, or at the news matter is concerned to being headline readers only, find their greatest interest and spend the greater part of the time allotted to reading, in a careful study of the advertising pages. They find in them both pleasure and profit.

This winning of the public favor is directly attributable to the good sense, the technical skill, the artistic methods and, above all, the honesty of the advertising So cleverly are the artistic methods exercised that most of the details escape the notice of the readers who are won and held by a combination of potent influences each wholly unobtrusive.

Big Apple Business

Records of the Dominion Fruit Branch at Ottawa show that the apple business of Canada last year amounted to 2,650,915 barrels produced in Canadian orchards. In addition, 158,420 barrels were imported and 1,727,147 barrels exported. Exports last year were 300,000 barrels ahead of 1921 and larger than any year since.

Saskatchewan Building Returns

Some $34,184,380 was spent on the construction of new buildings in Saskatchewan last year This was greater by $10,000,000 than that of any previous year in the history of the province.

Unemployment Relief Policies

Unemployment not only casts a sinister shadow over the world today, but the substance of the thing has hundreds of thousands, even millions, of men, women and children in its grip. Admittedly the situation is a serious one, first, because of the actual suffering entailed thereby, but also because it is causing men to "see red," as the saying is, and lose faith in all established and orderly methods of government, society and business. The tendency is to repudiate economic truths, and to try experiments with almost any hair-brained proposal that may be advanced. Here lies the real danger for the future because many of the suggested remedies would result in a state of affairs far worse, and cause more suffering, than the condition they sought to improve and cure.

One suggested temporary remedy for present unemployment that undoubtedly finds support in many quarters is the substitution of handwork, manual labor, for machinery in prosecuting relief works. For example, it is reported that one large United States city is developing a program of winter work that will substitute picks and shovels, shovel brigades for machines, for the duration of winter, to give work to a larger number of men. The same suggestion is being advanced in connection with municipal relief works throughout Canada.

The question is, Should we deliberately abandon our labor-saving devices and revert to the painfully slow methods of yesterday in order to provide jobs for the unemployed? Is it wise to do so, and, in the long run, are the unemployed benefitted thereby? The subject deserves close study.

Without doubt, a good deal of work can be manufactured by substituting primitive manual methods for more efficient machine-processes, remarks the New York Journal of Commerce. Indeed, by some systematic elimination of our modern labor-saving devices, it goes on, we could speedily reduce any modern industrialized community to a condition which would require the full-time effort of every able-bodied person to prevent wholesale starvation and death from exposure. But, without carrying the policy to any such lengths, is the suggestion good in any way?

In one of our prairie provinces where much road work is being carried on as a means of providing employment, decision was reached to build a certain road without use of machinery and solely by horse and manual labor. Objection was raised by some people that by using machinery for certain phases of the work, a greater mileage of good road could be constructed for the same money while giv ng employment to just as many men because of the greater mileage involved. This view was rejected, no machinery was used, and the work proceeded. A total of five miles of graded road was the result. Now it is realized that with the same number of men given work, practically the same expenditure of money, and the use of a certa n amount of machinery three times that mileage could have been constructed. The farmers of the district who were given relief work on that road would have benefited more from fifteen rather than five miles of good road, while in the years to come they must pay their share of the taxation necessitated by th's relief expenditure. They gained nothing temporarily, and will lose in the long run.

Fifty men digging a trench for a sewer or other pipe line with pick and shovel will accomplish just so much in a day, but the same fifty men working in conjunction with a trench-digging machine will accomplish several times as much and with little more expense. Or fifty men cleaning snow off sidewalks with shovels will only do a fraction of the work that the same fifty men following after snow ploughs will do, yet the same number of men will be given work and practically the same expenditure of public funds be required.

There should be no hasty assumption that the elimination of machinery in carrying out unemployment relief works a wise, or that more work for the unemployed can be thus provided. It does mean however, that less will be accomplished for the money expended and for this economic loss every body, including those at present unemployed, will have to pay through taxation in the years to come.

Other suggested remedies have been to recommend them as, for example, the proposals in Great Britain and Germany to raise the compulsory school leaving age by one year, thus keeping some hundreds of thousands of children in school for a longer period instead of having them forced into employment and replacing others now at work or merely added to the ranks of the idle and out-of-works. There is something constructive in such a policy, benefiting the coming generation of workers, and raising the whole educational standard of the nation.

So, too, is there much to be said in favor of the suggestion that the present six-day or five and a half-day work week be reduced to a five-day work week, or that the present 8-hour day be reduced to a 7-hour or even a 6-hour day. As the head of one of the greatest industrial corporations in the world today recently pointed out the greater the amount of leisure time enjoyed by the workers of the world the larger will be their demand for the things necessary to the enjoyment of those leisure hours thus creating a greater demand than ever for the production of the things they require. Thus would more men be employed, more goods produced and purchased, a higher, rather than a lower standard of living created.

Stunt Flying Does Not Help Aviation In Any Way

In the Pyrahmos, N.J., airport on a recent Sunday, 5,000 people were watching the marvels of skill in flight when an airplane driven by veteran Alden H. Russell, went into a tail spin and crashed, injuring Russell seriously and his one passenger fatally. More than these two men were endangered: the small mind within 800 feet of the massed spectators. In front of them all about the same time a pilot and two women passengers were burned to death in a low crash after stunting.

The friends of commercial aviation in view of the number of such fatalities, may well ask themselves what kind of publicity will most benefit their young industry; the pleasure of the crowd gathered to risk their own lives in seeing reckless pilots risk theirs, or the story of the really remarkable advance that is being made in aviation with a purpose. For, almost unnoticed along with all this dangerous stunting, the carrying of air mails and passengers goes on with comparative safety, which should be of attention now and then diverted from it by fatal accidents in exhibitions, most encouraging.

It might be in the public interest if an accident with a hundred people killed by a plane out of control to open the eyes of aviation authorities to the necessity of curbing the practice of recklessly showing off what wonderful things can be done in the air with luck, which does not always attend the venture.

A Mother's Anxiety

About Her Delicate Daughter

"She seems to be fading away." So an anxious mother recently said about her daughter. Thousands of girls and young women are pale. They daughters endure a trying life from their pallid appearance. Their cheeks are pale; their eyes dull and sunken; they languish in a miserable feeling of shattered health. If neglected their suffering grows more serious. Headaches, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, backache, loss of appetite, are some of the symptoms. Dizziness, sick headache or backache; her appetite is variable, she is moody, and how often is the cause. She needs new blood. Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once for these pills actually renew and enrich the blood. They make sickly girls well and happy women, from grain and vegetable juices, by aiding the charm and brightness of perfect health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Marvels Yet To Come

Inventor Responsible For Train Telephone Has Great Vision For Future

Forecasting the future always as interesting occupation. While in this respect the chief interest of the public is in the weather for tomorrow, other unusual prognostications attract attention. An article in Maclean's Magazine dealing with the genius of Mr. John C. Burkholder, who is responsible for the "train telephone" in operation on the Canadian National Railways, sets forth other ideas in the mind of this inventor.

Among the marvels that are to come, he sees the time when newspapers will be printed in large cities by transmitting the whole edition, page by page, illustrations and all, by telegraph, with not the loss of minutes until the presses are running. City streets are to be three-decked, and moving sidewalks will do away with street cars. Television and radio will bring from London and New York the actual stage presentation and "the wheel of industry may be turned by the power of the sun's rays, and the crops of plants lighted by rays captured from the sun."

Perhaps. A few decades ago Edison had such a vision and a great deal of it came true. The world is full of men with minds and brains of most vivid imagination cannot foresee the marvels that are yet to come.

A Deadly New Rifle

Works Like Machine Gun Even Under Water

The possibility of making every infantryman a machine gunner was demonstrated at Bisley in the presence of representatives of the War Office, the Royal Air Force and the Admiralty, when a series of tests were made of the Vickers-Berthier land service rifle and the Pedersen self-loading rifle.

The machine rifle was subjected to a severe ordeal. It was buried deep in the mud and then in the sea, resurrected, and in the hands of a capable demonstrator it ticked out eight rounds per second. Twenty-six of out 5end at the rate of 450 rounds a minute.

An even more severe test was to submerge the machine rifle in a tank filled with water and then fire-like consistency. It survived, with its mechanical efficiency and accuracy unimpaired. Another test was to fire into a heap of its component parts in 10 seconds. It was quickly reassembled and ready for action. One hundred rounds rapid were fired on the 100 yards range, that be ng the average period of its burst of fire.

Drug Ring Smashed

United States Federal Agents Make Thirty Arrests

Thirty arrests in seven cities, and seizure of drugs valued at $25,000, were reported by United States federal officers who for six weeks have worked under cover in an effort to smash what they described as an "international drug ring—one of the biggest and most powerful in the United States."

The secret government agents caused the arrests in Syracuse, Buffalo, N.Y., Utica, Albany, Troy and Schenectady. The coup was said to have been engineered by narcotic officials at Washington and New York.

Three men taken into custody in Syracuse Saturday night, Nov 1, after undercover men, who had gained the confidence of several of the men, said by them to be members of the ring, were lured to Syracuse with invitations to a "wild party."

CARRY-OVER OF WHEAT FOR 1931 MAY BE LESS

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada had a surplus of 312,000,000 bushels of wheat on Oct. 31, according to an estimate in the review of wheat conditions issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. If the present sales policy is continued, the carry-over at the end of the crop year will be approximately 250,000,000 bushels, it is said. The review states:

"The carry-over of wheat in Canada at July 31, 1930, was 312,000,000 bushels and the total 1930 wheat crop is now estimated at 396,000,000 bushels. Allowing 110 000,000 bushels for seed, home consumption and unmerchantable grain, and adding 85,000,000 bushels exported in the period up to October 31, accounts for the total of 195,000,000 bushels.

On the basis of the official estimates of carry-over and production, a surplus of about 313,000,000 bushels existed at October 31, and it is seen that a continuation of present sales policy will result in a reduced carry-over in 1931. A great deal depends upon economic conditions as well as upon the economic policy in the United Kingdom and Europe. The reduction of Northern American supplies by seasonal before the 1931-32 season will be an important factor.

The 1931-32 season will be an important factor in future price levels. The fall movement of grain from the head of the lakes navigation season stocks in ready positions for winter export. The fortunate disturbances of the European wheat crop according to quality will also be a helpful factor.

The high quality wheat for eastern shipment and the low quality wheat suitable for the Orient are in the most favorable situation for movement, the former being centred in Manitoba and Southern Saskatchewan, while the latter comes from northern and central regions of Alberta and Western Saskatchewan."

"After a short period during most of October, daily deliveries of wheat began to exceed those of the same date last year on October 30, and since that date the cumulative total for the 1930 crop has continually widened the increase over the 1929 total.

In the crop season up to November 11, the total wheat marketings in 1930 was 194,868,000 bushels compared to 199 000,000 bushels in 1929 The provincial estimates of the 1930 wheat crop of the west was made on November 13, and forecasted a crop of 374,000,000 bushels. The same amount, about 42,000,000 bushels will be retained for seed in the west and at least 15,000,000 bushels will be unmerchantable or lost in cleaning on the farms.

Estimates will be made later of the amount fed on farms and custom milled by country mills for consumption on such farms. On the basis of the provincial estimate, with reasonable deductions for valid items, probably 110-115 million bushels of wheat were still held by western farmers on November 11th.

No Change Likely

Tariff At Churchill To Be Same As Other Canadian Ports

Ottawa, Ont.—It may be taken for granted that the present government is not contemplating a tariff schedule on goods coming into Canada at Churchill that would be different from the tariff on goods coming at any other Canadian port. This was the opinion expressed in Ottawa in circles here in reference to the proposal by Hon. R. A. Hoey, acting premier of Manitoba, that Churchill be made a free port of entry for British goods coming to Canada.

A number of free ports in Europe are known as "free ports." Goods may be shipped into storage in such ports without any customs restrictions and then sold. However such imports have to meet the tariffs of the countries to which they are ultimately consigned

To Stabilize Wheat Prices

Advocate Measures To Restore Confidence and Ameliorate Western Conditions

Portage la Prairie, Man.—Organized agriculture of the prairies stands four square back of the premiers' pilgrimage to the east to seek Dominion government aid for the west. In annual convention here, United Farmers of Manitoba gave their endorsation to the premiers' mission, to gain Dominion assistance in restoring confidence and in ameliorating conditions in the west.

Already United Farmers of Alberta and United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, have taken a stand in favour of fixed prices for wheat by means of Dominion intervention, admittedly the object of the prairie premiers' journey to Ottawa. The Manitoba body, however, erased all mention of price fixing from the resolution which it approved unanimously.

The Manitoba delegation will be bound to no specific move with regard to steps to be taken at the meeting.

In the course of open debate on the question, Mr. Williams stated that United Farmers of Ontario and the Canadian Council of Agriculture would be represented at the meeting. As well as prairie farm bog body delegates. The Manitoba convention approved the action of its directors in naming Peter Heaman, of Lake Saskatoon parley, scheduled November 26 to 28.

Exhibit Of Choicest Products

Varied Display Seen At Royal Winter Fair In Toronto

Toronto, Ont.—The choicest of Canada's agricultural products and the bluebloods of her cattle, domestic animals and poultry were on display here when, without any ceremony or speech-making, the gates of the Royal Winter Fair were opened to the public this morning in the buildings at the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds were hundreds of horses. Row upon row, country, fancy and cattle dogs, seeking glory in their respective classes, while in other buildings were displayed grains, fruit, flowers, dairy products, seed grains—the best Canada and the United States has to offer.

Perhaps the most varied show was the great display of apples, entered in competition by farmers and associations from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. The display of boxed and packed apples ready for shipment and placed one box beside the other, 10 crates high and 25 crates wide, made a general gladden ing sen of red and green.

The show was officially opened by the Right Honorable the Governor-General addressed the throng in the huge Coliseum.

What Acreage Should Not Be Reduced

Would Be Economic Failure In Opinion Of H. S. Fry

Toronto, Ont.—Reduction of acreage needed to bring about stability in western Canada, in an effort to cut down production and thus limit the surplus wheat which is responsible for an economic fallacy, in the opinion of Harold S. Fry, of Regina, chairman of the general publicity committee of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, which will be held in Regina, commencing July 20th 1933. Mr. Fry is also publicity director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

According to Mr. Fry, Canada produces in largest quantities the world's staple foodstuff and must remain as the world's greatest exporter of wheat. He held it paramount that Canada maintain this supremacy. Either by finding new markets for wheat, lessening the cost of production, finding new uses for wheat or a combination of all three.

Advocates Free Port

Portage la Prairie, Man.—Proposal that Churchill, the West's sea harbor on Hudson Bay, be declared a free port of entry for British goods, was made by Hon. R. A. Hoey, acting premier of Manitoba, at the annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba. He considered that such a move would tend measurably towards the establishment of the West's agriculture on a permanently profitable basis.

Rapid Telegraphy

Telegraph Transmission At a Speed of 8,130 Words a Minute

London, Ont.—Addressing the London branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada here, R. B. Steele, assistant chief engineer of the Canadian National Telegraphs, announced telegraph transmission at the speed of 8,130 words a minute would be made possible shortly by further extension of the carrier current system.

In 1927, Mr. Steele said, the C.N. Telegraph increased by means of carrier current the capacity of a pair of wires from 400 words a minute to 4,-130 words a minute for a single pair of wires. Further development of the system now made possible the transmission of 9,130 words a minute for a single pair of wires.

MORE FUNDS ARE SET ASIDE FOR RELIEF PURPOSES

Ottawa, Ont.—A new list of expenditures approved by Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, brings the number of relief projects, certificates of Dominion, provincial and municipal governments, for unemployment relief and winter works, to $45,600,700. Additional sums approved for Nova Scotia and Manitoba augmented the total by $1,038,733.43, of which the eastern province's share is $316,295.43, and that of Manitoba, $122,550.

The grand total is now distributed as follows: Nova Scotia, $4,072,305; Prince Edward Island, $144,000; New Brunswick, $406,300; Quebec, $3,501,800; Ontario, $10,733,103; Manitoba, $593,744; Saskatchewan, $1,476,941; Alberta, $2,667,556; British Columbia, $1,325,483; Yukon, $5,000; Canadian Pacific Railways $11,514,000; Canadian National Railways, $11,763,406; grade crossing fund, $250,000.

The program of construction which will be engaged in by the Canadian National Railways under the arrangement whereby interest on necessary borrowings is paid by the government, was announced here recently. The arrangement is made so as to speed up construction, sic., in order to give employment as soon as possible. The total estimated amount for the various projects, according to the program, is $9,044,000, of which $6,854,748 constitutes the proportion to be paid by the railway. The remainder will be met out of the grade crossing fund and other sources. The amount of contributions is to be determined by the board of Railway Commissioners.

In addition to the total sum mentioned there is a further amount of $5,110,750 for rails and ties.

The list of works includes:

Elevator storage shed, Fort William, Ont., total cost $132,000; railway proportion, $132,000.

Railway, Saskatoon, total cost $300,000; railway proportion, $300,000.

Diversion railway line, Westfort (Ont.), total cost $350,000; railway proportion, $350,000.

Relay 160 miles main line with new heavier rails and a total cost of $1,103,054, to be borne by the railway.

Lay track on approximately 143 miles new branch lines, total cost to the railway, $1,540,000.

Sir Henry Thornton Says C.N.R. Has No Complaint Over Treatment By Present Government

Ottawa Ont.—Interviewed here Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, said:

"I have no particular comment to make up-a recent rumors and reports relating to the Canad an National Railways other than to say that the administration has not the slightest complaint regarding its treatment by the present government and has no apprehensions with respect to the future. We have good steady jobs standing our own boots and trying to operate the railway. There does not seem to be any immediate reason for undue excitement."

Sir Henry spent some time in conference with Hon. Dr. J. H. Manion, Minister of Railways, who returned this week after a tour of the Maritimes. Only routine matters were under discussion, it was stated after-

Decrease In Fall Grain

Interesting Report Issued By Dominion Bureau Of Statistics

Ottawa, Ont. The area sown to fall wheat in Canada for the season 1931 as of Oct. 31, 1930, is estimated at 4,846,600 acres in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This represents a decrease of 114,900 acres when compared with the total of 1,042,000 acres sown in the year

The production of fall wheat in the three provinces of Ontario, Alberta, of the ten-year average, is about 85 per cent. on the same basis as 1929 the report states. The total of fall wheat sown in 1929 was 5,141,000 acres showing that 941,000 acres have been sown to this grain A decrease of 18 per cent. from the total of 1,116,000 acres sown in 1929 The condition of fall rye was reported at the time of seeding as 97 per cent. The condition on the same date last year, was 96 per cent.

Independence For India

Votes Of Indian Board At Round Table Conference In London, England—India's roundtable conference heard a voice from Asian in a demand for complete independence.

"I do not come to ask for Dominion status," exclaimed Muhammed Ali, one of the famous Ali brothers and a leader of the all-India Moslem League. "I do not believe in the attainment of Dominion status. The one thing to which I am committed is complete independence."

The Hindus and the Moslems alike challenged the Conservative view, expressed by Lord Peel when the former secretary of state for India declared Dominion status had not been promised as an immediate gift, but had merely been pointed as a goal by the present Viceroy of India, Lord Irwin.

"I want to go back to my own country," Muhammed Ali declared, "only if I can go back with the substance of freedom in my hand. Otherwise I will not go back to the slave country. You will have to give me a grave here."

"We will be satisfied with nothing less than full responsible government," insisted Dr. B. S. Moonje, head of the Hindu Mahasabhas, or protection society.

A NEW FARM POLICY PROPOSED BY GOVERNMENT

Toronto, Ont.—A Dominion agricultural policy is proclaimed by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture. On the occasion of the opening of the Royal Winter Fair, the minister enunciated important policies, adopted after three days' deliberation of the provincial ministers of agriculture and to be known as the "national agricultural policy."

Declaring that at the present period of depression was the time to take steps in the right direction should such prove necessary, and insisting on the necessity of co-operation throughout agricultural Canada, the minister introduced four measures designed to promote the situation and bolster "Canada's chief industry." They are:

1. The introduction of better seed in Canada.

2 The scientific use of home grown products for herd feeding purposes.

3. Careful study of the science of marketing.

4. The prevention of implantation and spread of poultry diseases.

One of the ambitions and reliefs of publicist and Mr. Weir himself is some machinery by which every farmer throughout the country could be kept aware of the changes in agricultural methods and of the improvement in farming conditions This he would do by means of a bulletin service of the different provincial agricultural leaders

It is hereby announced that the provincial departments of agriculture and all the machinery at their service, and municipal and other agencies in the form of Canada every possible advance or policy which the Dominion Department of Agriculture after consideration and consultation, will consider beneficial to the farming population as a whole This of course with the least possible delay and at the lowest cost.

Decrease in the cost of producing hard scientific problem that is the production of market requirements were the two considered principles that had not been lost sight of.

The minister made a brief analysis of his four major proposals as to assisting the difficulties the average farmer experiences in growing a first class size, whereby he might improve the blood of his cattle and the general quality of his herd. Mr Weir undertook to supply free of cost to any group of emigrant and deserving farmers, seed for sowing during a period of two years. This he thought would summate expense of the Canadian National Railways, energy and assistance some of the many necessary and wholesome steps in the raising of profitable and sound stock

Because of present conditions the minister hopes as a very definite increase in pork production during the months ahead. This he did not anticipate would be long lasting but that evidence must be taken to indicate that increased production in this direction was necessary.

In his opinion Nova Scotia, he said done to supplying canners with seed of the same type as were supplied to the Canadian Pacific Railway. This would eventually mean that the right quality of bacon could be procured for home consumption and exportation with substantial remuneration for the farmer

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PLAN WAITS ON CENSUS

Toronto, Ont —The Dominion Government awaits the completion of the 1931 census before it will apply the to the question of national unemployment insurance. Senator Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor, intimated in an address to the Ontario community welfare council.

Senator Robertson said from seven proposed by Lord Peel when the former secretary of state for India declared Dominion status had not been promised as an immediate gift, but had merely been pointed as a goal by the present Viceroy of India, Lord Irwin.

"I want to go back to my own country," Muhammed Ali declared, "only if I can go back with the substance of freedom in my hand. Otherwise I will not go back to the slave country. You will have to give me a grave here."

"We will be satisfied with nothing less than full responsible government," insisted Dr. B. S. Moonje, head of the Hindu Mahasabhas, or protection society.

"The speaker gave a detailed account of the Federal Government's $20,000,000 unemployment relief program, and of the provincial and municipalities co-operating, the other $46,000 000 worth of government-sponsored work under way or contemplated to relieve unemployment and $2,000,000 worth more of charity or benefit carried by trades

He Dr. J. D Montrith Minister of Labor and Public Works for Ontario, was most optimistic about the future of prosperity. "There will be a restoration best spring or summer," he said. "You must be prepared how the expenditures of the various governments on public works have improved the morale, and the power of the people as a whole has greatly improved. The depression has lifted and we are ready to respond to a restoration of better times."

I.O.D.E. To Open Lending Library

The local chapter of the I.O.D.E. is opening a Lending Library in the Town Office early in the new year.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. Mahler of the School of Agriculture, to use some of their books of fiction, biography and history as a nucleus. Books will also be had from the Extension Department of the University of Alberta, so wide range of choice will be available.

Further particulars will be announced later.

VERMILION DISTRICT TURKEYS FOR MONTREAL MARKET

A very large number of turkeys were received by the Vermilion Creamery on their two buying days this week; tops brought 23 cents per pound. Mr. R. Dunbell, local manager stated to the Standard that they were able to make a carload shipment direct from here to the Montreal market. The deliveries at Vermilion and Manville will be supplemented by a small Scteot consignment from Vegreville to complete the car.

JUVENILES RE-ORGANIZE FOR HOCKEY SEASON

Good Material Available

A re-organization meeting of the Vermilion Juvenile hockey club was held on Tuesday evening with the following officers being elected,—

Hon. Pres — Mayor Fallow.
President — F. Anderson.
Vice Pres — George Capatos
Sec. Treas. — Carman Long.

Jack Mackenzie will again manage and coach the team and it is the intention, providing the team shows the class of last years aggregation, to again enter the Provincial Play-offs. The boys are fortunate in having a good aggressive and interested executive to manage their affairs.

Three of last years players will not not be available this season, these being Art Wiebe, Wilfrid Fraser and R. Bowen. Coach Mackenzie has four newcomers on hand that he thinks will fill in the vacant places and team up well with the other regulars. The club is in good financial condition, having finished up last season with a surplus on hand

Closer Union, Not Secession

In times of depression, unemployment, hard times, national disaster, there is always a tendency on the part of suffering people to demand a revolutionary change in prevailing conditions, and this demand not infrequently takes the form of an agitation not merely for a change of government, but in the form of government itself. For many folks usually look upon, much greener than those close at hand, and far greener than is actually the case. Thus in monarchies the cry is raised in favor of a republic, in a republican an agitation is started to supersede the democratic form of responsible government by a form of state socialism; in socialist republics the demand is for the establishment of an out-and-out communistic state.

Because Canada, in common with other countries, is suffering from the existing period of world-wide depression, unemployment, and inability to profitably market its surplus products, the cry of secession is raised. A provincial Premier, Mr. Baxter, of New Brunswick, was the first to give voice to the idea at this time, thus reviving an old cry in the Maritimes. He did not openly advocate the secession of his Province from Confederation, but in view of the unsatisfactory state of affairs in industrial and financial institutions though their removal to the central provinces of Quebec and Ontario, he asked the question whether New Brunswick would not be better off if it withdrew from Confederation.

In Western Canada the same question has been raised at meetings of farmers who apparently are not satisfied with the economic relationship existing between the east and west, and are not in accord with the fiscal policy which finds favor still strung support in the industrial centres of Ontario and Quebec. They, therefore, advocate the secession of the West from Confederation and the setting up of a new and separate British Dominion which would enjoy complete freedom of choice in the matter of fiscal policy. In a word, they hold that a fiscal policy which may be advantageous to the central industrial provinces, may be detrimental to the interests of the agricultural western provinces, and that inasmuch as it is impossible to have two fiscal policies, one for the east and one for the west, the best thing to do is to separate politically and build up two British Dominions instead of one on the North American continent.

Such radical ideas do not flourish when times are good and people prosperous. It is only when prosperity is discouraged and suffering low, and conditions look dark and desperate, that such suggestions are advanced and receive more or less consideration.

But secession is not the path which the people of any part of Canada should travel. The Dominion has passed through many grave crises. It has weathered many a storm. It has grown stronger as a result. In its very nature it is a federal structure, not only for the sake of but for such provincial unity. Linked together all the provinces are stronger financially, and in every way, than they could possibly be if divided and separate.

The genius of the Canadian people can surmount the existing difficulties. It may require patience and fortitude; it certainly will demand a large degree of patriotism and unselfishness. There will have to be less insistence on the part of any one section of the Dominion that their views alone must prevail. There must be more widespread acceptance of the fact that the economic position of east and west is radically and fundamentally different; that what they see the necessity of the other, neither can prosper and survive if one alone is to dominate and seek to control. Insistence on any such id ed and selfish programme must end in disunion.

But Canada is yet a long way from the time when she can be the only way out to secession of either the Maritimes on the one hand, or the Western provinces on the other hand. Central Canada cannot prosper without the business which the far eastern and the far western provinces give to it, and inasmuch as it is the readers of these provinces that are suffering most acutely today, and are least benefited by the fiscal policies which Central Canada prefers, it would seem inevitable that Central Canada must modify its views.

Instead, however, of talking or even thinking secession at this time, the whole thought and energies of our people, east, west and central, should be devoted to the patriotic task of evolving a national economic policy which, while giving neither east, west nor c.ntral all that they may desire, will nevertheless be sufficiently satisfactory and liberal to any part, but will give to one and all a fair-handed deal and equality of opportunity to develop their own resources and businesses along legitimate lines.

If have differences in regard to fiscal policy for the solution of these problems but we are inherently one people with a common past and a common future. Our greatest gain and our permanent prosperity lies in strengthening, not weakening our union

Aviators In China Seek To Generate Precipitation By Atlarting

During a recent drought which destroyed a major famine in Hong Kong, China, skilled birdmen sought to generate precipitation by attacking cloud with a chemical called dodin. This material is supposed to induce refrigerating action when it penetrates the clouds, causing condensation and eventual rainfall. When put to the test, however, the chemical failed, as have the majority of devices designed to produce rainfall artificially Aviators observed the cloudy density above Hong Kong was more than 100 pounds of the chemical, but not a drop of rain resulted from this scientific attack

Prizes Go To Alberta

Take First Honors In Pig Club and Calf Club Competition At Winter Fair

Alberta is well satisfied with the result of the judging at the Royal Winter Fair, according to H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture. In the pig club team for the second time the only province that carried off first place, the team this year being made up of William Schmidt and Robert Strickett, both of Vegreville, Saskatchewan came second and Manitoba third. In the calf club competition the Alberta team of Borden and Vernon McKnight of Canrose led all other provinces with Quebec second and Ontario third. The first place in winter wheat went to S. Alsopp of Wembley, in the Peace River district. The growing crop in spring wheat was not quite as good, Alberta carrying off fourth, seventh and 11th place in a large and heavy contested class.

Automatic 'Phone For Blind

Dies Is Fitted With Numbers and Letters In Braille

The automatic telephone becomes accustomed to the automatic telephone, where—on a ring with holes for letters and figures. Each hole has a certain number for themselves, then another invention comes in sight. This is the automatic telephone for the blind. With this 'Phone Full Power has designed. Over the ordinary dies an extra ring is fitted, with keyplanes for letters in Braille. The blind person can easily slip it over the dies, and then is able to call his friends and numbers with as much ease as those who are blest with sight can.

Africa Taking the Lead

Women Have Been Appointed As Members Of Church Synod

A remarkable thing has happened in the Church in Uganda. It has been decided that women shall for the first time have places at all future synods. England has grown used to the idea of a woman Archbishop, and the Church will not be startled by the thought of women on an ecclesiastical council in Africa. But it is startling. It startled

For long years the African woman has been regarded as little better than a beast of burden and in some parts of the world a woman may not even eat in her husband's presence. But now Archbishop Tucker has told the rulers of the synod, along with three kings and many great chieftains.

British Columbia Apples Score High At Imperial Fruit Show

High honors in the Imperial Fruit Show in London, England, have been won by British Columbia apples, exhibited by the Associated Growers of the Okanagan Valley in competition with fruit from all over Canada, according to word received by private wire by the Department of Agriculture in Victoria. The B.C. fruit has been awarded the cup presented by the Agents-General of all the Canadian provinces in London, for the finest all-round exhibit. The cup this year was won by Nova Scotia last year, the award being based on the total marks received by all classes of fruit shown by any exhibitor.

Stephen Leacock Has Always To Be Reckoned With In World Affairs

Mr. MacDonald's statement of his belief that "it was absolutely impossible for mankind finally to go backward" would have received a rendering endorsement from the last generation than from the present. The Victorians were optimistic, they believed that, with popular education and suffrage and the election into power of what he assumes responsibility for sane, practical rule requires that I grant such decisions.

"I enjoin upon the members to engage in no public demonstration, and to refrain from lightly subscribing to very serious responsibilities."

Thousands of petitions against the amendment joke from persons scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific were received by cable. Mr. Lansing read the statement said. It was a failacy and misapprehension for persons to suppose that the Treaty of Versailles was the final word. It was said, that the only proper channel was through the civil service commission. Lord Willingdon's Successor

Earl Of Athlone Or Viscount Lascelles May Be Appointed

Reliable reports reaching Ottawa from England indicate that either the Earl of Athlone, retiring governor-general of the Union of South Africa, or Viscount Lascelles, only son-in-law of King George and Queen Mary, will be the next governor-general of Canada," says the Ottawa Evening Citizen in a feature article.

The term of His Excellency Viscount Willingdon as Governor-General of the Dominion expires on August 5 of next year. The Earl of Athlone is the brother of Her Majesty Queen Mary. Viscount Lascelles is the husband of Princess Mary.

The Citizen says it is understood on good authority that Premier Bennett consulted with King George regarding the successor to Lord Willingdon while in England attending the imperial conference, and thus a definite understanding on the matter may be expected in the near future.

Civil Service Appointments

Applications For Positions At Ottawa Must Be Made Through Civil Service Commission

Reiterating his determination to administer the department with "justice, economy and honesty," Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, has issued a public statement dealing with dismissals of civil servants. It was not always understood, he said, that the civil service commission was paramount in all matters pertaining to public employment, their dismissal and their appointments. Ministers of the Crown were subservient to the commission, as were ordinary members of parliament.

The statement then continued:

"If a serious complaint, duly made under oath, be made against an employee of the post office department the enquiry shall be ordered and a decision reached in accordance with the evidence and the report made. If a member of parliament asks for the dismissal of a postmaster and if he assumes responsibility for same, the law will require that I grant such dismissal.

"I enjoin upon the members to engage in no public demonstration, and to refrain from lightly subscribing to very serious responsibilities."

Thousands of petitions against the amendment joke from persons scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific were received by cable. Mr. Lansing read the statement said. It was a failacy and misapprehension for persons to suppose that the Treaty of Versailles was the final word. It was said, that the only proper channel was through the civil service commission. WHY SUFFER FROM YOUR LIVER?

Why be half-heartedly with constipation, sick headaches, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue and that tired and "dragged out" feeling? This indicates a torpid liver.

Headache, Dizziness and Biliousness usually follow. You must stimulate your lazy liver, start the bile flowing with Carter's Little Liver Pills.

They also act on mild laxative, purely vegetable, free from calomel and poisonous drugs, small, easy to swallow, and not habit forming. Value Of Boom Warnings

Seventy Years Ago Minister Gourlay Took Decided Stand Somewhat Ignored Everywhere

The recent report of the Director of the Meteorological Office indicates an increasing demand for forecasts, the value of which has been proved over and over again, but the first official storm warning was issued in very different atmosphere.

Seventy years ago, the Canadian people were only too ready to pay heed to happenings invested with a superstitious significance, refused to believe that danger is as office in London could be better informed of coming changes in the weather than the man on the spot."

The consequence of this ignorance was the tragedy of Black Friday. The storm broke on Friday, February, 1561, lasted his first warning to mariners, which was to the effect that a gale was approaching from the south-west was then unheard-of.

A strong southerly wind was followed by a rise in the barometer, and the masters of about 200 coal-laden ships at harbour mouths ports, concluding that fine weather was coming, set sail on the unlucky Friday for the north-east coast harbours.

Soon after they got out into the North Sea a furious gale arose.

Hundreds of ships were lost on Black Friday and the following day over eighty ships were wrecked within the limit of Hartlepools Bay.

Working On Telephone Line

British Columbia Starts Link Of Trans-Canada System

Construction of the British Columbia link of the first trans-Canada telephone system—a project which will mean the expenditure of $1,250,000 in the province—has commenced, it announced by the British Columbia Telephone Company.

The British Columbia portion of the system involves the erection of 1,000 miles of telephone line, for which 138 miles has already been built.

The importance of the new line from a Dominion standpoint is that at the present time, telephone call to the Pacific coast from the East have to be routed across the United States, via Seattle.
